After some discussion two amendments to the bill were agreed upon. One is that the power of deportation shall be confined to the United States courts and only conferred upon state courts where the laws of the state provide for such action. The other amendment strikes out section 5 which provides for the appointment of a number of emigration commissioners at an annual salary of $2,500 and requires that their duties shall be performed by the United States consuls. The anarchist bill will be one of the number which the judiciary committee will bring to the attention of the House at an early day and the foregoing amendments will be offered to it when the House considers it.

Miss Ging's Murderer in Court.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 15.—Claus Alfred Blixt, the confessed murderer of Catharine Ging, was arraigned before Judge Hicks yesterday. Although he was ready to plead guilty the court refused to accept the plea, and continued the case until Monday, when Blixt expects to secure an attorney.

OFFENSIVE ECZEMA
Suffered Terribly. Doctors and Medicines Useless. Cured in Four Weeks by Cuticura.

I have a boy, fifteen years old, born in Fishkill, portrait enclosed, who had the eczema so offensive that I could not stay in the room with him. The poor boy suffered terribly. His feet were terribly sore, he could not wear any shoes, and had therefore to stay at home from school. When he put on a pair of dry stockings in the morning, they would in one hour be saturated with moisture and very offensive even in the coldest weather. The disease began to spread over his body, especially his hands and fingers. The thumbs on both his hands became stiff and as useless as two withered sticks of wood. It would be useless for me to try to tell the suffering this boy endured. I took him to two different doctors, both gave him lots of medicine, but all to no use. He grew worse. I therefore despaired of ever having him cured. One day I saw the great benefits promised to those who would use CUTICURA REMEDIES. I went right away to the drug store and bought them. However, I used them according to directions, and to-day I say truthfully to all the world, that my son is entirely cured, thank God and thank the discoverers of CUTICURA REMEDIES. They cured him in four weeks as sound as a gold dollar. JOHN SAVAGE.
Fishkill Village, N. Y.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 28th, the I. O. F. held their monthly meeting, when Mr. Alex. Campbell, Mr. Johnston and Mr. Dawson joined the order. Another pleasant feature of the evening was a supper got up for Brother Chas. Cowland, who was leaving for a visit to England. Centreville is destined to have a very large court, the I. O. F. being recognized as one of the best fraternal societies.

Christmas Table Decorations.

In planning for Christmas festivities the question of table decorations is of real importance. Therefore suggestions for a unique and artistically arranged dinner table may be of service. The covers may be laid for as many as may be desired. In the center have a square bed of holly, from the middle of which there may rise a small Chistmas tree suitably decorated. At either end of the table stand the candelabra, which for this occasion should have red candles and red shades. At each lady's place have a corsage bouquet of bright red flowers tied with red ribbon and for the gentlemen boutonnieres of mistletoe. Have suspended over the table a little above the tree a large bell of red flowers, from the top of which, reaching to each plate, may hang red ribbons about an inch wide, held in place by the weight of the dinner card, which should be perforated near the top, allowing the end of the ribbon to pass through and tie in a bow. On the upper side of the card should be written the guest's name.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Birth of Christ.

The observance of the 25th of December as the birthday of our Saviour is ascribed to Julius, bishop of Rome, A. D. 337-52. The eastern church had previously observed the 6th of January in commemoration both of the baptism and the birth of Christ. The exact date of Christ's birth appears not to have been known in the early church and cannot now be determined. Between the middle of December and the middle of February there is generally in Palestine an interval of comparatively dry weather, preceded and followed by the early and later rain. Thus there might have been shepherds on the plain of Bethlehem watching their flocks at night.

Economising For Christmas.

There is a touch of humor in the petty economies practiced by many men for several weeks before Christmas. The man who has been accustomed to costly lunches, and who invariably bestows a substantial tip upon the waiter, about this time of the year is likely to affect a liking for a luncheon consisting of a sandwich and a piece of pie. He does not smoke quite so many cigars as formerly and convinces himself that a less expensive weed is quite as satisfactory as his favorite brand. He does not frequent the cafes as much as formerly, and there is a noticeable lack of his usual free hearted hospitality when he encounters his friends in such places. This strange parsimony which has come over the man is not due to the fact that he has met with financial misfortune, nor that he has suddenly become sordid and mean. He is merely economizing in his expenses in order that he may have more money with which to purchase Christmas gifts for those he loves. It may be a wife or child, mother or sister, for whom he makes these sacrifices, and there is no doubt that in the happiness he brings to other hearts he will find ample compensation for it all. The Christmas season is marked by innumerable instances of self denial.

English Bread Sauce For Fowl.

Put a cupful of bread crumbs into half a pint of milk, add a clove of garlic or a small onion left whole, a blade of mace, a lump of butter about the size of a pecan nut, pepper and salt. Let the mixture boil until it thickens to the consistency of drawn butter. The onion and mace are removed when it is put into the sauce tureen. It is much daintier and more wholesome than gravy.

Cold boiled ham is always served with roast fowl in England, and those who have so eaten it approve highly of the combination.—Chicago Record.

Tune the fiddle, fling your leg!
Christmas comes jes' after fall.

Old Santa's worried look
Is how to show up in good shape
With flattened pocketbook.
—Kansas City Journal.

Though boughs by bitter winds are tossed,
The cold ne'er chills our glee.
It always takes a little frost
To sprout a Christmas tree.
—Washington Star.

Winter o'er the smiling land
His cold, bleak way has wended,
And Christmas time is almost here—
The football season's ended.

Labor-Saving Device.

A New York woman is said to have invented a darning machine, a miniature loom, which will darn any hole 2½ x 5 inches or less, and do it so neatly that no rough edges will remain. To offset this a Peterborough woman has discovered how to save the expense of the machine and the trouble of darning. She throws away her old stockings and buys new ones. All wool at three pairs for a quarter, or cashmere at 15 cents. Gough Bros. sell them.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

BAD MARK FOR CRISPI

Italy's Veteran Statesman Figures in the Banca Romana Scandals.

HE DISSOLVES THE CHAMBER

Production of the Bank's Documents Create an Intense Sensation The President of the Investigation Committee Exonerates the Premier.

ROME, Dec. 15.—The contents of the documents submitted to the Chamber of Duptes by Signor Giolitti have been made public and have created a profound sensation. The notes of the cashier of Banca Romana contain the names of Government officials, members of the Chamber of Deputies, journalists and others as having taken money from the bank. For press and election purposes some journalists received 200,000 lire and others 75,000 lire. The documents aimed at Premier Crispi, mentioning several drafts in his name, and he figured also in connection with a note for 1,050,000 lire. Signor Tanlongo, the manager of the bank, while he was in prison, addressed a letter to Signor Giolitti stating that he gave a credit of 350,000 lire to a certain person on the assurance of Signor Crispi that the creditor was solvent. He insinuates that the money was not destined for this person. In the Chamber of Deputies Premier Crispi declared that the documents were a mass of lies.

Deputy Imbriani moved that the report be discussed at once. The motion was lost by a vote of 188 to 176. Deputy Giucciardini's motion to open the debate was carried amidst scenes of intense excitement. A tumultuous sitting was predicted, but in the evening the Official Gazette announced the decree of proroguing parliament.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A correspondent says: "Crispi his wife, steward and secretary are all represented as having drawn sums from the Banca Romana. It is stated that the reason of the prorogation is that Crispi desires that the slander action which he and his wife have brought against Giolitti shall precede the debate on the documents. It is impossible to state or even hint what is feared in the capitals of Italy's two allies, but an event of the first magnitude is feared, an event which nearly occurred six months ago."

The Times correspondent in Rome says: "The president of the committee examining the documents gives the assurance that they do not contain a particle of evidence proving the alleged transactions in the name of Crispi beyond two bills negotiated two years ago with the Banca Romana. There was no secret about these bills and they were met when due. Crispi assures me that he never had any transaction with the bank. There is abundant evidence that the whole affair is part of a parliamentary conspiracy."

The Standard's correspondent in Rome says: "Among the Giolitti documents was a letter from Signora Crispi accompanying a payment of six thousand lire which she made on a debt of 15,750 to Signor Tanlongo. In this letter she said 'Power has ruined us and I pray the blessed Virgin to take it from my husband.'"

MISS THOMPSON VISITS WINDSOR.

She is Received Affectionately by Her Majesty—The Times on the Situation.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Miss Thompson, the daughter of the late Sir John Thompson, accompanied by Senator Sanford and Mrs. Sanford, visited Windsor Castle on Saturday by command of the Queen. They were conducted to the room where the late Sir John Thompson was sworn in as a member of the Privy Council, and in that apartment the Canadian visitors were received in audience by the Queen. Her Majesty was deeply sympathetic, drew Miss Thompson toward her and kissed her affectionately on both cheeks like a mother. The Queen also expressed her deep and sincere personal condolence with Miss Thompson. The scene was most touching.

The guests afterwards visited by desire of the Queen the mausoleum at Frogmore to which they were conducted by the Queen's Equerry.

The Times prints a leader concerning the great loss which has befallen Canada in the death of Sir John Thompson. After paying the highest tributes of respect to the late Primer the writer says:

"That the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell should continue the ministry is the simplest expedient that could be adopted. Under the calamity of such a sudden and stunning blow it is hardly to be expected that the expedient will be more than a temporary one. The direction of the present choice in the Dominion cannot now be guessed in view of the not remote general election which may completely change the policy of the colony."

New Ferry Boats for Lake Erie.

TOLEDO, Dec. 17.—The Craig Ship Building Company of this city has been awarded the contract for building the two large ferry boats, which are to carry the Pittsburg, Shenango and Lake Erie cars between Conneaut on the American side and Port Dover, on the Canadian side. They will have a capacity of 24 loaded cars each and will cost about $300,000 each and are to be provided with ice crushers, so they can run winter and summer. The chief traffic of these boats will be the transferring of coal from the American to the Canadian side. The ferry boats will make a saving of over 250 miles in a trip.

SAMPSON

IN DEEPEST DISTRESS

Destitution Follows in the Wake of Newfoundland's Crisis.

THE LEGISLATURE SUMMONED

Settlers Walk Twenty Miles to the Capital to Learn What They May Hope For—The Misery of Forty Years Ago Promise to be Surpassed.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 17.—The special session of the legislature called in consequence of the financial crisis opened on Saturday. So great is the anxiety of the people that men walked to town from settlements, twenty miles distant, to learn what hope might be held out.

The governor's speech suggested the appointment of a joint select committee to investigate the banks' report on their conditions and recommend the proper steps to establish some medium of circulation. He announced that the Government had arranged for providing means for paying the interest on the colony's debt due at the beginning of the new year.

The legislature took no action at the opening session although the Governer reminded the members of the existing destitution and the necessity of alleviating it immediately. The members are besieged for assistance. Throngs of unemployed men fill the streets. This army is recruited by schooner loads from the outports coming to exchange bank notes for food at half their face value.

The northern mail steamer Virginia Lake arrived bringing about one hundred and fifty passengers. Their narratives show that the whole country is in deep distress. People are ruined who last week were in comfortable circumstances. The entire coast with settlements containing about 150,000 souls is absolutely destitute except for the provisions sent from St. John's during the fall and ice will soon make communication impossible. The miseries of forty years ago when Indian meal was a staple diet promise to be surpassed. Bank directors and others who knew a crisis was impending are accused of collecting the accounts the day before the crash and drawing gold, and it is alleged that they have been taking car loads of property from their premises after nightfall all the week and storing it with friends.

LEAMINGTON IN GREAT LUCK.

The New Gas Well Turns Out to be a Gusher—It is a Municipal Enterprise.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 17.—A test was made of the new gas well at Lamington and the flow was found to be one million cubic feet per day, or equal to the great gusher from which the Ontario Natural Gas Company gets its supply for East Detroit, Windsor and Walkerville. It is located at Seacliffe, the terminus of the Michigan Central Railway branch one mile south of Leamington on the farm of Aaron Ellis.

All the stock has been transferred to the corporation of Lamington and it will be run as a municipal enterprise. For two years the town has been paying large sums to the Ontario Natural Gas Company for fuel and light. It will now make a double stroke of economy as it will not only save this expenditure but will apply all the proceeds towards local improvements and thus lower the assessment rate.

An Interesting Case in Court.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 17.—A suit of an unusual character has been entered against the congregation of Trinity church of Chippewa. The suit is instituted by the Rev. E. J. Fessenden, Episcopal rector of Ancaster, near Hamilton, and is for the collection of salary as incumbent of Trinity church, Chippewa. The litigation is due to a disagreement several years ago. While Mr. Fessenden was rector of Chippewa the vestry desired to "bounce" him. The rev. gentleman would not go and the vestry appealed to the Bishop of Niagara. His lordship took sides with the rector and declined to remove him, whereupon the vestry stopped payment of Mr. Fessenden's stipend. The rev. rector, however, more than a year after the vestry stopped his pay presented a claim for salary which the vestry ignored. Last year he resigned to take charge of his present parish, and, having failed to make terms with the obdurate vestrymen, he now institutes to recover salary due. Interesting questions of law and incidentally the authority of vestrymen, bishops and ministers is involved in the features of the case which will come up for review.

Died Drunk at Seventeen.

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.—A young French Canadian named Albert Belaire residing in the municipality of St. Henri was found in a dying condition in a back yard near his residence. By his side was found a whiskey bottle partly filled. The young fellow who is only 17 years of age was conveyed to the police station, and medical assistance was summoned but before the latter arrived the man was dead. Wild rumors were afloat all day that the deceased had met foul play but Dr. Villencourse, medical expert, certified that death was caued by exposure and alcoholic poisoning.

Drummers Elect Their President.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 17.—Col. Massey, of the Gurney Massey Co., was elected president of the Dominion Commercial Travelers Association at the annual meeting held Saturday night. The association is in a very prosperous condition numbering nearly three thousand members. The annual dinner is to be held next Saturday night and will be attended by the Governor-General, Mr. Laurier and other prominent men.

Pugilist Bowen's Death Creates a Strong Feeling in American Cities.

CHICAGO AND BUFFALO LEAD

Boxing Exhibitions in Both Cities Have Been Prohibited—The Recent Tragedies in the Ring Are Lead the Authorities to Abolish the Sport.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The fate of Andy Bowen, the New Orleans lightweight, who was knocked out on Friday night by Levigne, at New Orleans, and who died next morning has put a damper on boxing contests in all parts of the country. An accident of this kind put a stop to prize fighting in California and this fatality, coming almost immediately after the Fitzsimmons-Riordan affair and the killing of Pugilist Smith in England, has lowered boxing.

So far as known no animosity existed between the men and neither had the slightest idea of seriously injuring the other. Knock outs have been so frequent of late that they have scarcely been remarked in a serious light, being looked upon merely as a temporary stun. No one was more shocked when Bowen's death was made public than Lavigne, who broke down completely and sobbed like a child. A number of prominent sporting men whose faces are to be seen at the ringside, were seen, and all seemed to be of the opinion that Bowen's death was a severe blow to pugilism.

The Attorney-General has notified the Auditorium club that the proposed fight between Dempsey and Ryan could not take place and that if necessary he would get out an injunction to prevent it.

BUFFALO, Dec 17.—Superintendent of Police Bull says there will be no more pugilistic contests in this city between men who have trained for the encounter. He doubts his ability to stop boxing matches between members of athletic clubs in their own rooms but there will be a sharp stop put to all professional or semi-professional contests.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—All boxing exhibitions have been strictly prohibited by special order of the police superintendents, who is backed by Mayor Hopkins. The order may even be applied to the theatrical performances of the Corbett and Fitzsimmons order. The New Orleans tragedy has served to make the authorities more determined than ever to suppress boxing.

This May be Fatal, Too.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—Danny Daily, the St. Louis feather-weight pugilist, is dangerously ill from the effects of a broken jaw, received in his fight with Tommy White, of Chicago, which took place before the Triangle Club, of that city, two months ago. This is the second time his jaw has been broken. Daily is threatened with gangrene and will have to submit to an operation.

ACCIDENT AND CRIME.

Violent Deaths in Two Forms Carry Away a Family.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 17.—A week ago Friday last Mr. and Mrs. Mayor Shearman and their little grandson while driving across the tracks of the Erie railroad between Ashville and Lakewood, Chautauqua county were struck by the fast mail train. The child was killed instantly and the grandfather so badly hurt that he died on Wednesday last. Two days later his wife who had been disembowelled in the accident also died.

The funeral was held on Saturday at Lakewood. Winslow Shearman, of Buste, and the male members of his family attended the funeral leaving Mrs. Winslow Shearman and her oldest daughter, Mrs. Clinton Davis at home.

When the men returned from the funeral a horrible sight greeted them. The two women were found in the house literally hacked to pieces, the awful deed having been committed by some person or persons unknown, the instrument used being a hatchet with a sharp edge. Each of the women had eight cuts all on the head and face. The perpetrators ransacked the house but failed to find the money which they sought, it having been secreted. Buste, the scene of the tragedy, is about five miles from Jamestown.

Officers from the Sheriff's office and the police department of Jamestown are working on the case. The whole country is wildly excited at this succession of tragedies in the Shearman family which is widely known.

A Burglar With a Record.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 17.—The burglaries which terrorized the residents of Jersey City Heights during the months of September, October and November have been accounted for and the perpetrator is in custody. Single-handed he committed twenty-five burglaries and for three months back he has been working. He is a stoutly-built German and resides in this city. He exercised the most brazen effrontery while housebreaking, and, stealing articles of silverware, communicated with his victims by mail and offered to sell them the property he had stolen from them.

Death Lurks in the Oyster.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—Since the oyster industry was established on Long Island Sound it has never been in such jeopardy as at the present time. From no less than a dozen places have come complaints that diphtheria epidemics, with resultant fatal cases, have arisen through the victims eating raw oysters, which it has been alleged had contracted the disease germ. The consequent diminution in the sales of the local oyster growers has been enormous.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1894.

CANADA'S CHEESE INDUSTRY MUST RISE OR FALL.

This year's output has been greater than ever, and it is apparently the stronghold of this our fair Province, so far as the dairy enterprise is concerned. From every quarter of it, we hear, if it were not for our cheese industry what would we do, and each year, as it rolls around, adds its quota to its increase.

Knowing this to be a fact, it behooves those who have it in their power to see to it that so great an enterprise should not only maintain its present standing, but with the possibilities before it largely increase its quantity and more especially its quality. In order to do this one essential thing is to use a greater amount of scrutiny than has been used of late, by some of our shippers, who have been sending June cheese forward and claiming it to be September's make. What is the cause of such? It is simply this, September cheese commands a higher price than any other month's make, and it is money the buyers are after. Of course they need a little of it as well as the rest of us, but would it not be better in the long run for them to sell the cheese for just what they were, and try to induce the authorities to get at the bottom of the thing and strive to make each month's cheese nearly as good as September's, so that the consumers could not classify them. It has been stated by some that both box and cheese should have the day of the month, the month, and the name of the factory in which it was made, stamped on them. Would it be out of the way to suggest that they be branded so that a piece of cheese should have to be cut out in order to remove the date, etc. That these brands be furnished by our government and each maker be compelled to brand them as soon as convenient when made.

WITH AN INDELLIBLE BRAND

They should in some way arrange to have general inspectors who would be invested with the authority to visit each and every factory and say whether the cheese was being manufactured properly and by competent makers.

People are liable to begin at the wrong end. As the cheese industry advances there is a general tendency among our factory men to cut down expenses in every possible way. That is good business practice, but in a great many cases it is feared the reduction is beginning at the wrong end, namely, with the salary of the cheesemaker. That there are some cheesemakers fully paid for their work, a few over paid, in fact, there can be no doubt, but on the other hand there are hundreds of first class men who cannot, in justice to themselves, submit to a reduction in wages for the simple reason that they earn every cent they receive, and in many cases much more. A careless man can waste in a week more than his wages amount to, and his employers will be none the wiser. The duty of the cheesemaker does not end with making good cheese. He must constantly guard against leaks here and there and economize in every direction. The profits of many a factory flow off unseen into the whey tank. Reduce expenses as much as possible, but of the maker. If he is not a first-class man do not reduce his wages, but dispense with his services altogether; you cannot afford to keep him. In a great many cases there are men trying to operate factories who should never be connected with the business at all. They simply blunder into it, because they imagine that they do not require any great amount of knowledge, and it is quite an honour to be a servant for the public, thus they are contented to accept just what is offered to them.

These kind of men just suit the factorymen in too many places. It is in these factories that the great danger lies of the business being hurt, hence the need of some one competent to advise and educate in such cases.

How can this better be done than by the Government taking hold of it, and giving men authority to visit each and every factory, whether the factorymen consent to it or not?

It has been a known fact that some makers have wanted an instructor this past season, but they felt that the patrons had as much right to contribute a little, to help secure one, as for them to bear the whole expense. In fact the patrons should bear it all for they are the ones who are making the most out of it, at least it would appear so from the way they are launching out into the busines and freezing out the makers.

One thing that should be overcome in the business is to try and not have so many cull cheese to throw on our local market.

The people of this country scarcely know what good cheese is, as they get all the culls, and there have been so many of them of late that very few good cheese, comparatively speaking, are cut up in this country. If our people could get a reasonable quantity of good cheese for a year or so there would be a very and the inhabitants would be healthier for it.

This goes to show that there should be greater precaution taken to avoid such cheese from being made.

The Babcock Tester has greatly assisted in getting the patrons to care for their milk wherever it has been in use. Would they were in use in all of the factories; it would be a strong prop in keeping our business from falling. Of course we have some individuals who do not believe in the use of them, but they can be found in 'most every branch of business. It will only require a short time to make the thing safe and substantial if the patrons, factorymen and makers be on the alert, and advance with the business.

In looking over some of our dairy literature recently I observed that the Australians claim the pasture or food which their cattle consume, has, along with the climate in some way, a tendency to cause them to produce milk richer in fat than the average in this country, and in spite of us, when they learn the Canadian cheddar system, will be in shape to dispose of a better quality of cheese than we can produce.

If milk in Australia that has more butter-fat in it, and will make a better cheese, why will it not in this country?

A Wisconsin man says that northern New York, Canada and northern Wisconsin are in the cheese belt, and why should Wisconsin farmers not share the English cheese money which Canada receives? It is simply because they have been trying to defraud the people over there, and it is evident that they have killed the goose that laid the golden egg. Canada has her goose yet, it is young and healthy, and why not each one interested try and protect it, so it may long live in this manner?

I am, yours truly,
JOHN C. GRANT.

Funeral of Count de Lesseps.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The funeral services over the body of the Count Ferdinand de Lesseps, the famous engineer, were held in the church of St. Pierrer de Chaillot or Saturday. There were present representatives of the Academy of Geography and Gendelottres, representatives of the various Engineers Societies, the dead engineer's sons, Charles, Victor, Ismael and Paul, and his three daughters. After the celebration of solemn mass for the dead, the body was taken to the cemetery of Pere Lachaise for interment, followed by a long procession of carriages and persons on foot. There was no military display whatever.

Burial of Augusta Burdeau.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Augusta Burdeau, late president of the Chamber of Deputies, was buried yesterday with state honors. There was no religious ceremony. The hearse was the one used at M. Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

DESERTED BY HER PARENTS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Train No. 536 of the Pennsylvania railroad, from Toronto, Canada, had on board several emigrants on their way to Europe, who got off the train as soon as it reached Jersey City.

Henry V. Randontz, one of the station men, noticed a little girl standing alone, looking about her in a hesitating manner. He approached her and took her into the station, where she told a story in effect as follows:

Her name is Esther Goldstein. She is 15 years old, and until Thursday lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein, at No. 211 Queen street west, Toronto, Ont. Her father has been out of work for some time. Friday, the child says, she with her mother got on a train to go to San Francisco, where the father expected to get work. After riding two stations, she says, her parents told her that they could not afford to take her with them and they got out of the train. They told her they would send her to New York to some relatives. Esther had two envelopes in her possession, one marked "No. 4 Hester street" and the other "Mrs. Chapera, No. 2 Allin street."

Mr. Randonez took the girl to No. 4 Hester street and to No. 2 Allin street, but could not find anyone who knew her at either address. He then took her back to the station at Jersey City and Esther slept all night on a lounge in the women's waiting room. Agent Dietz will make an effort to trace her parents or relatives and until such time Justice Sims committed her to the care of the Gerry Society.

WILL NOT DISSOLVE.

Mr. Bowell Will Have a Session Before Dissolution—Ottawa Notes.

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—The report telegraphed from here that there would be a dissolution of Parliament after the Cabinet was reorganized is altogether premature. Until Mr. Bowell has formed his cabinet nothing can be done in this connection. The chances are that if he succeeds he will call a session before Parliament is dissolved.

The subscriptions to the National Fund for the family of the deceased Premier have reached $4,600. W. W. Ogilvie, of Montreal, subscribed $2,500, Sir Frank Smith and an unknown person $1,000 each, Donald McMaster, ex-M.P., $100.

Medical Health Officer Dr. Robillard received four bottles of anti-toxine from the Pasteur institute in New York, and he proceeded to put it to a practical test in a number of cases in both the Protestant and Catholic hospitals. The bottles each contain twenty-five cubic centremetres, an adult requiring nearly the whole of one bottle.

Feeling reference was made in all the churches yesterday to the death of Sir John Thompson.

The Ottawa winter carnival for the week beginning January 21 is now a settled fact. There was some talk of abandoning the carnival owing to the death of Sir John Thompson. An emergency meeting of the executive committee met on Saturday evening and it was decided that as success was assured and the preparations had been carried too far the carnival must go ahead.

THE SEALERS' INDEMNITY.

It is Now Possible That Canada Will Not Get Her $425,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Mr. Hitt succeeded in securing the adoption by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs of his resolutions calling upon the Secretary of State for information as to the promise which Secretary Gresham made to Sir Charles H. Tupper, Canadian Minister of Fisheries, that $425,000 should be paid as damages to the owners of Canadian sealing vessels which were seized or detained in the Behring Sea. This is a preliminary step towards an enquiry by the House, the object of which is to oppose the payment of the appropriation until after a complete investigation shall have been made.

It undoubtedly will be claimed that the Secretary of State had no right to make any such promise or to assume any such pledge. The weak part of the understanding between Sir Charles H. Tupper and the Secretary of State is that Secretary Gresham had no authority to pledge the United States to make the aggregate payments which he promised, but that a very considerable portion of the claims would go to make up this sum had been disallowed and withdrawn by the attorneys of the United States before the Behring Sea arbitration.

Firebugs in St. Henri.

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.—Firebugs were rampant in St. Henri on Saturday. An alarm was sent in for a fire in a hayloft belonging to Mr. Hurteau, grocer. Within five minutes five more alarms were sent in from various parts of the municipality, each for different fires, and, strange to say, all were confined to hay lofts, and with the exception of one were all occupied by grocers. While several horses and cows were saved, two valuable horses were burned. So serious did the fires become that aid was sent from the adjoining municipality of Stecunegonde and this city.

Attacked by a Mad Patient.

QUEBEC, Dec. 17.—While doing his daily round in the men's ward in the Beauport lunatic asylum Dr. Valee was assailed by a mad patient. The department is undergoing hygienic improvements and plumbers had left a long piece of lead pipe. The maniac seized this and gave it a swing above the doctor's head. Fortunately one of the guardians prevented the pipe from striking with full force. Nevertheless Dr. Vallee was hit on the left side of the head receiving a nasty gash from which blood flowed freely. His life is said to be in danger.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What more can any one ask

Is anything that isn't sold in this way likely to be "just as good?"

HARCOURT WANTS HIS WAY.

He Has a Plan of His Own for Reforming the Upper House.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A conference of the Rosebery section of the Cabinet was held on Saturday at Althorp park, the seat in Northampton of Earl Spencer, First Lord of the Admiralty. There were present Lord Rosebery, the Marquis of Ripon, Colonial Secretary; Mr. Arnold Morley, Postmaster-General; and Mr. Bryce, president of the Board of Trade. The meeting was ostensibly a friendly gathering, but was really held for the purpose of considering the feud which has arisen in consequence of the refusal of Sir Wm. Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to follow the Premier's lead in matters referring to the House of Lords and the business of the coming session of Parliament. Sir Wm. Harcourt has not made a single speech in public since the close of the last parliamentary session and positively refuses to pay any heed to the appeals of his Cabinet colleagues and of influential members of the House of Commons to identify himself in anyway with the policy of Lord Rosebery unless it be shaped in accordance with his own policy.

As the attitude maintained by Sir William threatens to result in the disruption of the Cabinet just before the dissolution of Parliament, Lord Rosebery has submitted, and will consider his proposals. These, it is understood, conclude dealing with House of Lords question by means of a resolution drafted by Mr. Bryce, the principal feature of which is borrowed from the law governing the United States Congress and which provides that a bill which shall have been rejected by the House of Lords shall become law if the passage of the measure by the House of Commons be re-affirmed by a two-thirds vote. The Chancellor of the Exchequer further stipulates that the local veto and the registration reform bills shall be passed before the dissolution of parliament.

The result of the conclave at Earl Spencer's, which has not yet been made public, is believed to be an agreement with the proposals of Sir Wm. Harcourt, who, if reconciled, will take the stump in January in support of Lord Rosebery's policy.

The defeats of the Liberal candidates for seats in the House of Commons for the North Lindsay or Brigg Division of Lincolnshire and for Forfarshire, have convinced the Liberals of the necessity for registration reform, the one man one vote principle, and the holding of all elections on one day. Both the Brigg and Forfarshire seats were won by the Unionists under the plural voting system.

The Armenian Question.

Mr. Graves, the British consul at Erezeroum, has forwarded to the Foreign Office through Sir Phillip Wodehouse Currie, the British Ambassador to Turkey, a statement in which he urges the Government not to put off interfering in the Armenian affair until the report of the European Commission to inquire into the circumstances of the outrages shall have been presented, as that report will necessarily be delayed until spring. He states that immediate intervention is advisable. Lord Kimberley, upon receipt of Mr. Graves' communication, at once communicated with the French Foreign Office, with the result that it has been agreed to instruct the French and Russian Consuls at Erezeroum to join Mr. Graves and start without delay upon their mission of inquiry. Mr. Graves calculates that if his colleagues in the commission are ready they can reach the scene of the autrocities within ten days.

Every Man Should Insure.

The following from a Toronto Daily, is worthy of very careful consideration:—

The force of the obligation resting upon every man to carry a substantial insurance policy on his life was never better illustrated than in the death of Sir John Thompson.

If ever a man lived who could claim freedom from this obligation it was the late Premier. Before the fatal illness seized him he had every reason to expect a long life; his earning capacity was large; and he was, at one time at all events, justified in expecting that he would fall heir to a considerable fortune. But the expectations of fortune were swept away, death came in mid-life and pratically the only support left for the bereaved family is a paltry insurance of $6,000.

The moral of it all is that every man, no matter how circumstanced, should insure, and insure to the largest extent that his income will justify.

The Late Premier, SIR JOHN S D. THOMPSON, was insured in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY of CANADA.

75,000 Dollars

Worth of FRESH DRY GOODS to be Slaughtered in Forty-five Days by

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.,

Commencing Tuesday, December 18th.

Notwithstanding the very large increase in our business and a more than ordinary care in buying, we find (owing to warm weather and late delivery and arrival of large repeat orders) that our stock is now $35,000 too large and must be sold How to do it is the question? We find only one alternative—that is to sell the surplus stock in every department FREE OF ALL PROFIT.

We have utilized evenings and spare moments in going through our stock and have marked many lines regardless of cost or profit and have no hesitation in stating that this will be the greatest Clearing Sale of High-Class New Seasonable Dry Goods ever offered to the Peterborough public. Old fashioned out-of-style goods are dear at any price, but here you have nothing but NEW GOODS.

JACKETS! JACKETS! JACKETS!

FREE OF ALL PROFIT. Out gratitude for the remarkably large trade done in this important department of our growing CASH BUSINESS, coupled with the principle of not carrying over a single garment to another season, we have decided to sell the balance of our stock of Ladies' Jackets, FREE OF ALL PROFIT, and many odd lines at Half of Wholesale Prices. Some may argue that at this season our assortment will be much broken. To this assertion we state that we can show you now (after having sold over 600 Garments) a larger number of Garments, a larger range of styles, than any house in the trade showed you in October. The winter has not commenced very severely as yet, and we know many people have been waiting for this Sale. Our goods are all marked in plain figures so that every customer can see the old price as well as the reduced price. It has been an acknowledged fact that our prices for these goods were fully 25 per cent. lower for the same quality than those of any competitor. Our connection with the great Dry Goods Syndicate places us on the same basis as the wholesale houses, as far as our buying is concerned, and our system of selling for SPOT CASH enables us to sell on Small profits.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE FOR BARGAINS!

Read our list carefully and bear in mind this is not the tail end of any old stock, but New Goods, imported for this season's trade, and comprises Jackets, Dress Goods, Silks, Hosiery and Gloves, Underwear, Men's Ordered Clothing, Neckwear, Flannels, Flannelettes, Millinery, Carpets, &c., in fact many lines from every department in this PETERBOROUGH'S GREATEST STORE.

With a long experience in the Dry Goods business buying in the keenest markets every season, we can confidently state that for intrinsic value our stock is not surpassed in any house in Canada. We don't mind what others say an write about our methods of doing trade. We are here to be judged by the buying public for honest, fair and square dealing, and to serve the people to the best of our ability at all times.

A Pretty Handkerchief Window.

In the south window of Mr. A. G. Dickson's dry goods store, a very pretty and effective display of handkerchiefs, interspersed with perfumery in fancy cut glass bottles, and other suggestive articles for Xmas gifts. There is a very prolific show of different styles of handkerchiefs, and the various forms in which they are exhibited reflects credit on the taste and ingenuity of the expert hands that made the display. This window attracts the attention of shoppers and sightseers all day long, and if sales are not created by this effective window advertisement, then window dressing don't draw, that's all.

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

WHITBY'S GALL.

The Magistrate in That Town Will Try a Prisoner Who Was Arrested on a Request by Chief Rossel.

Walter Condon, who has been acting as hostler at the American House for some time, left town suddenly a week ago Saturday and at the same time a $25 suit of clothes belonging to the proprietor, Mr. Daniel Kennedy also disappeared. On Thursday Mr. Kennedy spoke to the police about the matter, and as Condon lives in Whitby it was thought he might have gone there, so a letter was sent to the Chief of Police in that town as was also a sample piece of the missing suit of clothes.

Saturday afternoon last the Chief got a telegram stating Condon was under arrest and would be tried in Whitby. It was thought he would plead guilty.

The proceeding of trying the man in Whitby is looked upon by the officials in the department of justice here as most irregular. County Crown Attorney Wood has written to Whitby concerning the matter.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Both the Saturday night and the Sunday afternoon meetings were "up to the mark." Rev. J. W. Rae, of Acton, talked to the young men in yesterday's meeting on the "Ten Virgins" and more particularly the words "Watch ye, therefore." The fellows will not soon forget the earnest words and strong appeal of the speaker. The meeting was made still more interesting, and the good impressions deepened by a duet, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" so sweetly sung by Messrs. W. J. Squires and Steers. We believe many young men are missing a treat by failing to attend these meetings.

ASHBURNHAM VILLAGE COUNCIL

The Statutory Meeting Held—The Financial Statement Presented—A Little Routine Business Done.

The statutory meeting of the Ashburnham village council was held on Saturday night, Dec. 15th. Present, Mr. Reeve Burnham, and Messrs. Calcutt, Smith, Rutherford and Morgan.

After routine a by-law was passed, appointing polling places and deputy returning officers for the election of reeve and councillors as follows:

North Ward—Vacant shop (No. 3) Town Hall buildings, John T. Wright, deputy returning officer; South Ward—The Town Hall, A. H. Peck, deputy returning officer.

The annual financial statement was presented, showing the total revenue from Jan. 1st, '94, to Dec. 15th, '94, to be $13,635.25, and the total expenditure $13,602.00, leaving a balance in hand of $22.65.

The receipts from Dec. 15th, 1893, to Dec. 31st, 1893, were $1,564.47, and the expenditure $1,310.10. The total assets are placed at $20,009.41, and the liabilities at $15,070.41.

Mr. Wood, clerk, was voted $15 for collecting dog tax.

The financial statement was received and directed to be printed according to statute.

Pay sheet No. 33—$20.75—was ordered to be paid.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Morgan, that action be taken against Mr. Whiteman for obstructing the ditch on Woodbine Avenue.—Carried.

After a short discussion on the matter of fire protection for the village and water works service, the council adjourned.

THE LADY THOMPSON TESTIMONIAL.

The most pleasing feature of the testimonial to Lady Thompson, the widow of the late Sir John Thompson, is the spontaneous and national character of the movement. This circumstance indicates how highly the people of Canada estimate the services of the late Premier, who, but for such services, might have left his family better provided for. His descent from the serener and unturbulent atmosphere of the bench, to enter the stormy arena of politics, with all its arduous labours, doubtless accounts for his life being shortened and his protecting presence removed. It is stated on good authority that all of the late Premier's life insurance—$6,000—will be absorbed in meeting his pecuniary obligations, and the family of the leading man of the country will be left empty handed. No doubt, if, like some politicians, Sir John Thompson had cared less for his country and more for his pocket he might have left his widow and family well provided for in worldly matters. But he would not have left behind him that good name that is better than riches, and for the sake of which, honouring his memory and remembering his services, the people of the country he served, before he served himself, will feel themselves honoured in substantially befriending the widow and the fatherless. The movement for raising a fund for this purpose is generously promoted on all sides. The other day the EXAMINER mentioned that the local branch of the Bank of Montreal would receive contributions. It is now to be stated that the Canadian Bank of Commerce will also receive the contributions of those who desire to join in the work of creating the fund for so worthy an object.

FROM DUST-BIN DEPTHS.

Back Number Facts About Peterborough.

Mr. R. T. Hartley has fished out from the dust-bin a copy of the Canadian Almanac for the year 1860, which contains in its statistical departments some interesting reminders of the year of the big fire in Peterborough.

In the year 1860 Christmas fell on Tuesday—the same day it falls upon this year. Thomas Short represented Peterborough in the Legislative assembly. That year the postage rate on letters in Canada was 5 cents per half ounce, and the rate to the United Kingdom 12½ cents by Canadian Packet and 17 cents by Cunard Packet. The postage on a daily paper was 40 cents per quarter.

In the list of clergy appear the names of Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Peterborough, and Rev. P. S. Warren, Douro, Anglican; Rev Father Oliver Kely, Peterborough, Roman Catholic; Rev. J. Bowie, Norwood; Rev. Francis Andrews, Otonabee (Keene); Rev. J. M. Roger, Peterborough, Presbyterian Church of Canada; Rev. Geo. Cochrane, Belmont; Rev. D. Hardy, Bridgenorth and Mud Lake; Rev. Henry Lanton, Peterborough; Rev. Henry McDowell, Norwood, Wesleyan Methodist; Rev. H. Coxwell and Rev. E. Roberts, Peterborough; Rev. J. B. Tapp, Warsaw, Bible Christian; Rev. J. Cameron and Rev. J. Gilmour, Peterborough, Baptist.

Peterborough and Victoria formed one municipality and the county was pronounced out of debt, except debentures—$24,000. Thomas Fortye was county clerk and county registrar; James Foley and James Edwards, auditors; the latter was also town clerk and treasurer; and James Stevenson was mayor of the town.

R. Blackett was Master of Corinthian lodge and D. G. Hatton, secretary.

W. Cluxton was agent of the Commercial Bank, J. Munro, Toronto Bank and D. Travers, Bank of Montreal.

LAKEFIELD DAIRY COMPANY.

The Fourth Annual Report.

The following is the fourth annual report presented by the auditors, at the recent meeting of the company:

In presenting the auditors' report, we have to say the business of the season has been, on the whole, very satisfactory. There has been very considerable increase in the amount of milk received at the factory this year over last year; also a corresponding increase in the amount of cash received.

The condition of the pasture during the drought of summer very materially affected the production of milk, but we have to congratulate you on the outcome of the season.

We have gone through the monthly receipts of milk and the monthly production of cheese, the shipments of cheese, the local sales, etc.

The monthly totals are as follows:

	Lbs Milk.	Lbs Cheese.	Average Lbs Milk.	Price.
May	151,868	13,749	11.04	$1,269.46
June	233,016	20,032	11.13	1,815.62
July	230,577	20,030	11.51	1,871.25
August	183,987	16,412	11.21	1,497.26
September	134,263	12,694	10.52	1,041.75
October	146,906	15,411	9.53	1,293.29
	1,070,708	98,308	10.89	$9,527.93

No of standards manufactured for the season 2952

Total value per standard $26.71

As compared with last year there is an increase of lbs. milk by 80,580

An increase of cash by $565.95

We have to report that we found the books of the secretary very satisfactory, with the exception of one mistake, which was rectified without any loss to the Patrons. The secretary was willing to give all necessary information.

In conclusion you will notice the average pounds of milk to pound of cheese are somewhat higher this year than last. The manufacturer asserts that he has given every patron his exact and just weight of milk, so you will readily see if even one pound of milk per day were taken off each patron it would materially lower the average. Our cheese has been amongst the first selections and the price will compare favourably with any in the county, which speaks well for our salesman, and especially well for our manufacturer.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE

recommended:

That a committee be appointed to be known as the Central Charity Board for the purpose of distributing the charity appropositions made by the town council in accordance with the plan submitted by the deputation of clergymen in the council, on Dec. 3rd, last.

That this Central Board consist of one representative from each church congregation of the town, including the Salvation Army and one representative from the Hall Trust Board to be appointed by the Charity Committee after consultation with the committee of clergymen represented by the deputation on Dec. 3rd last and also of Mr. R. Pope, relief officer.

That so soon as the Central Board is properly organized, it be requested to submit a detailed statement of its plan of organization and distribution of charity to the charity committee, certifying that the plan has been approved by the committee, that a check for $200 be issued to the treasurer of the Board.

That after the Central Board is organized and undertakes the duties for which it is established, no charity be given by this council other than through the said Board for the maintenance of the two persons in the Protestant Home, for whom the Council is now making payments to that Home.

That the Street Inspector be instructed to make use of the town team to deliver wood given by the Central Board.

That the Central Board be required to make a monthly statement to the Council of the distribution of the amounts placed in its hands by the Council.

That the Council commends to the councils of following years the desirability of continuing this method of distributing charity, and recommends that grants of $175 a month be given to the Central Board for the months of November, December, January, February, March and April of each year, and of $75 a month for the other months of each year, making a total grant each year of $1,500.

The report was passed, on motion of Messrs. White and Hall, with a few alterations which are embodied in the report.

Councillor White moved, seconded by Councillor Brady, that Mrs. Lawson be relieved of paying a pedlar's license, which act would enable the suppliant to support her family without applying to the town for charity.—Carried.

The recommendations of the

COURT OF REVISION

were passed as follows:

Your Committee on investigating the matter regret to find that the officials, whose duty it has been to see to the collection of arrears of taxes, have been neglecting their duty and that for 8 years these arrears have been permitted to accumulate. Nothing can be done in this matter until another assessment is being prepared. When you committee recommend to the attention of their successors this important item, they also recommend that for the future it be made one of the specific duties of the auditors to report annually the amount of taxes in arrear, and any dereliction of duty on the part of any of the officers in respect of the same.

In assessing lots or buildings in the possession of several occupants, and in the assessment of lots where they have been subdivided by registered plans, it is of importance in the former case that the part of the lot or building assessed to each person should be so specifically described as to be readily identifiable from such description irrespective of the name of the person assessed and in the latter case all assessments should be by reference both to the subdivision, number of lot, and plan and to the street adjoining and also to the description of the subdivided lot and they recommend that this be required of assessors in the future and for the purpose of facilitating this, they further recommend that the law requiring the filing of duplicates of all such plans with the town treasurer be enforced and that it be the duty of the town treasurer to search the Registry office at least once in each year as to plans registered for the town and after notification to report to the council the names of parties still in default. They further recommend that the present system of remitting dog taxes on the statutory declaration, be discontinued and that all such applications be referred to the Court to be dealt with upon oath.

A satisfactory disposition having been made of the general business which had accummulated since the last meeting of the Council, Mr. Cahill rose with the town's yearly financial statement in his hands, and, addressing the members, stated that he knew they would, with him, feel highly gratified to know that this year the ratepayers would be presented by the Council with a clean sheet. The Council of 1894 had shouldered a defict of over $4,000 from the previous year, and still came out ahead—the receipts exceeded the expenditures by the neat little sum of several thousand dollars. The statement was then submitted as follows:

Councillor Cahill introduced a by-law granting the franchise of erecting poles for the transmission of electric power, on the streets, to Messrs. Carnegie and Dennistoun, representing a company. The by-law was read a first time, the conditions and stipulations being substantially the same as already published. Councillors Roger and Best then moved:—"That the report of the Finance Committee, as to the granting of a further electric light and power franchise, be referred back to that Committee to enquire and report upon the feasibility of the town's acquiring the electric light and power poles at present upon the streets and holding the same for the general use of all persons or companies to whom may be granted the franchise for using the same and if deemed favourable to report a scheme for accomplishing said purpose and generally to report upon a policy to be pursued by the town in reference to the supply of light and power for the future and the terms upon which franchises should be granted.

Councillor Brady enquired as to how a delay would affect the plans of the new company.

Mr. Dennistoun stated that a very material difference would result if any appreciable postponement of the passage of the by-law was made. The poles had to be gotten out in the winter time and the order for them would have to be placed immediately if the poles were to be received before spring. He urged therefore that no greater delay be made, but that the privilege be extended the company on the terms already agreed upon, which had been already discussed by the committee of the whole.

Mr. Carnegie spoke a few words in the same strain, after which Councillor Hall addressed the council, stating that, although he was in favour of granting the franchise to the new company, yet he did not deem it advisable to do so until the question had been fully discussed in all its bearings.

Councillor Best thought that the matter had been fully threshed out in Committee of the whole. He was of the opinion that a delay would seriously incommode the new company and not benefit the town in anyway.

Mr. Dennistoun again spoke and expressed himself as not being opposed to a short delay, though a protracted stay in proceedings would be injurious to the company which he represented.

Councillor Roger, was in favour of extending the required franchise, but counselled that too much haste would be dangerous, as the question could not be fully discussed, and he thought it advisable to take time for consideration, as the town's interests would now have to be considered—not only as affected in the present case, but for all time.

Councillor Cahill agreed to a brief postponement of the passage of the bylaw, though he explained that all the clauses had been most carefully drawn.

Mr. Roger's motion was then slightly amended, so as to include a phrase binding the Council to meet on the call of the chairman of the Finance Committee as soon as the matter was satisfactorily arranged.

On motion of Councillors Best and Cahill, Mr. J. E. Belcher, town engineer, was paid $150 for preparing the plans for the outfall sewer.

The Mayor, Councillors Hall and Roger, and the Town Clerk will, on motion of Councillor Roger, form a committee to draft a resolution of condolence with the family of the late Premier.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

JOHN ARMSTRONG'S

In order to prepare the way for an early Removal to our handsome premises in Cox's new Bank of Commerce Block, we have commenced a Genuine Holiday Removal Sale to effect a prompt and speedy clearance of our stock and save extra handling at time of removal.

EVERYTHING IS MARKED DOWN in Groceries, Fruits, China, Crockery and Glassware, and prices must not stand in the way of reducing the stock rapidly. We mean business. We have made royal preparations for the holiday season. Our Christmas Bill of Fare includes everything new and fresh.

ALL TO BE SACRIFICED, right in the season when high prices prevail everywhere else.

TAKE OUR ADVICE and lay in your stock now, if you want to make the most of your money during the hard times. Values, at this sale, will, without exaggeration, be unequalled in town.

Customers in town and country will do well to get in their orders early and avoid the crush later on.

JOHN ARMSTRONG, No. 370 Water Street.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

PECULIARLY MADE.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are made of refined and concentrated botanical extracts. They're different from the large old-fashioned pills for these Pellets are as tiny as mustard seeds, and are sugar-coated. They're made in an improved chemical laboratory under the direct supervision of scientific men. Everything else being equal, the smaller the size of a liver pill, the more comfort.

They do not shock the system, but regulate, cleanse and tone up, the liver, stomach, and bowels, in nature's own way.

They're put up in sealed glass vials, easily carried in the vest-pocket.

In Bilious Disorders, Sick Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Dizziness, or for breaking up sudden attacks of Colds, Fevers, and Inflammation, "Pleasant Pellets" are prompt and effective in action.

Peculiar in the way they're sold, too, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money is returned.

THOSE TUNEFUL FROGS.

LOVE SONG OF THE SPECKLED SWAMP HABITANT.

Operetta in the Marsh at 8.30—Only the Males Raise Up Their Voices, and Their Tuneful Melody is Sometimes Not Appreciated by the Cold World.

The frog is the latest member of the animal kingdom whom Science has put under a microscope and compelled to yield up information for the use and amusement of man. It appears that this gentleman, whose vocal activity is one of the features of suburban life most likely to attract attention from city visitors, is equipped with a complicated and extraordinary musical apparatus.

When the frog wishes to express his joy he bursts forth into song. He lifts up his voice and makes the woodland ring. Only the male frogs sing. The females constitute the audience who sit in the front row and enjoy the music, and it is the speckled green frog who is the prime soloist of the woods.

These operettas only take place at night, and the performance begins about 8.30, after an overture by the katydids and the early mosquitoes. The frog, however, does not come out upon the stage with a roll of music in one hand and a smug smirk on his face. Neither does he proceed to scatter sand upon the floor from a cornucopia, and preface his performance with a song and dance after the manner of vaudeville artists.

He jumps right into the middle of his song without even a preliminary bow to the front row in the audience, and, after a succession of short, sharp notes, uttered in quick succession, he lets it go at that. Then he may receive either an encore or be the objective point of antique eggs, or bits of stone from the hands of some of his auditors, in which latter case he makes a rapid dive beneath the waters and is lost to sight.

Who has not heard the sweet musical strains of a speckled frog ringing out on the calm evening air, immediately succeeded by a "kerchunk" as he disappears beneath the wave? That happens when his song fails to meet with approbation. There are always other frogs about when these songs are sung. Most of them are females, otherwise there would be no song, for a male frog singing to his fellows would not be allowed to get further than the first two bars.

Stories have been told of a frog in the darkness who, seeing others of his kind whom he took for ladies, burst forth into loud melodious notes of joy and was suddenly cut short in his musical career by a shower of missiles from indignant male frogs whose meditations he had disturbed. This only happens to the young bucks of the frog tribe, for the older heads are too shrewd to make fools of themselves when there are any other than female frogs about.

One of the extraordinary things about frog music, as discovered by a writer in La Science en Famille, is the fact that the frog keeps his mouth closed when he is singing. It will therefore be seen that it would be useless to tell him to "shut up."

He can sing through his skin. He is provided with a pair of resonant chambers like drums and he makes his music by snapping his muscles against these distended membranes. Then he can breathe through his skin and supply all the wind that is necessary without opening his mouth. Handel in his "Israel in Egypt" has imitated in a passage of the oratorio the motions and leapings of the frogs.

A French scientist, after long listening in the woods, has made out and reduced to writing the song of the frog, or "swamp music," as he calls it, and has discovered that the frog repertoire is varied and extensive. Frogs can carry on conversations at long distances and can communicate to each other emotions of fear or hunger.

Their songs, however, are all love songs, and, as has been said, are only indulged in when there are female frogs about. It is then that the frog distends his drums to their utmost, throwing his head well back and his legs far apart and raising his voice, as it is called, to the very highest pitch of the musical scale. A big, old green frog can thus make himself heard for a distance of more than two miles, and the French servant who has studied the subject says the females are by this performance thrown into ecstasies of delight.

The song of the frog has thus been registered by the French savant: "Brekeke-brekeke, brekete! Kpate too oo oo! Brekete! Brekete! Brekete, kwarr, brekete too-oo." This closely resembles the famous cry of the Yale College students, taken from the frog song of the Aristophanes, and which is heard at every football match. It is supposed to express frog joy of the uttermost.

A Little Different.

While the hotel proprietor in Canada writes "Don't blow out the gas," the notice found at the resort hotels in Mexico runs as follows: "There is a matter to which the management respectfully desire to call the distinguished attention of the guests who exceedingly honer the hotel with their presence. Inasmuch as many lives have been lost aforetime through the inadvertency or apprehonsible carelessness of persons who have, instead of turning the small brass cock attached to the gas burner which hangs from the ceiling or is attached to some portion of the wall—it is confidently hoped by the management," etc.

To Brighten Mica.

Stoves are being put up and the housekeeper requires much patience. If the mica in the doors looks smoky here is a recipe for brightening them. Slip the mica out and put it to soak in a dish of vinegar for a few hours, then remove and polish with a soft, dry cloth. This process will bring back its old-time brightness.

Daughters Trained for Home Life.

The greatest care and anxiety of the Hindoo mother is to bring up her daughter to home life and to make her a good housewife. When a girl is 7 years of age the mother teaches her to cook and to clean the pots. Hindoos have two kinds of washing; one is the daily washing of everyday apparel, for the clothes are changed every morning after bathing. Every Hindoo must bathe before he takes his meals. Religion requires that no food be cooked before the person who cooks it has bathed. Hence every woman must bathe before she cooks. The clothes are changed and washed every day.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood.

Hood's Pills are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, prevent constipation.

The Wabash Railway Trains

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE,

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

THE GLADSTONE BAG.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY DENZIL VANE.

[Copyright, 1894, by the Author.]

It was a queer looking little place, but the sight of a blazing fire in the parlor behind the bar made me forget the bare, sanded floor and the smell of stale tobacco and beer that pervaded the air. In a trice I found myself installed in the one guest chamber the house boasted. A fire was kindled in the high old fashioned grate. Having ordered a meal to be cooked, I unstrapped my Gladstone and dragged out the first garment that came to hand—a rough short coat of Irish frieze. That coat was certainly not built by my excellent tailor. I stared at it in dull surprise. And then it was suddenly borne on me that neither the coat nor the Gladstone was mine. That wretched fellow who had traveled with me from Carlisle had made off with my property and left me in possession of a portion of his beggarly wardrobe. I flung the frieze coat away with an exclamation of disgust and surveyed the various items folded up in the Gladstone with something of the distaste I had felt for their owner. But I was wet to the skin and shivering like a spaniel. It was not a time to stand on ceremony. In five minutes I had donned a complete suit from the Gladstone bag of my unknown fellow passenger, including the despised frieze coat. Then I went down stairs and ate a very fair supper of fried ham and eggs, followed by a good jorum of excellent hot whisky toddy.

NOT BUILT BY MY TAILOR.

Greatly refreshed by these consolations, I returned to my chamber. The experiences of the past four and twenty hours had tired me out, and I was far too sleepy to closely examine the bag from which I had taken the warm and dry clothes I had on. As I turned into bed I wondered dreamily if my unknown benefactor was at that moment taking his ease in my garments. My unreasoning dislike of him had abated, now that he no longer vexed me with his presence and obtruded on my notice the unwelcome fact that in creating him nature had chosen to infringe my copyright by duplicating my features and figure.

My sleep that night was the sleep of a wormout man. I did not wake until a pale thread of winter sunshine filtered in at the casement window. Then, with a start, I remembered the circumstances which had brought me thither. I sprang quickly from my bed. I looked about for my clothes and then saw that the night before I had omitted to send them to the kitchen to be dried and brushed. There they were thrown down anyhow on a chair. I could not possibly put them on, for they were still reeking with damp.

There was nothing for it but to travel on to Glasgow in the clothes I had taken from the Gladstone bag. My own garments could be properly dried and sent on to me at Tighnabruaich.

I would then take steps to recover my bag and return that of my fellow traveler. Meanwhile, I argued, exchange was no robbe and since he had made a stupid mistake in decamping with my wardrobe there was no reason why I shouldn't temporarily appropriate his.

After breakfast I went out into the village to reconnoiter. The snow was deep, but hard and crisp with frost. The wind had fallen, and the sky was blue and cloudless. On inquiry I learned that it would be possible to drive by road to a station on the line beyond the point where our unlucky train was imbedded in the drift. Gangs of workmen were, it was reported, at work on the line, which would most likely be clear by midday.

I went back to the Rose and Crown, strapped up my borrowed Gladstone, left orders with my landlady for the transmission of my property, hired a conveyance and drove off in the direction of the nearest railway station. I arrived there in due course, and when I was seated in a compartment labeled Glasgow I congratulated myself that my disagreeable adventure was over. Alas, it was only in its first stage.

* * * * * *

The train drew up in the Glasgow station. I gathered up my traps and stepped out of the carriage. But I had not got many paces before an individual of the easily recognised private detective type accosted me. Behind him was a colleague whose movements were accompanied by an ominous clink of metal.

"James Pennequicke, I arrest you in the queen's name," said the first man, giving me at the same time a light tap on the shoulder.

I stared at him and drew myself up to my full height.

"My name is Graham—Angus Graham of the Inner Temple," I said. "You have made a mistake, my man."

The fellow smiled in the most aggravatingly superior manner.

"No mistake; you're James Pennequicke fast enough. It's not the first time we have met. Anyway I'll trouble you to go with me to the station. You'll go quietly, eh?"

"I'm hanged if I will," I retorted angrily. "I've an appointment to keep and don't mean to go fooling around at police stations. There's my card"—I fumbled in my pocket for my card-case—"and my luggage to prove my identity."

"Ah, I've heard of that dodge; pasteboard is cheap, and so is printing. As for your luggage—here you, Campbell, just call a cab, will you, and we'll have a look at that down at the station. Now, will you come quietly, or must we put the bracelets on you?"

Wroth though I was, I was forced to comply. A cab was hailed; I, the two detectives, took our seats inside, and that unlucky Gladstone bag was deposited on the front seat.

"If you have arrested me for being in possession of that," I said, indicating the bag contemptuously, "I can easily give you an explanation that must secure my release from custody. The bag is not mine."

"The contents are not, anyway," retorted the detective meaningly.

"What are you hinting at? No, of course the contents aren't mine. They belong to a person who traveled with me the night before last."

"Oh, indeed. It's my duty to warn you that anything you say will be used in evidence against you," answered the other in his stiffest Jack-in-office manner.

Seeing the fellow was hopelessly obtuse, I resolved to hold my tongue until we got to the station. There I should soon be able to set matters right. Still it was annoying that I should be found in possession of property that was not mine. I racked my brain in trying to remember if the clothes I had on or those in the Gladstone had on them any name or mark to identify their rightful owner. But the effort was made in vain. Indeed I probably had not noticed whether the clothes were marked or not, for I had been too preoccupied and too fatigued to think of the matter.

At the station, in presence of the inspector, I made my statement, explaining how the Gladstone bag had come into my possession. I could see that not a word of it was believed. Then a minute discription of James Pennequicke was read out, and with it my own personal appearance, I regret to say, exactly tallied. Another piece of damnatory evidence was that the frieze coat I wore was marked inside one of the sleeves with the initials J. P.

Worst of all, the Gladstone bag was turned out in my presence, and other articles of attire were discovered to be marked with the same letters, and to my utmost astonishment and dismay the bag itself was ripped open and found to have a false bottom. In it was concealed a mass of jewels, brooches, necklaces, rings sparkling with diamonds and other precious stones. At sight of this treasure the detective who had arrested me, his colleague Campbell and the inspector showed a profane glee.

"Better own the truth," said they all. "You are James Pennequicke, and on the night of Dec. 24 you abstracted these from Northside Hall, near Carlisle."

I asseverated my innocence, declaring that until that moment I was even ignorant that the jewels were in the bag.

"The fellow who went off with my Gladstone bag may have stolen the stuff," I said indignantly, "but I know nothing of it. My name is Angus Graham, and I never heard Pennequicke's name until this morning."

"So you say," remarked the detective drily, "but your description fits to a T. You're wearing clothes that belong to Pennequicke, and you are found to be in possession of stolen goods. You will be detained in custody until inquiries can be made."

And in this enlightened country I, an innocent and peaceable citizen, was marched off and consigned to a fireless cell, there to meditate on the cussedness of things in general and my own ill fortune in particular.

Can it be wondered at that I have ever since disliked Christmas and its cant phrases of hilarity and mutual good will?

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S INTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have used six bottles and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I tried other remedies, but one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

CHURCH CHIMES.

CHARLOTTE STREET METHODISTS SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY.

Yesterday was "Sunday School Day" in Charlotte street Methodist church, in recognition of the anniversary of the Sunday school, which, from its flourishing condition, gives cause for a most grateful observance of the occasion. There were three special services during the day, conducted by Rev. J. W. Rae, of Acton, brother of the pastor. The attendance at all the services was unusually large, the capacity of the church being tested to the utmost and in all respects the occasion was one of the most successful that has taken place in the history of the church.

THE MORNING SERVICES.

At the morning service, the congregation consisted very largely of the pupils of the school, who, to the number of three hundred, occupied the central range of seats, while the other seats were occupied by parents and members of the congregation generally. Rev. Mr. Rae took for his text Psalm xxv, 5,—"Lead me in Thy truth and teach me"—David's prayer was considered in its several relations—the person addressed in the prayer—Almighty God, who was pictured as all powerful, loving and able and willing to answer prayer. The direction in which the "leading" was sought—"in thy truth" which involved the idea of learning the meaning of God's word—the desire to be led, and the desire to be taught, and it was pointed out that God taught us in various ways, by parents and those who stood in the relation of parents, by Sunday school teachers, by the ministers of the Gospel, and by the light of the Holy Spirit. The points suggested were eloquently elaborated, lucidly impressed by apt and ample illustration, and thoughtfully adopted to the capacity of the juvenile hearers, who paid the preacher the highest compliment he can receive from a congregation—undivided, close and intelligent attention. In the course of the service the special singing by school children, gave delightful animation to the bright and happy occasion.

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE.

This consisted of the regular Sunday school gathering which was the largest in the life of the school. Rev. J. W. Rae again briefly addressed the school on the subject of "warriors," which was divided into three classes—first, those who, led by Satan, fight to injure others, whose watchword was "injury"; second, those who fight for personal profit, their leader Satan, and their watchword, "Gain;" third, those who fight for the good of others, whose leader was God, and whose watchword was "Blessing." This address was also wisely adapted to the capacity of the children, and the speaker made liberal drafts upon a large fund of illustration to the great edification of his young hearers.

THE EVENING SERVICE

was very largely attended, also. The preacher's text was taken from the Revelation of St. John the Divine—chapter ii, verse 26:

"And he that overcometh and keepeth my words unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations."

The subject was "Truths that Triumph To-day." After an introduction, bearing upon the necessary elements of success in working for the Master, Rev. Mr. Rae indicated the truths that triumph to-day to be—the living Christ; the living work-book—the Word of God; the living pledge—a reference to the pledge of the Christian Endeavour Society that enlists the young in the work of the church. The fourth living truth that triumphed to-day was the Living "Child," and it was pointed out in an able and complete manner that the child was to-day coming into the legitimate position of prominence it should occupy in the work of the triumph of divine truth, a position whose defensibility depended upon the fact of the Sunday School being the recruiting ground for the ranks of the church militant. The singing was unusually excellent. The choir sang the anthem, "Come Unto Me" Miss Fawcett taking the solo in pleasing style. At the offertory Mr. Davis sang with good effect the selection "The Half has Never Been Told," the choir joining in the chorus with fine effect.

The entertainment in connection with the anniversary will be held this evening. A free tea will be provided for the children from 6 to 8, followed by a varied entertainment supplied by the Sunday School children,—choruses, recitations, dialogues, etc.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

At both the 8 o'clock and the 10.30 o'clock masses yesterdry, Ven. Archdeacon Casey referred in terms of eulogy to the late Sir John Thompson; to his high character in keeping with his high position and to his being a model Catholic, and drew important lessons from his sudden demise. On Thursday morning next at 8 o'clock a solemn requiem high mass will be sung for the repose of the soul of the late premier.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Last evening Rev. H. Symonds preached a most thoughtful and maturely considered Advent sermon on the subject of "The Scriptural Doctrine of Eternal Punishment." The text taken was St. Matthew xxv, 29—"And these shall go away into everlasting punishment." The subject was dealt with in a very able and temperate manner.

As announced, Rev. W.R. Young, pastor of the George street church, delivered a sermon, last evening, on the death of Sir John Thompson. The edifice was crowded and the address a masterly one, indeed.

He took as his text:

Phil. iv chap. 8th verse: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

Mr. Young mentioned the fact that Sir John's father had been a Methodist class leader in his day and then briefly reviewed the life of the dead Premier up to the time when Sir John A. MacDonald had chosen him for his Attorney-General. The choice had been questioned at the time, but in less than six months Sir John had amply justified the choice, proving himself a masterly debater and otherwise a man of great ability. His parliamentary career, when reviewed, showed that he had devoted all his ability to the faithful and conscientious discharge of his duty. The lesson of his life was not to aim at position and place, but in whatever position he was at the time to give it all his attention and service. With reference to religion, Mr. Young stated that in this country all claimed such liberty as entitled every man to worship according to his conscience and to question such liberty would be disloyalty. Sir John had seen fit to change his religion and one who in every duty in life had so faithfully followed the dictates of his conscience, had, no doubt, done so in this matter. The whole life of the man showed that his great motive was to do right and only right and when at the summit of his power and the zenith of his glory the angel of death had so quietly summoned him away he was no doubt prepared for the change. On his person at the moment of death was a rosary and a photograph of the Christ, from which it might be inferred that Sir John was a most devout man. In conclusion Mr. Young urged all the young men in his congregation, in whatever station they might be, to do at their best the duty which fell to their hand, and in so doing they would be advanced to positions according to their merit.

In St. John's school house to-morrow night an entertainment consisting of readings, recitations and songs, will be given, the proceeds to be expended in charity. A comedy entitled "My Turn Next" will be presented.

There will be no meeting of the Christian Endeavour Society in Charlotte street church to-night.

Rev. J. J. Rae's Bible class will not meet on Tuesday evening next.

The Sunday school of Charlotte street church will hold its Christmas entertainment this evening.

The collection taken up in the Charlotte street church last night was for the benefit of the Sunday school fund.

Coupler Works for International Bridge.

FORT ERIE, Dec. 17.—The report that the Gould Car Coupler works of Buffalo intends establishing a branch of their works here or at International Bridge for the Canadian trade causes much satisfaction. It is believed, however, that the newly incorporated village of International Bridge will secure the works owing to the shipping facilities being superior at that point. The prospect of an addition of 30 or 40 families to the population of the village has set the people there to speculating on the idea of the new village becoming in time the Canadian prototype of Buffalo.

Debs and His Men Will Appeal.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Attorneys S. S. Gregor and C. S. Darrow held a long conference with their clients, the convicted directors of the American Railway Union, on Saturday and it was decided that the case was certainly appealable. The manner of appeal will be decided later.

Author Stevenson Reported Dead.

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Dec. 17.—Advices from Apia, Samoa, of the date of December 8, are to the effect that the well-known writer, Robert Louis Stevenson, had died suddenly. His remains were interred on the summit of Pala mountain, 1,900 feet high.

A St. Catharines Man Dies From Poison.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Dr. Stanley Tattersall, a veterinary surgeon, whose family resides in St. Catharines, Ontario, was found dead under a bed in the second story of the Wallace block where he occupied a room. He evidently died in great agony and it is supposed from the effects of poison. An inquest will be held to-day.

A Bad Fire in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Dec. 17.—A fire broke out in Wheeler's fur store, St. John street. The flames spread with such rapidity that a lady who was sick in bed in the first flat had barely time to be carried out. Damages about $10,000, with $2,000 insurance on stock.

Robbery at Mono Mills.

MONO MILLS, Ont., Dec. 17.—Burglars entered the house of John Kidd through one of the back windows and succeeded in carrying off about $50 in cash and a coat. No clue as to who the guilty party is.

An Old Man Fouily Murdered.

STONEHAM, Mass., Dec. 17.—Michael H. Day, about 60 years old, was murdered by his son-in-law Patrick Kane and Thomas Kane, the latter's brother. He was struck over the head by a lantern, knocked down, and while one of his assailants held him the other cut his throat, severing the jugular vein, and also stabbing him in the heart. Patrick and Thomas Kane are under arrest.

The Strong Man Robbed by His Valet.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Albert Chapman, an Englishman who was employed as valet by Sandow, the strong man, was arrested as he was about to sail for England. The arrest was made on a telegram from the Chief of Police of Memphis, Tenn., who charges Chapman with the larceny of $8,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry belonging to Sandow.

THE GAME OF SNAPDRAGON.

Players Must Be Quick and Not Mind Burned Fingers.

Few "Christmas gambols" exist in their original form. But the old games modified to suit modern taste as well as the new ones are just as full of fun and are entered into by the young folks nowadays with as much zest as were the rougher gambols over which in old England the "Lord of Misrule" presided. Although the authority of this lord was generally acknowledged at Christmas merrymakings 200 or 300 years ago, and he made things very lively, such disorders finally crept into his brief burlesque reign that he was suppressed.

One of the most quiet and genial of the gambols over which he was master has been handed down under the name of "Snapdragon." Raisins are put into a large bowl, covered with spirit, which is ignited. Lights in the room are extinguished, and each one attempts in turn to grasp a raisin, a feat requiring some skill and courage. Meanwhile an appropriate accompaniment is the "Song of the Snapdragon," beginning thus:

Here he comes with flaming bowl.
Don't he mean to take his toll?
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

Take care you don't take too much,
Be not greedy in your clutch,
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

With his blue and lapping tongue
Many of you will be stung.
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

The Birds' Christmas.

Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., formerly minister to Sweden, describes the Swedish Christmas thus: "One wintry afternoon, at jul-tide, I had been skating on a pretty lake, Dalsjon, three miles from Gottenburg. On my way home I noticed at every farmer's house we passed there was erected in the middle of the dooryard a pole, to the top of which was bound a large, full sheaf of grain. 'Why is this?' I asked of my comrade. 'Oh, that's for the bird., the little wild birds! They must have a Christmas, too, you know.' There is not a peasant in all Sweden who will sit down with his children to a Christmas dinner within doors till he has first raised aloft a Christmas dinner for the little birds that live in the cold and snow without."

LIBERALS AT TORONTO

Prominent Ones of the Party Attend the Young Libs' Banquet.

ADDRESSED BY SIR RICHARD

The Member for South Oxford Speaks Hopefully of the Result of the Next Dominion Elections—"Fighting Joe" Martin and Hon. Mr. Ross Speak.

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—The annual banquet of the Toronto Young Liberals was held in the Walker House last night. Nearly 300 gentlemen were present. The only decoration of the banquet hall was an immense Canadian flag, in front of which sat President Stewart Lyon, of the Young Liberals, with Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Wm. Mullock, M. P., on his right, and Hon. G. W. Ross and "Fighting Joe" Martin, M. P., on his left.

Among the other prominent Liberals present were John Barron, ex-M.P., Lindsay; Jas. McMullen, M.P. for North Wellington; Robt. Boston, A. Campbell, M.P.P., John Flatt, M.P.P.; Organizer Alex. Smith; A. P. McDougall, President of West Middlesex Reform Assn.; E. Stewart, President North Simcoe Reform Assn.;

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT.

F. Howard Annes, Secretary South Ontario Reform Assn.; F. H. Gardiner, editor Hamilton Times; and A. Pattullo, Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Speaking commenced shortly after nine. When the toast to the Queen was proposed feeling reference was made to the loss the country had sustained by the tragic death of Sir John Thompson.

J. S. Willison, responding to the toast "Canada" referred to the agitation raised in some quarters against the faith to which Sir John Thompson belonged. No Liberal paper, he claimed, had raised its voice to aggravate the evil. The Liberal party had thus shown itself to be a patriotic Canadian party. They would never raise such an issue. Speaking of protection, he said it was a system the principle of which was to tax poverty and spare wealth, and that it had blighted half the provinces of this continent.

Sir Richard Cartwright.

Sir Richard Cartwright, on rising to respond to the toast of the "Dominion Parliament" was greeted with an ovation. He was in good form and lost no time getting at the burning topics of Dominion politics. The charges against Hon. John Haggart on the floor of Parliament were retailed. Sir Adolphe Caron's laconic reply to the boodling charges laid at his door, said Sir Richard, might be paraphrased after Watt's well-known hymn, "I've boodled before and I'll boodle again." He said the Liberals had been twitted with lack of political sagacity. What were the facts? In this Province of Ontario the majorities of the last Dominion general and following "bye"—which might be truthfully called "bought"—elections, Conservatives received 15,208 votes and the Liberals 14,799, or only about 400 votes difference. The aggregate Liberal vote in Ontario was 180,250 with 83 members in Parliament at Ottawa to represent it, and 180,659 Conservatives with 60 members representing it. This infamous state of things, he declared, was the result of the gerrymander. The mechanical dexterity of the pickpocket who could in a day make as much as an honest artisan in a month was on a level with that of the tactical sagacity of the Conservatives. If there was one thing above another the Young Liberals should strive to cultivate it was a spirit and sentiment throughout this country against such unfair practices in our politics.

HON. G. W. ROSS.

The analysis of the last census as to the alleged increase of industrial establishments was discussed; 320,000 it was claimed was the number of these. What a miserable fiasco the examination in detail of these returns had disclosed. The village of Caughnawaga with a population of 150 families of red Indians was credited with 41 industries. These were birch-bark basket makers and moccasin makers. Port Hope, a town with 1,000 families was another instance. Here 147 were said to have been established. No more ridiculous expose had ever been been made than in this place.

The alarming increase in the deficits of the Dominion showed that by next July this would amount for the current year to four, five or six millions.

Touching our relations with the United States, Sir Richard said all honorable means to cultivate close and cordial relations with our neighbors should be taken. There are 980,000 native born Canadians in the United States and of these have been born 1,500,000 children—taken together nearly half as many people as there are in Canada.

The movement to unite together, by the proposed provincial convention of Young Liberals, in a powerful organization would result in incalculable benefit to the party. The battle before us will be hot and stern. The doom of the Government is sealed on one condition—that the various opponents do not cut one another's throats. Mr. Marter's figures as to the vote in the late Ontario elections prove, if they prove anything, that the Conservatives are only 30 per cent. of the electorate. The Conservatives' only hope of success in the impending struggle is to set their opponents by the ears. Our business is to see that there is no supineness on our part.

"Fighting Joe" Martin.

When the chairman called on "Fighting Joe" Martin for a speech he was enthusiastically received. This wild and woolly Westerner asserted that Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia will return a solid body of opponents to the present Government with its policy of protection which the people of the prairies have found to be utter inimical to their wants.

Ontario's Minister of Education.

Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, made everybody merry by his witty remarks. He appeared and spoke in place of Hon. A. S. Hardy, who was ill. He referred to the new leader of the Opposition in Ontario, and said he put on and took off his armor with amazing rapidity, judging by his recent speech. Mr. Ross declared that for all practical purposes Mr. Marter is dead as a political leader. He compared Sir Oliver Mowat, who for 22 years had held continuous power in Ontario, to Bismarck who bound together into the great German empire the petty states of Prussia. Mr. Ross traced the growth of the premier Province of Canada, preserving as it has the proper balance between the federal and provincial governments.

The toast "Our Club" was responded to by Mr. Lewis whom Mr. Stewart Lyon lately defeated in the election to the presidency.

"The Press" was responded to by several Toronto newspaper men and Messrs. Gardiner and Pattullo, after which the banquet broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

RUMORS AT THE CAPITAL.

Hon. Edward Blake and B. B. Osler Talked Of for the Cabinet

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—The report that B. B. Osler, Q.C., is to be made Minister of Justice is scarcely credited in political circles here, owing to his political predilections being Liberal. It would appear, however, that his friends have been moving in that direction. In the first place Mr. George Tate Blackstock was spoken of for the position. He came to Ottawa immediately after the death of Sir John Thompson, and it is said to be he that first suggested the name of Mr. Osler. Indeed it is also said that Mr. McCarthy is a party to the arrangement. Mr. Osler, if he accepts, would run in Cardwell, and then Mr. McCarthy would not offer any serious opposition to his election.

This would mean that in the course of time Mr. McCarthy would be back working in harmony with his old political associates. At any rate such is the deal which was mentioned in this correspondence on Friday last, and which was then being formulated by Sir Frank Smith, Mr. Bowell and George Tate Blackstock. If necessary, it is understood that Mr. Costsworth would retire for Mr. Osler.

A politician who is perhaps something of a joker says: "There is another rumor going to the effect that Hon. Edward Blake has been offered the position of Minister of Justice. Ever since Mr. Blake has gone to Ireland he has been in close communication with Sir Frank Smith and there is said to have sprung up between them a warm personal friendship. The same might be said as to Mr. Costigan and Mr. Blake. If Mr. Blake would accept, then the Irish Catholic vote would go pretty solid for him, while Mr. Bowell would hold the ultra-Protestants. This would make a far stronger team, so it is thought by many Conservatives, than even Mr. Bowell and Mr. Osler."

Crazy Over the Westwood Case.

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—A girl named Lizzie Dower, who came to the city about two years ago and has been employed as a general servant, has lost her reason through the arrest of Clara Ford for the murder of Frank Westwood. She read carefully all that was published about the Westwood case, and often to her friends spoke wildly about the tragedy. Nothing was thought of this till about a week ago when the girl's actions became noticeably peculiar. Last Friday she went to Mr. W. G. Murdoch's office and told the counsel for Clara Ford that she had evidence that his client did not kill Frank Westwood, and after telling a disconnected story she left to go to West Lodge to get further convincing evidence. She did not return, nor did any one know where she went till the following day. She had given herself up to the police and she was locked up in the jail. She had become insane on the subject, and she is now awaiting medical examination.

BRITONS ARE AROUSED

An Indignation Meeting Protests Against the Armenian Atrocities.

HON. MR. GLADSTONE'S LETTER

The Foreign Office Condemned for Not Publishing Consular Reports From Armenia—Frequent Encounters Between Armenians and Russians.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The mass meeting to protest against the Armenian atrocities was held last evening under the auspices of the Armenian Society. Several delegations from foreign cities were present. Francis Seymour Stevenson, M.P., chairman of the Anglo-Armenian Association, presided, and opened the meeting with a brief speech of welcome to the great audience. He read a letter from Mr. Gladstone, who was unable to accept his invitation to be present, but sent these words of encouragement: "The terrible statements from Armenia have riveted the attention of the world. I heartily wish well your and every other effort to bring out the truth. Should the horrible allegations already made be sustained, they will prompt the civilized world anew to ask 'How long are these things to be endured?' I will not try to anticipate the result of the examination, but I feel morally certain that the administration will not rest without a most thorough inquiry into the matter in which, under the Cyprus convention, we have a separate, deep and painful interest. It is my present hope that the Ottoman government will for its own honor cordially concur in this searching examination."

Cardinal Vaughan and the Hon. James Stanfield, M.P., also wrote to express their sympathy with the objects of the meeting.

Mr. Stevenson spoke at length concerning the atrocities. The information which had reached the Anglo-Armenian Association from various independent and reliable sources, he said, showed that the newspaper reports of the massacres had been substantially correct, and that action by Her Majesty's Government would be fully justified. The other speakers were Canon Malcolm MacColl, Mr. Clayden (editor of the Daily News) and Commoners, F. A. Channing, E. J. Morton, C. E. Schwann and Sir J. W. Pease.

The resolutions passed by the meeting recorded the indignation caused by the Porte's continued violation of the principles of humanity, and expressed regret that the 61st article of the Berlin treaty should be allowed owing to the indifference of the signatory powers to remain so long inoperative.

The British Government was called upon to take the initiative in insisting on the immediative introduction of definite reforms in Armenia in accordance with the pledge given at Berlin by Turkey. One paragraph said: "While approving the international consular commission we believe that the mere punishment of a few offenders will not change the situation. What is really required is concerted and vigorous action by the powers."

The meeting also protested against the continued refusal of the Foreign Office since 1889 to publish the consular reports relating to Armenia, and called for early information concerning Armenians either untried or who, after mere mock trials, had been imprisoned and maltreated.

A few persons dissented from these resolutions because they said they feared that the reports of the atrocities were due party to Russian state craft.

Prof. Bryce, president of the Board of Trade, said in a speech in Aberdeen last evening: "Nothing so dreadful as the Armenian outrages in savage cruelty and revolting lust has been reported since the Bulgarian atrocities. If the report be proved true the Government which has permitted them will be on trial before Europe. Great Britain especially is bound by action in connection with the Berlin treaty."

The Central News correspondent in Vienna says: Trusty private advices from Constantinople are to the effect that the Sultan who has been ailing for some time now has acute neuralgia and is utterly prostrated. His condition is supposed to be the result of overwork and mental anxiety.

The Daily Chronicle correspondent in Moscow says: "Despatches from Tiflis says that encounters between Armenian and Turkish villagers on Russian territory are becoming more frequent and serious. The governors of Frivan and Kars have taken energetic measures to quell the Armenians. A gentleman just here from the Caucasus learns that the outrages in the Bitlis and Van districts were far less serious than reported and that cases of torture and murder will be found to be rare."

CRISPI'S DOWNFALL.

The King No Longer His Friend—He is Expected to Resign.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent in Vienna contends that Crispi's standing with the King has been shaken and his resignation may be expected at any moment. He thinks that Crispi would not long survive his fall as he has been apoplectic for some time.

A Lineman's Bad Fall.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 18.—Alexander McFee, telephone repairer for the Bell Telephone Company, fell from a pole at the corner of the Market Square, a distance of 28 feet. On the way down he struck a telegraph call bell wire, which turned him over, and he fell on his shoulder and hip, otherwise he would have struck head first. He was picked up insensible, and it is as yet impossible to say what his injuries are. McFee originally came from Stayner, but has been making Hamilton his headquarters for the last ten years. He is about 24 years of age, and is six feet six inches in height, and is a single man.

ANNUAL MEETING
ST. PAUL'S W. F. M. S.

THE YEARLY REPORT SUBMITTED.

Numerous Addresses Delivered and Officers Elected to Serve for the Ensuing Year—Other Reports.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was held in the lecture room of the church on Friday, Dec. 14th, at half-past three. The president, Miss Dickson, performed the opening exercises, after which Mrs. Ross, of Lindsay, gave a short address which was exceedingly interesting. The reports of the W.F.M.S. The Faithful Workers Mission Band and the Prayer Mission Band were read and adopted. While the collection was being taken, Miss Rose and Miss Patterson sang a duet. Mrs. Murray read a paper on "Little things in Mission Work." Several ladies from other churches gave a few words of greeting.

Officers elected for 1895:

Honorary President—Mrs. Fairbairn.
Hon. Vice-President.—Mrs. Henderson.
President—Miss Dickson.
1st Vice President—Mrs. Macpherson.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Erskine.
Treasurer—Miss Kingan.
Secretary—Miss Flora H. Davidson.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Lech.
Executive Committee—Mrs. Innes, Mrs. W. J. Ferguson, Mrs. R. E. Wood, Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Mulholland, Miss Roger, Miss Moore.

The annual report for 1894 was read:

Another year has come and gone since last we met at our annual meeting to report our yearly progress. Much has happened in the interval, but it affords me the greatest pleasure to say we have suffered no losses in our ranks. Death with his reaper has not been busy in our midst, as in other years, but we have experienced much gain in the addition of several new members.

The annual Presbyterial meeting was held in Cobourg this year. Several of our members attended this meeting and made reports upon it. The semi annual Presbyterial was held in Keene. Again several members attended. The annual meeting of the General Society was held in Ottawa. Miss Dickson, our President, and Miss Roper were delegates to it and brought exceedingly interesting reports of the proceedings.

The contributions for the present year amounted to $237.58, an increase of $16.25 over last year's contributions. The Stewart Settlement has again come to the fore with their welcome offering of $11.00. The October thank-offering amounted to $74.05. Our society numbers 51 general society members and 21 fifty cent members, with eleven life members, one, Mrs. Garvin, having been added this year. Total membership for the year 72, an increase of 20 over last year, which is very gratifying, the average attendance being 30. A new feature in the management of our meeting has been introduced—namely, that of two members of the Executive Committee having been selected to prepare a programme for the following month, and the result has been highly satisfactory. Several members in consequence have kindly read us papers on some interesting topic in connection with missionary work, thereby widening our knowledge and increasing the interest. The number of subscribers to the monthly Letter Leaflet is 77. Our yearly subscription to the Northwest, which was sent to the school at Round Lake, was $54.85. In September, a union meeting of the St. Andrew's and St. Paul's auxiliary was held, to hear an address from Miss McWilliams, a returned missionary from Indore, Central India. The meeting was fairly well attended, and the address given was bright, interesting and instructive. None could fail but be pleased with it. In October, we had a visit and a short address from one of our old members, Mrs. Haultain, whose bright face and genial smile always win for her a hearty welcome. It is with deep regret that I have to mention the fact that our ex-president, Mrs. Fairbairn, has been so dangerously ill, but we are heartily thankful that the crisis is past and she is now on the road to recovery and we sincerely hope that we will once more have the pleasure of welcoming her in our midst.

In conclusion, let me say that I think God has happily blessed our labours during the past year, in the increase of membership and contributions, and in the additional interest which has been manifested in our work, but as our watchword is Progress, we must still press on, with spirits undaunted by difficulties, till we reach the mark of the high calling which is in Christ Jesus.

F. H. DAVIDSON,
Secretary.

The meeting closed with singing and prayer, led by Mrs. Stewart, of St. Andrew's Auxiliary.

"A WORD IN SEASON."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—

Abundance of food, plenty of money for all practical uses, in the banks, abundance of work needed to be done and men to do it, and yet want, care and misery pressing their depressing influence upon us, where only cheerfulness and thankfulness ought to be. Why is this? And how is needed remedy to be applied? The time is at hand when we, as Christians, celebrate the birth of Him, who came to teach us, to live, not merely to eke out a drumb-existence.

And let me emphasize the fact that He called men, not women alone to do His work. How men can fail to appreciate and emulate such a noble, manly heroic life as His was as a man, I cannot see. And when He offers work and pay to all, in the parable of the idlers in the market, none need be out of work of some kind if they will but take hold and trust Him, not man, for garments and be content with what He gives, reading the instructions given, few and simple, in His will, asking for help daily, and strength to do His will, putting on His yoke, which He assures us is easy and light. It is our own yoke which is a heavy one, late hours, indulging in things we cannot pay for, reading newspapers instead of taking hold of the promises of God, claiming them and holding fast to them, fulfilling their conditions and thus becoming covenanters with (just think of it!) their Creator, and tremble to neglect the help so freely offered and given to those who ask aright. "While they are yet speaking I will answer." "Call upon Me in the time of trouble and I will hea thee." And the Saviour says to His disciples just before the end of His ministry, "Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name, now ask and receive that your joy may be full," and in another place, "Whosoever will may drink of the water of life." Surely now after so much teaching it is a great reproach to refuse to learn of Him, and must bring great sufferiug on the earth.

HOPE.

AN HONOURABLE RECORD,

Brought out in Rhyme, and Respectfully Addressed to A. P. Morgan, Esq., for the proverbial name he has achieved for catering for the St. Andrew's Scots' annual dinner for the number of fifteen St. Andrew's and one Burn's anniversaries.

Sir, you an honoured name have got,
So long providing for the Scot-,
You must have pleased them to a dot,
Though you are not a Scotchman.

If I know right, you have a strain
Of Scotch blood from your mother's vein,
By birth you fully do retain
That dear loved name Canadian,

That wrong stamped name that Scots are clannish.
Like passing shadows, let it vanish,
Your history will the idea banish,
For you are not a Scotchman.

As each St. Andrew's night comes round,
One week before we hear the sound,
What place for dinner have you found?
The answer comes—at Morgan's.

It is not that your charge is less,
That to your house they yearly press,
Nor any bigoney you possess,
That draws St. Andrew's Scotchmen.

Your house may well be Scottish termed,
With some most powerful magic armed,
Where Scots for a few hours are charmed,
As home like as in Scotland.

Though you cannot the Gaelic speak,
Nor twang the braid Scotch like a streak,
When your wife's sonsie baggis reeks,
We feel at home in Scotia.

Your welcome smile, your friendly ways,
Cheers Scots like the sun's wintrey rays,
Ask where they dine—each quickly says,
We're gaun richt back to Morgans.

I must not praise you up too high,
Or when St. Andrew's night draws nigh,
You may contemptuously say—pass by
I want na more with Scotchmen.

One half the praise is but your share,
Your wife rules o'er the bill of fare,
She knows exact how to prepare
For the St. Andrew's Scotchmen.

Though I sit not again with pride,
Around the board that you provide,
I hope no cause will set aside
Your love for cannie Scotchmen.

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 16 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

DEATH OF STEVENSON

The Famous Author Died Suddenly at His Samoan Home.

THREE NOVELS UNFINISHED

He Was Haunted by the Fear That His Popularity as an Author Would Wane—His Loss to Letters Deplored by the London Press.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Dec. 18.—From later advices received from Samoa it is learned that Robert Louis Stevenson died on the evening of December 3. He was talking with his wife, seemingly as well as usual when he said to her: "I have a strange pain in my head." Immediately afterward he fell back insensible. Within two hours he died. The cause of death was sudden paralysis of the brain accompanied by collapse of the lungs. Mrs. Stevenson and all his relatives were present at the closing scenes. The funeral took place on the fourth. The grave was dug on the summit of Pala Hill which stands on Mr. Stevenson's estate. An obelisk will be erected over the grave and this will form a prominent landmark from the sea. It is stated that Mr. Stevenson had suffered from brain exhaustion. He was haunted by a fear that his popularity as a writer would wane. He left three unfinished works.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Daily News says editorially: "Mr. Stevenson's loss is irreparable to letters because no other writer of our time approached him in breadth, variety and appeal."

Andrew Lang in a column sketch written for the News says: "In a letter which I received from him only last week he displayed for the first time in his correspondence and my long friendship to him, a certain anxiety about himself. He was haunted with a dread of paralysis and some lingering mental malady like Dean Swift's."

The Morning Post says: "Probably there has been no man of letters in the present generation whose work has been more widely appreciated than Mr. Stevenson's."

The Standard says: "Mr. Stevenson's death will spread sorrow in a circle of readers perhaps as wide as that which any modern writer has had. It is sad to think that we shall enjoy no more of his vigorous creations."

SHADOWED BY DETECTIVES.

They Watched the Movements of Judge Macdougall and Mr. Nesbitt.

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—The municipal investigation was resumed yesterday before Judge Macdougall, and some decidedly interesting facts were elicited. A. T. Johnson, who was the go-between between Hall and Hewitt and the Edison company when the latter were endeavoring to get the contract for equipping the street railway, said it was decidedly understood that the $5,000 paid Hall and Hewitt was for their pull as aldermen. H. A. Everett, vice-president of the street railway company, then went on the stand. He told of his relations with aldermen and ex-aldermen and denied that he had ever paid any money to any of them save $340 to ex-Ald. C. Small in connection with the Sunday car vote. While examining the witness and his books, Mr. Nesbitt, the counsel, saw an item for detective service. He asked Mr. Everett what the item meant and witness admitted that the street railway company had been employing a number of Pinkerton detectives in connection with the municipal investigation.

Mr. Nesbitt asked if he had not personally been watched by a detective on behalf of the company, and witness admitted that three detectives had been employed—one for Judge Macdougall, one for Counsel Nesbitt and one for the counsel's assistant, A. M. Greer. Detectives had also been employed to watch Hewitt and Coleman on behalf of the company when they went to New York. Questioned as to whether this was an ordinary proceeding, Mr. Everett replied that he thought the company had a right to employ detectives if it saw fit. It had been customary to do so at any rate. The object of doing so, in the present case, was to get to the bottom of the investigation. It transpired during the evidence that one of the detectives had been observed around the premises of Mr. Nesbitt, and had been arrested as a burglar. In order to avoid being taken to the police station the detective had explained that he was employed to watch Mr. Nesbitt's movements.

Mr. Everett, on being asked where ex-Ald. Hewitt was now, said he was lost, and he (witness) did not care what had become of him.

The C. P. R. is Independent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Railroad officials who are interested in the formation of a new transcontinental association practically admitted that the Canadian Pacific would remain out. The other lines discussed the practicability of organizing without the Canadian Pacific. If this is done there will be a savage fight against the Canadian road.

No Grace Allowed on Notes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The city banks are forwarding notices to their customers that under the new constitution no days of grace will be allowed on notes, drafts, bills of exchange, checks, acceptances, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness on or after January 1, 1895.

A Connecticut Hanging.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 18.—John Cronin was hanged at Weathersfield at 1.09 o'clock this morning for the murder of Albert J. Skinner on October 6, 1893. The execution was without sensational features.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What more can any one ask?

Is anything that isn't sold in this way likely to be "just as good?"

NEWFOUNDLAND'S CRISIS.

The Loose Way in Which the Banks Conducted Their Business.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 18.—The shareholders of the Commercial Bank, which suspended a few days ago, held a meeting yesterday to receive a report of the directors of the bank concerning the suspension. Only verbal reports were made by the directors and manager, from which it was gleaned that the liabilities of the bank will be largely decreased if the exchanges drawn by firms here as London agents, and which are now in the hands of the trustees, will be honored on maturing. Even with this ray of hope, it is said that the outlook for the bank resuming business is very promising.

On the basis of the directors' admissions at the meeting four of them are indebted to the Commercial Bank for large sums, one director in particular owing the bank nearly $500,000, whose only assets are 40,000 quintals of fish, worth about $150,000, and whose fishing premises, vessels and stock are worth hardly as much more. There was a decided unwillingness on the part of the bank's officials to give out information of any kind relative to the affairs of the suspended institution, but it was learned from a reliable source that a lot of valuable securities had been mortgaged to the London Westminster Bank, and that in the face of the provision in the bank's constitution against the overdrawing of accounts by depositors the manager of the bank permitted overdrafts and kept the matter from the knowledge of the directors.

It was also learned that one clerk by improperly manipulating his books overdrew his account, with the aid of some friends, to the extent of about $30,000, and that the aggregate of other overdrafts will amount to about $10,000 more. It is alleged that Pitts, one of the directors of the bank, received $40,000 in gold from the bank one week before its suspension, and that payment was made by a check drawn by him on an English bank in August last for a similar sum to accommodate the bank, which was negotiating exchanges there.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 18, 1894.

Wheat prices here are stationary, with moderate offerings. White is quoted at 57 to 58c west; spring at 50 to 60c on the Midland. The barley market is slow; No. 1 is quoted at 44c and No. 2 at 39 to 40c. Oats are quoted, Northern white at 28c, mixed at 27c outside.

The rush of Canada poultry and minor farm commodities to Buffalo for the Christmas trade has begun. Commission men report a good demand for dressed fowls, but fear an over supply.

There was another break in wheat in Chicago, the close being 1-2 to 5-8c lower. Corn closed 5-8c lower and oats 1-4c.

There is a very large decrease for the week of stocks of barley, principally at Buffalo, where withdrawals of early purchases by city maltsters and country houses has been very considerable. The visible supply is but 2,513,000 bushels, as against 3,582,000 last week and 2,731,000 on December 18 last year.

In the Buffalo barley market quite a little business is being done in small lots, but maltsters are taking only enough to keep going. Prices are firm for all grades.

At East Buffalo the sales of sheep and lambs aggregated 163 cars, all of which arrived early, but owing to the fact there were 230 cars of cattle and 175 cars of hogs, making a total of nearly 600 cars of live stock. Included in the offerings were 43 cars of Canada stock, nearly all of good quality. Canada lambs were strong and higher and fairly active; some of the best sold at $4.40, with the general range of choice at $4.25 to $4.35 and good at $4.15 to $4.20.

On Wall street the advance in prices for the better issues continued, and this is the one legitimate feature of importance in the market, but stocks remained quite lifeless. Afterwards the course of prices was generally upward, though there were numerous exceptions up to the close. A sudden advance in Reading stock, or rather active trading, had some influence in the market.

SPECTACLES AND EYE GLASSES

In Gold, Silver, Nickel, Aluminum and Steel.

Whether you wear glasses now or not, if you are conscious of any difficulty in seeing—no matter how slight it is—do not neglect it for another day. It will cost you nothing to talk the matter over with me, and have your eyes skillfully examined.

No effort will be made to sell you Glasses unless you need them.

If you have never worn glasses, I will tell you if you ought to begin; if you already wear them, I will tell you whether they are suited to your eyes. What I have learned with long practical experience, concerning the best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, you can have the benefit of. I will guarantee to fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

I always keep a full and complete stock of the best Optical Goods manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which I can furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye-Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Also, Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye-Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelain Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye-Glass Guards.

SUGGESTION.—A Pair of Gold Spectacles or Eye-Glasses makes a most acceptable Christmas Present.

A Business Making Book.

Every business man ought to read "Dollars and Sense," a money-making book by Nath'l C. Fowler, Jr., the leading expert on business and advertising; 18 chapters, illustrated with 100 plates, presenting every style of effective advertisements, with examples of reading notices, circulars and headlines. It tells the plain truth about advertising and exposes the ineffective methods. Any reader of the EXAMINER who will send check, postal note or postage stamps to the value of 25 cents to The Trade Company, Boston, Mass., will receive the book by prepaid mail. 1d

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

To Christmas Shoppers.

The season for holiday buying is at hand—the columns of the EVENING EXAMINER plainly tell the story, as do the shop windows. Moreover, the shop windows are seen only by those who happen to be attracted in passing, but our columns tell the story to the stay-at-homes as well as to those who go forth to seek. Look over the announcements of our patrons before you go to buy, they will prove interesting and their perusal will save you anxiety and labour. The business enterprise, specialised skill and exhaustive efforts of our best firms, and the garnerings of the artistic and industrial world are mirrored in our holiday advertisements. The testimony of the advertiser is that the public always read the EVENING EXAMINER ads.; and they are of more than usual interest at this season. Dealers who fail to invite the attention of the EVENING EXAMINER readers miss a golden opportunity.

Once in Your Life.

You will have to buy a good piano or organ. Once is enough if you get the best. J. W. Crosby, 342 Water street, is the man to sell you the right instrument at the right price, and now is the right time to buy. Cash or on easy installment plans to suit our pockets. These are the gifts of gifts at Xmas times.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before he end of the year.

More New Volumes.

The following new books have been added to the library of the Mechanic's Institute: Life in Corea, Carles; Where Three Empires Meet, Knight; English Men of Science, Galton; Natural History of Man, De Quaterfuges; Rachael Dene, Buchanan; The God in the Car, Hope; Malcho, Lawless; Science of Music, Taylor; The Indiscretion of the Duchess, Hope; Meeting Place of Geology and History, Dawson; His Vanished Star, Craddock.

Mrs. Mountford Returns.

We are sure all who have heard Mrs. Mountford's lectures here recently, will be delighted to know that this talented lady is to favour our town with another visit. For one night only, however, as she has concluded arrangements in some of the leading cities of the States, and is leaving Ontario early in January. She will appear in the opera house on Thursday, Dec. 27th, under the auspices of the George street church Ladies' Aid, and give her famous lecture "From Bethlehem to Calvary." The plan of the hall will be open on Wednesday, at Mr. A. H. Stratton's store.

A Cantata on the Tapis.

On Thursday evening next the scholars of the Baptist Sunday School will render Fannie Crosby and W. Howard Doane's famous cantata, "The Santa Claus Prize and Who Got It." The children have been practising for some time under the leadership of Mr. Geo. Matthews and Mrs. Brodigan, and are determined to do their best to do justice to this excellent musical composition. A free will offering will be taken for the purpose of replenishing the Sunday school library, but no entrance fee will be charged. All should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this pretty Christmas exercise. 2d

A Pair of Rare Birds.

Mr. Elcome has had submitted to his taxidermic treatment, two rather rare birds, shot in this vicinity. Mr. Montgomery was out shooting, near Bobcaygeon, the other day, and took a shot, more with the object of frightening than killing, at a splendid specimen of the golden eagle, (aquila Canadensis.) Though the distance was 400 yards, the noble bird was winged and captured. This variety of eagle is fierce and untameable. The other specimen is a turkey buzzard (cathartes aura) shot by Mr. Z. Tucker, Warsaw. The turkey buzzard belongs to the great scavenging family, the vultures, and feeds with a most keen relish on the most putrid carrion. Its flesh, bones, and even feathers, have a strong, heavy, noisome smell, and a merciful Providence has created it without olfactory organs, so that it may not be oppressed with the affliction of smelling itself.

A Handsome Show Window.

One of the handsomest show windows in the Midland section is that of Mr. C. LeGros, cigar and tobacco merchant, George street. The finest obtainable lines of meerchum and briar case pipes are on exhibition and placed in the most inviting style imaginable to attract the eye of the public. These goods have been marked down to rock bottom prices, as Mr. LeGros is anxious to make a big clearance before March, as in that month he meets the agent of the celebrated B. B. B. pipes in Montreal. In order to have these pipes sent out from London, England, the invoice must amount to $500 and in order to find room for the accomodation of so large an order the present stock is to be sacrificed. Nothing more appropriate can be given to a gentleman than one of these beautiful case pipes or a cigar or cigarette case. A large variety of tobacco pouches also kept on hand.

THE FAT STOCK SHOW.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The fat stock show for the Province of Ontario, opened in Guelph, on the 11th of September, and ended on the 13th. It has excelled any of the previous shows that have been held and there was a decided improvement in the sheep and swine departments, both in regard to quality and number, and it is quite clear that the Americans cannot go beyond this province in the display of fat stock. All of the different breeds were well represented, but the number of beef cattle was not up to that of former years, although the quality was in advance. The weather was very unfavourable, but notwithstanding, a large number of people were present.

The sheep and swine breeders also held their convention during the live stock show, and held valuable and interesting meetings. The Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, was present, and gave an address on "How to establish a herd," which was given in a very able and efficient manner. Prof. Saunders and Prof. Robertson, of the Dominion experimental farm, Ottawa, and D. Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, also gave enthusiastic addresses.

The lectures at the college were dropped on the second day of the show in order that the students might visit the show, take notes, and gain information on the various breeds of cattle, swine and sheep, and also attend the convention of the Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association.

The Live Stock Show should be patronized more by the farmers of Ontario than what it is, as I think it is one of the best educators they have with regards to their line of profession, and it is at these shows that we see the real typical animals of the various breeds of stock, and the farmer by visiting a show of this kind is able to compare to a good advantage and choose for himself what breed he would like to deal in.

There is no profession to-day that requires more study and thinking over than that of farming, and this can only be done by visiting shows of live stock and also by visiting the farms of stock raisers, and by reading the different agricultural papers issued in this province and the United States, and last but not least, by attending all the institute meetings held throuout the different counties from year to year.

I am sorry to say that the majority of farmers of this province are not alive to their own interests, but would rather farm in the old fashioned way, than to be bothered studying up the best and more improved methods of farming, and those by which they are likely to attain success. If the farmer does not avail himself of the opportunities now placed at his disposal he cannot expect to be successful.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space, I am

Yours truly,
G. V. PAYNE.

FAREWELL MISSIONARY MEETING.

A Young Brother About to Leave for the China Mission Fields.

"The Christian Alliance and Foreign Missionary Weekly" speaks as follows of a young missionary, who will deliver a farewell address in the Christian Alliance Hall here, to-morrow evening:

"Dr. Robert H. Glover, our dear young brother, who is about to sail for China, returned to New York for a few days, and gave two or three addresses before leaving his old friends. He spoke with his usual tenderness, unction and power. He addressed a very large audience Sunday afternoon in the American Theatre, and very many felt definitely called to missionary work.

Our dear brother has been much used of God in holding missionary meetings throughout the country. He will leave for China about the end of the year, and is spending a few days with his friends in Canada, and is holding a farewell missionary meeting in Toronto previous to sailing with his sister for the scene of their future labours. May God mightily use our brother and sister in the great work to which they have given their lives with such single-hearted devotion."

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

L. O. L. Dedication.—On Wednesday evening, Dec. 12th, in spite of the very unfavourable weather, the new L. O. L. Hall, at Downer's Corners, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, and a comparatively large number came through the rain to take part in the proceedings. The building of the handsome and commodious hall, and the credit of its successful opening is largely due to Mr. Thomas Holden and other members of the energetic committee in charge. Mr. Holden is an active Orangemen, and does all he can to further the interests of the Order.

Annual entertainment.—The members of Cold Springs Union Sunday school are busy preparing for their annual Christmas tree and entertainment, on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The price of admission will be 15 cents. A hearty invitation to be present is given to all. A good programme of vocal and instrumental music, readings, exercises, recitations, dialogues, etc., is being prepared.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—No less than seven tramps were sheltered at the police station last night.

—The Maccabees meet this evening to nominate officers for the ensuing term.

—There were no arrests yesterday and the police court was not in session to-day.

—Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England initiated three members into the order last night.

—The meeting of the Directors of the Central Exhibition has been postponed until January.

—Special meeting of Mount Hebron Encampment to-night. Full attendance—nomination of officers.

—The Kingston election trial, in which Dr. E. H. Smythe, M.P.P., is the respondent, was begun at Kingston on Monday.

—The regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held this evening as previously announced. An interesting discussion on Flying Machines is expected.

—The Catholic Literary Association will hold an interesting debate on Thursday evening next on the question as to whether the franchise should be extended to women or not. The debate will be supplemented by a first class programme of vocal and instrumental music.

—A G. T. R. box car, No. 15804, loaded with peas, while being shunted into the McBain siding at the G.T.R. station this morning, knocked out the bunting post and almost crossed the street. The car was loaded with its usual capacity and it will take some time to replace it on the rails.

—Extra seating accommodation has been placed in St. John's Sunday school, as sufficient tickets for the charity concert tonight have already been sold to fill the hall unless special arrangements were made. The novelty of some of the features in the programme has made the sale of tickets an easy work.

—Instead of the usual calender, Messrs. Foot & McWhinnie, boot and shoe dealers, are presenting their customers this year with a very chaste pair of nickel-plated button hooks—a long and a short one—the pair being prettily packed away in a satin-lined box, with the compliments of the firm written on top.

—The 'Prentice Boys ball to night promises to be a huge success. The members have shown great artistic ability in the manner in which they have decorated the hall, under the supervision of Mr. Robert Burley. Prominent among the decorations is a piece of sail from the Dartmouth, the ship which broke the boom and relieved the beleagured city on the 15th Dec. 1688, which has been handed down as a heirloom in Mr. Burley's family.

A PLEASANT EVENING WITH ST. JOHN'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

A Delightful Entertainment Followed by Refreshments — Church Decoration.

The Young People's Society of St. John's church held a meeting last night which was characterized by many pleasant features. The attendance was large, and a number of names were added to the membership roll.

It was decided that the Society undertake to bear the expense of decorating the body of the church, and that the decorations be placed in position by members of the Society, and any others willing to help, on Monday next. The work of preparing the decorations will begin in the school house to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the school house will be opened every afternoon and evening until the work is completed.

A short but excellent programme was presented. Miss Vink opened with a brilliant instrumental, after which Mr. Ames gave a most droll reading from some of Lord Dundreary's sayings. A vocal solo entitled "Playfellows," was very sweetly rendered by Miss Maud Sproule, and Mr. Callander recited a humorous piece with good effect. Mr. Ballard's swinging of illuminated balls was a weird performance, and was greatly enjoyed.

The serving of refreshments, after an intermission, was an enjoyable feature, and those who so kindly provided them were the recipients of a vote of thanks.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES AND CHRISTMAS TREAT.

Charlotte Street Church Sunday School Scholars Enjoy Themselves.

The Sunday School scholars of the Charlottee street Methodist church had indeed a glorious time of it last night. Their Christmas treat and anniversary celebration was continued, and consisted in a most appetising supper followed by an entertainment in the church.

There were over 300 children who sat down at the table so plentously loaded with good things and for almost an hour the shrill laughter of the merry little ones echoed and re-echoed through the Sunday school room. The enjoyment was intense, and the exquisite pleasure which the youngsters evinced amply repaid those who had arranged the supper. When all had been satisfied, an adjournment was made to the church in which platforms for the children had been erected on either side of the pulpit. The organ loft was built over and the orchestra occupied a position on a raised dias in the centre. The church was crowded to the doors, and the following most excellent programme was rendered during the course of the evening after the pastor, Rev. J. J. Rae had opened with devotional exercises :

Chorus, "The Banner of the Cross"
Instrumental Duet. Bertha Kennedy and Maud Elliott
Vocal solo, 'The funniest thing is a Frog" ..... Walter Brooks
Chorus by the school, "Temperance Bells"
Selection ..... Harmony Club
Recitation, "Little Star" ..... Lillie Cox
Selection ..... Lola Ostrom
Recitation, "Pop," ..... May Redmond
Chorus, "The King is Coming"
Instrumental duet ..... Pearl and Geo. Carton
"The Old Woman in the Shoe," ..... Infant Class
Recitation ..... Arthur Fuller
Lecture ..... Johnny Rose
Chorus, "Come to Bethlehem"
Selection ..... Harmony Club
Dialogue, "Littlewood Gossip"
Recitation, "A Knockout Blow" ..... Johnny Rose
Vocal duet, "Myrtle and Bertha Emmerson
Recitation, "Do Your Best" ..... Florence James
Chorus by the School, "The Angel's Song"
Instrumental duet. Flora and W. Brown.
Recitation. "One Good Turn Deserves Another," ..... Herbert Kent
Recitation ..... Florence Bastard
Chorus, "What the Glad Bells Say"

The choruses were rendered by the children in most excellent harmony.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The annual financial statement of the town's affairs was presented to the council on Monday night, and on the face of it it presents a rather roseate appearance. But though one would fain rejoice at this surface indication of prosperity, yet the statement, upon a little examination, seems more remarkable for what is omitted than for what it contains.

Assuming the figures of the statement to be correct, it is to be noted that there are several matters which should properly be included in such a statement which are not dealt with, and to which the attention of the ratepayers is directed.

The assessment upon which the rate for these several years was levied was :

1891	$4,135,905
1892	4,240 120
1893	4,210,020
1894	4,311,365

As a result, the rates levied in these years, including the arrears collected the following year, were :

1891	$65,972 59
1892	66,493 60
1893	71,340 31
1894 ($14,805 unpaid)	74,634 67

This indicates that the increase in the amount of taxes paid is, allowing $3,000 for loss on collection, $5,662.08, a rapid rise of taxation that cannot be of the most satisfactory nature to the taxpayers, and if the next four years show the same advance, the ratepayers will have little cause for self-congratulation.

It appears that the Council of this year had $3,294.36 to expend over the rate of the previous year; the Nicholls' Estate trustees, Messrs. Hall and McGill, relieved the town of $2,000, and but for this relief, this amount would have been added to the rate. Thus a total relief of $5,294.36 was available to assist in contributing to an apparent surplus of $800.

It seems also that the Finance Committee has omitted to take into account in their statement that there is a judgment against the town (in the Mason case) of $750, which with the costs, makes an item of about $2,000 to be provided for as a probable liability. It is true the town has appealed against this judgment, but it may be easily possible that another bill of costs may be added to another adverse decision. Then again, the expenses in connection with the sewer arbitration have to be considered. Even the most sanguine of the Finance Committee cannot but admit that the town's liability in respect of the arbitration will not be much, if anything, less than $1000. And it does not seem that the cost of the arbitration can properly be met out of the $21,000, though it may be held that the arbitration is properly incidental to sewerage construction. In addition the debenture debt has been increased some $15,000 during the year, not counting the $21,000 of sewerage debentures—the sum of $10,000 being applied to past deficits, and $5,000 for school purposes. Thus the debenture debt of the town has been increased $36,000 during the year 1894. Without saying that that these increases are extravagant or unnecessary it seems that there is little to be gained by leading the ratepayers to take too sanguine a view of our financial position. We have for the present dealt with only one phase of the deductions that the financial statement seems to warrant, and there appears to be some explanation in order. If the town had not got the benefit of $2,000 from the generosity of the Nicholls estate trustees, and if the expenses of the Mason case and the sewer arbitration did not form a substantial liability of some $3,000 there might be some ground for saying that there was a surplus of $800.

On the other hand the council, by the reduction of the number of licenses, lessened the revenue as compared with last year by $1,000, and in all fairness this should be allowed, in offset, as a deference to public opinion.

These matters have been suggested as fairly deducible from the facts available and the EXAMINER and the ratepayers will be only too glad to learn that there is an explanation that will, in spite of the items suggested, show beyond a doubt that there is in the present year's operations, a surplus in the town treasury, independent of all claims for which the town is liable.

On the whole the estimated revenue and liabilities should afford a little more advantageous showing for the town at the close of the year. Excluding from the question the Mason case liability, the generosity of the Nicholls estate trustees has permitted the town authorities to make a favourable financial showing. But next year's council will have a difficult task to make even as good an exhibit, when the matters now in dispute are brought to a settlement.

THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT CRITICISED.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR, — Very pleased to hear that at last our very local government had kept their expenditure within their income. I turned to the published reports of the Council proceedings. Councillor Cahill stated that this brave Council had shouldered a deficit of last year, and yet came out several thousands ahead. I looked for the applause which this neat result should have elicited, but there was an ominous silence, and at once I suspected that this was one of the old Councillor's little jokes, as a school boy's inspection of the figures, would at a glance show. Here it is in short :

Total Expenditure for the year	$74,303 09
Total taxes on the roll, less estimated loss	72,695 55
Deficiency	$ 1,609 54

But this is not the worst of it. The candid Councillor shows :

LIABILITIES.

Due County under award	$2,025 00
Commissioners, for interest and sinking fund on Town Debentures	7,456 39
Commissioners, for interest and sinking fund School Debentures	3,448 09
Accounts presented, not paid	1,061 41
Accounts and salaries due 31st Dec.	1,344 77
Total liabilities for year not yet paid...	$21,334 07

Of this sum a very large proportion should have been provided for by this year's taxes. It is the old story,—another big deficit, and worse to follow, for this horrid "Microbe" business and the other unnecessary litigation on the town's hands will have to be paid for, and might at once be put in the liabilities.

Now, Mr. Editor, if our council cannot conduct our town business so as to keep out of debt, they might at least have the decency not to insult the intelligence of our school boys by such transparently manipulated financial statements.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

We are to have a wedding in Monaghan on Wednesday next and also one on Christmas day.

The young man from town who sneaked into the band concert without paying either for himself or the young lady who was with him, had better pay up and save undesirable publicity.

A Christmas tree entertainment will be held at Springville on Friday, evening, Dec. 21st, under the auspices of the junior Christian Endeavour Society of that village. A choice programme will be given to which the following talent will contribute : Miss Annie Fawcett, soprano, and Mr. H. D. Williamson, cornet soloist. The Rev. Mr. Rae will be present and give an interesting address. Everybody welcome.

North Monaghan R. T. of T., received a friendly visit from Springville Council on Thursday evening last, when a very enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. F. W. Wilson, S.C., of Springville, gave a very profitable address for the good of the order. The following programme was also presented :

Chorus ..... Members of Springville Council
Recitation ..... Mr Albert Hunter
Song ..... Bro Jas Fowler
Reading ..... Bro Fred Galloway
Trio ..... Bros Geo McBain, F Wilson and J Coulter
Reading ..... Bro R Robertson
Chorus ..... Springville Council
Vocal Solo ..... Sis Edith Tully

North Monaghan Council accepted an invitation to visit Springville Council in the near future.

FATHER'S CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

They Were Useful to the Family, and He Saw Little of Them.

We were talking about Christmas presents, the girls and mother and I when father came in. Then we changed the subject just a little bit, because it was father's presents we were discussing. Father sat down by the stove and rubbed his hands—he had just been out at the barn—and a queer expression slowly settled upon his features.

"Say, mother, and Ned and girls," he said, "I don't want any of you to get me any presents. 'Tain't no use, you know."

"Why, father," said Lena in an aggrieved voice, "we always get you useful presents, don't we? I don't myself believe in things that are not useful."

Father's eyes twinkled. "Yes," he said, "but I sometimes think they are a little too useful, you know."

Nell shrugged her shoulders impatiently, but mother said: "Let father have his little joke. What is it this time, father?"

The old gentleman, having warmed his hands, settled himself back comfortably in his big chair, and his eyes twinkled more than ever.

"Well, let's see," he went on in a ruminating manner. "Do you remember the dozen hemstitched han'kerchiefs that you gave me last Christmas, Leny? I guess I used one on 'em just once. Some way or other," with a genial, impartial glance at the company, "Leny and Nell have been usin of 'em, and I've been usin of Leny and Nell's old torn ones. He, he! I don't know jest how 'twas, but it's a fact. Then, Ned, do you remember the compass you got me for a birthday present last June? It was a nice little compass, and I guess a feller about your size thought so, too, for he's been usin of it ever sence. Then, let's see, there was the silk han'kerchief that mother give me at birthday, and I put it away choicelike, and the fust thing I knew Leny was a-wearin of it inside her jacket. Yes, my presents are all useful, a leetle bit too useful, mebbe. See the point, don't you?"

Father's next presents had his name written on each of them, and none of us ever again thoughtlessly used the dear old man's things.—American Agriculturist.

A Legend of the Mistletoe.

Shakespeare certainly knew of the mistletoe legends, for he speaks emphatically of "baleful mistletoe," as do other writers of his day. Among the many legends told this has no tragic feature. A prince is the hero, and he got separated from his friends while hunting. He wandered about for a long period and finally discovered a humble cottage. Here he took shelter for a time and fell in love with the occupant's lovely daughter. His identity was not suspected, and owing to his shabby appearance resulting from his long wandering he was regarded as an undesirable suitor and was summarily ejected. Broken hearted, he again resumed his apparently endless journey and at night slept under an oak tree. There a good fairy told him that a twig of mistletoe would reconcile the irate parent to the match, but it must be gathered from a hollow oak tree growing by the side of a stream opposite a peculiarly dwarfed weeping willow.

In the morning he was preparing to search for the tree, but found, to his delight, that it was evidently the one he had been sleeping under. Climbing to the topmost branches, he found the mistletoe, tore it off and descended the tree in triumph. He found the cottage without difficulty, presented his peace offering and was promptly given the young lady, with whom he returned to the palace, where he lived the remainder of his days in the usual legendary condition of bliss. The story is told in other ways, but the power of the mistletoe is enlarged upon, and the ending is always happy.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sickness, indigestion and biliousness. 25c.

A CHRISTMAS STOCKING.

"Dear Santa Claus," wrote little Will,
In letters truly shocking,
"I've been a good boy,
So please fill a-heapin this stockin.
I want a drum to make pa sick
And drive my mamma crazy.
I want a doggie I can kick,
So he will not get lazy.
I want a powder gun to shoot
Right at my sister Annie,
And a big trumpet I can toot
Just awful loud at granny.
I want a druffle big false face
To scare in fits our baby.
I want a pony I can race
Round the parlor maybe.
I want a little hatchet, too,
So I can do some choppin
Upon our grand piano new
When mamma goes a-sheppin.
I want a nice hard rubber ball
To smash all into flinders
The great big mirror in the hall
And lots and lots of winders.
And candy that'll make me sick
So ma all night will hold me,
And make pa get the doctor quick
And never try to scold me.
And, Santa Claus, if papa says
I am naughty, it's a story.
Just say if he whips me I'll Die and go to kingdom glory."

A Bit of Pathos at Christmastide.

There is a little girl of 6 who has proved herself one of the ministering children not in name only. A few weeks ago the baby of the family died. The children as well as the mother had looked forward to hanging up the baby's stocking at Christmas with a great deal of pleasure. But the loss of the baby brought such anguish to the mother that she decided to have no Christmas celebration of any kind. Last Sunday evening, as the family sat in partial darkness, recounting their loss with all its sad circumstances, a tender little voice pierced the gloom:

"Mamma, isn't there any Christmas in heaven?"

"Yes, darling," answered the weeping mother. "It is always Christmas there."

"Then why don't you keep it here?" persisted the little girl. "Jus' make b'lieve baby isn't dead, an hang up her little stockin, mamma, an le's all have Christmas jus' the same an be happy, like she is."

The child's wisdom prevailed against the unreasoning sorrow of the mother, and the little ones are happy and busy filling the stocking of the baby who will keep Christmas in heaven.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

THE GLADSTONE BAG.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY DENZIL VANE.

In the solitude of my cell I meditated on the most advisable course of action I could adopt under the circumstances. I asked for and obtained writing materials and wrote several letters—one to Annie at Tighnobruaich. She was an only daughter and motherless, so to her as my hostess that should have been was addressed an apology for my non-appearance. The second letter was to Mr. Macpherson, Annie's father, an old friend of my father's. To him I wrote a detailed account of my misadventure and begged him to recommend me a respectable solicitor in Glasgow. A third letter was to a "pal" of mine at the Inner Temple, whom I entreated to come and identify me with as little delay as possible.

That done, I felt easier in my mind, and when night came, in spite of the discomfort of my surroundings, I was able to snatch a few hours' sleep.

My appearance at the police court next morning was the next incident in my tale of woe. There had been no answer to either of the letters I had sent to Tighnabruaich, and to my disgust my story did not obtain the credence in court I had counted on. I was remanded for a week that further inquiries might be made.

Sullen and dispirited, I returned to my cell. Late that evening Mr. Macpherson and a friend of his, one Macgowan, a big limbed Scotchman, practicing as a solicitor in Glasgow, appeared on the scene. To them I recounted my adventure. Mr. Macpherson seemed to be immensely tickled thereat and laughed until the tears came into his eyes at the sight I presented dressed in the burglar's frieze coat. If he had not been Annie's father, I should have expressed the indignation I felt. But I put a check on myself and reminded him that my situation for the coming week would be somewhat unpleasant.

"Tut, my lad! Macgowan and I will see to that," he replied. "I'll prove that you are Angus Graham, and you shall bring an action for damages against Campbell if you like. As for the jewels, mark my words if they don't win you a friend worth having."

"What do you mean?" I asked sharply.

"Why, don't you know who lives at Northside Hall, Carlisle?"

I muttered a surly negative.

"Why, old Lady Mereswell, my late wife's aunt and Annie's godmother. She's wealthy, she's eccentric, and she's as fond of her jewels as she is of her life. Mark my words if she doesn't indemnify you for the disagreeable Christmas you have spent and reward you for saving her jewels. I shall write to her by tonight's post and tell her what you told me."

When I did obtain my liberty and at last reached Tighnabruaich, I was able to think philosophically of my misadventure. My unknown double, James Pennequicke, got safely to America. Presumably he took my Gladstone bag with him. I own I should have liked to see his face when he opened it.

As for the jewels, I see them whenever my wife goes to a big reception or ball. For six months later old Lady Mereswell departed this life, and she bequeathed her jewels to Annie and a legacy of $20,000 to me "as a mark of her sincere gratitude."

NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE.

Two Small Boys Compare Notes on Sunday School Christmas Trees.

Two small boys were standing in a doorway with their hands in their pockets as the reporter waited for a car and overheard them talking as follows:

"Say, Jimmy, I got trun down pretty hard—nothink but a little red box of bum candy and a pioter book as ain't fit fur me little sister to cut dolls out er. Dat's all I got fur six weeks' a-hustlin tru me brekfus every Sunday mornin and walkin six blocks to dat Sunday skule at Forty-seventh street and den hurryin tru me dinner to get to t'other one up by Sixtieth. T'ings ain't wot dey wus. I used ter get"—

"Is dat all yer got?" broke in the other, with a chuckle. "I went to t'ree, and ivry one uv 'em gimme a big box o' good gumdrops and sich things and a book. Dat's t'ree books and t'ree boxes, and I only ben to one o' them skules four weeks, and dat skule done the best—gimme a book all about fightin, wid red covers."

"Jis' my luck. Where did you get 'em?"

"Over to dat place nex' Brady's on 'Leventh avenoo in de mornin and clear down ter Thirty-fif' street in de afternoon, and I had ter hunt, I kin tell yer, fur one as was open evenin's, but a feller in skule tole o' one where they does things slick up in de Seventies, and I tride it fur four weeks, and deyse de ones gimme de book about fightin."

"Let's you and me works pards nex' year, eh? We kin work t'ree or four each and divvy."

"I guess if de ting's worked right dere's a good deal in it. I"—

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
THREE RUNNING SORES
PHYSICIANS FAILED
BUT B.B.B. CURED
DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the result. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

UNENDURABLE ITCHING
Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.
GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I tried other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Calicura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

ONE CHRISTMAS EVE.

Disguised as a Beggar, the Christ Child Seeks Shelter—A German Legend.

Here is a Christmas story that has been told the little children in Germany for many hundreds of years:

'Twas the night before Christmas. A little child was wandering all alone through the streets of a great city. People were hurrying hither and thither, and express wagons were being rattled through the streets. Even the snowflakes seemed happy with the expectation of the coming Christmas morning.

But the little child seemed to have no home and wandered on from street to street. No one noticed him except perhaps Jack Frost, who bit his bare toes and made his fingers tingle. The north wind, too, pierced his ragged garments and made him shiver with cold. Home after home he passed, looking with longing eyes through the windows in upon the happy children who were trimming Christmas trees and hanging stockings for old Santa Claus to fill.

Cold and alone the little wanderer softly tipped his way up to a beautiful window through which he could see a tree loaded with gifts and glittering with lights. He tapped on the glass, but a little girl coming to the window frowned and shook her head, saying: "Go away. We are too busy to take care of you now."

Back into the dark street he went. Coming to another happy home, where he heard the song and laughter of merry children, he climbed up the broad steps and gently tapped on the door. It was opened by a tall footman in white hat and gloves. He looked at the child then sadly shook his head and said: "Go down off the steps. There is no room for such as you here."

Again and again the little child rapped softly at door or window pane. At each place he was refused admission. Later grew the night and colder blew the wind. Farther and farther the little one wandered. The street was lengthy, when suddenly there shone ahead of him a single ray of bright light. He hurried on, saying, "I will go where the little light beckons me."

He soon reached the end of the street and went straight up to the window from which the light was streaming. It was a poor, little, low house. What do you suppose the light came from? A tallow candle. Looking in, the little one saw standing upon a small wooden table a branch of a Christmas tree. Near the fire sat a lonely faced mother, with a baby on her knee and an older child beside her. She was telling them a Christmas story.

The little wanderer crept closer and closer to the window pane. So sweet seemed the mother and so loving the children that he took courage and tapped gently, very gently, on the door. The mother stopped talking; the little children looked up. "What was that, mother?" asked the little girl. "I think it was some one at the door. Run quickly, dear, for it is too cold a night to keep any one waiting in the storm."

The child ran to the door and threw it wide open. The mother saw the little stranger, cold and shivering, clothed in rags, and his little feet almost bare. "Oh, you poor, dear child! Come in quickly and get warm. Have you no home? No Christmas to celebrate?"

The mother put her arms around the strange child and drew him close to her. She sat beside the fire with the little one on her knee, and her own two little ones warmed his half frozen hands and, bending low over his head, kissed the little wanderer's brow. They gave him the bowl of bread and milk that had been put away for their own breakfast, and when he had eaten it the little girl said, "Now let us light the Christmas tree and share our presents with this little child."

So busy were they lighting the tree and getting the presents ready that they did not notice that the room had filled with a strange and beautiful light.

They turned and looked at the spot where the little wanderer was. His ragged clothes had changed to garments white and beautiful. His tangled curls seemed like a halo of golden light, and his face shone with a light that they could scarcely look upon.

The little room seemed to grow larger, the roof of the low house to expand and rise until it reached the sky.

With a sweet smile the child looked upon them for a moment and then slowly rose and floated through the air, higher even than the clouds themselves, until he appeared like a shining star in the sky and at last disappeared from sight.

The wondering children turned and whispered to the mother, "Oh, mother, it was the Christ child!" And the mother said in a low tone, "Yes, my children."—Exchange.

What Christ Taught.

Before Christ came men did not know God. They did not understand his fatherhood and affection. They had all along supposed that whoever would enjoy God's favor must purchase it in some way, and so before the coming of Christ men crouched and trembled before God as though he were an almighty tyrant and they worshiped before him with sacrifices of slavish fear. But the coming of Christ brought a new element into human faith. He taught not the Jew alone, but he taught all men everywhere that God loves them; that he loves them as sinners; that he loves them with a love that is more devoted and tender than any mother bears her child; that he is not only ready to forgive them all that is past of transgression and sin, but to make them heirs of a glorious and eternal inheritance; that all God asks of man is love.—Christian Advocate.

Carrying the Christmas Joy to Others.

GOUGH BROS.'
CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL OF LOW PRICES.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

Our Clothing Trolley Continues to Run on the Bargain Wire. A smaller amount of money than ever before is enough to make every buyer more comfortable, and not a whit lost in quality or style. Whatever the price, the Clothing must be stylish, or we have no use for it.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

THE PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY NOW IN SESSION.

The Scheme of Church Socials, Soirees and Teas for the Purpose of Raising Funds Generally Condemned.

The Peterborough Presbytery is now in session in St. Paul's church with the following members present,—Rev. Mr. Cleland, Port Hope; Rev. Mr. Andrews, Keene; Rev. Mr. Bennett, Apsley; Rev. Mr. Duncan, Colborne; Rev. Jas. Sutherland, Warkworth; Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. Mr. White and Rev. A. McWilliams, Peterborough; Rev. Jas. Ross, Havelock; Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings; Rev. R. Hyde, Warsaw; Rev. J. R. Gilchrist, Baltimore; Rev. C. S. Lord, Grafton; Rev. Marcus Scott, Campbellford; Rev. D. P. Oswald, Janetville; Rev. Mr. Cattanach, Centreville; Rev. Dr. McClelland, Havelock; Rev. Mr. Laird, Port Hope; Rev. Mr. Johnston, Millbrook; Rev. Mr. Reeves, Lakefield; and Messrs. A. J. Johnston, Peterborough; G. Luff, Hastings; Mr. Roxborough, Norwood; Robt. Graham, Lakefield; Wm. Moncrief, Centreville; D. Jamieson, Bethany; Jos. H. Taylor, Keene; and J. R. McCullough, Bethesda.

The chair was occupied by Moderator Cattanach, of Centreville.

The resignation of Rev. Mr. Ross, of Bethesda, was considered, and a deputation appointed to visit the congregation to ascertain if the existing difficulties could not be remedied.

Addresses on Home and Foreign Mission work were delivered respectively by Rev. Mr. Finlay and Rev. J. Fraser Campbell.

The committee on the re-construction of stations reported that it could do nothing and it was dissolved.

The churches at Springville and Bethany will be allowed to call a minister as soon as the congregations are prepared.

Members of the Presbytery were appointed to visit the following charges in order to ascertain if the congregations would not agree to try and raise larger amounts towards paying the stipend of their pastors: Rev. Dr. Torrance, to Springville; Rev. Mr. Scott, to Havelock; Rev. Dr. McClelland to Warsaw; Rev. Mr. Hyde, to Bobcaygeon; Rev. Mr. MacWilliams to Janetville and Ballyduff.

The report of the Committee on the State of Religion was received, and the Chairman of the Committee, as well as a number of others, spoke strongly against the custom of holding socials, soirees and teas for the purpose of raising funds. Direct voluntary contributions were more in accord with Scriptural teachings, he thought. Some of the members even went so far as to say that the former method of raising money was a disgrace to the church, and would not receive the blessing of the Almighty.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held on the third Tuesday in March next in the Mill street church, Port Hope.

The question of raising money for the Augmentation Fund was discussed at considerable length, several congregations having refused to contribute towards it. It was decided that the different ministers hereafter be more fully apprised of the scheme whereby the different allocations had been made, when the congregation could be informed of the exact basis of the division.

The report of the Committee on Systematic Beneficience was submitted by Dr. Gilchrist, of Baltimore, who spoke to the report as did Rev. J. Fraser Campbell, and also Dr. Smith, of Port Hope.

The Presbytery then adjourned for luncheon, to reassemble at two o'clock.

MONTREAL'S ANGRY UNEMPLOYED.

They Visit the City Hall in Thousands and Demand Work.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—Montreal's city hall witnessed one of the most remarkable scenes in the annals of the city yesterday. Nearly a thousand of unemployed workingmen marched to the city hall and invaded the building to demand work. A few days ago a city paper announced that the work on a new east end railway station would be commenced yesterday and as a result nearly three thousand unemployed men gathered on the scene only to find that the report was a fake and there was no work for them. When they saw this their indignation was great and a large portion of them formed in procession and marched to the city hall where they demanded to see the Mayor and Ald. Prefontaine, chairman of the Roads Committee. Both these officials addressed the crowd and promised that work would be provided as soon as possible. The crowd was a very angry one and several of the leaders declared that if they were not provided with bread they would take it by force. The crowd dispersed in disorder.

WILL BE DELAYED A DAY.

The Remains of the Premier Will Leave Portsmouth To-morrow.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The arrangements for the removal of the body of Sir John Thompson to Portsmouth are not yet complete, the officials of the Canadian office being desirous of first ascertaining the exact time of the arrival and sailing of the cruiser Blenheim. It is not expected that the body will be removed before to-morrow. There will be very few formalities in connection with the transportation of the body to Portsmouth. Applications for permission to accompany the remains to Portsmouth have been so numerous that it has been deemed necessary to provide a special train from Waterloo station for the accommodation of the applicants.

Miss Thompson, daughter of the dead Premier, has been ill since the funeral services over the body; she was much broken down, but is slightly better to-day.

FELL FROM A SCAFFOLD.

A Toronto Workman Killed While at Work in Elizabeth, N. J.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 18.—While a number of carpenters were at work on a new fertilizer factory, the scaffold on which they were standing collapsed and the men were precipitated to the ground, a distance of 45 feet. John Moriarity, aged 33 years, of Toronto, Canada, was so badly injured that he died a few hours after. Two others, Frank Morgan of Newark and Morris Witick of this place were removed to the hospital in an unconscious condition. When Witick regained consciousness he declared that the scaffold was too weak to bear the number of men who had to work on it.

For the Deepening of Canals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Vilas gave notice of an amendment to the sundry civil bill providing for the appointment by the President of a commission of three persons to act with any similar committee appointed by Great Britain or the Dominion of Canada, who shall investigate and report upon the feasibility of deepening such canals as would enable vessels engaged in ocean commerce to pass to and from between great lakes and the Atlantic ocean.

Seeley Pleads Guilty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Samual C. Seeley, the defaulting bookkeeper of the National Shoe and Leather Bank, was brought before Judge Benedict in the United States District Court shortly before noon yesterday. He pleaded guilty to the charge of making false entries in bank books and abstracting funds, and was remanded until Friday for sentence.

A Former Millionaire Dies Penniless.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Count Jos. De Jusine, who was once called the Napoleon of cigarette manufacturers, is now dying at his home in this city. Count De Susine, who is now 68 years old, was the founder of the world-renowned cigarette factory, "La Honrades," where he manufactured six millions of cigarettes a day and gave employment to over 5,000 persons. He introduced in Havana the first street car, electric light, lithographic machinery, steam fire engine, and many other modern inventions. Although dying almost penniless, he was once worth $10,000,000.

Our Cattle Shut Out of Belgium.

ANTWERP, Dec. 18.—In consequence of pleuro-pneumonia having been detected in cattle landed at this port from Canada on December 6, the importation of cattle from Canada into Belgium has been prohibited. Transit through Belgium will be allowed in sealed cars only of animals shipped from Canada prior to December 10. Cattle landed between December 6 and 9 are subject to forty-five days quarantine.

Fatal Accident at Seaforth.

SEAFORTH, Ont., Dec. 18.—A fatal accident occurred near here last evening in which Mr. Wm. J. Chesney was instantly killed. He was in the act of cleaning his shotgun, which was loaded, when it accidentally discharged, blowing the whole side of his head off.

SAMPSON

The Yuletide Log.

In the Black mountains at the present day, the custom of bearing home the yule log is still carefully observed in all its ancient detail. The house father fells the chosen trees; then he utters a prayer and carefully lifts up his log and bears it home on his shoulder. His sons follow his example, each bearing a log for himself. The father then leans his log up against the house, being very careful that the freshly cut end is uppermost; the lesser logs of the other members surround it, and this is the Glavni Badnjak. As the house father places each log he says, "Veseli badnji dan," or "A merry log day."

The fire thus kindled was not allowed to go out until the following year, or great evil would befall the household. The fagots of the old fire lighted the new logs, and then were carefully extinguished and stored away among the household treasures. In the highlands of Scotland to this day it is considered a great misfortune if the fire be allowed to go out, and often have I heard it said, "Yae nae luck, ye've lost oot the fier."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Twelfth Night In Scotland.

And at last all winds up with Twelfth Night itself, and "alms" and spicy cake are given in the daytime to all the children that come for them singing:

Hogmany, trollolay,
Give us your white bread and none of your gray.

And in the evening there are games; gay games of snap dragon, where raisins are snatched from the flames of burning brandy, and impromptu charades, and there shall be conjuring and fortune telling and riddles, and perhaps a little play will be given and stately historical tableaux, and in their pictorial senses break and eat the Twelfth Night cake. All the little children come in, bearing a lighted taper to be stuck in the top of it. The hidden ring is found with much sport, and all drink the wassail bowl, no longer compounded of hot wines and spices, but freshly foaming cider taken through straws or the stems of new clay pipes. And then the whole company say good night, all going our separate ways, singing:

Yule's come and Yule's gone,
An we has feasted weel.
Sae Jock maun to his flail agin,
An Jenny to her wheel.

MR. GALLINGER'S RESOLUTION

The Canadian People Invited to Cast in Their Lot With "Their Own Continent" and be Happy—The Benefits to Accrue from Such Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—In the Senate yesterday a resolution in favor of the political union of Canada and the United States was offered by Mr. Gallinger (R., N. H.) and referred to the committee on foreign relations with the suggestion that this committee shall grant hearings on the subject.

The following is the full text of the resolution introduced by Senator Gallinger:

"Whereas we believe that the political union of the great English speaking communities who now occupy and control North America, will deliver the continent from danger of war and securely dedicate it to peaceful industry and progress, and lessen the per capita cost of the government and defence, insure the rapid development of its boundless natural resources, enlarge its domestic and foreign commerce, unite all interests in creating a systematic development of its means of internal communication with the seaboard by rail and water east and west, protect and preserve its wealth, resources, privileges and opportunities as the undisputed heritage of old, immensely add to its influence, prestige and power, promote, extend and perpetuate government by the people, and remove for ever the causes most likely to seriously disturb cordial relations and kindly intercourse with the Motherland,

"Therefore be it resolved that we invite the Canadian people to cast in their lot with their own continent and assure them that they shall have all the continent can give them. We will respect their freedom of action and welcome it when they desire it into an equal and honorable nation."

HOLMES' OPINION OF BURNS.

He Calls His Companion a Gigantic Bundle of Conceit.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 19.—David Holmes, M.P., who was appointed with John Burns to attend the Federation of Labor convention, is still in Denver. He appears greatly disgusted with John Burns, and for the remainder of his stay in America will follow a different path. What he thinks of Burns and his conduct he told a reporter in the following words:

"There never has come to America from England such a gigantic bundle of conceit as John Burns. He has been insulting in his public as well as his private utterances, and I want the Americans to understand that I do not endorse his sentiments. John Burns was not commissioned to come here to pick out all the evils he could find in public and private life. It has all been a bit of advertising for John Burns. I wear a silver medal which was given me since I came to Denver. You know why it was they did not give Burns one, I think."

DEBS WILL GO TO JAIL.

He and His Friends Change Their Minds About Fighting the Case.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—President Debs and his associates at a conference held this morning decided to go to jail and serve the terms imposed upon them by Judge Woods without making any effort to secure a habeas corpus or an appeal.

Debs gave as his reason for this sudden change of front that he and the other directors have no confidence in the courts and believe they would not get a fair show there. "We thought it was better," he said, "to serve out the terms at once. We will get through all the quicker, and we think we would certainly have to serve in any case."

All the prisoners will go to the Cook county jail.

Another conference was held at which it was decided to push the case to its legal termination although the defendants have no hope of victory. In the meantime Monday being the expiration of the stay of execution granted by Judge Woods they will go to jail.

Saved by Anti-Toxine.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 19.—The first practical tests of the benefits of anti-toxine as a cure for diphtheria was made here yesterday and proved a success. The subject upon which the experiment was made was the three-year-old child of Floyd Schock. The child's condition was such that tracheotomy had been decided upon as a last resort. The parents, however, consented to the experiment of anti-toxine, and its effect was instantly apparent. The child breathed easier, and in twelve hours all diphtheria symptoms had passed away.

Dr. McGlynn Recants His Doctrines.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The Times says that the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn has made a complete recantation. He is no longer an apostle of the doctrines for preaching which he brought on himself the ban of excommunication from the Roman Catholic church.

CANADA CROSS THE SEA

Important Colonial Topics Which Interest Imperial Circles.

JERSEY'S COLONIAL REPORT

His Conclusions Favorably Received by the Press—Provincial Exhibits at the Imperial Institute—Emigration—The Canadian Potato in Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The recent death of Sir John Thompson, the Dominion Premier, has been the principal topic of Canadian interest here during the past week, and in fact for the time being, was the chief subject of public conversation, the circumstances under which the sad event took place being such as to strike a chord in the sympathies of almost everyone. Struck down, as he was, by the hand of death immediately after receiving the highest honor that can be conferred upon a Colonist, and while a guest of Her Majesty at Windsor Castle, but few hearts could fail to be touched by the suddenness and the sadness of the end of one whose high qualities as a man and as a statesman had long been recognised here. Hardly a single newspaper, metropolitan or provincial, has failed to comment with regret upon the loss that not only Canada but the Empire at large has suffered in the death of Sir John Thompson, while at the Canadian offices here messages expressive of sorrow and sympathy continue to pour in large numbers. The action of the Government in ordering a warship to convey the body of the late Canadian Premier to Canada has been received with universal satisfaction.

Lord Jersey's Report.

Lord Jersey's report on the recent intercolonial conference at Ottawa has been fairly well noticed in the press. His recommendations are commented on favorably and their reception could not have been more cordial. The general opinion appears to be that there can be no reasonable objection to granting to the colonies full right to make any commercial arrangements they may wish amongst themselves, even of a preferential nature, and all that seems to be needed is to extend the application of the Imperial Act of 1878, so as to enable the Australian colonies to not only grant preferential tariff concessions to each other, but also to any of the outside colonies, such as South Africa and Canada. The question now is, What action will be taken on the report? No doubt the policy of the government will largely depend upon the way in which Lord Jersey's views catch hold of the public; but in any case nothing is likely to be done until after the meeting of parliament.

The Provincial Exhibits.

The provincial exhibits at the Imperial Institute are gradually getting into better shape. The opening of the Institute somewhat clashed with the Chicago exhibition, and the latter was given the preference. The courts of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia have, however, been getting better all the time and they are now fairly representative of the capabilities of the provinces, although a good deal still remains to be done to make them all that they should be. These institutes ought to be most useful, not only in connection with the encouragement of emigration, but also with the development of trade, as the Canadian courts might easily be made a permanent commercial museum in London for the Dominion. It is claimed that about a thousand people visit the Institute every day, at least half of whom go into the Canadian section, and it can easily be seen therefore what a factor for useful results thoroughly representative exhibits may become. The matter deserves the very careful attention and consideration of the provincial authorities.

Joseph Pope's "Memoirs."

Mr. Pope's book "The Memoirs of Sir John Macdonald" has been widely reviewed in the United Kingdom. All the London papers have had long notices as well as many of the provincial journals. Its reception has been very favorable, and the volumes appear likely to have a wide sale. The book is regarded as likely to be of great use to the Australians and South Africans, who are striving after the union which Canada achieved 27 years ago, as the result of the efforts of the "Chieftain." It will no doubt be closely studied in those colonies, and further, the views of Sir John on many of the problems which are now awaiting solution in this country cannot fail to be of much value to the students of current history.

Emigration to Canada.

At this time of the year there is little or no movement of people to Canada, but so far as can be ascertained both the Canadian Government offices, the Canadian Pacific Railway offices and the Steamship Companies are doing all that is possible to attract attention to that country and to the opportunities it affords for settlement. Although a good many enquiries are being received, the prospects for emigration next year are not held to be very favorable. No doubt when things take a turn for the better, Canada will get a larger number of immigrants than in the past year; but, even now, it is admitted that she gets the cream of the movement that has been taking place.

The Canadian Potato.

The Canadian potato has added to its reputation considerably in the last few weeks, some correspondence having passed with the Irish Land Commission on the subject of importing Canadian seed potatoes into Ireland, in order to diminish as far as possible the liability to blight. If, as the correspondence seems to show, blight can be averted by the importation of seed from Canada and by proper attention to planting and cultivation of the potatoes, it is hoped that the fact will be made widely known. It is urged that farmers will be consulting their own interests as well as that of the public by using the best seed available.

FARMER SLATER'S BOY

He it Was Who Tried to Wreck the Grand Trunk Train.

HIS STORY TO THE POLICE

He Sent the Officers of the Law on the Wrong Scent by Attaching Suspicion to the Three Unfortunate Tramps—He Did it for the Fun of it.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 19.—Chief Young, of the Ontario police, and Detective Day, of the G. T. R., ran down the miscreant who attempted to wreck the G. T. R. mail last Thursday evening by placing three ties across the track, four and a half miles west of here.

It will be remembered three tramps who, it was claimed, were seen in the locality before the train struck the ties, having called for a night's lodging at Farmer Slater's, near by were arrested at Merritton next morning and brought here and examined, but denied being anywhere near the locality, and so impressed the authorities with their innocence that the charge was dropped and they were sent up as vagrants for ten days. Slater's son, the only member of the Slater family who had seen the tramps, was positive the three tramps were the men he had seen and had partly suggested to the police one of the three who looked most guilty and who was the most likely one to commit the deed. The police, after sifting the tramp theory thoroughly and were positive the men had not been seen by any other person than young Slater, were sent after Slater who was brought to the police office, and by shrewd and careful work, young Slater being a very wily and cunning lad, Chief Young and Detective Day wormed the confession out of him that his tramp story was a fabrication, and as soon as he made this admission Chief Young then confronted him with the fact that he must have had a motive in telling the story to conceal something, when he made a clean breast of the whole affair, admitting he had placed the ties on the track for the express train, but could not give any reason that caused him to do so, other than that he desired to see what effect the train would have on the ties in striking them. He said he did not place them for the purpose of throwing the train off the track, as he had often placed stones on the track to see the trains run over them. He is the eldest son of Thomas Slater, 16 years of age, and bears an unsavory reputation and has given his father a great deal of trouble for some time past. He will have a hearing before Police Magistrate Logan to-day.

The Illicit Still Proclaimed Itself.

QUEBEC, Dec. 19.—Unusual excitement was caused here by the discovery of the illicit still, which was made through the explosion of the boiler connected with the apparatus. The explosion not only set fire to the building, but blew part of it out into the street, and seriously burned three adults and six children. The illicit distiller is a sergeant of the city police force, Redmond by name. He was himself the cause of the explosion, by going too near the liquor with a lamp, which ignited and exploded it. Redmond is fearfully burned about both face and arms and is bleeding from both mouth and ears. The six children are his grandchildren and are in a most pitiful condition, suffering awfully. The inland revenue officials seized the whole of the illicit machinery and a quantity of manufactured whiskey.

Newfoundland's Bank Scandal.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 19.—The work of eliciting information concerning the condition of the Commercial Bank is proceeding satisfactorily although some very unpleasant disclosures are being made. The largest debtor of the bank is Mr. Dudor, one of the directors, who owes $650,000, half secured by mortgages. His assets are not expected to reach the mortgage estimate. The total amount of overdrawn accounts is $1,941,000. A good proportion of this will realize unfavorably. The amounts due by the bank on current accounts have not yet been brought to a total.

Quebec's Twelve Children Law.

QUEBEC, Dec. 19.—Hon. Mr. Flynn made an important speech in regard to the twelve children law. He advocates a measure to cancel the grant of land to the fathers of twelve children when no work has been made in the lots after four years. A large number of people have been granted lots for a number of years and have not yet fulfilled the conditions laid down.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The North Monaghan council met at the town hall at one o'clock on Dec. 15th. The reeve and all the councillors were present. The minutes of the regular meeting of August 27th, and the special meetings of Oct. 24th and Nov. 19th, were read and confirmed. Communications were received from Thomas Brown, collector, asking for an extension of time for the return of the roll for 1894—Received. From Dr. A. E. Yelland, enclosing report as medical health officer of the township for the year 1894—Received. From Reeve Jos. Forster enclosing report as chairman of the local Board of Health for 1894—Received. From T. Bradburn, treasurer of the township, showing statement of uncollected taxes for the year 1893—Received and referred to the reeve and clerk for investigation. From Mrs. Gifford asking for a refund of dog tax for 1894—Received and referred to the clerk to allow as soon as the necessary declaration is filed. From Geo. Moncrief asking for a refund of dog tax for 1893—Received and no action taken. From the township treasurer presenting the financial statement for the year 1894, also statement from the collector's roll showing the amount of taxes returned up to December 15th, 1894—Received, and on motion was referred to the clerk to have 150 copies printed and published according to law. The report of the finance committee was received as follows.

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee on accounts beg to report as follows:—Since the last regular session of this council we have recommended the issuing of orders upon the treasurer for the payment of the following accounts, all of which we certify as being correct:—Geo. Monorief, work on concessions 7 and 8, $20; R. Doobin, commutation of unperformed statute labour in 1893, $3; G. Steer, cutting brush on road and clearing ditch, $10; J. Davidson, half contract of building bridge on Smith boundary, $40; Thos. Lillico, for filling gravel on road division No. 18, $7, and ask that this action be confirmed. Your committee also have examined the following accounts and recommend payment of the same:—W. J. Hall, equivalent on road division No. 30, $28; J. Patton, for 30 loads of gravel per W. Goodfellow, $3; Dr. Greer, for 25 loads of gravel per J. Brown, $2.50; Jno. Tully, for gravel, per J. K. Moore, $8; A. Saunders, work on Stinson bridge, $1.50; T. H. G. Deane, $1; flour, charity for W. Close, $1.80; A. McDonald, material for culvert, per G. Carton, $3.63; Jas. Laing, gravel, $4.38; James M. Davidson, account as sanitary inspector, $7. We also recommend that the account of Jas. M. Davidson, for duties as constable, be referred to the reeve and that the account of the Peterborough EXAMINER Printing and Publishing Company, for yearly contract for printing, be left over until the time at which contract expires. All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. M. HUNTER,
Chairman.

Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the report of committee on accounts be received and adopted.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the return of the collector's roll be extended until the 22nd day of January, 1895.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Waterman, seconded by Mr. Hunter, that the report of the chairman of the Board of Health and the medical health officer be adopted and that the clerk be instructed to forward the same to the Provincial Board of Health.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the reeve and clerk are hereby authorized to issue their order upon the township treasurer for the sum of two hundred dollars to pay their notes in the Ontario Bank for money borrowed to meet the current expenses of the township as soon as the same becomes due.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that the reeve and councillors of the township of North Monaghan receive the sum of twelve dollars each for their services in 1894.—Carried. On motion bylaw No. 410, to fix the places for the holding of nominations and polls and appointing the deputy-returning officers for 1895, as follows: At No. 1 polling subdivision, W. W. Maybee; No. 2 polling subdivision, J. J. Bennett, was introduced, given its readings and passed. The council then adjourned until the call of the reeve, or if not called before, to meet on the third Monday in January, according to law.

APSLEY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A meeting of the municipal council of Burleigh was held on Saturday, Dec. 15th, in the town hall, at Apsley. A. Brown, reeve, in the chair, councillors Wm. Hales, Geo. Matthews, Wm. Tucker, and Ben. Windsor being present. The minutes of former meeting were read and confirmed. A resolution, with seal attached, was passed, making Stone's school house a polling place, with J. C. Stone deputy returning office. The other polling place being at the Town Hall, at Apsley, P. W. C. Shewen returning officer. Mr. D. Anderson, treasurer, presented the annual statement of the standing of the municipality up to date, which was adopted as received and the clerk instructed to have 100 copies printed. The clerk was instructed to notify the county treasurer to take the following lots from off his tax sale list,—Lot 14, con. 4; lot 3, con. 8; lot 8, con. 11; lot 4, con. 14; lot 5, con. 16; lot 15, con. 13, Burleigh north; lot 7, con. 4, Burleigh south; and lot 27, con. 7; lot 36, con. 11, Anstruther. The time for the collection of taxes was extended by by-law until February 14th, 1895. On motion, the clerk was authorized to make a demand on the council of the township of Chandos for the payment of the sum of $943.76. The following orders were drawn on the treasurer:—P. J. Elmhirst, statute labour, $4; D. Anderson, account Board of Health, $16.40; D. Anderson, expenses, cartage, etc., $11.75; D. Anderson, trips to Peterborough, $4.90; D. Anderson, salary, $30; Alex. STONY LAKE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The school trustees of School Section No. 9 have re-engaged Mr. Harry Henning for a third term.

A pleasant and enjoyable entertainment was held in Carmel church here the other evening. The chair was occupied by the resident pastor, Rev. J. E. Robson, of Warsaw. All the appointments on the circuit were represented, and quite a number from Warsaw were present. Recitations, readings and dialogues were well rendered by the young people of the vicinity. The children, especially, acquitted themselves most admirably. The musical part of the programme, consisting of songs, solos, duets and choruses, were well rendered and reflects great credit on the participants. A song by Misses May Campbell and Aggie Fraser of Warsaw, deserves special mention, Miss Robson playing the accompaniment. A recitation by Miss A. Fraser brought down the house. A Christmas tree was well loaded with presents, consisting chiefly of a well-assorted stock of books for the day school pupils. The proceeds amounted to $18, and the successful issue of the entertainment was largely due to the care, energy and perseverance of Mr. Henning, our school teacher.

The lake has not frozen over yet at present writing.

One of our neighbors, who lives south about a mile, had a very narrow escape from being seriously hurt one day last week. He was climbing up on a load of straw from behind his horses, and had almost gained the top, when, to his surprise, he landed down below amongst his horses' feet head first. Not being seriously hurt he gathered himself up, and with a gentle shake of the head, thought to himself, What next will happen me?

Mr. John Armstrong of Collingwood, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. Clara Boyce is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Rightmeyer, of Monaghan, is visiting at her uncle's, Mr. Wm. Woods, this week.

Rev. Mr. Beer is conducting a series of revival meetings during the week with marked success.

Miss Annie E. Kerr, who has been teaching the senior class of little girls in the Sabbath school, here, and is about leaving this neighbourhood and therefore has resigned her position as teacher, before leaving, presented to the scholar in her class committing to memory the largest number of verses during the summer, a very nice, neat Bible. The successful competitor being Ida May Armstrong, the presentation being made by our worthy superintendent, Mr. Thos. Sargent. We are sorry to lose Miss Kerr, she being a successful public school teacher, as well as a good Sabbath school worker. We trust that our loss will be her gain.

Salem choir is blest with an excellent new organ in the church now, procured from the Jackson Organ Company, Peterborough.

The singing at Salem church, on Sunday afternoon, was rendered in excellent style, Miss Rightmyer and Mr. H. S. Armstrong taking the solo parts very effectively.

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

December 30th will be Review Sunday at Cold Springs Union Sunday school, as elsewhere, and it is hoped that all the members of the home class department who can do so will attend to enjoy the exercises of the day, to meet their classmates, to return the reports of their study during this quarter (if not already sent in) and to receive the membership cards and quarterlies for the ensuing quarter, the first three months of 1895. The lessons on the "Life of Christ" are to be continued.

We regret to have to announce that the champion checker-player of this district has sustained a crushing defeat at the hands of a young lady of an adjoining township. As the opponent was a lady, perhaps our champion's chivalry overcame his desire to win and the game was "given away."

THE PROPRIETORS.

Make a Few Pertinent Remarks to Their Patrons.

TORONTO, Dec. 19th—The Dodds Medicine Co., of this city, whose name has become a household word throughout the Dominion, and in many States of the Union, in consequence of the wonderful cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, desire to thank their patrons for the good words they have spoken for this remedy. During the past few months these expressions have been wired to nearly every paper in the country by grateful people whose lives have been prolonged. These expressions are straightforward and honest and should convince any unprejudiced mind of their sincerity and truthfulness. You know now, reader, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will do all that is claimed for them. They have stood the test.

(From a Correspondent.)

On Monday, the 10th ult, while the Rev. Mr. Jamison, Presbyterian minister, was returning home from Nogey's Creek he met with a severe accident. Through an attack of illness he fell from his cart, and was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into Mr. Harrison's. He is recovering rapidly and will soon be able to resume his duties again.

There will be an entertainment held in the Presbyterian church, Harvey, on Friday, Dec. 28th. A good programme will be rendered, consisting of readings, recitations and dialogues. The choir will render some special music; also music on the violin and mouth organ. Doors open at 6 o'clock, entertainment sharp at 7 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. Come one, come all.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

CABINET MAKING AT OTTAWA.

Prince Edward Island to Have a Representative Without Portfolio.

OTTAWA, Dec. 19.—Mackenzie Bowell had an interview with all the Ministers of the old Cabinet yesterday. He saw each one in turn and completed the interviewing in the afternoon. In addition to the Ministers holding portfolios Mr. Bowell also had interviews with Sir Frank Smith and Sir John Carling, who have not portfolios. The result was not made known, but it is pretty safe to say that the changes in the Cabinet will be few. It is now likely that Mr. Patterson will remain in and that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper will be Minister of Justice. Mr. Kenny, of Halifax, will be taken in to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir John Thompson and given the Department of Marine and Fisheries. This would complete the Cabinet, leaving the Comptrollers and Solicitor-General as they are.

Mr. Bowell has not yet finally completed his cabinet but it is expected that he will do so to-day. Prince Edward Island is to have a representative in the person of Senator Donald Ferguson. He will not have a portfolio. The only other new member will be Mr. Kenny.

WHEN THE BLENHEIM SAILS.

She Will Leave Portsmouth on Saturday for Halifax.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—It has been arranged that the cruiser, Blenheim, with the body of Sir John Thompson on board will leave Portsmouth at noon on Saturday and it is said that the voyage to Halifax will be made in nine days. The coffin will be taken to Portsmouth by a special train leaving Victoria station Saturday morning. When the body is received on board the Blenheim, twenty-minute guns will be fired from the ship. The Queen will send a large wreath to be placed upon the coffin when it leaves London. The Earl and Countess of Derby will also send wreaths. It is learned that when Sir Charles Tupper was received by the Queen Her Majesty told him that she had received a telegram from the Prince of Wales expressing deep sympathy and regret at Sir John Thompson's death.

Toronto Boodle Inquiry.

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—At the municipal investigation yesterday, Edward T. Carter, confidential clerk of Ald. John Hallam, was called. He swore that Alfred Smith, a well-known man about town, had called and taken him out for a drive while the street railway struggle was going on, and had told him that, while he was not authorized to speak to him, yet he could say that $10,000 would be deposited to his (Carter's) credit if he could induce Ald. Hallam to withdraw his opposition to the Kelly-Everett syndicate. H. S. Strathy, the manager of the Traders' Bank, was the next witness. He was very closely questioned by counsel as to the relations between himself as manager of the bank and J. P. Coleman. Strathy admitted that he had used Coleman to negotiate some forged paper of Selby & Company some years ago, at a time when Coleman was in debt, he (witness) taking Coleman's cheque for that paper for $15,000.

Escaped from Montreal Police.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19. — Johnson, alias Baltimore Whity and Lucy, two notorious burglars, who were captured by the police a few nights ago, made a desperate escape from prison yesterday, and the whole police force is now engaged in trying to hunt them down. The prisoners were brought before the police court yesterday for examination. While they were being conveyed back to the jail van, Johnson and Lucy managed to detach their handcuffs. There was a big crowd around at the time, and quick as lightning the two burglars made their way through the crowd, and before the officers could follow them had escaped. The detectives and police were at once put on their track but no trace has been found of them. Johnson is a famous burglar and under the name of Baltimore Whity is known all over the States and Canada.

The Armenian Resolutions.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Prof. Beet and Commoners F. B. Stevenson, C. E. Schwann and E. A. Channing called upon Lord Kimberley, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, yesterday, and presented to him the resolutions adopted at the mass meeting held in London under the auspices of the Armenian Society to protest against the Turkish atrocities in Armenia. A long conference was held in which the delegates submitted proposals for reforms in Armenia. Lord Kimberley expressed sympathy with the movement and promised to consider the proposals.

Down on the Knights.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 19.—At the Federation of Labor conference the Federation renewed its war upon the Knights of Labor and declared against wholesale and indiscriminate endorsement of boycotts.

President Gompers Loses Office.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 18.—At the meeting of the American Federation of Labor yesterday, President Gompers was defeated by Mr. McBride, of Columbus, O., for the presidency. The vote stood:—McBride, 1,102; Gompers, 987.

The Strikers' Appeal Postponed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—The hearing of the motion to quash the indictments for conspiracy against Debs and 68 others which was to have come up to-day has been postponed until January 4.

A Centenarian Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Nellie Jefferson, colored, died yesterday aged 109 years. She was the wife of Peter Jefferson, who was a body servant of Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What more can any one ask

Is anything that isn't sold in this way likely to be "just as good?"

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

MR. E. A. WARD.

It is with feelings of regret we have to announce the resignation of Mr. Ward from the office of County Secretary. He has been identified with Christian Endeavour since its earliest days in this county, having always been an active worker. He has held various offices in the County Union. Last year he was President; this year he has held the position of Secretary. In every position he was faithful, as all can testify who have had dealings with him in his official capacity.

Up to the present he has been teaching in Norwood, but has secured a more lucrative position in the western part of the Province, where he will, no doubt, be as active in C. E. work as he has been here. We are sorry to lose him, but glad to know he is bettering his position.

SPRINGVILLE.

By mistake, we stated last week that the admission was 25c. to the Junior C. E. Christmas entertainment at Springville on Friday evening, Dec. 21st. It should have been 15c. for admission. A large attendance is hoped for.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY.

Rev. Fraser Campbell addressed the meeting on Monday night. His address was deeply interesting, and he presented a very plausible scheme by which they could assist in the work in India. It was a plan of systematic giving, and if each member of the congregation gave ten cents a week they could support a station in India.

The Junior Edition of the Endeavour Herald is now out, and is very interesting. It gives a full report of the Junior portion of the programme at Kingston. It is illustrated with cuts of the active Junior workers of the Province, and among them is a photo electro of Miss Quinn, county Junior superintendent. Miss Aggie Patterson, of St. Andrew's Society, appears as one who took part in the Junior Rally. This edition should be widely distributed throughout the county.

Miss M. E. Frise has kindly consented to act as County Secretary for a short time until the Executive appoints another one. All communications should be addressed to her.

NORTH SMITH.

The North Smith Presbyterian Christian Endeavour held their missionary meeting on Thursday evening. The topic—"Carrying to others their Christmas joy," was discussed for a short time. Then Mrs. Graham, of Lakefield, gave an address on "Some of the work that has been done in foreign mission fields and work that is still to be done." Mrs. Graham spoke chiefly of the work done through the western division of the board of foreign missions. This address was both instructive and impressive.

Rev. Mr. McDonald, a returned missionary from British Columbia, also addressed the meeting, giving a detailed account of the trip to British Columbia and an account of the work done in some of the mission stations. Altogether the meeting proved a success, if we may judge from the interested attention and good order of the audience. The attendance was also encouraging.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Rev. J. A. Tanner, of Montreal, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church Sunday night.

Mr. A. P. McLean was home last week.

Mrs. S. Thexton and daughter, Miss Ella, of Peterborough, are visiting friends in this vicinity.

Several of the members of Court Primrose, No. 250, C.O.F., went out to Pontypool on Dec. 10th, to assist in the organization of a new court in that place.

Mr. C. R. Courtney was in Cobourg last week.

Mr. Scott Rutherford spent Sunday in Norwood.

Mr. Wm. Shield is visiting at Norwood with his brother.

The Methodists of this place intend having a tea and entertainment on New Year's night.

C. P. R. Differentials Settled.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. — The question of Canadian Pacific differentials was settled yesterday. The other lines pledged themselves to pay the Canadian Pacific a differential of 20 per cent. That line came into the conferation with the determination of forcing the others to pay it 25 per cent. but soon found that the roads were a unit against this this proposition and would be unit against the Canadian Pacific on all questions did that road remain out of the association. General Passenger Agent McNichols recognized this fact after a stubborn fight and gave up.

What the Sea Gave Up.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The body of Captain Overguard, of the ship Don Juan, which was wrecked off Lemwig, Denmark, on December 6, 1893, was washed ashore on Saturday near the spot where the vessel was wrecked. The body, which evidently had been buried deeply in the sand and had been uncovered by the recent storm, was well preserved. Among the papers found in the clothing were $180,000 in bank notes and American securities, which the authorities are holding for the proper claimants.

Frightened at the Electric Car.

A runaway occurred on George street, yesterday afternoon, just opposite Mr. John McKee's drug store. A team of horses became frightened at an approaching street car and swerving suddenly, threw the driver from his seat on the waggon. He rolled directly underneath the vehicle and as he hung on to the reins, he was dragged a considerable distance over the rough frozen road. The horses was finally stopped and the driver resumed his place apparently none the worse for the accident.

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

Just What the Ladies Like.

A pair of kid gloves, a pretty veil, a sweet little silk handkerchief, a neat dress collar, or some charming piece of lace, are amongst the most pleasing gifts in the estimation of the ladies. Drop into Miss Delaney's and see the lovely store full of such goods, now on sale at her usual Xmas reduction prices. During a recent visit to the cities, Miss Delaney captured some of the latest and most fashionable novelties of this character for holiday gifts and birthday presents—the selection being such as should please the most fastidious, and at the same time, cost but a trifle, compared with their value. For children, nothing could excel the dear little cosy white fur jackets, the pretty little lamb's wool hoods, bootees, etc. Her stock of goods for evening wear is very select and worthy of admiration, while if you buy now, you save about half. A special attraction near the centre of the store is a 25 cent table, where, from a large selection of really expensive novelties, you have your choice for only a quarter—a sum which represents only about one-fourth their original value.—Miss DELANEY. 3d

—Port Hope ale seems to be a very popular beverage in Peterborough, as two car loads in bottles, amounting to 1,100 dozen, were received by two of our liquor stores, yesterday. 1d

—Mr. William Tully, a North Monaghan farmer, who is over seventy-five years of age, was observed to be out ploughing yesterday, as steadily and cheerily as many men not half his age.

Messrs. Fred Holland, Alex. Patterson and several others were out on a rabbit and fox hunt yesterday and met with the good luck of bagging a couple of foxes and three of the cottontails.

—The muddy weather of late has worried the pork-packers. In clear, bright weather, even if not cold, pork will keep; but when the atmosphere is damp and murky the hogs soon begin to taint.

If seventy or eighty generously disposed families can furnish shelter on Christmas day, for one or more half starved and scantily clothed, but fat turkeys, they will confer a favour by handing their their names to Mason & Co., who will guarantee that the cost will be very moderate. 1d

—See that bump? It's the bump of judgment—a well-developed, finely-balanced bump—and represents good, hard sense. The brains behind that bump tell the owner that the Peterborough Book-store carries more goods than any two fancy goods stores in Peterborough. Come and see.

—There will be a distribution of Christmas gifts at St. John's school house, to-morrow afternoon. The members of the congregation are requested to send in their contributions, parcels of tea, coffee, sugar, meats, etc., to St. John's school house, to-morrow morning. A little prompt thoughtfulness will enable many to enjoy a Christmas dinner, who would otherwise pass the day lacking food.

PERSONAL.

Mr. R. A. Glover, of New York, is visiting friends on Hunter street.

Mr. Wm. Overend, the popular proprietor of the C.P.R. hotel, accompanied by his daughter, Katie, visited Toronto yesterday.

Mr. B. G. Gough, of Lindsay, who has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia is now convalescent and spending a few days on a visit to his brother in town.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

A Perfumery Window.

Mr. John McKee, druggist, has a window so beautifully decorated that it is the cynosure of all eyes. In it are displayed handsome samples of the most delicate odors in English and American perfumery, put up in ornamental cut glass bottles, bottles, toilet supplies, and many other pretty holiday goods. The attractive display is especially interesting to the ladies, although gentlemen vie with the ladies in inspecting the window. Artistically grouped around the window are decorations and festoons, enhancing the striking interior appearance, the whole reflecting creditably on the taste and skill of the window dresser.

A Cantata on the Tapis.

On Thursday evening next the scholars of the Baptist Sunday School will render Fannie Crosby and W. Howard Doane's famous cantata, "The Santa Claus Prize and Who Got It." The children have been practising for some time under the leadership of Mr. Geo. Matthews and Mrs. Brodigan, and are determined to do their best to do justice to this excellent musical composition. A free will offering will be taken for the purpose of replenishing the Sunday school library, but no entrance fee will be charged. All should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this prette Christmas exercise. 2d

As to Christmas Buying.

It pays to do your Christmas shopping early.

Whether you are poor and can buy only the bare necessities of life;

Whether your limited means admit of but few and inexpensive gifts;

Whether you are well-to do, but still buy with thrift and caution; or

Whether your name is Vanderbilt, Astor, and you can have the earth if you want it; still, we say,

You cannot do better than to buy your Christmas presents of the dealers who advertise in the EXAMINER to-day. They are the best-stocked and most reliable in their several lines.

Read the advertisements. They are full of suggestions and of bargains.

A BIG BLAZE IN VERULAM.

A. FAIRBAIRN, M. P., A HEAVY LOSER.

Loss $10,000 — Dwelling Burns and Stables Go Up in Smoke—Ten Horses and a Herd of Cattle Cremated.

One of the most destructive fires which has ever occurred in the farming section of the Midland District took place last night, when Mr. Charles Fairbairn, M. P., of Verulam, sustained a loss of ten thousand dollars through the ravages of the destructive element.

The origin of the fire is at present a mystery, but the termination was a holocaust of such proportions as to sweep away Mr. Fairbairn's large dwelling with its contents, his commodious barns and stables, a herd of cattle, a number of pigs, ten horses, fifteen hundred bushels of wheat, and a large amount of valuable farm implements.

The fire started at about half-past three o'clock this morning, and as stated before, its origin is unknown. It was first noticed in the barns when they were burning so fiercely as to render any hope of getting out the stock an impossibility. No one had been in the house since nine o'clock the previous evening and as Mr. Fairbairn is most popular, it is out of the question to suppose that he had any enemies, who would wilfully set fire to the premises. Mr. Fairbain is of the opinion that probably some one was trying to effect an entrance in order to steal either poultry or grain when a spark caught in some way.

Not a stick or stone of the valuable homestead was left standing and the loss is estimated at fully $10,000. The insurance, it is understood, is either four or six thousand.

A Veteran of 1812.

Among the most noteworthy books issued this year by Canadian publishers, is "A Veteran of the War of 1812," published by Wm. Briggs, Wesley Buildings, Toronto. This work is the life of James Fitzgibbon, written by his daughter, Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon. It is a handsomely printed, well illustrated and bound volume of about 350 pages, and from the opening chapter, which details the entrance of young Fitzgibbon into military life, on through the stirring military experiences of the 49th Regiment in Holland, with the fleet of Nelson, and in Canada previous and up to the war of 1812—14, respecting all which Fitzgibbon might well say, "quorum pars fui;" every page is full of interest and adventure. Fitzgibbon's connection with the war of 1812, his gallant conduct that made him the hero of Stony Creek, an engagement that turned the tide of hopeless despondency into victory for the Canadian arms, the gallant affair of Beaverdams, where Fitzgibbon shared the honours with Laura Secord, and a score of minor incidents, revealing the soldier's unwavering courage, fertility of resource and promptitude of action, are detailed in chapters which, though true narratives, read like the chronicles of a romance. When peace was declared Fitzgibbon's record as a citizen in the early history of the colony, is as full of interest, and as creditable to him as a civilian as his past has been as a soldier. His intimate connection with the uprising of 1837, his position of loyal adherence to the Crown, and his forbearing attitude towards the disaffected, betray the warm heart and the wise head, whose forethought saved the Toronto of that day from destruction. This biography of a man who was a prominent figure in the stirring times of the early history of Canada, forms a connecting link between the passing and the present generation, and will be read with interest by every one who would, from this picture of loyal fidelity to the Crown, mingled with loyal fidelity to his adopted country learn what he owes of the blessings of citizenship which he now enjoys, to the one man who wrought so much and sacrificed so much to preserve it from a foreign foe and internal dissension. "A Veteran of 1812" may be procured at the Peterborough Bookstore. Fathers can put into the hand of a son few books that teach more striking lessons of loyalty to allegiance, fidelity to trust, and fearless devotion to duty than the life of Col. Fitzgibbon.

CONFLAGRATION AT STOKES BAY.

WIARTON, Ont., Dec. 19.—The store and post office of Jno. Shute, Stokes Bay, was burglarized yesterday. Mr. Shute was in Wiarton, a fact the burglars must have known. Mrs. Shute was aroused by the noise made. When she came down stairs the robber had a lot of goods in a bundle which she made him drop. They had a scuffle in the shop when Mrs. Shute cut his right hand with a dirk knife. She screamed and aroused Mr. Golden, a near neighbor, when the thief made off taking with him the postage stamps, some jewelry and what change that was in the till.

WAS THERE FOUL PLAY OR IS BROOKS ON A DRUNK?

He Disappears off the Local From Lindsay and His Wife is Stranded Here.

Something strange transpired on the evening train from Lindsay running into Peterborough last night and suspicions are around that foul play may have figured in the affair to a certain extent.

Herron Brooks, a shantyman, and his wife boarded the evening train at Lindsay for Peterborough and shortly after pulling out of the former town Brooks left his wife, saying that he was merely going into the next car to be with a number of other shantymen, whom he knew, and saying that if he did not return to her before reaching Peterborough to wait for him on the platform.

The train arrived in Peterborough at 8.55 o'clock, and as her husband had not shown up Mrs. Brooks walked patiently up and down the platform waiting for him until half past ten. She then went up town, despairing of finding him, and spent the night at a hotel. This morning she called around to ask the advice of the police on the matter, informing them that she feared foul play, as her husband had considerable money on his person. Ascertaining that Brooks occasionally went off on a drunk, the police concluded that old time remembrances, revived amongst his brother shantymen, had proven too great a temptation for Heron and that he had gone off on a little "toot." The woman was advised to return to Lindsay, though a pass was refused her, and to rest assured that her hubby would turn up all right in the end. Just how she will return to Lindsay is a question as she has no funds whatever.

SHALL WE FLY IN THE FUTURE?

Principal Fessenden's Views on the Question at the Meeting of the Fortnightly Club.

A regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held in the County Law Library at the Court House last night.

The address of the evening by Mr. Cortez Fessenden, Headmaster of the Collegiate Institute, was, of course, a treat. It was illustrated by diagrams and calculations. He said there were two methods best known for aerial navigation. One consisted in keeping the weight in the air by means of balloons and then propelling it forward. That plan was a failure. The second method consisted in having a flying machine proper, that moved through the air in the manner of a bird. The rarity of the medium necessitated the doing of an immense amount of work to acquire support and propulsion. The necessary resistance was obtained by speed and the angle of rise. It had been proven experimentally that the smaller the angle of rise the less the propelling power required, that is to say, less power will lift the weight and produce the speed. The data obtained by experiments were very nearly equal to the theoretical results. The was the more to be wondered at when they considered the difficulty of obtaining a rigid machine. In Mr. Maxim's experiments it was found that the machine bellied like a sail. It required 213 horse power in Maxim's experiment to propel his flying machine at the rate of 45 miles an hour. According to the formula 155 horse power would be required. At the angle of elevation used by Maxim the lift was about 25 lbs. per h. p.. The best plan of all, Mr. Fessenden said, probably was to have a screw to propel and an inverted screw to rise. On account of the great difficulty in starting and of the still greater difficulty of stopping, it would be hardly possible ever to use the flying machine commercially. As the ordinary speed would surpass that of a railway train, a sudden stoppage, at least with no better appliances than they have now, would be attended with much risk.

Mr. Dumble, Mr. Dennistoun, Mr. Schofield and several other members participated in the discussion which followed. After a vote of thanks to the learned lecturer, the meeting adjourned.

The subject for the next meeting is "Citizenship," by Rev. J. C. Davidson, M. A.

Mr. Hampden Burnham was appointed Reporting Secretary of the club. The next regular meeting will be held on Tuesday, January 8th, 1895. Programme—Paper: "Citizenship," by Rev. J. C. Davidson, M.A. Special speakers: Mr. E. B. Edwards, M.A., Mr. L. M. Hayes, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, B.A., and Mr. Mulholland.

A resolution was passed requiring the Secretary to send notices of meetings to the members by printed post card. Henceforth notices will be sent on the Monday preceding each meeting to all men who have signed the members' roll and paid their fees.

THE HEMISPHERE OF OUR WOMEN.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BY REV. J. W. RAE, OF ACTON.

Though Women Lead in Many Many Undertakings, yet he Thinks the Franchise Should not be Extended to Them.

Charlotte street Methodist church was well filled last evening with an audience which listened, from start to finish with marked attention to a lecture on "Women's Hemisphere" by Rev. J. W. Rae, of Acton.

Mr. Rae opened his address by stating that he owed much of his success in life to his brother, Rev. J. J. Rae, pastor of the Charlotte street church. After making a few complimentary remarks auent the kindness shown him by the people of Peterborough, Mr. Rae went on to point out that woman had not a sphere,

BUT A HEMISPHERE.

In speaking of the daughters he voiced his opinion of their marriage to the effect that monetary considerations should not be a factor in the arrangement, as no matter how much money either of the contracting parties had, there was nothing in the world to be compared to a beautiful Christian home. The influence of Francis Willard in this connection was highly referred to.

As a man always felt more manly when he had a few dollars in his pocket, he should see when he married that his wife had an opportunity of feeling more womanly and provide her always with money which she could feel was her own. Mr. Rae then gave a humorous illustration concerning a man, who was mean enough to for her own use. This individual was out in the woods one day, when it came on to rain. In order not to be wet, he crawled into a hollow log, but while in there the moisture swelled the log and he was held there hard and fast. As he lay in this uncomfortable position, all the bad actions of his life passed before him in panorama. Finally he thought of having that very morning refused his wife a paltry dollar, which she wished to have in order to contribute to the missionary fund—when this thought recurred to him, he felt so small that he was able to crawl out of the log.

Home, he thought, ought to be a unity. It was disagreeable to have a double head, and often led to FAMILY DISTURBANCES.

There were many homes in his estimation where the woman could do more with her vote than the man, yet there would be considerable danger in extending the franchise to women. As it was, many women controlled the voter.

In referring to women in the church, Mr. Rae expressed himself as satisfied that they formed the mainstay. When the night is too stormy for men to venture forth to prayer meeting, the women could be depended upon to be there. He did not believe that God ever intended women to be ordained as pastors, though he was of the opinion that the spirit of truth said that they should give testimony to Jesus Christ.

In the

women should be pre-eminent. The heroic work of Kate Marsden, who had done such a grand work amongst the lepers in Siberia was instanced. He believed that women would take the lead yet in literature, and in regard to science, though she might not be able to understand electricity, yet it was a most scientific art to be able to turn a husband's worn out clothes into a nice suit for the boy.

In the mission fields, he said, women were among the foremost and had endured many hardships in places where men were afraid to go. They had also stood nobly by the side of the men in times of peril. Many showing woman to be the helper of man in the mission field.

At the close of the remarkably interesting address, Mr. M. A. Morrison moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Rae for his excellent sermons on Sunday and for the evening's lecture. Mr. R. J. Kidd seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously. In reply Mr. Rae stated that it was a pleasure, indeed, to be privileged to meet the Peterborough people. Rev. J. J. Rae pronounced the benediction.

'PRENTICE BOYS AND THEIR FRIENDS MAKE MERRY.

A Most Successful Assembly held in the Snowden Block Last Night.

The members of Jubilee Lodge, No. 7, 'Prentice Boys, celebrated the anniversary of the closing of the Gates of Derry on Dec. 18th, 1688, by holding a grand assembly in the spacious Snowden Block ball room, on Simcoe street last evening.

Sherwood's orchestra furnished excellent music throughout the evening, and the room was most becomingly decorated with streamers, flags and appropriate mottoes.

About thirty-five couples graced the floor when Mr. R. S. Burley, master of ceremonies, called the first dance, quite a number of strangers from a distance being present. The programme of dances was a lengthy one, and made the evening pass most pleasantly. Refreshments were served at midnight by Mine Host Matthew Jamieson at the Little Windsor. The supper provided was a most appetizing one and reflected great credit on Mr. Jamieson as a caterer.

The committee to whom the credit is due for bringing the assembly to so successful an issue, was a large one. Mr. A. A. Montgomery was chairman, Mr. J. C. Stinson, treasurer, and Mr. R. S. Burley, secretary.

THE PRESBYTERY ADJOURNS UNTIL MARCH NEXT.

A Long Session Concluded Last Evening—Conference on Temperance.

At the afternoon session of the Presbytery, the report of the Committee on the Book of Praise was received, but, as it was impossible to reach an agreement on several of the clauses, the report was referred back to the committee to be again presented at the evening session.

The question of temperance was taken up and discussed at considerable length and a conference held upon the subject. It was finally resolved that strong efforts be made to elect temperance members of council in all the different municipalities.

The charge at Omemee and Mount Pleasant was given permission to moderate a call as soon as prepared to do so.

The Presbytery then adjourned for tea after appointing a committee to make arrangements for the holding of a convention of the Presbyterian members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour in the bands of the Presbytery.

A full account of the evening's proceedings of the Presbytery is unavoidably held over until to-morrow's issue.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

WHEN YOUR BREAD FAILS

Perhaps it's the Flour's fault—in many cases the whole trouble is with the Flour. This is never the case if you use

BRADY'S FLOUR.

DELICATE CAKE is just as easy to make with Brady's Flour as Bread. There will be no trouble in the house if you use Brady's Flour for your Xmas Baking. Special inducements during the holiday season in Flour, Feed and Groceries. We use a fruit cleaner on all Raisins and Currants.

DID YOU OBSERVE

The elegant display of Fine Perfumes and other goods at J. D. Tully's drug store. These goods are all specially bought for the Holiday Trade and the value is exceptionally good. The line is certainly one of the finest and most complete in town and a personal inspection is the only way to judge of their beauty and value. A large assortment of Rickrecker's, Seeley's and other perfumes in handsome cases, single bottles or quantity. A choice line of Dressing and Manicure Cases and Sets in the newest designs. Fine Plate Hand Mirrors, Toilet Bottles, etc. Call and see them.

A WOMAN'S HEAD

is level and her judgment good when she puts her faith in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is no beauty without good health. Nobody expects to become really beautiful from the use of complexion beautifiers. Bright eyes, clear skin and rosy cheeks, follow moderate exercise, fresh air, good food, and—the judicious use of the "Prescription."

All women require a tonic and nervine at some period of their lives. Whether suffering from nervousness, dizziness, faintness, displacement, catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. Guaranteed to benefit, or the money is returned.

If you're suffering from Catarrh, the proprietors of Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy ask you to try their medicine. Then, if you can't be cured, they'll pay you $500 in cash.

AN OLD MAID'S VIEW.

KATE SANBORN ON THE JOYS AND SORROWS OF CHRISTMAS.

She Says It Should Be Exclusively a Children's Day—The Ideal Found In the Home Gathering—What an Old Bachelor Confessed.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.]

YES, for decades, centuries, eons, there has been but one authorized, stereotyped, fatigningly uniform view of this annual festival—at least as given to us conscientiously, and with unflagging voluminosity by the universal public press—the editorials, the long, inevitable historical articles, the cheerful, moralizing appeals for general charity and good deeds, the last usually from a woman's pen, are exactly like those ground out in '84, '74, '64, '54, '44, and so on ad infinitum and ad nauseam. The lay sermons at the end of all magazines agree with these entirely in information vouchsafed, in mellow reminiscences, in rather patronizing greetings to their large clientelle. Encyclopedias are searched, the same old bits from favorite carols given. Carols are kindly explained. The "boar's head" they all bring in at last associated in a general way with the brain that so bores me that I sympathize just a little with that old tyrant, Caligula, who "wished the Roman people had but one neck that he might cut it off at a blow."

"Gallinbursti" was the name of the old original bore, not boar. Let us push him once for all "down the back entry of time" and have a little rest.

I do not believe that these facts, many of them doubtful; these quotations; these gentle lessons, so many, many times exhumed and reprinted, are even read through by any one. Why feel obliged to follow on in the same old path? I am going to dare to give another side of the subject, one that will find an answering echo in many an honest heart, for after one has arrived at middle age he or she, married or unmarried, finds the recurrence of Thanksgiving and Christmas rather sad occasions, when one must try to push away the past, shut the eyes to the dear dead faces that come up so vividly, forget oneself in making the time pass pleasantly for those whose lives are still unsullied by sin or sorrow or bitter disillusions and try to give the children as good a time as possible.

Christmas should be exclusively a children's day. Let us give it to them, who can find glowing delight in transparent myths, a few toys and bags of popcorn and bright colored sugar plums. For us grownups it has degenerated into a laborious farce that to some is approaching the tragic. Presents must be exchanged through the entire family circle, relatives expect remembrances, and especially intimate friends, not forgetting a set of claimants who only send you greeting and a cheap card, but carefully estimate the cash value of your enforced remembrance and treat you accordingly. The rich waste thousands in endeavoring to excel each other in needless trinkets, bric-a-brac, bonbons, superfluous gems, luxurious nothings, big dinners, costly wines, illustrating that text so true, yet so difficult to explain, to those less fortunate, "To him that hath shall be given," or, in everyday parlance, "The Lord gives apples to those who have no teeth." It is with such simply "a quid pro quo," and there is very little honest merriment in the system.

In big, blessed, unbroken, congenial families the ideal Christmas is often realized, where the boys and girls return with families of their own, never forgetting the old people, return loaded with gifts and goodies, and bringing the lively music of happy, satisfied hearts. But to the starved out, the repressed, who make a brave pretense of being at peace and gladsome, it is a hard part to play. In stories written expressly for such people the old lover returns faithful and fond; the generous old bachelor carries away captive the youngest, prettiest maiden of the lot. Alas! in real life the young flirt captivates the aunt's most devoted standby and laughs at the ancient bachelor who tries to be gallant.

One old bachelor confessed to me last year that he was so forlorn at the glad Yuletide that he wished he could be made unconscious until it was over. He longed to skip it and escape from its depressing horrors. As he must live right through it, however dismal the experience, he would always take the cars for a long trip, or even cross the ocean, armed with a lot of exciting novels to drive away sad thoughts. He was a fine looking, prosperous, popular fellow, and I know his generosity to others to have been unbounded. He made Christmas a day of feasting and junketing to many. All that does not cure the aching old heart.

Throw off the conventional shackles and don't try to be so terribly, so unnaturally, jovial yourself, and soon the smiles on the dear faces, as yet free from lines of care and sorrow, will be reflected way down in each lonely heart. Then we shall not have to say, with Longfellow, "How inexpressibly sad are all holidays!" KATE SANBORN.

It is estimated that New York spends $1,500,000 for its Christmas candies.

Christmas Dessert.

A HALF DOZEN SPOONS.

Christmas Carols.

The first Christmas carol, as Milton and Jeremy Taylor have said, was sung by the angels on the plains of Bethlehem. This custom has prevailed in most Christian countries and is perpetuated in England and on the continent. Calabrian minstrels still leave their mountains during the last days preceding Christmas for Naples or Rome, saluting with their wild music the shrines of the Virgin Mother, to cheer her until the birth hour of the infant Jesus, now near at hand. The first Christmas carols were hymns in honor of the nativity. They afterward assumed a more secular character, many of them being songs of revelry accompanying the festivities of the season.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sickness, indigestion and biliousness. 25c.

A Fatal Attack.

A fatal attack of croup is a frequent occurrence among children. Every household should be guarded by keeping Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It breaks up coughs, colds, croup, asthma and bronchitis in a remarkable manner.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss.
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

VIGG'S CHRISTMAS.

The snow lay shining over the moorland, and only one dwelling could be seen on all its vast expanse—a little cottage, old and gray. Travelers who passed over the moor often said, "How lonely the poor people must be who live there!"

But the cottage was a very nice one of its kind. Moss grew all over the roof, protecting it from the cold and wind. The chimney was broad and strong, and the roof, with its thatch of turf, looked in summer like green velvet covered with little red and yellow blossoms. At the end of the house was a tiny garden, where grew potatoes, carrots and cabbages, and by the fence were poppies and roses. Upon a bank close by stood an aspen tree, and at the cottage window hung a little curtain. The whole place was very neat and clean.

The cottage and the garden belonged to Mother Gertrude, who lived there alone with a little boy named Vigg, whom she had adopted.

Early in the morning of the day before Christmas Mother Gertrude had started for the grocery in the village, which lay at a long distance over the moor. The sun was setting, but she was not at home yet, and Vigg was very lonely in the cottage, for there was perfect silence amid the vast snow plain, which was all that he could see. All day long he had not heard the sound of a single horse's bell.

It is hard to tell how long he had been sitting there when he heard the bell of a horse dashing over the snow. He sprang to the window and looked eagerly out to see who could be coming, for he knew Mother Gertrude would not have any bells. The stars were lighted all over the heavens, and they twinkled and sparkled in the darkness of the night. Far away there was something very black on the snow. It came nearer and nearer, and the bells rang out louder and louder. Suddenly a sled drove up to the cottage and stopped at the window.

It was a sled with four horses, and the horses were smaller than any ponies Vigg had ever seen. The little man who drove them had pulled hard on the reins to stop them, and they were jumping and rearing and making the snow fly in every direction.

"Keep quiet, Rapp! Be still, Snapp! Natt, stand quiet! Latt, keep in your skin!" shouted the little man in the sled as he jumped out and came to the window where Vigg was standing with eyes dilated with wonder. Vigg had never seen a man who looked like him, but then he had never seen many men. He was a little old man, just matching his horses in size. His face was full of wrinkles, and his whiskers were like white moss.

His clothes were of fur from head to foot, and in one side of his mouth he held a pipe, while the smoke came out of the other side.

"Good evening, Pug Nose," he said.

Vigg answered, with some dignity, "Good evening."

"Oh, Mother Gertrude isn't home yet, and you are alone and have to be for a good hour yet. Are you not afraid?"

"I am a Swedish boy," answered Vigg. Mother Gertrude had taught him that Swedish boys were always brave.

"Oh, you are a Swedish boy, are you?" said the little old man, rubbing his nose with his mittens, and taking the pipe from his mouth. "Do you know who I am?"

"No," said Vigg, "but do you know who I am?"

The old man took off his cap and made the boy a low bow.

"I have the honor of talking to Vigg," said he. "You are the great fighter of the country and have just put on your first pair of trousers. You are not afraid of the largest whiskers in the world. You are Vigg, and I am Santa Claus. Have I the honor of being known to you?"

"Oh, you are Santa Claus! You must be a good man!" cried Vigg. "Mother has often spoken of you. Of course I know who you are."

"Thank you for your compliment," laughed Santa Claus. "You can't tell much about me from hearsay. Will you go out with me for a ride?"

"I would like to," said Vigg doubtfully, "but I can't, for mother is not home yet, and if I am not here when she comes what would she think?"

"You will be home before she gets back," Santa Claus answered. "Come along!"

Vigg sprang out. It was very cold, and Vigg was not dressed very warmly. His little sack was very tight, and his wooden shoes had made holes in his stockings. Santa Claus locked the door and lifted Vigg into the sled, covered him up with a blanket, blew some smoke out of his pipe, cracked his whip, and off they flew.

They were very soon far away from the heath and came to a dark wood. Mother Gertrude had told Vigg about this wood. The trees were so big and high that it seemed to him as if the stars were on the boughs. Sometimes between the trunks of the trees one could catch a glimmer of the lights from other houses. At last Santa Claus stopped his team before a little house.

"There are a good boy and girl here and others who must have some Christmas gifts," said Santa Claus.

Then he went into the cottage, and Vigg went with him. The family were all gathered around the Christmas tree, and the father was reading from the Bible about the child Jesus. Santa Claus slipped his presents inside the door without their seeing him and softly went back with Vigg to the sled. Then they started again through the dark wood.

After awhile Santa Claus stopped in front of a big building, from every window of which shone a bright light. He found many presents for this house when he opened his chest, so many that Vigg wondered and marveled at them. There were bracelets, necklaces, veils and buckles and silk and velvet and gold and silver and all sorts of precious stones.

"What are all these for?" he asked.

"They are for fishes," said Santa Claus, with a wink. "For the young ladies to catch fishes."

Now they went to the king's palace, which was much larger than even the last fine house.

"Here are a couple of presents for the prince," said Santa Claus. "We will soon finish here, and then we will go to the great king in the mountain, and then home to Mother Gertrude on the heath."

Once more he opened the chest, and Vigg saw all the wonderful things he took out.

Santa Claus and Vigg again mounted the sled, and away they went again through the dark wood.

"Now we are going to see the mountain king," said Santa Claus.

Vigg was very quiet and thoughtful for awhile. Then he asked anxiously, "Is your chest empty now?"

"Pretty nearly," said Santa Claus as he put his pipe in his mouth.

"You have presents for all the rest. Haven't you any for me?" asked Vigg plaintively.

"Oh, you need not be afraid I shall forget you," laughed Santa Claus. "Your present is at the bottom of the chest."

"Oh, please, show it to me!" Vigg pleaded.

"Can't you wait till you get home tomorrow?" asked Santa Claus.

"No, no; let me see it now," said Vigg.

"There it is," answered his companion, turning around to his chest and pulling from it a pair of thick woolen stockings

"Is that all?" asked Vigg.

"Aren't you glad to have them?" replied Santa Claus. "You know there are holes in the ones you have on."

"Yes, but Mother Gertrude could have mended them. You give the prince such fine things. I think you might have something pretty for me too."

Santa Claus did not say a word, but he laid the stockings back in the chest and blew long whiffs of smoke from his pipe and looked very thoughtful.

No one spoke a word for a long while, and Vigg's thoughts were full of envy. He was angry that the prince should have had such beautiful things, and only the woolen stockings were given to him.

Then they came to a great mountain, with a high, straight wall of rock, and Santa Claus stopped the sled and got out and gave an oat cake to each of th four horses, Rapp and Snapp and Natt and Latt. Then, taking Vigg by the hand, he knocked at the mountain wall. It opened before them, and they went in.

They had taken only a few steps when Vigg became very much frightened, for the inside of the mountain seemed to be a dreadful place. It would have been as black as night but for the light which shone from the eyes of the snakes and toads which were crawling on the walls and in the damp recesses among the stones.

"I want to go home to mother," said Vigg.

"I thought you were a Swedish boy," replied Santa Claus. And Vigg did not say a word.

"How do you like toads—that one, for instance?" asked Santa Claus after they had gone on a little farther. He pointed to a green animal which was sitting on a stone, with its round eyes staring at the boy.

"It is dreadful!" faltered Vigg.

"You had the toad brought here," replied Santa Claus. "Do you see how puffed up he is? That is from envy. You see you wished that you had the prince's gifts and didn't like the present I gave you. A snake or a toad comes here for every bad thought that enters into any one's heart."

"I am very sorry," said Vigg. "It was very naughty and ugly of me, and I am ashamed."

They went on and on, through many crooked roads, deeper and deeper into the mountains. After awhile it began to grow lighter, and at last they turned a corner and came into a grand hall. The walls were made of mountain crystals, which glittered brilliantly in the light of torches held by innumerable dwarfs, who were ranged around three sides of the great hall. The light shining through the crystals lighted it with all the colors of the rainbow.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts itself; there are sore—absorbing and discharging, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly subject to this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. Worms and every other symptom of itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

Every Man Should Insure.

The following from a Toronto Daily, is worthy of very careful consideration:—

The force of the obligation resting upon every man to carry a substantial insurance policy on his life was never better illustrated than in the death of Sir John Thompson.

If ever a man lived who could claim freedom from this obligation it was the late Premier. Before the fatal illness seized him he had every reason to expect a long life; his earning capacity was large; and he was, at one time at all events, justified in expecting that he would fall heir to a considerable fortune. But the expectations of fortune were swept away, death came in mid-life and pratically the only support left for the bereaved family is a paltry insurance of $6.000.

The moral of it all is that every man, no matter how circumstanced, should insure, and insure to the largest extent that his income will justify.

The Late Premier, SIR JOHN S D. THOMPSON, was insured in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY of CANADA.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Disease, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I tried other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but they could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body, the skin became dry and turned hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

GOUGH BROS.'
CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL OF LOW PRICES.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

Our Clothing Trolley Continues to Run on the Bargain Wire. A smaller amount of money than ever before is enough to make every buyer more comfortable, and not a whit lost in quality or style. Whatever the price, the Clothing must be stylish, or we have no use for it.

Canada's Best People speak About Lactated Food.

A city physician said to a circle of friends the other day: "I am pleased that Lactated Food has attained its present popularity. As an infant food it cannot be too highly praised and recommended to all mothers."

All parents who have had the opportunity of seeing what Lactated Food has done for babies will indorse the physician's remarks.

Mr. Fred. R. Titus, a prominent merchant of St. John, N.B., speaks as follows about Lactated Food:

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the superior excellence of your Lactated Food for infants and invalids, as I have seen the most beneficial results from its use.

"We have seven children, and consequently have had some experience with foods, having used a number of kinds; but we find your Lactated Food superior to all others, particularly as a regulator of the bowels.

"I have seen its use attended with good results when no other food could be kept on the child's stomach. You can use this in any way you please, as I believe the lives of many children could be saved by the use of your Food."

RE KILLING HOGS.

A correspondent writes: "Would you kindly allow me space in your columns for the benefit of farmers, to say that I have just received a communication from a prominent pork packing firm urging me to caution farmers to be particularly careful in dressing hogs, to open them well between the hams and forward through the breast. Otherwise fat hogs are apt to retain the animal heat, and taint the meat easily. Also to avoid shooting them, as too often the ball glances through the shoulder, destroying it. And it is better, especially at this time of the year, to take the tongues out and see that the mouth is well opened so that the water will drain off properly. By clean dressing and observing these points, it will assist very materially in keeping the demand for our Midland District to the front."

DECEMBER WEDDING BELLS AT BRIDGENORTH.

An Interesting Matrimonial Event at Bridgenorth Yesterday.

The village of Bridgenorth was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, when Miss Minnie Dean, youngest daughter of the late Marcus Dean, Bridgenorth, was united in marriage to Mr. W. H. White, of Cobourg, late engineer on the Government steamer Empire. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the Misses Dean by Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's in the presence of a number of invited guests. The young bride, who was attired in a dress of cream silk, trimmed with point lace, carrying in her hand a bouquet of roses, was assisted by her sister, Miss Marcia Dean, in a dress of cream Henrietta, trimmed with lace, and wearing a bouquet of roses. Mr. White was assisted throughout the ceremony by Mr. Andrew Jobe, Peterborough. After the ceremony the young couple received the congratulations of the guests present, after which they left on their wedding tour, the wedding supper being partaken of at the residence of Mrs. Burke, King street, Cobourg, where an enjoyable evening was spent in the midst of a circle of friends. As an evidence of the universal popularity of the bride, who is highly esteemed throughout the district, it may be mentioned that she was the recipient of a number of costly and beautiful wedding presents. On their return home the young couple will take up their residence in Bridgenorth, where their many friends will unite in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rhelmer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

The assortment includes all the very newest and handsomest goods from all of the best makers, and the prices will be found the lowest in town. China Hall and Silver Bazaar.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Delightfully Successful Entertainment in St. John's School House.

Last night, St. John's School room was literally crowded with a select audience assembled in the interest of charity to listen to an entertainment of a novel and most diverting character. Mrs. J. E. Hammond deserves the credit of suggesting an idea that was so successfully carried into effect.

The school house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the windows draped with flags, and the platform tastefully and effectively arranged for the little drawing room comedy, that formed the chief feature of the evening.

Previous to this a very pleasing musical and elocutionary programme was presented, consisting of a quartette (Lorelei), Messrs. Hayden, Varnes, Kingscote and Morphet; an instrumental duet, by Mesdames Smith and Hibbard; a humourous reading, "Uncle Podger," by Mr. W. D. Parker; a vocal solo by Miss Clara Clarke, and a vocal solo, Troters's "Deathless Army," by Mr. W. Billett. The accompanists were Miss Hayden, Mrs. F. W. Taylor, Miss Vink and Mrs. G. A. Smith, and their work was, like that of their principals, very satisfactory.

To this succeeded a sparkling little drawing room comedy, "My Turn Next," with the following cast:

Twitters	Mr. Carlon
Lydia	Mrs. Lloyd
Tim Bolus	Mr. G. A. Smith
Cecilia	Miss Boucher
Peggy	Mrs. E. Sherwood
Tom Trap	Mr. W. J. Drope
Wheatear	Mr. Heathcote

"Twitters," an impressionable pill compounder, falls in love with and marries Mrs. "Lydia" Brown, a widow. The nouveaux mariees invite their mutual friends to a party, and as "Lydia" enters the drawing room she is saluted by the guests under four or five different names—Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Green, etc. "Twitters," puzzled with the idea that he has married such a complex sort of widow, becomes alarmed when he learns that all the widow's previous husbands died suddenly and mysteriously, and he feared that a dose for himself may be concealed in the banquet. Out of this little plot most amusing and humorous situations are cleverly developed and all ends happily when it is discovered that Mrs. Brown's late husband assumed the several names to escape pecuniary persecution, and that Mrs. Twitters was in the singular number. Without any disparagement to the other participants, who all did well, it may be mentioned that Mr. Carlon as "Twitters" did admirably well; and by his excellent impersonation, together with the able assistance he received from the other performers, a most diverting and enjoyable little comedy was presented. It is suggested that while the members of the "company" are in fettle, the little comedy "My Turn Next" would well bear repetition. The proceeds of last night's entertainment amounted to between $40 and $50, to be devoted to the noble cause of charity.

WEST ALGOMA VACANT.

The Cross-Petition Against Mr. Conmee Dropped.

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—The West Algoma election petition came up yesterday for trial at Osgoode Hall. It had been understood that the trial would be almost a formal affair. Mr. Savage, the member-elect, was expected to offer no opposition. The case was heard before Judges Boyd and Ferguson. W. R. Riddell, Q.C., applied for permission to put in another petition in petitioner's name, on the ground that there was collusion between Messrs. Conmee and Savage and the petition was a farce. This was refused. It was shown that Mr. Savage had hired and paid for a rig for use by a voter, and on the strength of this, no opposition being offered, the election was declared void and the seat vacant.

The cross-petition against Mr. Conmee was dropped, Mr. Conmee not claiming the vacated seat. James Dickinson, editor of a newspaper at Port Arthur, was present, represented by counsel and was anxious to prosecute the cross-petition. The matter was argued at some length, but permission was finally refused.

Mr. Conmee and Mr. Savage will contest the seat over again.

Kingston Election Trial.

KINGSTON, Dec. 19.—The election petition trial was continued yesterday. Edward Christley admitted getting $5 from John Laird, but judgment was reserved to decide if Laird was an agent. Counsels Blake, Whiting, Walken and McIntyre argued in the case of Election Clerk Luscombe, and the court decided he had committed a corrupt act in voting, but that he was not Smythe's agent. Several voters testified to having got small gifts of money from both organizers. Hon. S. H. Blake read law in the Luscombe case that no election clerk was entitled to vote.

A Bank Robber Gets Five Years.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 19.—Walter Irwin, the notorious bank robber, was last night sentenced by Judge Creasor to five years in Kingston penitentiary. After a lengthy trial at the Grey County Court here last week, Irwin was convicted of robbing the private bank of Hartman & Wilgress, at Clarksburg, Ont., of a large sum of money on the night of August 30th last. The defence did its utmost to prove an alibi and produced no less than fifteen witnesses, several of whom swore that Irwin was attending a dance in Toronto (over a hundred miles away) at the time the bank was robbed. The principal witnesses for the crown were Detectives Murray and Slemin and Mr. C. W. Hartman, the banker. The latter swore positively to a certain coin which was found on the prisoner as being one of a collection stolen from his bank. The two detectives also gave damaging evidence against Irwin whose previous bad record weighed decidedly against him with the jury.

them and attempted to drive them away and a fight ensued. The men in hiding appeared on the scene, and the strikers, finding themselves outnumbered, started to run. At least 200 shots were fired, and it is known that one man, a striker, was shot in the leg, and his injury may prove fatal.

Killed by Mexican Indians.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A special to the Recorder from Hermosilla, Mexico, says: A party of citizens who left here a few weeks ago to explore Tiburen Island in search of gold mines, which, according to tradition, are to be found there, have returned with one of their number missing. The Seris Indians, the cannibal tribe that occupies the island, made no hostile demonstration toward the prospectors, but Edvardo Flores, a young member of the party, became separated from his companions, and although a long search was made for him he could not be found. It is feared he was kidnapped by the Indians, killed and eaten.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S TRIALS.

Close Confinement to the School Room is Apt to Result Disastrously to Health—How one Teacher Regained Her Rosy Cheeks.

In the rural villages everyone takes an interest in his or her neighbour, and anything out of the ordinary happening is pretty certain to be thoroughly discussed. The pretty little village of Maria East, Que., has lately been discussing the restoration to health and strength of Miss Hughes, daughter of Mr. Jas. Hughes, after an illness extending over a period of two years. Miss Hughes is a school teacher, popular with her pupils and her friends, and it is little wonder, therefore, that all are rejoicing at her recovery. Mrs. Hughes, the mother of the young lady, tells of her illness and recovery as follows:—"My daughter has been sick for two years, not confined to her bed, but complaining of headache all the time, she had no appetite, was always deathly pale, short of breath with great jumping of the heart whenever she tried to do anything, or walk or go upstairs. Reading of the cures by the use of Pink Pills, we sent for two boxes and before the first was finished she felt an improvement. When the second box was finished we got another supply, and by the time she had taken five boxes she felt that she was once more in good health. The headaches left her, the paleness was replaced by glowing rosy cheeks, and she had once more an elasticity of step and is in fact full of life again. We feel that she owes her regained health to the use of Pink Pills and are grateful for what they have done for her. She is now teaching school half a mile from home, and walks to and from school every morning and evening, without the least feeling of fatigue. I will be glad if this statement is of benedt to other sufferers in such a state as my daughter was."

To those engaged in sedentary occupations Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable, as they strengthen the nerves, and keep the blood in a pure and healthy condition, warding off disease when taken in time, or if the constitution is already debilitated, restoring it to a full measure of health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when all other medicines fail.

MR. BOWELL'S CABINET

The Personnel of the New Ministry Finally Decided Upon.

UPPER MINISTER OF JUSTICE

Dr. Montague at Last Finds a Place in the Cabinet, but Without a Portfolio—Mr. Dickey Secretary of State—Little Change in Other Departments.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—The Cabinet has at last been formed and stands as follows:

Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell.

Postmaster-General—Sir Adolphe P. Caron.

Minister of Marine and Fisheries—Hon. John Costigan.

Minister of Finance—Hon. George Eulas Foster.

Minister of Justice—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper.

Minister of Railways and Canals—Hon. John Graham Haggart.

Minister of Public Works—Hon. Joseph Aldrie Ouimet.

Minister of Militia and Defence—Hon. James Colbrooke Patterson.

Minister of the Interior—Hon. Thomas Mayne Daily.

Minister of Trade and Commerce—Hon. William Bullock Ives.

THE NEW MINISTER OF JUSTICE.

Minister of Agriculture—Hon. Auguste Real Angers.

Secretary of State—Hon. Arthur R. Dickey.

Without portfolios—Sir Frank Smith, Hon. D. Ferguson and Dr. Montague.

Not in the Cabinet—Solicitor-General of Canada—Hon. John Joseph Curran, Q.C.

Controller of Customs—Hon. Nathaniel Clarke Wallace.

Controller of Inland Revenue.—Hon. John Fisher Wood.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell has received the following cablegram from Sir Charles Tupper: "The Blenheim will sail on Saturday evening, and may be expected at Halifax on the morning of Monday, the 31st inst. A special train will convey the body to Portsmouth on Saturday morning. It will be received by a guard of honor. The band will play a funeral march and twenty minute-guns will be fired. The captain's large cabin will be converted into a temporary mortuary chamber. Senator Sanford accompanies me." It is therefore probable that the state funeral will take place at Halifax the following Wednesday.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The Ceremony at Portsmouth to be Conducted With All Honor.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Sir Charles Tupper is preparing for his trip to Canada. He and Senator Sanford will go to Portsmouth on the special funeral train on Saturday and will accompany the body to Canada. The Blenheim, it is officially said, will leave Portsmouth on Saturday next at noon, and will be speeded so as to reach Halifax on the morning of December 31.

Before Her Majesty left Windsor for the Isle of Wight she sent another magnificent wreath to accompany the dead body to Canada.

The arrangements for the removal of the body of Sir John Thompson as officially announced are as follows: The body will be taken from the mortuary chapel at No. 5 Welbeck street, where it has remained since the funeral on Saturday morning and will leave Victoria station for Portsmouth on a special train at 9 o'clock. The train will arrive at Portsmouth at 11 o'clock. The body will be received by the Roman Catholic bishop of Portsmouth, the Right Rev. John Virtus, the Mayor of Portsmouth, the corporation officials of Portsmouth and a guard of honor composed of 200 sailors and marines, and immediately taken on board the Blenheim.

The ceremony over Sir John Thompson's body at Portsmouth will be almost identical with those at the reception of Peabody's body. All the warships will have their ensigns at half-mast and the officers from them will attend the services. Captain Karslake, of the Victoria, will supervise the arrangements. The firing will be from the Victory.

ON THE WAY TO PEKIN

The Chinese Army in Manchuria Outflanked by the Japs.

ROAD TO THE CAPITAL BLOCKED

Foreign Military Attaches With the Chinese Army Compelled to Remain in Pekin—Second and Third Divisions of the Invading Army Closing Up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Herald's Shanghai special says: "The Japanese have completely outflanked the Chinese army in Manchuria, which is now shut out on the eastern side of the great wall from the central portion of the empire. It is reported here that besides marching from Niuchwang, in the north, the Japanese are also aproaching Taku from the south.

Foreign ladies who lately returned to Pekin are flying back to Tien-Tsin.

The foreign military attaches sent to watch the military operations on behalf of their respective governments are unable to join the Chinese headquarters and are still in Pekin.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A despatch from Tokio to the Central News says that a Japanese cruiser off Wei-Hai-Wei has captured a sailing vessel loaded with arms, ammunition and provisions consigned to Admiral Ting, of the Chinese fleet. The vessel was towed to Tallen-Wan.

Field Marshal Count Yamagata will resign the presidency of the privy council, and will be appointed the inspector-general of the Japanese army.

The Central News correspondent at Tien-Tsin telegraphs that on December 10 Charles Denby, United States minister at Pekin, received through the Tsungli-Yamen a note from the dowager empress of China accompanying valuable presents of silk and satin handkerchiefs, embroidered with crape, which the note explained were intended for the foreign ladies who had subscribed to the purchase of the testament which was presented to the dowager empress on the occasion of her birthday. The emperor has ordered the troops to protect the churches in Pekin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Japanese Legation last evening received a cablegram from the Japanese headquarters at Hiroshima which reads as follows: "The third division of the first army took Hai Mo-Ching on December 12 and occupied Hai-Chang on the 13th of December. Both places are on the route to New-Chang and Liao-Yang."

The Legation here regards these victories as very important ones indicating the nearing of the Second and Third divisions of the First army.

LOYALTY NOT ALL ON ONE SIDE.

An English Opinion of the Liberal Party of Canada.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Daily News has a leader to-day on the relations of England to her colonies. After discussing Canadian affairs at some length the writer says: "We have not a colonial party like the French and Germans, because there is no anti-colonial party. It is very remarkable that, although the autonomous colonies unhesitatingly have used their commercial freedom against the Mother Country, no resentment whatever is expressed here. Young nations must learn wisdom from experience. Protection never in the long run succeeds and free trade never in the long run fails. Sentiment is the real link between the colonies and England. The Liberals under Laurier, as under Blake, are equally loyal with the Conservatives and are anxious for a practical method of further uniting the empire and quickening and cheapening communication between London and the new world. The telegraph has done wonders, but steam has not yet done nearly all it can."

Sir Donald Smith's Peerage.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A report having reached here from Canada that Sir Donald A. Smith was in England for the purpose of having a peerage conferred upon him, a correspondent drew Sir Donald's attention to the matter. He said that such a purpose had not induced him to make his latest trip to Great Britain. He did not know, indeed, how such a statement came to be made in Canada. Other friends of Sir Donald Smith in London say that his elevation to the peerage would be quite unexpected to them at the present juncture.

The Czar to be Crowned in April.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec, 20.—According to the present arrangements the coronation of the Czar, Nicholas II., will take place in April. After the coronation the Czar and Czarina will proceed to Nijni Novgorod, where they will open the national exhibition. It is understood that extensive changes in the government offices will be made at the beginning of the Russian new year.

Hungary's Prime Ministry to Resign.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Standard's Vienna correspondent gives more positive form to the long prevalent rumors of Premier Dr. Wekerle's intention to resign. Wekerle conferred with Banffy, Tisza and ex-Minister Szell, one of whom he will propose as his successor. He apparently is riding for a fall and his resignation is likely to be accepted. The crisis, however, will be purely ministerial.

Wiggins Arrives at Archangel.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—Captain Wiggins, the Arctic explorer and his party who were lost to the world for several weeks last fall, arrived at Archangel on December 18. Five had been severely frost bitten and are in a hospital. All forty had suffered great hardships during their overland journey of 33 days from Chabalova to Pestoserosk.

BURNS SEES HIS ERROR

He Qualifies His Statements Somewhat Regarding the Republic.

LIKES AMERICA ON THE WHOLE

No Delegation of Labor Representatives Meets Him on His Arrival in Chicago—He Addresses a Meeting and His Hearers Go Away Pleased.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—John Burns, the London agitator, arrived in Chicago yesterday. There was no demonstration at the depot and no delegation of labor representatives to meet him. As to his characterization of Chicago as a "pocket edition of hell," he admitted having made the remark, but declared he qualified the statement with a complimentary reference to the art institute and the police and fire departments.

"My remark about Chicago," he said, "was based on what I saw in different parts of the city and the information given me by prominent labor agitators."

In regard to his criticism in Denver of the American constitution, Mr. Burns said the reports sent out by certain papers on that subject were gross exaggerations of one of the most pleasant evenings he had ever spent in his life. He said he declared that, considering all the changes that had been in America since the pre-industrial period, when the constitution was framed, he thought there might advantageously be made some changes in it in accordance with the increased love of liberty of the American people. As it stood now it was the best constitution ever written, but that did not mean it could not be improved upon.

Mr. Burns stated his opinion of this country, as far as he has seen it, as follows: "Schools splendid; libraries excellent; jails too good; roads bad; streets worse; drainage the same; art museums good for the age of the country; corporation exacting, tyrannical and extravagant; railway travelling palatial for the rich, and better than any I have ever seen the poor; cut off the head lines of your newspapers and you have a good carcass left, but still too much of a journalistic slaughter-house; municipal life considerably below any in Europe. I like America and shall come here again some day. I think one of these days its municipal institutions, like most of its others, will be the greatest in the world."

Mr. Burns said he was pleased with the American Federation of Labor. He approves the counting of votes according to representation. He characterized Judge Wood's find on the Debs case as improper and thought it was bound to bring about a revulsion of feeling both among the middle classes and the higher classes.

Mr. Burns delivered an address here at night before 1 000 members of local labor unions. He was introduced by a prominent labor leader who asked that Mr. Burns be judged by what he would have to say for himself and not by what he termed "the garbled telegraph reports which have appeared in the daily papers."

Mr. Burns announced as his subject: "The municipal and political phase of the labor movement." In the opening of his address he spoke of the need of eliminating politics from the police and fire departments and said there would never be efficiency without permanency; he told several anecdotes about the Omaha policemen getting dismissed with each change of administration. He urged that Americans follow the example of England by owning water and light works, railroads, etc., thereby giving work to the unemployed, lowering taxes, and giving water, light and transportation at a low rate.

Politics, he said, was the medium through which the laboring man must gain power. Do not resort to force, but use persuasion. Nothing yet has been gained by violence.

Mr. Burns spoke lightly of the press criticisms of himself, but read clippings from several papers, asking how much worse were the reports of the papers themselves than anything he had made free to say.

The labor unions were expecting more violent language from the Englishman and had arranged two speeches in answer if Mr. Burns should attack the city government. There was no occasion for reply, however, and at the close of the address the meeting adjourned.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Slater Pleads Not Guilty to the Charge of Attempted Train Wrecking.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 20.—The lad Thomas Slater, who was arrested for placing the ties on the G. T. R. track last Wednesday, had a hearing yesterday before Police Magistrate Logan. Lawyer Arthur Crow was present defending him and much to the surprise of those present pleaded not guilty for the boy.

Several witnesses for the prosecution gave evidence, the most important bearing on the guilt of the prisoner being that of Detective Bradley of the G. T. R., wherein he stated he had heard the prisoner confess to placing the ties on the track to Chief Young and Detective Day in the presence of himself and Officer Mains of the Ontario Police and that the prisoner had been cautioned before that what he would say might be used in evidence against him. Police Magistrate Logan committed him for trial at the next assizes.

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 145 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1894.

THE election courts have already reduced the slender Opposition force in the Local Legislature by two. Mr. Savage, of Algoma, was unseated on Tuesday, and Dr. Smythe, the Opposition member for Kingston, was also relieved of his seat on Wednesday. Next! In the Kingston trial it appeared from the evidence that money "was as plentiful as dust" with the Conservatives on election day. And the reduction of the Conservative members in the Legislature, by two, means an addition of two to the following of the government, for Hon Mr. Harty, Minister of Public Works, is pretty certain of election in Kingston—if not by acclamation at least by a good majority. And the chances are largely in favour of Mr. Conmee being returned for Algoma.

THE Montreal Star mentions a circumstance that redounds to the honourable character of the late Sir John Thompson. The Star says:—"That Sir John, who devoted his princely abilities to the service of his country, should have died poor, is one of the surest guarantees of his worthiness. At one time the sum of $30,000 was subscribed for presentation to the late Premier by his friends, who appreciated how insufficiently he was paid for his herculean labours; but the dead man put the gift from him lest a misunderstanding of its import might shadow his white honour and limit his usefulness. For the present he could live; and, for the future, he trusted to Canada."

SINCE the religious complexion of the Premier of the Dominion has changed, Mr. Marter feels that his fatal flap on the sectarian question has been in vain. If he had only consulted a clairvoyant who would have told him that Hon. Mackenzie Bowell was to be Premier, he would have been saved the humiliation of a recantation on the Separate School matter. Mr. Marter now sees that proceeding by principle is safer than steering by policy.

ONE of the many things besides the Tay Canal and the Curran Bridge that have operated adversely to Hon. Mr. Haggart's chances for the Premiership is the fact that his moral record is not quite so clear as that of a Chevalier Bayard. Party fealty will stand a certain amount of moral discursiveness, but even our good Conservative friends draw the line at making Premiers out of anything but unalloyed metal.

IT is not yet definitely decided that Hon. John Haggart will introduce a bill the next session of parliament to have his name changed from John to "Dinnis" so that when Mr. Bowell retires it will be safe to accept the premiership. Three premiers named John dying in three years attaches a sort of figure 13 fatality to the name in connection with the Premiership of Canada.

BELLEVILLE is to be heartily congratulated on receiving the honour of furnishing a Dominion Premier, and as good a one as the Conservative party can furnish in Canada to-day.

IT is not yet officially announced that Dr. Montague, the heavy—in the avoirdupoise sense—orator of the Conservative party—is to be a running mate—minister without portfolio—to Premier Bowell.

THE St. Thomas Journal says that Mr. Bowell's best claim to the Premiership lies in his name being Mackenzie.

ACCORDING to the Hamilton Herald Hon. John Haggart has been Bowelled out of the premiership chances.

DR. SMYTHE RESIGNS.

A New Election to be Held in Kingston Next Month.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 20.—In the election trial yesterday the first witness, W. M. Langdon, chairman of Smythe's election committe for Rideau ward, admitted having paid a voter's fare to come to Kingston.

Dr. Walkem, counsel for the respondent, then rose and said that in view of Langdon's testimony, which was a surprise of all, Dr. Smythe would vacate his seat. Counsel then withdrew for a conference as to costs. On returning to court Dr. Walkem announced that the counter petition against Mr. Harty would be withdrawn and that an understanding has been arrived at as to costs.

It is generally thought a new election will take place in January.

A Maidstone Farmer in Trouble.

WINDSOR, Dec. 20.—E. S. Wigle, of the law firm of Fleming, Wigle & Rodd, has secured a writ in the High Court of Justice against William Hager for the sum of ten thousand dollars. The plaintiff is Margaret York, who claims the defendant betrayed her daughter under promise of marriage. Lizzie York, her only daughter, a handsome young woman about 20 years of age. Hager is a well-to-do farmer and resides in Maidstone. He is about 25 years of age and well known throughout Essex county. For many years the two families lived on farms in Maidstone township and attended the same school. About three years ago William York, the father of Lizzie, died and shortly after the widow decided to remove with her daughter to Windsor. While waiting till a new house she was building was completed, Mrs. York resided at 98 Mercer street. Hager was a frequent visitor and his engagement to Lizzie was known by all their friends. After Mrs. York removed to her new house on Lillian street the visits of the country lad became less frequent and finally ceased.

A Big British Battleship.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A first-class barbette ship, the largest and designed to be the most magnificent British battleship afloat, was launched at Chatham yesterday. The vessel was baptised by Countess Spencer, wife of Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty. Lord Rosebery and his daughters and many other distinguished persons were present. The length of the ship over all is 420 feet and its displacement 18,000 tons. The cost of her hull was £987,800.

THE HENDERSHOTT CASE.

The Theory That a Murder Was Committed is Generally Accepted.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 19.—The Hendershott case is still the principal topic of conversation about the city, but nothing new has developed. The evidence taken at the inquest is regarded as very damaging to the suspected parties, and the theory of murder has grown to be the generally accepted one in this vicinity. The Ontario Government has been asked to send Provincial Detective Murray to St. Thomas to work upon the case, and it is hoped that more light will be thrown upon the tragedy at the continuation of the inquest on Friday next.

The circumstances of the case which give so much reason to believe that a murder was committed are as follows: William H. Hendershott, aged 23, and William Welter, aged 30, both lived with John Hendershott, an uncle of the former and soon to be father-in-law of the latter. John Hendershott lives in Middlemarch, a village in Southwold township, three miles west of here. In September $6,000 insurance was placed on young Hendershott's life in favor of his uncle and another $5,000, also in favor of the uncle, was added on November 12. On Friday morning last the two young men went to the woods to fell some trees. Welter returned alone and said that Hendershott was killed by a falling tree while trying to save his watch. Constable Fairbrother visited the scene of the accident, and 60 feet north of the tree found blood; also over 100 feet south of the tree was a pool of blood, and again 170 and nearly 200 feet south of the tree there was blood, while there was no blood at the tree. At the inquest before Coroner Gustin the stories of John Hendershott and young Welter showed many discrepancies.

UNDER MILITARY CONTROL.

Pekin Streets Patrolled by Soldiers—Jap Excesses at Port Arthur.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Central News correspondent in Tien-Tsin telegraphs: "Pekin is now under military control. Chinese soldiers are guarding the foreign legations and patrolling the streets. There are sixty military tents around the legations. Taoti Kung, Admiral Ting, four generals who commanded at Port Arthur and Gen. Yeh have been ordered to Pekin for punishment."

The Times correspondent in Hiroshima says that foreign correspondents in the Japanese army who have returned there agree that there were regrettable Japanese excesses at Port Arthur, but that the conduct of the Japanese was excusable, being paralleled in the best European armies. He positively denies that the reporters left the army in disgust.

The Japanese civil executive at Port Arthur has issued stringent regulations for the protection of the inhabitants who are returning to their homes. Many are being fed by the Japanese.

One of the Noble Thirteen.

TARA, Ont., Dec. 19.—At the convention of the North Bruce Liberal-Conservative Association, held here yesterday, Mr. A. McNeill, M.P., was the unanimous choice of a large and representative gathering as standard-bearer for the riding in the coming Dominion election.

Crispi's Ministry Exonerated.

ROME, Dec. 19.—The Senate commission to which the matter was referred has unanimously reported that the charge in the Giollitti documents concerning certain Senators are groundless and the Senators blameless.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 19, 1894.

On the street here 200 bushels of wheat sold at 62 for white, 61 1-2 for red and 58 for goose, 1,500 barley at 43 to 46 and 100 of oats at 32.

At East Buffalo the hold of stock amounted to 75 cars and there were 15 cars of fresh receipts. There were ten cars of Canadas on sale. Canada sheep choice to extra $4 a 4.25; Canada lambs all of good quality sold at $4.25 a 4.35 with a clearance of Canada stock, but the market closed weak with 15 cars of the total of offerings unsold.

The Grand Trunk returns of traffic for the week show an increase for this year of $2,994.

The decline in wheat continued in Chicago, the close being quarter a half lower. Corn and oats followed the wheat market and showed an equal loss in prices on the day's trading.

Stocks were stagnant in London but with a good tone. Americans were irregular but with almost no business. South Americans were strong.

During the early trading at the New York stock exchange the market was quiet, almost to stagnation. Chicago gas was the only stock on the list that showed any signs of life. There was little or nothing doing in the general list until the last hour or so of business when trading became more active.

THE PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY IN SESSION.

The Scheme of Church Socials, Soirees and Teas for the Purpose of Raising Funds Generally Condemned.

THE EVENING AND CONCLUDING SESSION.

After a splendid tea prepared by the ladies in the lecture room, the evening sederunt began.

Rev. Mr. Johnson reported that Centreville and Millbrook had been visited presbyterially and the several church interests were found satisfactory.

Rev. Mr. Sutherland, Warkworth, reported on Sabbath Observance. A conference on the report resulted in the Presbytery condemning, among other things, Sunday funerals, except when absolutely unavoidable.

The conference on the report of the committee on the Book of Praise referred from the afternoon session, resulted in recommending additional hymns to those that had been proposed by the General Assembly, and also that the whole book of Psalms be included.

Remits from the General Assembly were considered, and it was decided that all licentiates and all ministers from other churches, spend one year in the Mission field before being called to a charge.

In reference to the Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund, it was decided that all ministers on their settlement should become contributors to the fund.

Rev. A. MacWilliams was appointed to represent the Presbytery at the meeting of the Women's Foreign Mission Society in Port Hope next February.

In regard to Rev. Mr. Findlay's address to the Presbytery regarding the Augmentation Fund, the following resolution, moved by Rev. Mr. Bennett, and Rev. Mr. Sutherland, was unanimously adopted:

That the Presbytery express its sincere thanks to Rev. Mr. Findlay for the lucid and full exhibition of the claims of the Augmentation fund upon the congregations of the Presbytery, and heartily resolve to take immediate steps to meet said claims; and in order to this result, remit the whole case to the care of the Presbytery Augmentation Committee, with instructions that, in their allocation of the $1,200 expected from this Presbytery, among the different congregations, they have regard to the several sums now contributed for stipends and benevolent objects, and that the rate per family be more or less accordingly.

Presbytery adjourned to meet in the Mill street church, Port Hope, on the third Tuesday in March.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. R. A. Ward, who has been teaching in the Public School during the Model term, left on Friday. Before leaving the school, the pupils presented Mr. Ward with a beautiful ink stand.

Miss Maggie Fraser is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Edith Kidd, of Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Rutherford of Mount Pleasant, spent Sunday with friends in the village.

The concert given by the Foresters to their friends last Wednesday evening was well attended. Mr. R. J. Stuart occupied the chair, and gave a short opening address. A somewhat lengthy programme was well rendered. After passing a vote of thanks to those taking part in the entertainment, the audience dispersed.

The Model School final concert on Friday evening was a great success, both as to finances and entertainment. The town hall was well filled, and sharp at 8 o'clock the programme was begun. It was as follows:

PART I.

Norwood Orchestra, "Maritana" .....
Quartette, "Medley" ..... Misses Petterson and Merrit, and Messrs. Porter and Stubbs
Recitation, "The slave who saved St. Michael's" ..... Miss O'Brien
Solo ..... Miss Roxburg
Chorus, "Litoria" ..... male students
Farce, "Villainy Unmasked" .....
Model Orchestra ....

PART II.

Norwood orchestra, "Serenade" ....
Piano solo, "Il Trovatore" ..... Miss Patterson
Quartette "Corn Bread" ..... Messrs McMillan, Kidd, Masterson
Pantomime, "Cupid in the Kitchen" ....
Valedictory ..... Misses Roxburgh and Hamilton
Chorus, "Merrily Sings the Lark" ..... Students
Chorus, "Good Night, Farewell" ..... Students
Auld Lang Syne ....

God Save the Queen.

The people have now begun to look for the appearance of the Norwood orchestra at all our best concerts. Their selections were rendered in a very able manner. The quartettes were received with much applause, as was also the recitation by Miss O'Brien, and the solo by Miss Roxburgh. Miss Paterson's piano solo was given in a very artistic manner. The valedictory dealt mainly with the value of education, the difference between the mere gaining of knowledge and education and the necessary characteristics of a teacher, gave evidence of much careful thought in preparation. The choruses by the students showed how carefully they have been trained.

In music by Mr. Perney. The dialogue and pantomime, which formed the greater part of the entertainment, were given in a very creditable manner. They were received with storms of applause. The receipts of the evening amounted to $35.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The council met in the town hall, on Saturday, Dec. 15th. Reeve Price in the chair, all the councillors present. The reeve submitted the financial statement of the treasurer, up to Dec. 15th, 1894. Moved by Mr. Stewart, seconded Mr. Drain, that the statement be received and that the clerk get 250 copies printed in sheet form.—Carried. J. S. Ford, M. D., submitted the annual report of the sanitary condition of the village, which was read before the council. Moved by Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Drain, that the report be received and published in the minutes and that the thanks of the council be tendered to the Medical Health Officer for the efficient manner in which he has discharged his duties.—Carried.

When Dr. Ford made application for assistance from the council for a charity committee, Mr. Ebbs and Mr. Reynolds were appointed as a committee, with power to act. Council adjourned.

Mr. Jos. McClelland has opened business in the premises lately occupied by F. D. FitzGibbons, and so far reports business very good.

Before reaving, the Model students presented Mr. Perney with a beautiful chair as a token of their appreciation of his services during the past term. Mr. Perney though taken totally by surprise, made a very suitable reply.

A Street Railway in Trouble.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 19.—A despatch to the Herald from Halifax, N. S., says: The street railway of this city is in bad plight. The trouble is that $100,000 of its bonds have been repudiated, on the ground that they were fraudulently issued, and the road is now in the hands of a receiver appointed in the interests of these bondholders. The City Council threatens to ask the Legislature to cancel the charter, because of inefficiency of the railway service.

Sold to an Indian Chief.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 19.—Special Constable Finnegan left for the west coast of Vancover Island yesterday to rescue little Arthur Billinger from the hands of the Chucklesett Indians by whose chief he was purchased as a slave. Finnegan will arrest the man claiming to be Arthur's father, by whom he was sold to the Indians. The police have information that the boy was kidnapped from his home near New Whatcom several months ago.

Killed Her Children and Suicided.

CASSVILLE, Mo., Dec. 19.—At Dry Hollow, eight miles south of this place, a tragedy has resulted in the death of a mother and two children. During a fit of despondency Mrs. William Jones cut the throats of her five and seven-year-old children with a razor, and then committed suicide in the same manner.

SPECTACLES AND EYE GLASSES

In Gold, Silver, Nickel, Aluminum and Steel.

Whether you wear glasses now or not, if you are conscious of any difficulty in seeing—no matter how slight it is—do not neglect it for another day. It will cost you nothing to talk the matter over with me, and have your eyes skillfully examined.

No effort will be made to sell you Glasses unless you need them.

If you have never worn glasses, I will tell you if you ought to begin; if you already wear them, I will tell you whether they are suited to your eyes. What I have learned with long practical experience, concerning the best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, you can have the benefit of. I will guarantee to fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

I always keep a full and complete stock of the best Optical Goods manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which I can furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye-Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Also, Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye-Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelain Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye-Glass Guards.

SUGGESTION.—A Pair of Gold Spectacles or Eye-Glasses makes a most acceptable Christmas Present.

Own a Good Piano

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Wedding in St. Andrew's Manse.

Last evening at 5.30 an interesting event took place at St. Andrew's manse, when Mr. Lewis Whitfield and Miss Lena Ingram Hunter were united in marriage. The important ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. MacWilliams. Mr. Wm. Whitfield and Miss Annie Hunter supported the groom and bride. The happy couple will make their home in Monaghan. Their many friends will unite in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Children's Aid Society's Officer.

After a good deal of trouble in getting the organization of the Children's Aid Society into working shape in accordance with the requirements of the Act, the Society has appointed Mr. Finch W. Miller, agent and associate secretary. The office of the Society is in the town buildings. In order to give the many who are desirous of joining the Society, an opportunity of doing so, the agent will call upon such persons with roll, the signing of which and the payment of $1.00, will constitute membership. It will be necessary for the people to take a practical interest in the Society if the work is to be done effectively.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

Will Someone Answer?

A good many of the towns and cities are after the Snowball Waggon Company, of St. George, who are thinking of making a change of location. Toronto Junction, Hamilton, Drumbo, Woodstock and Stratford, are bidding for them. This is an old established concern, and has been before the public longer than any firm making waggons in the Dominion. They have a great reputation for making a good waggon. Could we not offer some inducements for them to come to Peterborough? Is there not someone who has a suitable factory here who would be glad to correspond with them, with a view to get them to locate in town? Don't let them move without making an effort to have them come our way.

Just What the Ladies Like.

A pair of kid gloves, a pretty veil, a sweet little silk handkerchief, a neat dress collar, or some charming piece of lace, are amongst the most pleasing gifts in the estimation of the ladies. Drop into Miss Delaney's and see the lovely store full of such goods, now on sale at her usual Xmas reduction prices. During a recent visit to the cities, Miss Delaney captured some of the latest and most fashionable novelties of this character for holiday gifts and birthday presents—the selection being such as should please the most fastidious, and at the same time, cost but a trifle, compared with their value. For children, nothing could excel the dear little cosy white fur jackets, the pretty little lamb's wool hoods, bootees, etc. Her stock of goods for evening wear is very select and worthy of admiration, while if you buy now, you save about half. A special attraction near the centre of the store is a 25 cent table, where, from a large selection of really useful novelties, you have your choice for only a quarter—a sum which represents only about one-fourth their original value.—Miss DELANEY. 2d

Valuable Dog Poisoned.

The valuable fox terrier bitch, "Miss Vick," winner of many first prizes, the property of Dr. Poole, V. S., died suddenly last night. A post mortem examination or analysis of the contents of the stomach showed that strychine poisoning was the cause of death. Dr. Poole naturally mourns the death of his pet canine, as she was a very valuable brood bitch.

Mild Weather and Health.

"The popular impression that an open season is less healthy than a cold one is not accurate," said a physician yesterday. "In general the cold weather means closed windows and less ventilation and fresh air, while mild weather is, amongst poor people at least, marked by greater freedom from confinement and close air. Diseases engendered or encouraged by bad air, like typhoid fever or diphtheria, are not so prevalent."

Importation of Oranges.

Buyers of fruit for the holidays should not overlook the special preparations made by Messrs. Oke & Co., the fruit and fish merchants on George street. Exceedingly large stocks have been imported of the celebrated "Hat" brand of Florida oranges, which have so great a demand at this season of the year. Besides oranges, this pushing firm have laid in an abundant stock of the other Christmas fruits, and fish and confectionery sufficient to meet all the heavy demands of their increasing trade.

Mrs. Mountford.

The lecture by Mrs. Mountford on Thursday next will doubtless be largely attended, as the lady is so favourably known here. It is doubtful whether or not she will appear in Peterborough again, as her engagements are already made for a considerable time in the large cities of the States. The lecture she will give here is said to be her best. The subject is "From Bethlehem to Calvary." The plan is open at Stratton's bookstore and the seats are selling rapidly.

At Clarke & Gibson's.

The magnificent and artistic collection of all kinds of watches, diamonds, clocks, jewellry and silverware at Messrs. Clarke & Gibson's handsome jewellery store on Hunter street is a real marvel. They have one of the most beautifully adorned windows of valuable and unique Christmas gifts in Peterborough, and what you see in the window you may witness in the whole establishment, which is well stocked with novelties and valuables of all the latest styles, prettiest patterns and from best markets. All are at remarkably low prices to suit the stringency of the times. Among these bewildering and decidedly attractive interior displays may be mentioned, gold and silver watches, best American makes, and in all kinds of cases, jewellry, silverware of every design and character, clocks, onyx marble and wood, fancy clocks, in gold and silver plate. Engagement rings, solitaire diamond rings, friendship rings, chased rings, sterling silver novelties, silver plate, plated ware, napkin rings, charms, pins, brooches, spectacles and eyeglasses, in gold and silver, etc., etc. What prettier Christmas present is there or one which the ladies value more highly than a neat and artistic piece of jewellry, which you can obtain at right prices and get the very best and latest in design at this reliable firm of jewellers and art dealers. Step inside his establishment and witness the dazzling display of goods, their bright and beautiful arrangement and the elegant assortment.

THE TOWN SOLICITOR ARGUES THE CASE.

SOME VERY IMPORTANT POINTS RAISED ON BEHALF OF THE TOWN.

Mr. G. H. Watson, Q.C., Will Argue for the Townships — The Day Will Probably be Taken up With This—The Farmers' Contention in Regard to Depreciation of Their Farms Ridiculed.

The argument in the sewer arbitration commenced this morning in the town council chamber before His Honour Judge Ketchum. Mr. G. H. Watson, Q. C., Toronto, is present to argue the case on behalf of the townships.

Mr. Town Solicitor Edwards began the argument on behalf of the town. He drew the learned arbitrator's attention to the remarks made by Mr. Edmison on behalf of the townships when the arbitration opened to the effect that when the township applied to the court for an injunction to restrain the town from going forward with the sewer it was not with the intention of preventing the town from having its outlet in Monaghan, but what the township objected to was that the sewage was going to be put into the river and would pollute it so as to prevent persons living along the river from using the water and that if it was shown that emptying the sewer into the river would not be injurious to the people along the banks, they would withdraw their objection. Mr. Edwards contended that it had been conclusively shown that it would not injure these people either directly or indirectly. The township had stated that they would bring the best sanitary experts on the continent — from Chicago, Detroit, New York, etc., — to prove that what what they contended was correct, but, Mr. Edwards asked, where was the evidence of these men? Where were they? The township had not brought them and the only evidence that came near hitting the mark was the evidence of Drs. Oldright, Sheard, Pine and Waters, and what these gentlemen did not know about bacteriology and sanitary science, as affecting the case in hand, would fill a large book.

The gentlemen all referred to Toronto, where the sewage was emptied into the bay, and the water for the use of the city pumped out of the bay, but these gentlemen must remember that the conditions here were very different, as the bay was a still body of water, and the sewage would stay there, while here we had a large running stream, which would carry the offensive matter away, and hence the dilution and purification would be very great.

The Town Solicitor also read a number of extracts from the Municipal act, which went to show that the town was justified in its action in regard to the matter unless the water of the river below the town was to be used for a public water supply, which was not the case.

The contention of Medical Health Officer Shaw, of Otonabee, and the score of farmers who were witnesses on behalf of the township, that the sewerage emptying into the river would hurt their cattle, prevent them from having the use of the river, and would depreciate the value of the farms was very fully handled by Mr. Edwards. He demonstrated from the evidence of the doctors on both sides that their theories regarding the injury to the cattle were wrong, and to use the ice would not have the slightest effect on the health of the community. (He referred to Toronto bay as practical demonstration of the fact.) The theory of the farmers that their lands would depreciate in value was, Mr. Edwards, said, very amusing. They evidently were thinking that it would bed up the same as sawdust and would spread over their farms in piles when the banks overflowed in spring. This idea, Mr. Edwards said, was wrong, but allowing that it was so, what more harm would it do than if the whole sewage of the town were spread on a sewerage farm right in their own community.

The evidence of the township as to the flow of the water at different seasons of the year was also dealt with very fully, and Mr. Edwards demonstrated that Mr. Aylmer's evidence on this point was the more reliable. The sewage system of Lowell, a city of 150,000 inhabitants, empties into the River Merimac, and is then used nine miles, further down, as a water supply by the city of Lawrence, a city of 50,000 population, and it received no injury from the use of it.

Mr. Edwards resuming after adjournment, concluded his argument by a recapitulation of the points he had adduced. Mr. Watson is placing the case of the townships as we go to press.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were prescribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galizien, Austria.

REQUIEM MASS.

For the Repose of the Late Premier's Soul.

Solemn requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of the late Sir John Thompson, was celebrated at 8 o'clock this morning in St. Peter's Cathedral, by his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Venerable Archdeacon Casey, and Reverend Fathers Scollard, Collins and O'Connell of the Cathedral, and Rev. Father Lynch of Port Hope. The Cathedral choir was present, as well as a large congregation, and the service was a most impressive one.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Nearly two hundred were present last evening at the prayer meeting in St. Andrew's church.

—Invitations to a ball to be held in Brighton on New Year's Eve have been received in town.

—St. Andrew's Sunday school expects to have a grand tea and entertainment for the school between Xmas and New Year's. Great preparations are being made.

—The Board of Trade of Belleville have decided to have a demonstration and banquet in honour of Mr. Bowell on his appointment as Premier.

—The City Council of Belleville offers a reward of $250 for the conviction of the incendiary who recently operated there. The Underwriters' Association adds a like amount.

—For the last couple of days the skating on White's pond has been excellent, but the soft weather to-day spoiled it most effectually. Quite a crowd were out on the river skating Tuesday night.

—A street car ran into a load of straw this morning on Charlotte street, just opposite Dr. King's residence, and consequently littered it with the contents of the waggon just in that particular locality. A wheel of the waggon was also broken.

—A complaint was laid with the police this morning to the effect that the skaters on Whyte's pond are having their fun at the expense of the residents in that neighbourhood by purloining straw and fence pickets with which to build fires in the evenings on the ice.

—The regular Salvation Army officers are to be admitted to membership in the London Ministerial Association. This gives colour to an oft-expressed belief that the Army will follow Methodism into the ranks of systematic orthodoxy, and that a new organization will arise to do it present work.

INSURANCE MAN AND A LIVERY STABLE EMPLOYEE.

They Have a "Rough and Tumble" over the Settlement of a Bill.

The row which occurred on Tuesday evening in a local hotel was investigated at the police court this morning, but as both the aspirants for pugilistic honours told entirely different stories regarding the affair, the magistrate could not ascertain who struck the first blow or originated the quarrel, so the informant was taxed with the costs and the case dismissed.

According to the story of the defendant, the plaintiff, a well known insurance man, came to a livery stable in which the defendant worked and asked if a man who was with him could be driven to Lindsay, as he had missed the train and it is alleged he also promised to "stand good" for the hire of the rig if payment was not forthcoming. The defendant drove the stranger to Lindsay, but did not receive sufficient money from him to pay him for the trip, and, according to his story, the proprietor of the livery charged the amount to him personally, as he knew nothing about the affair himself. The defendant took the bill to the insurance man at the hotel, and explaining the circumstances asked for payment saying that the amount had been charged up to him in the books. He states that the insurance man then struck him on the forehead with something, which fell to the ground before he struck the second time. The pair then clinched and a "scrap" ensued.

The insurance agent laid a complaint at police headquarters yesterday, and stated this morning before the magistrate that he had not guaranteed payment of the bill in question, and that when presented with it he had told the defendant that he would call around and see the proprietor of the livery stable in reference to it. The defendant had then told him that if payment was not forthcoming the amount was going to be taken out of his wages and, that sooner than stand this he would "kick the stuffin' out of him!" and suiting the action to the words, pitched in. As there was a great dissimilarity between the two stories, and as no one witnessed the beginning of the fight, the case was dismissed, as stated.

An iron link, used presumably as a "knuckle" in the fight, was picked up after the affair, but both participants denied the ownership thereof.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION EXPLAINED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In your remarks in last evening's issue of the Financial Statement presented through me by the town treasurer, to the council, you express a desire, on behalf of the EXAMINER and the ratepayers, of explanations in reference thereto. Believing as I do that the press and people should be in possession of all information in respect to public business, I hasten to give the information asked for, and therefore make no apology in advance for a portion of your valuable space. In regard to the alleged increase in the debenture indebtedness of the town amounting to $36,000, permit me to point out that of the $21,000 authorized by the property owners to be issued for the construction of an outfall sewer, that not one cent has yet been raised from that source, and therefore our indebtedness has not been yet increased on that account.

The Public School Board, acting under the authority which the law gives it, asked the council to submit a bylaw to the public school supporters to raise $5000 for permanent improvements to the schools. The bylaw was accordingly submitted and was approved of by the people, and the proceeds of the debentures handed over to the School Board, the town council having nothing to do in the matter except to carry out the law.

As to the $10,000 of town debentures, that of course had also to be submitted to the ratepayers, and was approved of by them.

The proceeds of these debentures were applied in meeting the accumulated liabilities of a number of previous years, which were not fully met by the levies made for those years, and for which this year's Council was not responsible.

I might say that this $10,000 was not sufficient to meet in full these accumulated liabilities, and that the balance has been paid out of the current revenue of the present year. The statement as presented by the Treasurer, shows a surplus of $800, after making liberal allowance for all contingent liabilities.

You will observe from the statement that the expenditure on account of the sewer, amounting to $2,874.00, has been paid out of the present year's revenue, and in all fairness this amount should be added to the surplus, as it will, no doubt, be met from the sale of debentures, when sold, to complete the sewer as originally intended.

Now, as to the Mason case—even if that should go against the town—and I don't know any reason why the Council, or anybody else, should assume that it will, while it is before the courts—the town's share of the costs has been paid as the case proceeded, and there is now deposited in the court in Toronto $400, which would, of course, be returned with other outlays if the town succeeds, and, in case the town does not, the amounts already paid out, including this $400, have been charged in the present year's legal expenses.

Again as to the sewer arbitration, the town's costs for witnesses and other expenses have been largely already paid and charged in this year's expenditure.

In addition to this, there are other assets which have been included in previous financial statements and auditors' reports, such as arrears of taxes charged against lands, amount due by Ashburnham, &c., which no doubt will soon be available and might have been included in this year's statement had the desire been to make it "roseate," and, although these are good assets, there was nothing included but what is absolutely unquestionable and now available in cash, and the others are left for next year's account. Then I assert that the present year's council has paid a balance due from previous years, paid all the expenses of the present year, provided for contingencies in connection with the outfall sewer and pending suits and still has a balance on the right side. Therefore, I think, it will be admitted I was correct when I exclaimed we had a "clean sheet."

As to the letter in the same issue signed "Fourth Book," I would remind him that he and not the council has seriously and erroneously reflected on our school boys and educational institutions. If a boy in the Fourth Book should not be sufficiently advanced to avoid the palpable blunders made by "Fourth Book," in dealing with the the town's finances I fear that an intelligent public would conclude that the large amounts spent annually on education have been very much wasted, but the writer could not have been a "Fourth Book" boy; if a school boy at all, he must be still in the first book and wrestling with the first rudiments of arithmetical knowledge. In conclusion permit me to say that both the council and the public appreciate the liberality of the trustees of the Nicholls estate, Messrs. Hall and McGill, in relieving the ratepayers of any payments to the hospital for the present year. The council have placed the acknowledgment of such generosity on their minutes by a unanimous vote of thanks.

Yours, etc.,
THOS. CAHILL.

HER WORDS AND DEEDS COMBINED.

Respectfully addressed to Miss Rudkins, George street, Peterborough, for her past kindness in supplying the material for decorating our dining room on St. Andrew's night, coupled with the fact I have from good authority, that in the overflow of her liberal soul, she said, "I am as good a Scotch lassie as you will find, although I am Irish and a Roman Catholic."

I was surprised, pleased and delighted, too,
On hearing words that were expressed by you,
The soul, the source from where they emanate,
It would be well if more would imitate.
Some true Scotch lassie may slight umbrage take
At the expression you did freely make,
Draw out wrong views, their fair name to defend,
And form opinions you did not intend.

No true Scotch lass will think you her degrade,
Nor stain her name all you have done or said,
Her will is there—perhaps her empty hand
Has not the means you have at your command.
St. Andrew's Scots for years your kindness shared,
No time or trouble on your part was spared,
Your plaids and tartans shared the moving fate
By your free heart our room to decorate.

Within your store a Highland lad you keep,
Being lifeless, he needs neither food nor sleep.
Right in the centre of the rooms clear light,
He stood conspicious on St. Andrew's night.
Your Irish birth or Catholic creed does not Prevent you showing kindness to the Scot,
Your liberal soul soars to a higher sphere,
Drawing race and creed in closer union here.

That name Scotch lassie—justly you assume,
Although not born where scented heather bloom;
The baneful spite of race or sect combined,
Fails to enslave your free, broad thinking mind.
Your town, to-day, would be more highly prized,
If acts like yours more frequent were practised;
All national boasting and sectarian strife,
Would give place to a more harmonious life.

Your acts to Scots should teach each race and age,
To crush out malice—rancour to assuage
The days of hatred and revenge remove,
Bind Scotch and Irish in true bonds of love.
When you laid claim to a Scotch lassie's place,
No vain presumption in your act I trace;
No empty words expressed in boasting tone,
But generous deeds performed through love alone.

Your free will acts in truth your words include,
Surely na Scotch lass will think you were rude;
Upon her actions you did not encroach,
Nor raise the Irish up above the Scotch.
Some one may say your words were out of place,
To much I say you narrow views embrace;
My views are broad, and strictly put in force,
I accept a kindness from each well-meant source.

Long may you live, admired with high respect,
And still have means our dining room to deck;
I hope you may possess the winning art,
To touch and gain some Scottish laddies heart

—WILLIAM TELFORD, Smith.

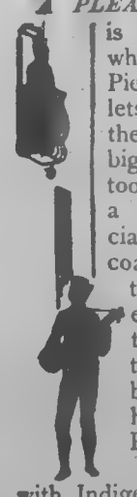
KEEP EVERLASTINGLY AT IT.



PLEASANT SURPRISE is in store for you when you buy Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. If you ever took the ordinary liver pill, big and bulky, nasty too, you'd appreciate a good thing, especially when it is sugar-coated, tiny as a mustard seed but very effective. Other things being equal, the smallest is the best in liver pills—hence, "Pleasant Pellets."

If you are troubled with Indigestion, Constipation, Biliousness, Bilious Headaches, and a hundred and one ills which depend upon an inactive liver,—use Dr. Pierce's Pellets. With these pills you get not only temporary relief but a positive cure; they're guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or your money is returned.

For fat people who suffer from indigestion, for hearty eaters and high livers—those whose livers are sluggish, this pill is what is most needed.

Take a Pellet after dinner.

A RARE GIFT.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY MAY D. ENGLE.

"Christmas eve!" soliloquized Van Wentworth, leaning back in his arm-chair and indolently clasping his hands behind his handsome blond head. "Christmas eve! Well, according to all that's orthodox, I ought to be feeling peaceful and good willish toward man. But I don't. Not a bit. Who does? Who but a child or a fool ever feels happy at Christmas? Not a soul. There is always the remembrance of some other happier time. Always one thinks of the vanished faces that were once so dear. Taken altogether, old Father Christmas, you're a monstrous fraud, a cheat, a whited sepulcher! The whole thing is an affectation, and the world has grown too old, too sad, too hard, to keep it up longer."

"WHY, WHO?" STAMMERED VAN.

He sat up and lighted the cigar between his teeth and then sank, with a sigh of comfort, into his sleepy hollow.

When next he opened his eyes, they rested on a charming girlish figure, all fur clad, from the cap on her bronze gold curls to the shoes on her slender feet. The lovely face, turned toward Van, wore an expression of sternness, evidently foreign to it, as she quietly awaited his pleasure to break the silence.

"Why, who?" stammered Van, greatly startled. "What—how? Who on earth?" then making a desperate attempt at coherency, "Who are you?"

His visitor smiled with sudden, irrepressible amusement as she replied, quite as seroncly as if it were an ordinary occurrence: "I am the spirit of Christmas, and very busy I am at this season, as you should know. I can ill spare the time I've been spending here, but I overheard your gross misstatements as I passed through the house, and it is my duty to bring you to a better frame of mind. The idea of a man so young giving vent to such bitter, misanthropical sentiments! Shame upon you! Are you better than the rest of mankind," with growing severity, "that you need feel so aggrieved over your woes? Do they exceed the sum of human endurance? Whose fault is it that you are solitary?" becoming almost vituperative. "Haven't you kept yourself to yourself and obstinately repelled all advances?"

Van looked somewhat dazed, but the spirit kept on relentlessly: "Do you remember the pretty model you snubbed so unmercifully when she seemed to take a little interest in your affairs?"

Van shrugged his shoulders dissentingly. "She wanted to flirt with me," he muttered.

"Well, what if she did?" queried the spirit, smothering a dimpling smile in its birth. "It wouldn't have hurt you. Then there was your chum, upon whom you churlishly turned your back when he came too close"—

"Yes!" grumbled Van, "because he wanted to steal my method."

The spirit gased at him with some disgust.

"And your fellow students at the art galleries, and the old porter on the first floor, your master across the river and those pleasant people you met on the Rhine last year—all these and many more would have been your friends, but you would none of them! Now you sit here and whine—yes," seeing that Van winced, "whine, because you're all alone. You deserve to be!" And the spirit stamped her foot in a very human way and gazed at him out of lovely, accusing eyes.

"But," said Van, bewildered, but never stopping to ask where she got her very accurate information, "what can I do? Tell me how I can better my lot!"

The spirit frowns. "There it is again! Why don't you ask, 'How can I better my neighbor's lot?' So long as you think only of yourself, just so long will nobody else think of you."

Van leaned back and sighed resignedly.

The sweet voice went on. "Go look up your friend. Send some remembrance to the pretty model. And the pleasant people of the Rhine are in the city. Go see them. Being strangers, doubtless they will be glad to see even you."

Van was thoroughly aroused now. "But you must stay with me," he pleaded. "I can never do all that by myself. No, don't go!" seeing her look about as if meditating flight. "You must stay. Ah, do!" turning upon her the full fire of magnetic eyes, whose power, when he chooses to exert it, the tender sex find it hard to resist. The spirit, being feminine, hesitates.

"How can I devote all my time to one mortal when I have so much to do?" she said perplexedly. "No; it is impossible! Still," marking Van's dejection, "I can help you But no man can have two spirits, so you must rid yourself of that ugly, morose one that you have now. If you do that, I can endow you with half of my soul—the half will be large enough for a man—but the old spirit must leave first. Will you do this?"

"Gladly," said Van.

Then the spirit softly kissed his eyes, a strange lethargy stole over him, and he felt and knew nothing more till he opened his eyes again, and they fell on a figure seated comfortably opposite to him and watching him with mocking smile, a figure oddly like his own.

Van was startled for an instant, and then it grew clear to him that this was his old soul that he had abandoned for the Christmas spirit.

"Well," he said genially, "there you are!"

"Evidently," murmured the soul.

"And, now," pursued Van, "what shall I do with you?"

The soul surveyed him with the utmost nonchalance. "I think I shall just stay around here a bit with you, old man," it said airily. "It will be somewhat of a relief to move without having to take you along, body."

"Oh!" said Van in some alarm, "but that won't do! No man wants two souls going about with him. I don't need you. I've got a better one now, and I think I'll dispose of you. Tell you what," with sudden inspiration, "I'll give you to old Goldthwaite. He hasn't any soul at all; sold it to the devil, they say, long since." And Van laughed contentedly. "Will that suit you?" he asked courteously.

The soul glanced at him with smiling contempt. "Well, hardly!" it sneered. "It's all very pretty to be so generous, but it is scarcely the part of a man of prudence to give himself away in any sense. And you would do it completely. Have you realized what it is you would do? Nothing more nor less than make another man a present of the entire history of your life, not only the deed, but the motive. Ha!" laughing lightly. "I touch you there, eh?"

Van gasped. "But," he said, "the motive was yours. How can I be blamed for that? Everything I've done has been at your instigation. It is all your fault."

"Yes?" mockingly. "But you pay the penalty, not I."

Van was silent with dismay. The soul glanced casually at him and smiled with satisfaction.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

INSURER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

VIGG'S CHRISTMAS.

On the fourth side of the hall was the king in his golden chair, dressed in ermine and velvet, sprinkled with precious tones, but his face was very grave and thoughtful.

Beside him sat his daughter, all dressed in silver gauze, most beautiful to look upon. She was pretty, but very, very pale, and seemed to be dying.

In the middle of the hall hung a huge pair of scales, and around the scales stood a great many dwarfs, laying weights now on one side and now on the other.

In front of the king stood a great crowd of brownies from all the houses and cottages for miles around. They told the king where they lived, and what they and their masters had thought and said and done during the last year. For every good thought and every good thing of which they spoke the dwarfs laid a golden weight on one side of the scales, and for every bad thought and every bad thing they laid a toad or a snake in the other scale.

"Vigg," said Santa Claus, "that beautiful princess is very sick, and if she does not get out of the mountain soon she will die. She longs for the air of heaven, and the sunlight, and the sight of the golden stars in the sky. She has been promised that she should see the starry heavens, and the angels, and be happy forever. She longs for it all, but she cannot leave the mountain until some Christmas eve when the scale of good deeds and words shall be weighed down to the floor, and that with the evil shall go up to the ceiling. You see now the scales are just even."

Scarcely had Santa Claus said this when he was summoned before the king. He had a great deal to speak of, and it was nearly all good, for he worked only at Christmas time, when people are almost always kind and friendly toward each other. The dwarfs laid many, many golden weights on the scale while Santa Claus was talking, and the side with them in it grew heavier and heavier.

While Santa Claus was speaking Vigg was on pins and needles, dreading to hear his own name pronounced. When at last it came, he turned first red and then pale. What Santa Claus said about him and about the woolen stockings I will not repeat, but the dwarf laid in the scale on the side of the bad things the dreadful toad that Vigg had seen in the stones. The toad was heavy, and every eye but that of Santa Claus was turned upon the little boy. The king and the princess, the dwarfs and the brownies, were all looking at him. Some of the glances were hard and severe and others full of compassion and sorrow, especially those of the beautiful princess, whose gaze was so mild and pitiful that Vigg covered his face with his hands, for he felt bitterly ashamed.

Santa Claus told about poor Mother Gertrude on the moor—how she had taken the little fatherless and motherless Vigg and cared for him, and how she made mittens and rugs and brooms and sold them to the grocer in the village in order to feed him; how willing she was to mend his clothes and do everything for him; how much she loved him and how little thought she had for herself, happy in his rosy cheeks and bright eyes and always ready to forgive even his disobedience; how earnestly she prayed for him every night before she went to sleep, and how only this very morning she had walked alone over the snow to the village just to get a Christmas tree and other little things for him.

While Santa Claus was telling this the dwarfs laid heavy golden weights in the scale of the good things, and the ugly green toad jumped down and disappeared, and the eyes of the beautiful princess were wet with tears, and Vigg was sobbing.

Yes, he was sobbing in his sleep, and the grand hall, with its crystal walls and brilliant lights, was gone, and Vigg was lying on his little bed in the cottage on the moor.

The Christmas fire was burning brightly in the stove, and by the bed stood Mother Gertrude, saying: "Poor little Vigg! You had to be all alone here for a long time with no light, but I could not get home sooner. Now I have the candle for you, and such a candle as it is! And bread and ginger cake and another cake for you to give to the sparrows tomorrow morning. And see here," added Mother Gertrude, "here is a pair of woolen stockings which I have made for you for your Christmas present. They are just what you need, and here is a pair of leather shoes, so that you need not wear your wooden ones on Christmas day."

Vigg had long wished to have a pair of leather shoes, and they made him very happy. He looked at them from all sides, but he looked so much longer at the woolen stockings that Mother Gertrude thought he was looking for some flaw in her work. The truth was that they were exactly like those that Santa Claus had had in his chest, and they made Vigg very thoughtful.

He threw his arms around Mother Gertrude's neck and said:

"Thank you, Mother Gertrude, for the shoes and the stockings, many times over for the stockings."

Now Mother Gertrude placed the pot in the fire and a white cover on the table, and the candle was lighted, and Vigg put on his new shoes and the woolen stockings. Sometimes he ran to the window and looked out on the wide, snowy moor and wondered about last night how it was that he got home and when. Santa Claus had been very kind to him, and so was dear Mother Gertrude, and Christmas eve was the most delightful time in all the world.—Romance.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
THREE RUNNING SORES
PHYSICIANS FAILED
BUT B.B.B. CURED
DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B. B. B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION
UNENDURABLE ITCHING
Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.
GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have used other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

MISTLETOE TRADITIONS.

Time Honored Myths of the Famous Plant. Emblem of Love.

The ancient British Druids attached much importance to the plants, trees and vines which they employed as Christmas decorations for their temples. The mistletoe especially they invested with a peculiarly hallowed and mystic character. They regarded it as an emblem of love and believed that it typified the beneficent feelings of their gods toward mankind. It is doubtless to this old Druidical association of the mistletoe with love that the English custom, which still obtains, of enforcing the forfeit of a kiss from any woman who is caught under a branch of it at Christmas time is traceable.

In the old Scandinavian mythology there is told a characteristic fable of this famous Christmas bough, the mistletoe. Balder, the god of poetry and eloquence and the son of Odin and Friga, one day told his mother that a dream had convinced him he should die by violence. To avert this destiny Friga invoked all the powers of nature—earth, air, fire, water, plants and animals—and made them swear to her an oath that they would not harm her son, who then fearlessly took his place among the gods and in all their combats fought unharmed amid a shower of arrows. But he had a bitter enemy in the person of a god called Loki, who, convinced that Balder's life was protected by some charm, resolved to fathom it. Disguising himself as an old woman, he visited Friga and in the course of their conversation casually asked how it was that her son Balder invariably came forth unscathed from all the fiercest battles of the gods. Friga told him how she had invoked the powers of nature in Balder's behalf, but added that she had neglected the mistletoe, which she regarded as too insignificant to harm him. Leaving her, Loki straightway made from a mistletoe bough an arrow, with which Balder was slain by a blind god called Hecla.

There is a superstition connected with the mistletoe that it is unlucky to fell an oak on which it grows, and the author of "Magna Britannia" describes a great wood belonging to the archbishop of the Hundred of Croyland, said to have consisted wholly of oaks, and among them was one that bore mistletoe, which some persons were so hardy as to cut down for the gain of selling it to the apothecaries of London, leaving a branch of it to sprout out, but they proved unfortunate after it, for one of them fell lame, and others lost an eye. At length, in the year 1567, a certain man, notwithstanding he was warned against it upon the account of what the others had suffered, adventured to cut the tree down, and he soon after broke his leg.

To fell oaks had long been considered fatal, and such as believe it produce the instance of the Earl of Winchelsea, who, having felled a curious grove of oaks, soon after found his countess dead in her bed suddenly, and his eldest son, Lord Maidstone, was presently killed by a cannon ball.

A couple of centuries ago, and many hundreds of years previous, mistletoe was regarded as being a medicine of much value in epileptic affections, but modern science says that the gentlemen who practiced medicine in those days were mistaken.

Burning the Christmas Candle.

We are inclined to pity the Puritan little one of New England who knows nothing about merry Christmastide, with its rollicking games of blindman's buff, hunt the slipper, snapdragon and the like, but some of them enjoyed the practice which they called "burning the Christmas candle." This taper was a homemade affair and differed from other tallow dips only in being larger and having the wick divided at the lower end to form three legs, while at its heart was concealed a quill well filled with gunpowder. On Christmas eve it was lighted, and the quaint little Puritan folk sat around telling stories and riddles until suddenly the candle went off with a tremendous explosion, making a delightful excitement and giving the children of the colonies their only taste of uproarious holiday fun.

Christmas Observances.

Properly or improperly, the observance of Christmas is well nigh universal in Christendom, even among those that ignore the anniversaries of our Lord's death and resurrection and of the descent of the Holy Spirit. There is another curious fact, the celebration of Christmas has been oftener perverted than that of the other festivals. Various customs of heathen origin were connected with it in the middle ages, and these abuses led many of the English and Scotch reformers to oppose any celebration of the day. But as a festival in the household it has now become so dear to children that we must observe it.—Rev. M. B. Riddle, D. D.

English Christmas Customs.

In England comparatively modern customs are almost identical with the Roman feasts—to wit, the plight in which old Cheshire farmers used to be at Christmas. At this season they were obliged to do their own work, for the servants were only engaged from Jan. 1 to Dec. 24, which plan gave them a week's holiday. This they employed in flocking to the towns, where they spent their money in revelry.—Exchange.

Babies
and rapidly growing children derive more benefit from Scott's Emulsion, than all the rest of the food they eat. Its nourishing powers are felt almost immediately. Babies and children thrive on Scott's Emulsion when no other form of food is assimilated.

Carrying the Christmas Joy to Others.

GOUGH BROS.'
CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL OF LOW PRICES.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

Our Clothing Trolley Continues to Run on the Bargain Wire. A smaller amount of money than ever before is enough to make every buyer more comfortable, and not a whit lost in quality or style. Whatever the price, the Clothing must be stylish, or we have no use for it.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

Horseflesh as an Article of Diet.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 20.—Richard S. Hopkins, of this city, entertained about 100 of the most prominent residents of Newark at a banquet of horse flesh at his home last night. Dr. Hopkins is a veterinary and the purpose of the dinner was to show the utility of horse flesh as an article of diet. The attendance included nearly all of the leading physicians of the city. The meat was served in various forms and all pronounced it excellent.

Anxiety for Missing Boats.

CONFESSED SHE WAS A BIGAMIST.

That is Why Husband No. 2 Left Her—He is Jailed for Not Supporting Her.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 20.—John F. Johnson, a well-dressed man of pleasing address, was arrested yesterday on a warrant shown out by his wife, Kate Johnson, charging him with failing to provide for the support of herself and three children. When the case came to trial Johnson testified as follows: "We were married on Oct. 16th, and went to keeping house as happy as man and wife could be. She shortly after confessed that she was guilty of bigamy. She had a husband living in Hamilton, Canada. His name is Charles Bost. After the confession I told her I could not live with her longer. She helped me pack up my clothes and I left her."

The wife swore that she had no knowledge that her first husband, Bost, was dead, but that she had not heard from him in seven years. "I have been told that he is dead," she said, "but can't recall just now who gave me the information. He was a worthless fellow, and so is my second husband."

Judge King ordered Johnson to give a $300 bond as an evidence of good faith that he would support his wife, but as the prisoner had no friends in court to become surety for him he had to go to the penitentiary. The case will probably be appealed. In the meantime the police will investigate the bigamy story told by Johnson.

UNDER THE CHURCH'S BAN.

Three Societies in the United States That Catholics Must Not Join.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 20.—The Eagle prints the following: "Bishop McDonnell had a surprise in store for the clergymen of the diocese when they assembled in the diocesan seminary to participate in the regular quarterly conference. The Bishop announced that he was in receipt of a communication from Mgr. Satolli. The communication stated that the apostolic delegate had been instructed by Rome to notify the archbishops, bishops and priests of the United States that the action taken by the American archbishops relative to secret and anti-secret societies.

This letter contains the information that the Knights of Pythias, the Oddfellows and the Sons of Temperance are now under the ban of the Catholic church and the Catholics who join any of these three societies will be excommunicated. The decrees affect no other country save the United States.

He Blew Out the Gas.

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—John F. Thompson, a section boss in the employ of the C. P. R. at St. Cloud, stopped over in Toronto on his way to Paisley. He put up at the Red Lion hotel, and was warned about blowing out the gas. About eight o'clock in the morning he was heard breathing heavily. On entering the room the man was found unconscious and the gas turned on full. Physicians worked with Thompson until noon, but without success. They then decided to send him to the General Hospital.

DOCTORS WAKE UP.

Medical Men Investigating the Discovery of an Absolute Remedy for Diabetes.

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—Medical men are on the alert just now when the subject of kidney disease comes up for discussion. Diabetes has always been looked upon as sure death by the profession, but lately the doctors have had their eyes opened to the possibility of a cure by Dr. E. A. Rose, of Portland, Ont. He has stated in writing that he was cured of this disease after being pronounced "in extremis" by six medical brethren, and his cure was effected by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills. This remedy has attracted much attention from the medical profession because of its success in the cure of kidney disease, and many physicians are to-day prescribing it in affections of these organs.

Race Troubles in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20.—A reliable citizen of West Point, Ga., who was here last night stated that last Saturday night two young white men shot a negro preacher named Turner, who had written an insulting note to their sister. Learning that Turner was not dead, they went to the house where he was being nursed to finish him. They took a friend with them. At the door they were by a negro woman, who brained one of the party. She was then shot dead and Turner was killed.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 20, 1894.

Wheat prices are unchanged, with moderate offerings. White is quoted at 57 to 58c west; spring at 50 to 60c on the Midland. The barley market is slow. No. 1 is quoted at 44c. Oats are quoted, northern white at 28c, mixed at 27c outside.

The Buffalo barley market is dull although there is fair enquiry for Canada spot and to arrive next month. Spot Canada No. 1, 64 asked, 61 to 62 bid and 1-2 to 1c below these figures for January delivery. No. 2 bright 61 1-2 to 62c held.

Wheat advanced 1-2c in Chicago on New York. Heavy receipts caused a drop of 1-8 to 1-4c in corn. May oats were a shade higher and cash 1-4 to 1-2c lower.

At East Buffalo the offerings of sheep and lambs were 64 cars; fair trade early closing weaker and 5 to 10c lower except on the very choice stock. There were 16 cars of Canada's here and a fair clearance although local butchers and country buyers are were supplied. Most of the Canada lambs sold at $4.30 with a few at $4.35. Choice Canada ewes $3.75 to $4.

On general realizations before the holidays even consols were lower in London. South Americans were generally good but Brazilians have fallen on the continued decline in exchange. Americans were lower.

Such a stock market as was on Wall street—weak and discouraged, without being actually nervous—is precisely what a month or more ago, was expected for this week. The stock market declines were quiet irregular. At the close declines were the rule throughout the list, though the tone was slightly firmer. Chicago Gas and Consolidated Gas were the exceptions in point of strength.

Blixt the Tool of a Gang.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—A special from Minneapolis says: W. W. Hayward, father of the two Haywards under arrest for the Ging murder, is reported to have said that Blixt, who confessed to the shooting, is the tool of an organized conspiracy, and the headquarters, he says, are not located in Minneapolis. R. R. Odell, attorney for Blixt, has had long talks with his client, and he admits he has drawn some startling information which the prosecution failed to get. He says it will not affect the lines of his defense, but will show that Blixt was controlled by a plot. Mrs. Blixt, wife of the prisoner, made a statement in writing for the benefit of her husband yesterday. She says that for a long time Harry Hayward has had an influence over her husband. Blixt told her several times that some day Hayward would be the death of him.

Riot in a St. Louis Court Room.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 20.—A riot broke out in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday. William Wright, a negro, had just been acquitted on a charge of misdemeanor and was leaving the court room. Officers attempted to arrest him on another charge when his friends, believing that he was a victim of police persecution, resisted and attempted to release the prisoner. A struggle ensued during which clubs were freely used and revolvers drawn. An prominent attorney narrowly escaped death from a pistol shot by Officer Dewar. As a result of the riot six persons were badly injured, and two detectives have been suspended from the force pending an investigation.

Death of Eugene Kelly.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Eugene Kelly, the banker, died yesterday. At the time of his death he was rated as being worth about $15,000,000. Few among the wealthy men of New York city have exercised a wider or more liberal philanthropy than Eugene Kelly. He gave to all sorts of charities, and he spent a fortune in relieving the sufferings of the poor in Ireland. He was always an intense lover of his native land, although he never identified himself with any particular faction. He was a devout Roman Catholic and was the friend of the famous Archbishop Hughes, of Cardinal McCloskey, and of Archbishop Corrigan.

Pullman Strikers Petition for Help.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—The men who have been unable to obtain work at Pullman or elsewhere since they joined the Pullman strike, numbering 300, have drawn up a socialistic petition which will be presented to the city council, county commissioners and legislature with the double object of eliciting a definition of the constitutional "right to live" and calling attention to their deplorable condition.

FIRE AT SPRINGHILL MINES.

A $75,000 Loss—Four Hundred Men Out of Employment.

SPRINGHILL MINES, N.S., Dec. 20.—The greatest conflagration Springhill ever experienced took place yesterday. The whistle at the west slope blew many times to alarm the town that the west slope was on fire. The flames were first seen issuing from the oil house, and as everything was saturated with oil the flames spread with remarkable rapidity. The chemical engine was on hand and rendered what assistance it could. The company's hose played on the fire and succeeded in saving the engine house at the west slope. The trestle working rotary screens were totally consumed. The west and north screens were connected by a trestle work about 100 rods long, which was used to convey the coal from the north slope to the west, where it was screened. The track on the top of the trestle, which was all roofed in, was thoroughly saturated with oil. The flames shot through this rapidly and soon reached the north slope. All the buildings in connection with this slope, including engine houses, were soon a mass of seething flames. The fire was beyond all control and licked up everything before it. The fire at the west bankhead burned down the incline a short distance, but was put out, as the fire abated about the works. To prevent the fire from descending the north incline the woodwork immediately above the ground was torn and cut away by the men before the fire reached it. The fan and pumps in the west will be able to work, but those in the north are stopped.

The loss is estimated at $75,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. About 400 men will be thrown out of employment.

EDDY SUES HIS DAUGHTER.

He Wants to Obtain the Value of Property Willed to Her by Her Mother.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—On behalf of E. B. Eddy a writ has been issued from the Superior Court in Hull to start a suit against his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Bessey. He claims $187,000 in cash or the possession of property that is its equivalent.

The causes leading up to this suit date back some years, when Mr. Eddy deeded to his wife a large part of his property, including his handsome residence in Hull, the old Wright homestead on the Aylmer road and a couple of farms. This was doubtless intended to place his wife beyond the reach of any business vicissitudes which might occur. Up to the time of her death Mrs. Eddy was always regarded as the legal owner of the property now in dispute. Before her death, about two years ago, Mrs. Eddy made a will, leaving all she owned to her daughter, Mrs. Bessey. In June of this year Mr. Eddy was married again. Mrs. Bessey, it is said, did not approve of the marriage. At any rate she left the house and took up her residence in the old Wright homestead.

The case will involve an intricate point of law. In a pecuniary way it is the largest suit that has ever been entered in the Hull courts.

TIME FOR WAR TO CEASE

The Belligerents of the Orient Seem to Have Had Enough of It.

JAPAN TO GET ALL SHE ASKS

Reigning Powers of China Are Disposed to Concede a Great Deal to Bring About an Immediate Cessation of Hostilities—A Commission to Go to Japan.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Important despatches have been received here from Tokio indicating clearly that the war between China and Japan has practically ended.

Whatever instructions have been conveyed to the commanders of the respective military and naval forces from the governing powers of the two empires is not told in the advices; but assurances are given in quarters known to be thoroughly cognizant of diplomatic affairs that the Emperor of China has been prevailed upon to hasten commissioners to Japan and that these envoys have such power of concession as will without doubt enable them to bring about an immediate and thorough end of hostilities. The details of their authority are not given but the presumption in diplomatic quarters is that the concessions asked by the Japanese Government have met with the acquiescence of the reigning powers of China.

The Times' correspondent at Tien-Tsin telegraphs the text of the credentials given to Commissioner Detring when he started for Japan to negotiate peace. The credentials show that Detring was accredited by Li Hung Chang; who asserted that he was acting upon the Emperor's instructions.

Prince Kung recalled Detring upon learning from Mr. Denby, United States Minister, that Japan had accepted the mediation of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The late hour at which cable advices from London were received in this city indicating at least a cessation of hostilities in the field between the Governments of China and Japan, preclude a very thorough canvass of diplomatic quarters to the tenor of advices received by the officials of the foreign governments. Direct questions as to the subject matter were evasively met but the reticence was not so complete as to, in any particular, lessen the importance of the London despatch showing the nearness of a peaceful solution of the question between the contending powers.

Hungary Shaken by an Earthquake.

BUDA PESTH, Dec. 21.—The town of Oravicza, about fifty miles southeast of Temesvar, was visited by a violent shock of earthquake which wrecked a large number of houses. Roofs fell, walls tumbled down, and in many cases the buildings lining whole streets were reduced to masses of debris. The inhabitants dashed to the open country. At midnight another shock was felt, but it was less violent than the first one. A number of persons were injured, but as yet no fatalities are reported. The earthquake was felt in many districts of Southern Hungary. Temesvar was shaken severely and most of the inhabitants were too much frightened to go to bed. No deaths has been reported.

AN ARMENIAN CHRISTMAS BOX.

A Present in Recognition of Mr. Gladstone's Letter of Sympathy.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Armenians of London and Paris, in recognition of Mr. Gladstone's letter of sympathy and encouragement, will present a silver and gilt chalice to the Hawarden church on his 85th birthday.

The Daily News correspondent in Vienna says: "The Christian Armenians are about to ask for an autonomous government similar to that formerly given to East Roumelia. Failing to obtain this they will ask for instructions similar to those of Crete. A deputation of Armenians will call upon the commission of inquiry to impress upon its members the necessity of procuring Christian government of some sort for Armenia.

Ten Ships Overdue at San Fran.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 21.—There are now ten ships overdue on this coast and 600 lives depend upon their safe arrival. The vessels now numbered on the overdue list and which have been long enough out to warrant apprehension for their safety are: Steamer Montserrat, 14 days from Nanaimo, B. C.; steamer Keneenaw, 13 days from Nanaimo; bark Germania, 14 days from Seattle; bark Columbia, 14 days from Port Blakeley; J. B. Brown, 17 days from Nanaimo; bark Sea King, 16 days from Nanaimo; schooner Mary and Ida, 16 days from Shoal Water Bay; ship Red Rock, 14 days from San Francisco to Portland; bark Dominion, 15 days from San Francisco to Puget Sound.

MR. BOWELL'S MINISTRY

The New Men Will be Sworn in by Lord Aberdeen To-day.

FURTHER CHANGES IN RESERVE

The Personnel of the Cabinet, it is Stated, Will Undergo Some Alteration Before the General Elections—Mr. Dickey Will Go to His Constituents.

OTTAWA, Dec. 21.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Hon. John Costigan, W. B. Ives, A. R. Dickey and Dr. Montague have gone to Montreal to be sworn into office by Lord Aberdeen. These are all the Ministers who are changing departments and who require to take the oath of office. Mr. McGee, Clerk of the Privy Council, accompanied them as well as J. L. Payne, Private Secretary to Mr. Bowell.

The only one who needs re-election is Mr. Dickey. It is understood that the election will take place at once. Mr. Montague and Senator Ferguson will merely require to take the oath of a Privy Councillor.

Mr. Dickey arrived here yesterday and was with Mr. Bowell for an hour in his room at the Russell House. Afterwards Mr. Dickey stated that he had accepted the State Department, and that this completed the new Cabinet. An Ottawa paper gives Sir John Carling as holding a seat without a portfolio. This is a mistake. Dr. Montague takes Sir John Carling's place. The Province of Quebec would not stand an extra Cabinet Minister for Ontario, without adding one to Quebec also. More especially would this be the case when a seat without a portfolio has been given to Prince Edward Island.

It is believed that the portfolios have not been distributed as Mr. Bowell would have liked, but it is the best he could have accomplished under the circumstances. He was anxious to give Mr. Ives the Department of Agriculture and give the choice of the State Department or Trade and Commerce to Mr. Angers, but the latter could not be moved. Then it was part of the programme that Mr. Patterson was to go, but the pressure from Mr. Haggart and Sir Hibbert Tupper prevailed. Before a general election there will be changes in this direction. Mr. Angers will very soon be appointed to a seat on the bench.

A Civil Servant in Difficulties.

High Constable Bisonette, of Montreal, came up with a warrant for the arrest of Joseph Camille Gauvin, who is an employe of the Government Printing Bureau. The charge is that he did on four occasions obtain sums of money, aggregating $490 from one Treffle Legace, of Montreal. The warrant and time was in proper form and received the endorsation of backing of Magistrate O'Gara. Gauvin is a married man and resides on Nelson street, where he has a family. He has been in Ottawa for about two years. The circumstances leading up to the arrest are said to have arisen while the accused was in business as a book-binder in Montreal. Gauvin himself claims that he thought the matter had been arranged, as there had been no intention to defraud.

The Carnival.

An enthusiastic public meeting was held last night and endorsed the action of the winter carnival committee in proceeding in spite of the opposition of Mr. Sandford Fleming.

Her Excellency and Countess of Aberdeen paid a flying visit to Ottawa to spend a few hours with Lady Thompson. She arrived with the widow of the late Premier at the latter's residence on Metcalfe street. In the evening Her Excellency returned to Montreal.

The Ministers at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, W. H. Ives, John Costigan and A. R. Dickey, members of the new Bowell Government have arrived here from Ottawa. They were accompanied by John J. McGee, the clerk of the Privy Council and a bevy of private secretaries. The ministers registered at the Windsor hotel where they had dinner and then received many callers. Hon. Mr. Bowell subsequently had a long conference with the Governor-General at the vice-regal mansion. Mr. Bowell submitted the names of the new ministers to his Excellency who approved the list as already published. It was decided that the ceremony of a swearing in the new ministers would take place to-day.

Caught the Burglars Red-Handed.

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Policeman Johnston noticed two men enter Edward Pearce's butcher shop, 68 Queen street, through a window, and following he saw them packing up a quantity of meat. Drawing his revolver, he told them to throw up their hands, but instead of doing so Thomas Spearman, one of the men, seized a huge butcher knife and advanced towards him. It was only when the revolver was placed under his nose that he finally surrendered. Both men were brought to Police headquarters and then it was found that Spearman's friend was Richard Rowe, who is well known to the police. Both prisoners were sent to the Central for four months.

Doubt as to Stevenson's Death.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 21.—Doctor Balfour, uncle of Robert Louis Stevenson, has written a letter to the Scotsman in which he says that the relatives of the novelist believe that Robert Louis Stevenson is not dead, but that his wife is. Mrs. Stevenson, Dr. Balfour writes, has been treated for an unrism of the brain while in Scotland. Moreover she said to relatives in Edinburgh last spring: "Do not believe any reports about Louis unless I write you." No message has been received from Mrs. Stevenson, although there has been ample time since Mr. Stevenson was reported to have died.

CUBAN CUSTOMS DUTIES

Why the Spanish Government Discriminates in Favor of Canada.

IN THE AMERICAN CONGRESS

Statues of Daniel Webster and John Stark Accepted by Both Houses and Unveiled—A New Million Dollar Residence for the American President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Senor Murugua, the Spanish Minister at Washington, has made the following statement of the position of his government in the controversy with the United States over Cuban customs duties. "It is claimed by the United States that there is unjust discrimination by Spain in favor of Canada against this country concerning flour exported from Canada to Cuba. The explanation is simple. The Spanish government has an understanding with Great Britain that Canadian flour shall be assessed a low rate of duty in exchange for fixing a low rate of duty on Cuban articles shipped to Canada. The United States is not unjustly discriminated against in this instance, for it can obtain similar favors through lowering the duties on articles exported from Cuba to the United States. There is no disposition on the part of Spain to discriminate against this country. My government is willing to make a new reciprocal arrangement with the United States at any time."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The House and Senate yesterday formally accepted the statues of Daniel Webster and John Stark the gift of the state of New Hampshire, and they were unveiled in statuary hall in the capital. The two splendid marbles were exposed to public view without any ceremony. The exercises accepting the gift were alike in both Senate and House. The order setting apart the day to receive the gift was recited and Gov. Smith's letter of presentation was read. Senator Gallinger, in the Senate, and Representative Baker in the House presented the resolution accepting the gift. Then followed speeches.

Mr. Richardson (Dem., Tenn.) introduced in the House a bill appropriating $1,000,000 to provide a suitable residence for the President of the United States. The bill proposes to locate the structure at the head of Fourteenth Street, known as Columbia Heights.

The treasury department has completed the regulations to carry into effect the new Chinese treaty, which permits the return within one year from leaving this country upon proper indentification, etc., of Chinese laborers residents of the United States.

KIDNAPPERS THRICE FOILED.

But the Last Attempt to Run Away With an Heiress Almost Succeeded.

BUFFALO, Dec. 21.—A special to the Express from Erie, Pa., tells of a bold and almost unsuccessful attempt to kidnap Mrs. Fred Baxter, of Girard. Mrs. Baxter was found lying in the garden, bound hand and foot and unconscious. She is 18 years old and the daughter of the proprietor of the Rhodes' hotel. Six months ago two men entered the bedroom of herself and her mother, and the elder woman opened fire, wounding one of the intruders, but both escaped. A couple of months later two men entered the house at night, and by the use of a heavy cape and chloroform succeeded in dragging the young woman out of the house into the yard, but before they could get her into a buggy in waiting they were discovered and escaped. Mrs. Baxter can give no account of the last escapade, more than to say that she was seized in the front hall of the house and overcome by the use of something in a sponge which was held over her face. The entire proceeding is attributed to the fact that a bequest of $40,000 in Canada is hers at the age of 21, and in the event of her death it goes to another heir.

An Excursion Train's Mishap.

SCHOOLCRAFT, Mich., Dec. 21.—A heavily loaded excursion train on the Grand Trunk railroad bound for Winnipeg with Canadians on board was derailed here yesterday. The baggage car and the locomotive were wrecked and the baggageman hurt, but all the passengers escape injury.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1894.

IT IS GROWING.

The Empire is not now making any wild demands for a special session of the legislature to see if the Mowat Government has a majority. Even that obstinately obtuse organ can no longer refuse to see that there is a majority and that it is continually growing—at the rate of one a day. One day the Opposition loses Algoma, another Haldimand and another Kingston and there is no reasonable doubt that the government will carry al these seats at the bye elections. The Mail thus deals with this aspect of the situation. Referring to the triple decapitation in the election courts, it says:—

"The result of the legal processes is a clean sweep of three of Sir Oliver's opposing legislators from the Board. Three constituencies are now open, and the Government has three opportunities to strengthen itself in the House. After the general election the parties, assuming that the Patrons were antagonistic, were evenly divided. There were forty-seven Liberals in the House and forty-seven Conservatives and Patrons. The resignation of Mr. Meredith opened London, and the city was carried by Sir Oliver with a rush. Then the case stood, forty-eight Liberals to forty-six Oppositionists of the Conservative and Patron stripes. Sir Oliver, under this change, could have elected his Speaker and have carried on business with a majority of one. But he had it in his power to conciliate the Patrons, and thus to reduce materially their opposition to him. Now the situation is improved again for Sir Oliver. It would not be fair to assume offhand that he would carry the three vacant constituencies, for th re are many contingencies which may influence the result. But the Premier has at least scored one advantage by the vacating of these seats. As the seats were attacked in the full expectation that they would be carried for the Government, it is not improbable that he will score another. Governments are, in this country, exceptionally strong at bye-elections. They have the organization and the men to do the fighting. This point was made clear beyond a doubt in the election contest. Were the Government to carry the three constituencies, it would have in the Assembly a majority of seven after the Speaker had been elected. Thus fortified, the Patrons and their platform would have no further terrors for Sir Oliver."

SIR JOHN THOMPSON used to be a newspaper reporter, and for many year Mackenzie Bowell edited and owned the Belleville "Intelligencer." The newspaper offices seem to be a fine training school for bright public men, adds the Hamilton Herald. But, alas, all newspaper men do not get their deserts. For instance Mr. W. F. McLean, M.P., ye editor of the Toronto World, complains in a column and a half of his paper that Toronto (W. F. McLean) has been ignored in the formation of the Cabinet, and the Midland District has been ignored, for Mr. Sam Hughes, M. P., editor of the Warder, who has been a most conspicuous champion of the goverment, has not been mentioned in connection with a cabinet position.

"IT is clear," says the Kingston Whig, "that the Conservative Cabinet were aware of the critical illness of Sir John Thompson. Sir C. H. Tupper has declared that he knew that the Premier was undertaking a doubtful journey to Europe, and Hon. J. C. Patterson admits that a consultation of doctors had given a probable lease of life of only nine months. Sir John did not desire to retire because of party jeopardy; his colleagues accepted the sacrifice of retention of office and it is clear were bent on accentuating it by bringing on the elections early in order that the services of the dying statesman could be secured. Liberals were not his worst friends by any means."

Sir Oliver never had anything particular to fear from the platform of the Patrons, nor from the Patrons themselves if they squared their attitude towards the Government according to their platform, which, with one or two minor exceptions, is identical with the Liberal platform, in Provincial politics, especially. Sir Oliver is all right, and if, the Opposition at present finds it a cold day, they will find also that the old saw will be verified—"as the day lengthens the cold strengthens."

IT is remarked by some journals that Mr. Bowell succeeded in forming a Cabinet much sooner than even his most confident friends contemplated. As to this, it may be remarked that, in all probability, the "slate" has been to a certain extent arranged for some time. The fact that the members of the old Cabinet knew that the deceased Premier's disease would give him only a few months of life — active life at least—leads to such an inference.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following excerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were perscribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galisien, Austria.

The Middlemarch Mystery.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 20.—Provincial Detective Murray is at the scene of the Middlemarch mystery. No trace of the axe with which it is supposed Hendershott was killed has yet been found. It is said the boy was never can assed for insurance; that his uncle took him to the St. Thomas agents, and that he was working for his uncle for his board, John Hendershott was in Eden when his nephew was killed and a telegram was sent him: "William Hendershott dead; come quickly." He has a brother of that name but is said to have remarked that it was his nephew who was dead.

Affairs of Newfoundland's Banks.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 20.—The Commercial Bank's liabilities are about $2,600,000 and the assets $3,000,000 which will probably depreciate one third through realization. It is estimated that the note holders and depositors will obtain about fifty cents on the dollar. The Legislation Committee makes a report very favorable to the Union Bank. It is thought that this bank will be able to pay depositors, note holders and shareholders in full if given time.

The Riots in British Honduras.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Colonial Office has been informed that labor riots have broken out in Belize, British Honduras. There is no fear of serious consequences, as the warships Partridge and Pelicau are at hand with a sufficient force of marine to control the mob.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 21, 1894.

Wheat prices are unchanged, with moderate offerings. White is quoted at 57 to 58c west; spring at 50 to 60c on the Midland. The barley market is slow. No. 1 is quoted at 44c. Oats are quoted, Northern white at 28c, mixed at 27c outside.

Wheat was irregular in Chicago, closing weak and 1-8 to 1-4c lower. Corn and oats lost 1-8c each on light trading.

The barley demand in Buffalo was light; holders firm. Canada barley generally held above buyers' views at from 1 to 2c. Following are sellers values: No. 1 Western, 61c; No. 1 Canada, 64c; No. 2 Canada, 61 1-2 to 62c; No. 3 extra Canada, 60 to 61c.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offering were 48 cars, of which 10 cars were Canadas. Common to fairly good stock considerably lower. Market dull for all kinds and 10 to 15c off on even best qualities. Most of Canadas unsold, 7 cars holding over. Sales were made at $4.10 to $4.20, mostly $4.20, and some very good Canada sheep sold at $3.75 per cwt.

Business was more active on Wall street. The increase in business was due entirely to the revival of speculation in American sugar. At the start the stock was heavy and fell 1 5-8 to 88 1-8. The weakness was the result of Washington advices that the efforts making to take away the differential duty now enjoyed by the refiners will be successful. At the decline large buying orders were executed by firms with inside connections and the stock jumped to 90 7-8 and closed at 90. In the other industrials Rubber was strong, Consolidated Gas and Chicago Gas erratic and Cordage weak.

The London stock markets were irregular, but with a firm undertone. Americans were flat, but had a distinct rally of 1-4 to 1-2 after hours. A SHORT HISTORY OF THE OUTFALL SEWER.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—As there is a large amount of misunderstanding (not to call it by a worse name) in connection with the outfall sewer, and the mayor and council, together with the town solicitor come in for a large amount of blame, and are being called some hard names by some of the ratepayers and even by some of our town papers, (who should know the truth if they would say it):

Perhaps I may be pardoned if I try through the columns of your widely read paper to state a few of the facts in connection with this question, which has occupied so much of the time and attention of of the people for the last few weeks.

First, for the benefit of those who say that the council had no right to build the sewer in any way, let me say that the council had no option in the matter as the council of this town is compelled to construct sewerage, and the time for commencing that work could not have been postponed longer than next spring. And in fact the time has already expired that was allowed by the Provincial Board of Health for this work to be done.

Now sir I came to the action of the council in the matter. Quite early in the year it was seen that there was a lack of work for working men, and many of them were walking our streets looking for work that could not be found. And then the question arose; why not build the sewer this year and thus provide work for our men in that way. After careful consideration it was decided to ask the ratepayers if they would vote the amount of money required to construct the outfall sewer, according to Mr. McDougal's plan.

This vote was taken on the second of August, the result proving that the ratepayers were in favour of going on with the work. The town engineer was then instructed to complete the details of plan and draw up specifications, carefully guarding the interests of the town, and its workingmen were to be employed to the exclusion of workmen from across the river. After this tenders for the work were asked for, and from a dozen or more tenders, that of Robt. Grant, of Toronto, was accepted as being the lowest, and coming from a gentleman that we believed and still believe will complete his contract to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The events of the last few weeks are so fresh in the minds of all that I need only mention them to recall them at once, viz: The commencement of work on the sewer, the injunction and the stoppage of work, the counter-injunction and resumption of work.

Now, sir, this is the important part of the sewer question, and the part on which there seems to be a very great lack of information. The facts are these:

During the latter part of the summer and early fall, we heard murmurs of dissent from Monaghan and Otonabee townships with regard to putting the sewerage into the river, and we would willingly have changed our plans to satisfy them had any other plan been possible to us. But we were told that they would not ask nor claim any damages from us for going through the township of Monaghan from the edge of the corporation down Lock street to the river, but this permission did not give us the right to go there according to law. Then there was no other course open to us only to appoint arbitrators to assess damages, if any, and give us a right of way to the river.

This was done after some delay, and Wm. Langford, Esq., was chosen for the town, Wm. Collins, Esq., for the township of Monaghan, these two to choose a third man in case of disagreement. (Mr. Calcutt was chosen third arbitrator.)

These arbitrators held a number of sessions, during some of which this question came up: Should they hear expert evidence with regard to the pollution of the river by sewage? They finally decided that they were not there for that purpose, but only to decide on the right of way between the town and township. Accordingly they handed in their award with all costs to be paid by the town.

The town, now having the right of way, was in a position to go on with the sewer work.

But some have said, Why did the town go on with the sewer before all the forms in contract were completed? The answer is this: When Mr. Grant sent in his tender, he also sent in a marked cheque for $300 as a guarantee of good faith. He also submitted the names of two sureties as required by the terms of the contract, in sums sufficient to guarantee the town against all possible loss. The contract was then sent to Toronto to be signed by Mr. Grant's sureties, but one of them happened to be out of the city at the time, and would not be home for several days. And Mr. Grant having his foreman here with all the plant ready to proceed with the work, and as the weather was fine, and the season for outside work was now very short, he decided to commence work at once, and not to wait for the signing of the contract; which he accordingly did.

Now, sir, Mr. Grant did this at his own risk, if risk there was, as the town had not signed any contract or agreement with him, and could not do so until his sureties had first signed the bonds. So that in this the town was not taking any risk whatever.

Mr. Grant began work about the last week in September and made rapid progress, so that in a few days he had excavated several hundred feet of trench and had a number of bricklayers at work putting in the sewer under the supervision of the Town Engineer and the constant inspection of Mr. O'Brien, the inspector of the town, and was making a splendid job of it and would soon have had many hundred feet of it completed and the road bed levelled to its former shape; but, sir, just this point the work came to a sudden stop by the township getting an injunction not only to stop the work, but to compel us to fill in what had already been excavated.

Sewerage was now an interesting subject, especially to the mayor and council, and we had several meetings with reeves and councillors of the townships in order to see if we could arrive at some understanding by which we could go on with the work, (without prejudice) pending the final decision of the court. But "no compromise" was the word of the gentlemen from the township, and that the sewer must be filled it. Accordingly the time having expired, the township advertised for fifty men to start on Saturday morning to fill in that ditch, as it was called, but before the work was begun a counter injunction had been obtained to prevent the township from filling in that "ditch," and thus a deadlock ensued.

Now, again, we had recourse to meetings with the officials from the townships, the town even going so far as to bring them in at our expense in order to see if some plan could be agreed upon by which the town could proceed with the work. As the season was now very short and many men wanting work, and the contractor anxious to get on as far as possible before the frost stopped his work. After several conferences and much thought and many suggestions, the only possible way that would satisfy the townships was to have a new arbitration to consider the whole question, such arbitrators to be chosen from outside the town and county, which was accordingly done and instead of three, by mutual agreement it was left entirely to His Honour Judge Ketchum, of Colborne, who has given the matter a careful and patient hearing from both sides and whose decision is now awaited with as much patience as possible by both sides.

And now in conclusion, let me say that in all this matter Mayor Kendry and the council have given much time and thought and have worked for the very best interests of the town and in a way which will settle this vexed question of sewerage in the only possible way it could be settled.

By the advice and assistance of the town solicitor, who has taken a great interest in it from the commencement, the council have not made any mistakes in this matter, (the opinion of croakers to the contrary notwithstanding.) I will say for myself (and I believe I only voice the sentiments of the whole council) that if I believed that the sewerage going into the river would be the "cause of any nuisance or be dangerous to the health of man or beast" I would say at once, let us have no sewerage even for the next twenty years rather than destroy the river.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the large space granted me, for which my only excuse is that this is a large subject, I remain

Yours etc.,
J. L. HUGHES.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

There was a good attendance of parents and others interested in the public examination at S. S. No. 16, Otonabee, on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 19. When the usual exercises had been concluded, a pleasant event took place. Audrey Spears and Lorne Brooks came forward on behalf of the pupils and presented the teacher, Mr. Ovens, with a handsome album. Master Brooks read the following address:

Mr. A. Ovens:

DEAR TEACHER,—The time has almost come when our relationship as teacher and pupils must cease, and as we look back over the past two years that have so quickly sped away, we feel that very often while you have been striving to advance our intellectual welfare, we have often been careless and indifferent in our efforts and have not always been diligent in "helping ourselves," but we trust that we may all mutually forgive and forget our "little differences."

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight token of our good wish es for you, hoping that in days to come, wherever your lot may be cast, it may serve to remind you of the happy days spent here, and hoping that success may attend you in the future.

If when we have parted, it should never be our lot to all meet again on earth, our wish is that we may spend eternity together in the presence of the Great Teacher Himself.

Signed on behalf of the pupils.
HERBERT MCMILLAN,
RALPH FROST.

Mr. Ovens replied appropriately, thanking them for their expressions of good will and also thanking the visitors for their attendance.

Mr. Ovens is to be succeeded by Mr. Herman Beer, who comes highly recommended and will no doubt be successful.

DOCTORS WAKE UP.

Medical Men Investigating the Discovery of an Absolute Remedy for Diabetes.

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—Medical men are on the alert just now when the subject of kidney disease comes up for discussion. Diabetes has always been looked upon as sure death by the profession, but lately the doctors have had their eyes opened to the possibility of a cure by Dr. E. A. Rose, of Portland, Ont. He has stated in writing that he was cured of this disease after being pronounced "in extremis" by six medical brethren, and his cure was effected by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills. This remedy has attracted much attention from the medical profession because of its success in the cure of kidney disease, and many physicians are to-day prescribing it in affections of these organs.

Those wishing to secure evergreens for decorating purposes can do so on Saturday morning on the market, where Mr. G. A. Reid will be on hand with a large supply.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Friday, Dec. 21st, 1894.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 27 degrees above, with approaching rain storm, as I don't expect much if any sleighing before 1895. Moderate and mild. THOS. TELFORD.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

Large Apples.

Mr. Jas. Fowler of Smith, sold to W. G. Fowler & Co. to-day, a fine lot of Northern Spies and Greenings, some of which weighed eleven ounces, and measured twelve inches in circumference. What fruit grower can beat this? Fruit growers might bring their best apples to town, instead of sending them to foreign markets.

Attempted Burglary.

A young lady in Ashburnham an evening or so ago heard a noise which she attributed to mice, but when she arose to frighten them away she found it was a burglar, who made a hasty retreat out of a back window through which he had entered. Nothing, however, as yet is missing. This is only one of a series of robberies that have been attempted and committed during the past season in the village as well as the town, and it is believed from the knowledge of the places and people displayed that the gang is comprised of those who burglarized the brewery some years ago and whose depredations once terrified this vicinity. The village as well as the town police and nightwatchmen should be on the alert.

Specia to Boys.

A quantity of boys' Flannel Shirts which will be sold at 25, 40, 50 and 75c. First come first served at W. J. GREEN'S, 136 Hunter street.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Will Halliwell, of Belleville, was in town yesterday.

Mr. "Court" King is home from McGill University for his holidays.

Mr. R. W. Clark, of Millbrook, was in town and gave the EXAMINER a call today.

Mrs. Burk is home again after an extended visit at Peterborough.—Colborne Express.

Miss May Kelly has secured the position of cashier, with the new firm of McClung & Co., town.

Mr. H. Burnham, who is attending the Royal Military College, Kingston, is home on his holidays.

Mr. J. W. Garvin, Public School Inspector, accompanied by Mrs. Garvin, leave by the 5.12 G.T.R. express this evening for Barrie, where they will pass the holidays with their parents.

Sergt. Page, from the Royal Canadian Dragoons, Toronto, is in town. He will appear in bayonet vs. sword, sword vs. sword and foil vs. foil with Sergt.-Major Peters and Dr. Brennan at the opera house to-night. Sergt. Page has never been bested in Canada at these exercises.

You get all the Oranges you want at Ostrom's for from 15 to 20c. per dozen.

St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham.

There will be a special service to-night preparatory to the Christmas communion in St. Luke's church, when the address will be delivered by Rev. G. Warren, of Lakefield.

Ordination Services.

Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick, of Norwood, will be ordained into the priesthood at Norwood on Sunday by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and Rev. Mr. O'Leary, of Indian River, at St. Joseph's church, Douro, on the Sunday following.

Distribution of Gifts.

Mrs. G. A. Smith, Miss Kirkpatrick and Mrs. J. E. Hammond, superintended the dispensation of Christmas charity yesterday at St. John's Sunday School. Great numbers of pound packages had been sent in, and if the donors had been present they would have been amply repaid for their gifts by hearing the fervent expressions of gratitude by the recipients of the gifts.

Mrs. Mountford.

The lecture by Mrs. Mountford on Thursday next will doubtless be largely attended, as the lady is so favourably known here. It is doubtful whether or not she will appear in Peterborough again, as her engagements are already made for a considerable time in the large cities of the States. The lecture she will give here is said to be her best. The subject is "From Bethlehem to Calvary." The plan is open at Stratton's bookstore and the seats are selling rapidly.

An Economical Vacation.

The merchant sought
A health resort
Where he might rest obtain;
Some quiet spot
Well-nigh forgot,
Far from the haunts of men.

He quickly found
Th' enchanted ground;
By his good clerk's advisement,
He simply wrote
This little note:
"Please stop my advertisement."

Kindergarten Exercises.

The Christmas exercises of the Peterborough Central Kindergarten were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock before a large assemblage of visitors who evinced the keenest interest in the work of the little ones. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with arrangements of flags bunting and evergreens tastefully disposed and the scholars did exceptionally well under the able tutilage of Miss Warner and Misses Hall, Collins and Williamson. The songs of the seasons were very nicely rendered by the little ones and the various exercises which they were required to go through were performed with accuracy. Master Halden Blackwell's recitation of "The Charge of the Light Brigade" was exceptionally well rendered, and little Lola Ostrom delighted every one by reciting "The Message."

SAMPSON IS COMING.

Poker a Bluffing Game.

Judge Morgan in fining a prisoner $50 and costs yesterday in Toronto, for running a poker dive, delivered himself of the following remarks anent the game: "It is a most injurious thing for people to spend their time and money in gambling, more especially at that uninteresting gambling game of poker—a game that has neither rhyme nor reason in it, and which does not require any skill, a game which originated in what the Yankees called "bluff," a distinctively bluffing game, and an offensive game. It cannot be played without money like other reasonable games. People can sit down and play a friendly game of whist, or other games, but this wretched game of poker is not worth playing and is never played except for stakes of money; therefore, it is a distinctively gambling game, and ought to be suppressed. People who engage in that kind of game must be taught that the law is against it, and that they will not be allowed to do that sort of thing."

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—School closes to-day for two weeks.

—A green Christmas - a fat graveyard.

—Loads of evergreens for decoration purposes are coming into town.

—A riding party went out to Chemong last evening and report the roads in fair condition.

—There is quite a demand for holly and mistletoe at the various fruit markets for Christmas decorations.

—St. John's church will be very prettily decorated this year, the wreaths and festoons being most profuse.

—Don't miss seeing the grand athletic entertainment in Opera House to-night. Price 50c. to all parts of house. 1d

—It is anticipated that Mr. Frank Adams will be a candidate for reeve for the village of Ashburnham for the ensuing year.

—The shortest day. Sun rises 7.31 a. m.; sun sets 4.26 p. m.; light lamps 4.27 p. m; moon rises 1.55 a.m.; lights out 2.30 a.m.

—The flour mill on Mill street will be started up on the 1st January. At present it is undergoing a thorough renovation.

—Mr. Jack Dawson, butcher, of Ashburnham, has a few Christmas trees left over which he will give to his customers and friends free on application.

—Owing to the advance in the price of wheat in Manitoba millers at Montreal have decided to advance their prices of Manitoba flour 25 cents a barrel.

—Mr. Mulligan, musical director of St. Andrew's choir, invited the members of his choir to spend a social evening at his residence last night. A most enjoyable evening was passed.

—The gentlemen of Millbrook will hold an assembly on the evening of the 28th. Butcher's orchestra will be present and quite a few, it is understood, are going down from town for the affair.

—The street along the Dickson Company's raceway is in rather a dilapitated condition. The tubes underneath the roadbed leading to the Otonabee have given out, and create a nuisance in the way of pitch holes.

—Mr. Meighen, President of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, is of the opinion that there is not one bushel of wheat in Canada to-day for export, as it will all be required for home consumption before the new crop comes in.

—The youth that stole a suit of clothes from the American House and skipped to Whitby last week was brought back last night, and pleaded guilty before the magistrate this morning. He was allowed to go after receiving some sound advice.

—The holiday advertisements now running in newspapers and magazines are very interesting reading, and are widely read. At no time does appropriate advertising pay as well as now, when all who are able are willing and anxious to buy gifts.

—At the regular teachers' meeting of the Charlotte street Sunday school last night a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Miller's orchestra, Mr. H. Stevens, Miss Goard, Miss Thomas, Miss Hamilton and to the pianiste, Miss Morrow, also to Mrs. Hamilton for training the infant class.

—"Hy" Calcutt has added another town waggon for the delivery of his "Nursing Stout" as well as other brands of his famous Bavarian and English hopped ales and porters. He shipped yesterday over four hundred cases of bottled goods to various points on the C.P.R. and G.T.R.

—Quite a number of our dusky friends from Chemong, Hiawatha and Alnwick, were to be seen on the thoroughfares of town yesterday. Their handiwork in fancy match boxes, whisk-holders, glove, collar and cuff boxes, had a ready sale, the larger baskets being also in great demand.

—To the farmer, the fox is a pest, and as a destroyer of young game he is without a peer, therefore, Mr. "Jay" Gould and his far-famed "fox locaters" are doing their level best to help the farmers out of the hole. They have already located and killed several of the hen roost thieves in Smith township.

CATHOLIC LITERARY ASSOCIATION.

A Debate Furnishes a Lot of Amusement—A Most Entertaining Programme.

The all-important question of whether "Women should be allowed to vote," was definitely settled to the satisfaction of a large and appreciative audience in the negative last evening at a meeting of the Catholic Literary Association. Messrs. W. Rudkins and A. McPherson in orations of sound argument endeavoured to prove the affirmative side of the question, and amid hearty applause. Mr. R. J. Hillern in a humourous and pointed speech, soo gained ground for his side of the question (the negative) his picture of the woman of the period or the woman with a vote being exceptionally clever, being, in fact, an exact portrait of Annie Besant, while his picture in three phases, showing woman in her proper sphere of life was realistic and life-like in the extreme. Mr. E. Rundle, in his support of Mr. Hiller's argument, made a masterly speech, defining in detail the duties of citizenship, which he clearly proved were of such a nature, that woman was not qualified to fulfil or undertake them. Mr. W. Rudkins on the affirmative, made a happy reference to the heroic part women played in the Armenian massacres. The selection of judges by the chairman, Mr. R. J. Hiller, was the cause of much merriment, he having allowed ladies to occupy the position of judges. Miss M. Houlihan and Messrs. Burke and Murty finally officiated, and rendered a decision in favour of the negative.

The vocal and instrumental part of the entertainment was exceedingly attractive and interesting. A well rendered chorus by sixteen ladies and gentlemen opened the programme, followed by a pretty and well sung song. "Kitty Kelly," by Miss M. Dineen. The appearance of the "Darktown Tin Brigade Orchestra," was greeted with deafening applause, and their funny doings and the clever sand dance of Mr. Sam Houlihan brought the house down. Given a hearty encore, they re-en ered and rendered another selection. The banjo quartette, consisting of Misses K. and L. Hurley, Miss L. Mahoney and Mr. R. J. Hiller was a decided hit, the selection played being bright and crisp. In response to a hearty encore, the quartette played a catchy little piece, which was greatly enjoyed. Mr. R. J. Hiller in his usual artistic style, sang one of New York's latest hits, "The Little Lost Child," his impersonation being good and very realistic. Miss L. Mahoney cleverly handled her banjo in a well played solo, proving herself quite an expert. A well sung chorus brought an evening of genuine and hearty enjoyment to a close.

The chairman, in answer to an enquiry, promised that another entertainment, with new surprises and ideas, would take place after the holidays.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE FINANCIAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. Cahill, in last Evening's EXAMINER, referred to the article in our issue of Tuesday in reference to the financial statement of the town. To his remarks no objection can be taken, and we are pleased that he felt his duty to explain, what should perhaps, have been made plain in the statement submitted to the council on Monday night. With reference to the debenture debt of $15,000, both the EXAMINER and Mr. Cahill agree that of this, $10,000 was required to meet past deficits, and $5,000 to meet school demands. The $21,000 for sewer has been voted and is at the disposal of the council for sewer purposes and the EXAMINER does not blame the council for what the people endorsed. We merely pointed out, without a hint as to responsibility, that the debenture debt had been added to by $36,000. The EXAMINER also gave the council credit for the circumstance that at the end of the year a better showing would probably be forthcoming in view of the fact that better preparation had been made for existing liabilities than was apparent on the face of the statement.

Taking the town's statement as it was, the EXAMINER found no fault, except that it did not afford sufficiently explicit details. We endeavoured to point out that it was desirable to have presented, as the law intends, clear and ample statements from time to time; since the people, as a rule, do not follow these matters as closely as the EXAMINER and the civic finance minister. We pointed out that the council of this year had to expend $3,294 36 over last year and that the Nicholls estate relieved the town of the payment of $2,000, and there was a surplus of $800, with the Mason case and the sewer unprovided for. Mr. Cahill's explanation is timely and in the nature of what the ratepayers had a right to expect. Mr. Cahill is a capable and careful financier, but it must be remembered that the people as a rule did not grasp the features and real meaning of the statement as readily as those familiar with all the circumstances, and in such an event, fuller explanation is appreciated.

THE RENDITION OF A CANTATA BY S. S. SCHOLARS.

The Murray Street Church S. S. Pupils Sing Well.

Last evening there were actually hundreds of people turned away from the Murray street Baptist church, not being able to obtain admittance to hear the rendition by the Sunday school scholars of that beautiful little cantata, "Santa Claus Prize and Who Got It."

The whole membership of the Sunday school, consisting of about a hundred little ones, were seated on raised seats on the platform and took part in the choruses, while the dialogue was taken as follows:—

Mr Lovegood	Mr A L Grover
Medicine-man Bragg	Bert Minnes
Lawyer Gruff	John Macdonald
White Dove, Blue Feather (Indian Girls)	Lila Webber, Helen Trotter
Tommy	Harry McKee
Willie	Sidney Plummer
Lida	Mamie Anderson
Lina	Mabel Routley
Lottie	Rena Bronson
Lily	Clinton Barrie
Zora	Jennie Rose
Mattie	Bella Mann
Rillie	Mrs Scott
Lulu	Miss Hutchinson
Chi-ta (a poor boy)	Alfred Kemp
Santa Claus	Harry Webber

The cantata has a religious sentiment pervading it, intending to illustrate the triumph of right over wrong. The double responsive choruses were greatly appreciated as were the choruses entitled "Three Cheers for the Snow" and "Listen to the Sleigh Bells." The infant classes took their parts well and their sweet little voices made most pleasant harmony in the choruses.

Mrs. Brodigan and Mr. George Matthews, after considerable trouble, trained the scholars in their respective parts and the rendition of the cantata in so perfect a manner reflects great credit upon their patience and perservance.

Mr. A. L. Grover, the efficient superintendent of the Sunday school, presided and explained that the gifts with which a large Christmas tree was loaded were given by the scholars to the poor children in the north country, which he thought was a most worthy example to set, of generosity and thoughtfulness.

OBITUARY.

The Late George Brownlee.

Last night Mr. George Brownlee, who has for about half a century been a respected resident of Peterborough passed away to his rest at the venerable age of 83 years. Mr. Brownlee was a native of Scotland and came to New York about 1834, remaining there about a year and removing to Peterborough, where he has since resided. His first residence was on Water street, next south of the site of the Morgan House, where he lived with his family till about ten years ago when he removed to his present residence. Mr. Brownlee's first wife died many years ago. His second wife was Miss Ann Boate, of Emily, and by this marriage there were several children, of whom two daughters—Mrs. R. N. Roddy and Mrs. D. G. Henthorn—and one son—Mr. John Brownlee—are alive. Mr. Brownlee was a tailor by craft and worked at his trade till about thirty years ago, when he went into the lumbering business which he followed till about twenty years ago when he retired from active life. The deceased gentleman was in politics an active Conservative, and in religion a Presbyterian, a member of the congregation of St. Andrew's church. The funeral takes place on Sunday at 2 o'clock p.m., from the family residence, 247 Aylmer street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE COUNCIL OF THE BOARD OF TRADE MEETS.

The Mercantile Committee Reports on the Hawkers' and Peddlars' By-law.

A meeting of the council of the Board of Trade was held last evening and the report of the Merchantile Committee received. The committee stated that, as instructed, the matter of revising the hawkers' and pediars' license by-law in order to prevent outsiders from soliciting orders in town for clothing, groceries, &c., had been looked into, but these men were actually protected by statute any any improvement in the state of affairs would necessitate the complete revision of the Act.

The committee on Railways and Canals was instructed to urge upon the government the advisability of continuing the work on the Trent Valley Canal and preparing additional contracts.

Among the communications received was one from the St. Johns, New Brunswick, Board of Trade, asking for maps and other information concerning Peterborough. The letter stated that many inquiries were constantly being made in reference to Peterborough.

Resolutions of condolence with Lady Thompson and family and of congratulation to Hon. McKenzie Bowell were adopted.

HOCKEY.

A large meeting of hockey enthusiasts was held in the Millbrook skating rink on Wednesday evening, when the Millbrook Hockey Club was organized with the following officers:

Hon. President—W. T. Wood.
President—D. Hampton.
Vice-President—Stanley Carveth.
Captain—Walter Coombe.
Secretary—Ernest Clarry.
Treasurer—W. F. Davidson.
Committee—W. D. Leach, John Nattrass, W. Eakins and Geo. Leach.

Mr. Brooks, the manager of the rink, was present and satisfactory arrangements were made as to the use of the ice. The new club starts out with a large membership, and judging from the enthusiasm displayed at the meeting hockey will be a grand success here this winter. Matches will be arranged for as soon as the boys have had a little practice, and all communications addressed to the secretary will receive prompt attention.

ROYAL ARCANUM OFFICERS.

The Election Took Place Last Night with the Following Result.

At the regular meeting of the Royal Arcanum held on the 20th December the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

D W Dumble	Regent
W G Ferguson	Vice-Regent
R A Morrow	Orator

F J Jameson	Chaplain
John McKee	Guide
D Belleghem	Warden
E A Stanley	Sentry
J Z Rogers, R E Wood, A P Melrose	Trustees
D W Dumble	Delegate to Grand Council
R E Wood	Alternate

Reports presented showed a gratifying increase in the membership. One member, Bro. K. G. Burke, had died during the year. A letter from his widow was read, acknowledging the amount of benefit certificate, $3,000.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

WHEN YOUR BREAD FAILS

Perhaps it's the Flour's fault—in many cases the whole trouble is with the Flour. This is never the case if you use

BRADY'S FLOUR.

DELICATE CAKE is just as easy to make with Brady's Flour as Bread. There will be no trouble in the house if you use Brady's Flour for your Xmas Baking. Special inducements during the holiday season in Flour, Feed and Groceries. We use a fruit cleaner on all Raisins and Currants.

THOS. BRADY,

OLD POST OFFICE. CORNER GEORGE AND BROCK STREETS.

It's a Sign of Danger, when pimples, blotches and eruptions appear on the skin, no matter how slight. It warns you that your blood isn't pure. Heed the warning while there is yet time; clear up your system and purify the blood by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It rouses every organ into natural action, purifies and enriches the blood and through it cleanses and invigorates the whole system. It attacks all scrofulous, skin and scalp diseases in the right way —by purifying the blood.

The diseases that it cures come from a torpid liver, or from impure blood. For everything of this nature, it is the only guaranteed remedy.

In Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Biliousness; all Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Affections, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

THE MAKERS of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 if they can't give you a complete and permanent cure.

A RARE GIFT.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY MAY D. ENGLE.

"No; I think you will not give me to old Golthwaite. I shouldn't care for it myself. He is too feeble to do my bidding. I need some one strong and lusty," with slow malice, "some one like you. The last body I had," it continued pensively, "was old—old and weak! It failed me many times, and I grew very tired of it. I was glad when it died and I was assigned to you. You have not always done as I would have you."

Van shuddered. "You have no further power," he asserted. "I have rid myself of you—entirely."

The soul smiled. "Hardly!" it said softly. "Don't you know that when you sleep your soul's at liberty to go whither it will, bound only to be back by the time you awaken? You know? Well, when next you sleep, your Christmas spirit and I will try our strength, that's all!" And from its confident expression and Van's hopeless one it is enough too.

"No, body," resumed the soul jovially, "I'm too fond of you to leave you lightly. And why all this unflattering despair? You're used to me now. You wouldn't know how to obey any other sort of spirit. That new one of yours hasn't half my intellect. Come, let us be as we were."

But Van, with a mighty effort, flung off the depression that he knew and hated so well. "Never!" he declared. "I've done my last task for you, old fellow. If you won't go to old Golthwaite, you must wander around without a body. You can't have me. I defy you!"

"A little rash!" it chuckled. "Yes, decidedly rash. I can make it most unpleasant for you. On the whole, I think I will. It will make my dominion so much the greater when I do regain possession of you. You shall plunge into all the excesses and dissipations that I have so far only suggested to you."

Van had gradually become conscious of a strangely oppressed feeling, together with a passionate desire for sleep, but he resolutely fought it off, dreading lest the threatened conflict between his old soul and the new spirit should take place before the latter had attained sufficient strength to withstand the powerful old soul, in which event he knew he was doomed to a hopeless slavery, from which there would be no escape but death.

But he could no longer keep his eyelids propped open. They closed heavily, though he made a frantic endeavor to at least keep his mind clear.

Vain! Even as he so resolved he was surrounded by light clouds that stifled him. Flashes of red light played around him. The clouds grew denser.

He ceased to struggle and awaited the end with calm certainty, quite sure that he would be the old soul's captive and not rousing himself to care much about the issue in either case. It seemed to him that he could actually feel the opposing forces as a heavy, deadly stupor crept upon him.

Suddenly he was revived by a rush of cold air, and the next instant Tom Russell was eagerly pulling him out of his chair, stamping out the flames on the floor, and scolding, shouting, congratulating and expostulating all at once.

"Confound it, Van!" he roared. "Up to your old tricks again, flinging your dirty rags all over the place and then calmly dropping hot ashes on 'em! Just like you! I don't believe you could stop it to save your soul."

Van grasped his friend's hands warmly, while he said slowly, "To save my soul I wouldn't, Tom."

And to this day Tom never quite understands why Van spoke so solemnly.—Short Stories.

A CHRISTMAS LEGEND.

The Miraculous Walking Stick of St. Joseph Took Root and Blossomed.

There is a legend interesting in connection with the custom of extending festivities from Christmas to Twelfth day, or Epiphany. According to tradition, St. Joseph, while passing through the town of Glastonbury, rested on a hillside. His walking stick of dry hawthorn he thrust into the earth, when it immediately took root and the next day blossomed. Every year thereafter it blossomed on Christmas day, which was Jan. 6, old style. This thorn tree had two trunks and grew to an immense size. Many singular instances related of it obtained general credence.

Once in Queen Elizabeth's time a Puritan, hoping to root out the superstition attached to it, hewed down the larger trunk, but when he attacked the other he was miraculously prevented from accomplishing his task. His ax slipped, cutting his leg seriously, and a chip flew up and put out one of his eyes. The severed trunk lay for years attached to the earth by a mere fragment of bark, yet it grew and flourished. Even after it was taken away and thrown into a ditch it continued to blossom, while the standing trunk, all cut and mangled near the roots, spread out its branches in a great circle and bloomed luxuriantly.

A long time afterward the second trunk was cut down, but the shoots from it were said to be growing in many places, each claiming to be the Glastonbury thorn. It is on record that when the change of style was made in 1763 people were greatly perplexed, wondering on what day the Glastonbury thorn would blossom. A great crowd collected on Dec. 25, N. S., and finding no blossoms watched the tree until Jan. 6, the old Christmas day, when it bloomed as usual. To allay the excitement this caused the old day was observed for awhile in many places.—New York Journal.

Christmas Greens For the Churches.

The most popular method for Christmas church decoration just now is to have a number of gothic designs in wood, which can be worked out very easily with evergreen leaves and holly, producing an excellent effect. These frames have the advantage of lasting from year to year. Wire frames of different shapes and sizes are also used to some extent and prove very desirable because of their lightness, a large cross, heart or anchor of wire frame frequently going in places where a similar article worked on wood could not be placed. The scarlet berried holly, the dark green and shining leaved ivy, green bloom pots of evergreen shrubs and the red Virginian creeper have all been utilized latterly for decorating the churches. Inscriptions by means of holly berries or in colored immortelles are also made, the latter being preferred, because some of the berries used at Christmas are poisonous, and children pick them up when they fall to the ground. Very thin lines of delicate looking green are carried from side to side so as to intersect each other in squares, and the crossed trellis work thus formed is dotted with flowers.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Poor Digestion

Leads to nervousness, fretfulness, peevishness, chronic Dyspepsia and great misery. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy. It tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and gives a relish to food. It makes pure blood and gives healthy action to all the organs of the body. Take Hood's for Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cath artic with every one who tries them. 25c

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

AMERICA'S CANDID FRIEND.

London Dailies Are Having Some Fun With the Great Labor Leader.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Standard prints a leader bantering the United States and John Burns. "Evidently John Burns is drifting towards patriotism," says the writer. "As for his exhortations to workingmen not to resort to violence, we hope the Chicago leaders will not send a commission to England to ascertain how his method worked in the strikes which he inspired and patronized.

The Daily News prints a leader on "John Burns as a candid friend." Mr. Burns' criticisms of America are the basis of its comments. It says: "Mr. Burns evidently discriminates carefully in his praise and blame. If the criticism were the work of an American it would be accepted; but it is not the work of an American, and therein lie both a distinction and a difference. It is a question whether as a delegate and partly a guest he is justified in his remarks. Perhaps he might better have left some of them unsaid."

The News refers to Mr. Stead's strictures upon Chicago. That these should be followed so soon by Mr. Burns' criticisms the writer thinks is a sore trial for the city's temper, it adds. It is not entirely to the point to say that his dicta may also be true—so many things are true. All the good things in America are just as true as some of the best ones."

CANAL IMPROVEMENT.

New York's State Legislature Will be Petitioned in This Direction.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—A largely attended meeting of the commercial association of the State of New York was held yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce and the principal topic under discussion was the subject of canal improvement. The main object of the meeting was to unite on some form of legislation that will be urged this winter at Albany looking down toward the improvement of these important arteries of commerce.

The conference adopted resolutions favoring canal improvements on the Seymour plan—that is, 9 feet of water in the Erie and Oswego canals, except over permanent structures, lengthening locks thereon and deepening the Champlain canal to 7 feet.

Her Murderer Photographed in Her Eyes.

JAMESTOWN, Dec. 21.—A startling development was made in the Shearman murder case yesterday. Both of Mrs. Shearman's eyes are believed to hold pictures of the man who murdered her. Fred Marsh, an amateur photographer, with his kodak photographed one eye of Mrs. Shearman and the form of a man was found there. The face of the man was not obtained. Both of Mrs. Shearman's eyes were removed and taken by the coroner for further examination. Mrs. Davis' eyes were photographed, but no image was found there, and it is believed that the murderer came upon her from behind.

Outraged and Murdered.

TOPEKA, Kans., Dec. 21.—The body of Mrs. A. D. Matson, one of the best known women in Topeka was found in her room yesterday. She had evidently been outraged and murdered ten days ago. The body was found in a back room covered with old clothes and rags and several bushels of potatoes were piled on the head which had been crushed with an axe that stood near by. After the double crime had been committed the house was robbed of nearly everything of value. Mrs. Matson was for several years a member of the Board of Education and at one time a city teacher. She was supposed to have considerable money and owned five or six houses in the city. Her husband left her four years ago and took up a homestead in California where he since died.

Youthful Train Wreckers.

PEABODY, Mass., Dec. 21.—Kenbeth Belmer, aged 13, and Chester Palmer, 10 years old, were arraigned in court yesterday charged with train wrecking at Lynnfield, on the Boston and Maine road. Four fish-plates were found tightly wedged into a switch in such a manner that they would have derailed a train if they had not been discovered and removed. Belmer has confessed that he attempted to throw the train from the track and implicates the Palmer boy. He said his object was to try and kill a lady school teacher of Lynnfield, who had assisted another teacher in whipping the boys, and who rides daily to her home on the train. Belmer was adjudged guilty and will be committed to a reform school. Palmer was placed on probation.

Accident on the Thousand Island Railway.

GANANOQUE, Dec. 21.—The engineer on the Thousand Island railway was very badly scalded on the little train yesterday. One of the flues blew out and threw the engineer and fireman out of the coach. The engineer is progressing favorably. The mails and passengers were conveyed to the Grand Trunk railway junction by stage until the injury to the boiler was repaired.

Springhill Mines Again Devastated.

SPRINGHILL MINES, N. S., Dec. 21.—About one o'clock this morning fire broke out in Gilmour's store under the News office and it spread rapidly. A large number of buildings were consumed.

Brakeman Badly Injured.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 21.—John Stinson, a G. T. R. brakeman, had one of his legs badly crushed at Newtonville last night. He was brought here and had his right foot amputated.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by all druggists.

EDITORS, CLERGYMEN, PHYSICIANS TESTIFY.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have used other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I tried one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

MARKS OF A MURDEROUS HAND.

Tell-Tale Blood Stains Around the Scene of the Middlemarch Tragedy.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 21.—The interest in the Hendershott case grows more intense as time goes on. Detective Murray considered that corroborative medical testimony would be necessary and the body of Wm. Hendershott was examined Wednesday and a second post-mortem examination held by Dr. Lawrence together with Drs. McLartry, Smith and Fulton. The skull of the deceased was unusually thick and was fractured in two places on the right temple and the back of the head. It is understood that the physicians are unanimous in the opinion that the wounds could not have been caused by the falling tree. At the request of Detective Murray the head was preserved in alcohol. The detectives were around the scene of the tragedy and have discovered several more bloody stains, one upon the tree some distance from where the body lay and one as of bloody finger marks upon a sapling near the stump of the tree.

At the inquest Jno. Hendershott swore that there were two axes in the woods while Welter said there was but one. It is rumored that the missing axe has been found covered with blood and also that a bloody pair of pants have been found in the house.

The adjourned inquest will be resumed to-day.

INDEMNITY FOR OUR SEALERS.

Congress Would Do Well to Recognize Secretary Gresham's Promise.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Secretary Gresham has furnished the House of Representatives full information touching the payment by the United States to Great Britain of $425,000 growing out of the Behring Sea controversy in compliance with a resolution of the House. In transmitting the papers to the Speaker, Secretary Gresham makes a lengthy explanation of the matter, saying in part: "It will appear from the submitted correspondence that the agreement to pay a lump sum of $425,000, in full settlement of all demands authorized to be made under the treaty and award was proposed by this government. The amount is considerably below the damages claimed by Great Britain, exclusive of interest for a number of years. If this agreement does not receive the approval of Congress, and the disputed questions are submitted to an international commission, it is believed that the amounts allowed and the expense of the tribunal will largely exceed $425,000."

Newfoundland's Financial Position.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld, Dec. 21.—There was no important developments in the financial situation yesterday. The Legislature has adjourned until Monday to receive the report of the committee on banks and to consider its recommendations. The depositors and noteholders of the Commercial Bank object to the efforts of the shareholders to wind up the concern's affairs. They contend that some disinterested outsider should be appointed trustee. The depositors and noteholders are organizing a meeting to lay the case before the court. A number of concerns here have been injured by the failure of a large English firm.

Captured a Detroit Forger.

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Yesterday the detective department received a letter from the Detroit authorities stating that a man named Frank Bradley, alias Franklin Burton, was wanted there for forgery. The prisoner was arrested at the Queen's hotel here. He has been in the city for a week, with his son, and in appearance is a veritable Ward McAllister. He was formerly superintendent of the Pullman works in Detroit. Bradley has consented to go back to Detroit without extradition proceedings. He says that the case involves $278 and he had $144 in his pocket when arrested.

Killed on the Track.

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 21.—While a yard engine with one car attached was shunting on the C. P. R., about half a mile from the station, it ran over a man sleeping on the track. His head was completely smashed to pieces. The body was recognized by his uniformed trousers and other articles of dress as that of Charles Connolly, a fireman on the Government steamer, Petrel. In the pockets of deceased were forty cents in money, a flask of whiskey, and pipe and tobacco. Connolly was a resident of this town and leaves a wife and family.

A Cotton Cargo Ruined by Fire.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 21.—The cargo of cotton on board the steamer, Oakfield, is still burning fiercely and all efforts to subdue the flames have proved fruitless. The steamer is a mass of fire from its stern to the bridge. The Oakfield put in here on the 18th inst. with her cargo on fire. It was thought at the time of coming into port that the flames could be gotten under control, but the outlook is now far from encouraging. The Oakfield is bound for Liverpool from Galveston.

How the Illicit Still Exploded.

QUEBEC, Dec. 21.—It is now known that the cause of the terrible accident which occurred some days ago to Sergeant Redmond, who with two women and two children was so badly burned while operating an illicit whiskey still, is due to the fact that coal oil had been thrown into the chimney to kill the peculiar whiskey smell which evaporated that way. Revenue officers, it is said, are well aware of the trick.

Supposed Incendiary Fire.

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 21.—Yesterday about 3 o'clock the general store, post-office and residence of Geo. Mitchell, Baltimore, were totally destroyed by fire. Boyd's carriage warerooms were also destroyed. Mitchell's loss about $6,000; partly covered by insurance. Boyd's loss unknown, but covered by insurance. Cause of fire thought to be incendiary.

Son of Judge Robertson Dead.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 21.—F. Beverley Robertson, son of Judge Robertson, who presided at the last session of the assizes at Sandwich, died at Walkerville last evening. He was 43 years of age and until about five years ago was recognized as one of the cleverest lawyers in Canada.

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE,

GOUGH BROS.'
CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL OF LOW PRICES.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

Our Clothing Trolley Continues to Run on the Bargain Wire. A smaller amount of money than ever before is enough to make every buyer more comfortable, and not a whit lost in quality or style. Whatever the price, the Clothing must be stylish, or we have no use for it.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE ARBITRATION NOW CONCLUDED.

MR. WATSON SPEAKS UNTIL HALF-PAST EIGHT.

He Criticises the Evidence of Paid Expert Witnesses, and States that their Testimony is not Generally Accepted in the Courts.

It was about three o'clock yesterday afternoon when Mr. G. H. Watson, Q. C., began his argument in the arbitration matter before Judge Ketchum. He dwelt on the fact that the farmers of Monaghan were certain their land would be depreciated one-tenth per cent. in value if the river was polluted. This statement by them, he held, was almost admitted by the town as from the township to refute the evidence in this matter. He considered that if he had nothing else to base his argument upon, this one fact was sufficient to turn the whole case. He thought that on this point alone he could rely for a favourable award.

NO WITNESSES HAD BEEN BROUGHT

Continuing, he enlarged on the fact that no medical health officers had been called by the town in support of its contentions. Even the local health officer had not been summoned. The township, on the contrary, had produced an amplitude of evidence from health officers and for its witnesses had chosen men who had acquired their knowledge on sanitary matters through practical experience and

NOT THROUGH READING.

"Was the evidence of Dr. Oldwright, Dr. Sheard, Dr. Pyne, Dr. Allan, Dr. Coventry, Dr. Waters and Dr. Willoughby" he asked, "to be ignored?" All these eminent men, he declared, were practical sanitarians, and as such their protests against the sewer emptying into the river should not be overlooked.

Mr. Watson's reference to Mr. Chipman, as that "clean skater" from Toronto, brought a titter from the audience who remembered how that witness had evoked the Q.C.'s ire on more than one occasion during the time he was giving his evidence. This witness, Mr. Watson stated, had said that for Peterborough to put in a sand filteration system for a number of years. Bowman had said sand giteration was not necessary at the present time and Good enough stated "it was not now necessary" All this, the counsel held, was proof positive that sand filtration or some similar system would be necessary at some future date, and that the township would have trouble in forcing the town to change its system, if once the sewer discharged itself into the river before its contents were treated. He could not understand how Mr. Edwards could ask for a permanent award on this class of evidence.

Judge Ketchum asked

THE OMINOUS QUESTION

of Mr. Watson as to whether the township would have a remedy if he allowed the sewer to be discharged into the river and it afterwards became a nuisance. The township's counsel claimed that in this event his clients would be wholly without remedy, as the case was now taken out of the courts. The Judge, however, rather thought that the Provincial Board of Health would have something to say in the matter.

Continuing his argument, Mr. Watson declared that the witnesses for the town came from a class who entered the witness box biased and interested, as they were paid for their evidence, and their testimony was not generally accepted in the courts.

He concluded by urging strongly that if the sewer was discharged into the river it be conditionally, i.e., that some system of purification be first adopted.

It is understood that Judge Ketchum will make the award before the first of the year.

A CONTRADICTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In connection with the islands in Stony and other lakes in the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, which are the property of the Department of Indian Affairs, I hear that it has been stated in Peterborough that I have been in the habit of holding them for parties who have made no payment on them.

I desire to state publicly that there is no ground whatever for such an assertion.

Any unsold island between Lakefield and Gull River in the county of Victoria, with the exception of those reserved for Indians, and one or two withdrawn from sale by the Department for special reasons, is for sale by me at a fixed price to any one.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. TOOK HIS SISTER'S LIFE.

A Bruce County Man Committed on a Serious Charges.

LUCKNOW, Ont., Dec. 23.—On Tuesday, December 18, Mrs. Robert Elder who lives in the south-west part of the town died under suspicious circumstances. She was an elderly widow woman and lived with her brother, Alex. Fraser, neither of whom bear very good characters. To he house has also been the resort of certain parties who do not carry a very good reputation and for some months past the house has been the scene of some noisy quarrels at night, much to the annoyance of the neighbors, Fraser is said to have been in the habit of ill-treating his sister in their drunken sprees by beating her.

Coroner Dr. Gordon was notified of the death and on visiting the place decided to hold an inquest. A jury was summoned and sworn in and after viewing the remains adjourned. Drs. Tennant and Garnier made a post-mortem examination of the body and found the right arm broken and terribly bruised from the wrist to the shoulder and also some marks on the head. The inquest was continued when a large number of witnesses were examined. The taking of evidence was finished at 10 o'clock, and the jury rendered a verdict that Mrs. Elder's death was caused by Alex. Farser.

Fraser was brought before Magistrates Lyons and Lawrence yesterday and committed for trial at Walkerton.

THE PORTE IS OBDURATE.

It Does Not Want the United States Consul on the Commission.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Standard's correspondent in Constantinople says that the Porte persists in its refusal to let United States Consul Jewett go with the commission of inquiry as an independent agent and report separately to the secretary of state in Washington. Tyrell will not take no for an answer, the correspondent asserts, and does not give the grand vizier a moment's rest from his importunity.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—A man named Popagin who was imprisoned as an anarchist in Bucharest some time ago has proved to be an Armenian agitator. He confessed that he was a member of a widespread conspiracy which was designed to overthrow the Turkish rule in Armenia and make the province independent. His statements have implicated several Armenians, who have been arrested.

THE HENDERSHOTT CASE

The Father of the Deceased Gives Evidence at The Inquest.

LOOKING BAD FOR ACCUSED

The Two Men Arrested Put in the Stand, But Refuse to Give Evidence—Mary Hendershott Contradicts Her Father—The Inquest Again Adjourned.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 23.—The inquest on the Hendershott case closed about 7.30 last night and a large amount of evidence was taken. The incident of the day, of course, was the arrest of the suspected men, John Hendershott and William Welter. After they had been placed under arrest they were put upon the stand but acting upon the advice of their counsel they refused to answer any questions.

David Hendershott, father of deceased, related a conversation which took place between he and W. D. Welter while on the way to St. Thomas to the effect that Welter informed him of the $11,000 insurance, also that if he did the square thing by John Hendershott that he would do what was right with him. He also said they drove to Penwarden house, St. Thomas, and saw John Hendershott's rig there. Welter sat in a rig in front of the house about ten minutes before getting out and then jumped out and went in the house and was gone ten or fifteen minutes, returning to the rig. John Hendershott came out a minute or two after, grasped witness by hand and he (witness) said: "This is a terrible affair." John turned away and started to cry. No other conversation passed between them at that time.

"I went to she wood on Sudnay morning with several others and William D. Welter pointed out position deceased was found in to us. I also made careful examination but failed to find any blood on tree or ground where body laid, although a few leaves covered with blood were found a few feet from his head where the right hand was laying, We also discovered blood eight feet from the body and all along towards stump of tree. I then said it was murder. I had conversation Sunday evening with John Hendershott and asked him why he did not go to the woods and examine scene for himself, that it was very suspicious. John remarked that the blood was taken there from the dead horse by dogs or that dogs were fighting in the woods which caused the blood and that people were all too suspicious. I also asked him what about my son's affairs and he said 'What do you mean?' I said I meant the insurance. John said I was a little previous and that if I would keep quiet he would do the fair thing with me. I had conversation with John this morning. He told me they were trying to ring him into this murder and I said that if I were in John's place I would pray to my maker for forgiveness and he turned away and started to cry and said he knew nothing about it."

Mary Hendershott, who was alleged to be about to marry W. D. Welter, swore that she left the house with her father and sister about ten o'clock Friday morning for Eden. Deceased, W. D. Welter and Chas. Welter were standing at the gate. The latter arrived about ten minutes before that, went to barn with her father and returned as we were about to leave. He came there for milk for his pigs. It was the fourth time he had come after milk in the past ten days. He started for home immediately after us. We left my sister at Charles Welter's and while there he came home. We then drove direct to Aylmer and had dinner there about noon and from there to a friend of father's named Ostrander at Eden. Father drove to Mr. Ketchbaugh's, returned and said he was not home. He and Ostrander then left and said they were going to Tilsonburg. While they were gone Ketchbaugh drove down with a telegram for father and said that William Hendershott was dead. I did not know which William Hendershott it was and did not pass any opinion. When father returned he did not inform me which Hendershott it was and we had no conversation about it. Saturday morning they returned to St. Thomas but no conversation passed between them as to contents of telegram nor did she see it.

Arriving at the east end of St. Thomas a man whom her father said was named McGugan stopped them and said that Hendershott's nephew was dead. The father felt very much affected. They then drove to Penwarden house, and her father asked her to write some postal cards to his relatives apprising them of the fact. While they were thus engaged the landlady said, "Here comes W. D. Welter," but her father did not leave the room. In a few minutes Welter came in but no conversation regarding how the deceased met his death took place between he and her father. They then drove home. Continuing she said, "The first time I heard about the insurance was at breakfast table Sunday morning when a conversation arose about age of the deceased. Father took insurance policies out of his pocket and showed them to us." This notwithstanding John Hendershott's evidence to contrary on Tuesday last. She then corrected herself and said W. D. Welter informed her Saturday evening that the deceased was insured for $11,000 in two companies and the policies were payable to her father. She positively denied any acknowledge of the murder or that she had seen or heard any suspicious conversations or movements.

This was most important evidence taken and the general opinion is that the case is growing very black for the accused. The inquest adjourned until Thursday next.

WIPED OUT BY WAVES

A Town in the Department of Magdalena Has Entirely Disappeared.

THE CAPITAL UNDER WATER

Inhabitants of Santa Maria Take Refuge in Church Steeples and High Buildings—A Number of Persons Reported to Have Perished in the Flood.

PANAMA, Dec. 23.—A Colon correspondent sends the following: Passengers arriving here bring news to the effect that Santa Maria, the capital of the department of Magdalena, a city of some 10,000 inhabitants, has been inundated by the rising and overflowing of the banks of the River Manzanares and by a tidal wave which swept over the city on the 7th instant, washing away a number of houses and causing considerable damage to property.

Hemmed in by the slowly, but gradually rising waters of the Manzanares on one hand and the mountainous waves of the Caribbean, dashing with violent fury into the town, the inhabitants were thrown into the greatest consternation, some taking refuge in the church steeples and highest buildings in the town, while others took to the mountains. The number of persons that have perished in the disaster or number of buildings destroyed cannot yet be ascertained.

The small town of Gaira has completely disappeared as also has fourteen of its inhabitants, among them Dr. Hinckapie, a well-known physician of the locality. At the time of the sailing of the steamer the tempest had somewhat subsided but it was impossible to get about the streets except in boats which means conveyance was being utilized through the streets of Santa Maria.

COOL TRAIN ROBBERS.

Four Men, Unarmed Relieve the Passengers of Their Valuables.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Dec. 23.—When the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul passenger train from South Dakota came in this morning just before daybreak four men went into one of the coaches, some distance from the depot. They used no revolvers but wore masks. Two took each side of the car and nearly every passenger was relieved of a watch or pocketbook. The job was done so quickly that no one seemed to realize what was occurring until the men had gone. Not a hand was raised against them and hardly a word was said by the robbers.

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Bradstreet's says: "The volume of general trade continues small, as expected from evidences of shrinkage within the month. The year 1894 naturally brings low quotations for staples and securities, a characteristic of years following those marked by panics. Lowest prices on record are, or recently have been made for iron and steel, wheat and Indian corn and cotton and wool. Improvement in prices is recorded in only a few leading lines. Bank clearings are steadily maintained, the aggregate for six business days amounting to $1,018,828.06, compared with $1,019,070,000 last week, and as contrasted with $941,712,000 in the week a year ago, an increase of 3.9 per cent. The total number of failures in business in the United States this week shows a reaction from the recent heavy mortality in commercial lines, with an aggregate of only 309, compared with 363 last week, 353 in the week a year ago, 298 two years ago and 313 in the third week of December, 1891. There is a falling off in the number of failures at the West and in the Middle States."

Married a Wealthy Canadian.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—In the large parlor of the Brunswick hotel, Mrs. Louise Caldwell, widow of the late Dr. Caldwell, of Canada, was married to Cornelius Marco, of Darlington, S. C., at nine o'clock. Judge McAdam, of the Superior Court, officiated. The bride is a native of Canada, but has resided at the hotel for some years. Her nephew is Count De Cades Couville, of Montreal. She is worth $3,500,000, and he is wealthy and of old family.

Strike Troubles in Shamokin.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Dec. 23.—A strike against a reduction in wages has been inaugurated by the 800 employes of the Midvalley Colliery and trouble is feared. Among the strikers are a number of foreigners and they made an attack upon four men who persisted in remaining at work and beat them severely. The strikers lined all the paths leading to the mine and no effort was made to resume work.

Killed Her Child With a Penknife.

EASTPORT, Maine, Dec. 23.—A woman calling herself Mrs. Alexander Howard, 23 years old, who came from the maritime provinces two months ago is under arrest here charged with killing her new born child last Wednesday with a penknife. Her alleged husband, Howard, left for St. Andrews, N. B., three weeks ago and his present whereabouts is unknown.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1894.

THEY MUST STAND TRIAL.

The Government organs are trying to draw a red herring—the loyalty cry—across their administrative tracks, but it will require a very "high" herring to counteract the scent of their administrative offences "that smell to heaven." The Government must not lay the flattering unction to their souls, that they will be able to shut the electoral ear to the discussion of their maladministration. The Liberals will hold the Government strictly to their responsibility for their administrative record. The people will not, without protest, be allowed to be bought with the public money obtained by means which Sir Adolph Caron boasted, with the approval of his followers, he would employ again if he had the opportunity. Ministers will not be allowed to escape arraignment from scandalously extravagant waste of the public revenues on public works. They will not be allowed to delude the country with the frightful fiction that their methods of government are in the interests of national advancement. We have a vast domain to be filled with population, and a pharasaic parade of self-loyalty will not be allowed to interfere with the fight for the conditions of pure government, honest administration, cheap living and low taxation that will attract population. The Liberals will not allow the government to choose its fighting ground. The fate of Mr. Meredith, who fought a vain battle for twenty years on a succession of puerile and impertinent side issues is not needed. Had he attacked the Mowat Government on its administrative record, though he would not have succeeded, he would have the consolation of a consciousness of duty done and trust discharged to console him in this hour of defeat, and despairing retirement from the contest. The loyalty cry will not avail. It should never be raised. No man who has the interests of the country at heart, will be found imputing disloyalty to the great majority of his fellow-men. Such a cry comes with ill-grace from men whose loyalty to the country is gauged by the opportunities they possess of robbing it—who have only to be deprived of office and spoil to become rampant rebels.

ARE THE ELECTIONS AT HAND?

The Toronto News publishes a despatch from Ottawa stating that the writs for a general election are actually being prepared. The new Government evidently thinks it an opportune time, so soon after Sir John Thompson's death, to appeal to the people. They trust to the sympathy dodge to give them favour in the eyes of the electors, which their record would never give. Besides, they know that there will be a big deficit this year, and the ministers are naturally unwilling to face Parliament on the eve of an election, with the necessity of making acknowledgment to the big gap between income and outlay. But it is not probable that the elections are to be immediately brought on. The new voters' lists will not be completed for a couple of months, and though the government would have no hesitation in going to the country on the old lists, it is not at all probable that a high minded, honourable governor like Lord Aberdeen would permit the outrage of an election held on lists nearly five years old, which would be no test of the voting power of the country. Thousands of names on the old lists would be those of dead men and they would not contain the names of thousands who have become entitled to vote since the old lists were prepared.

It is fortunate for Mr. Marter that Hon. Mr. Bowell, in his search for a cabinet does not make a raid on the Ontario Opposition. The demand on his minority of seventeen would have "exhausted the panel" and have transported Her Majesty's loyal opposition bodily to the capital. If our Ontario cabinet were framed on the same numerically liberal scale as the Dominion cabinet, Mr. Marter would be embarrassingly short of lumber for cabinet making. But fortunately there is very little chance of Mr. Marter being called upon to form a cabinet. He only requires timber enough to afford a knothole sufficiently large for personal accommodation.

The Globe's Ottawa despatch describes Hon. R. A. Dickey, the new Secretary of State in Mr. Bowell's ministry, as a "consistent prohibitionist." This description will not be long applicable, if Mr. Foster's "moment of weakness" is contagious. But Dr. Montague's substitution for Mr. Carling may have removed a predisposing cause. Duty-free French wines and cheaper beer are Hon. Mr. Foster's latest achievements as a "consistent prohibitionist."

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following excerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were prescribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Gallizien, Austria.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

SIR JOHN THOMPSON.

THE WHOLE BRITISH NATION MOURNS AN HONOURED SON.

His Tragic Death Intensifies the Grief—Warned of His Probable Fate Months Before.

The sudden death of Sir John Thompson, Premier of Canada, at Windsor Castle a few days ago has cast a gloom over all Canada and called forth sincere expressions of sorrow from every quarter of the British Empire. From the soverign on the throne down through the ranks of the nobility and government officials of the highest standing to the lowliest, there have come lamentations and regrets coupled with the heartiest sympathy for the bereaved widow and children of Canada's chief statesman.

It is but natural that the event should cause such widespread grief. Sir John Thompson's fame as a statesman was not merely local and his labours were not confined solely to Canadian affairs. He was an important member of the board of arbitration on the Behring Sea disputes between the United States and Great Britain, and in the performance of his duties there came in contact with foreign statesmen of high diplomatic standing, whose admiration was aroused by the ability he then displayed. But a few months ago he came closely in contact with the prominent men of the different British depeudencies at the Colonial conference at Ottawa. These two events alone made his name known far and wide throughout the world.

His dramatic end, too, served to bring him more prominently before the eyes of all people. He had been summoned to the hereditary home of England's sovereign to be sworn a member of the highest council of the empire and to take part in its deliberations. Hardly had he left the council-board when the arrow of Death laid him low. Is it to be wondered at, then, that from the Queen, whose presence he had hardly left, down to the meanest subject, a wail of sorrow should go up over the death of a man whom his sovereign delighted to honor?

To the living, Sir John Thompson's sudden and tragic death teaches a lesson that none should neglect. But a few months ago, when in Toronto, the state of hi health led him to consult a prominent physician, who told him plainly that he must lighten his heavy labours or a few months would see him in the grave. Bright's disease of the kidneys had taken hold of him, and the utmost care of himself was necessary if he wished to prolong his days. The judgment of the Toronto physician was confirmed by a specialist of high standing in London, Eng., whom Sir John Thompson had consulted after his arrival in England a few weeks ago.

Sir John Thompson was so burdened with public business that he could not obey the instructions of the doctors to desist from work. Had he but known it a cure for his disease lay within easy reach. Not in one, but in hundreds of cases of Bright's disease, has the victim been cured after physicians have pronounced the death sentence, and by the simple, easy remedy—Dood's Kidney Pills. This assertion is not made lightly, but is re-inforced by the testimony of the many who have proved that these pills cure this disease. The testimony of Dr. McCormack, of Richmond, Que., who was cured of Bright's disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, is of importance in this connection. Diabetes and Bright's disease were always considered fatal and incurable until this remedy was placed before the public. This is no longer the case, for multitudes of cures prove that these pills will surely root out every trace, not only of these two disorders, but also of every known form of kidney disease.

No Liquor in Pullman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—The Pullman Car Company has notified some of the leading merchants in the town that the leases of their premises which expire on December 31 will not be renewed on account of their selling liquor in large quantities and permitting gambling in their establishments. It is said that these practices have been notorious for some time. The action of the company is the result of a crusade started a short time ago by the female residents of the town.

Preparing More Documents for Crispi.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Times correspondent in Rome says he has confidential information that more libellous documents against Premier Crispi are preparing. They are fictitious, he says, and partly forgeries. The remarkable cordiality to which King Humbert in the last audience showed to Crispi is much discussed in Rome and general opinion is that the Premier's position is stronger than ever.

Married His Fourteen-Year-Old Niece.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 22.—Arthur Silsby, of West Flats, Chautauqua county, went to the village school and took away the 14-year-old daughter of his brother, driving to Panama, where the twain were married. The child's father will prosecute his brother for abduction and the minister who married the pair.

The Experiment Failed.

JAMESTOWN, Dec. 22.—The experiments made on the eyes of Mrs. Shearman, one of the women murdered near this city a few days ago, resulted in failure. The coroner's jury will meet to-day. No important developments are expected.

To nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a priceless boon, for it not only strengthens the mother, but also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child. BEST IN THE WORLD

IT GIVES NEW STRENGTH TO THE OLD AND FEEBLE.

It Banishes Old Troubles and Renews Life.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND NEVER FAILS TO CURE.

In Canada thousands of old people are indebted to Paine's Celery Compound for their present vigour, health and strength. From disease, sickness, weakness and loss of energy, they have been raised to a condition of health that guarantees many years of life and usefulness to their families and friends.

Amongst the many old people who have been cured by Paine's Celery Compound, the case of Mrs. Henry Lewis, of Montreal, is deserving of special attention; her letter is an interesting one and worthy of careful perusal. Mrs. Lewis writes as follows:

"I am now an old woman, being in my seventy-third year; and can most frankly confess that no action of my life has ever given me greater pleasure than the present one of testifying with my whole heart and soul in favour of your Paine's Celery Compound.

"From my experience with other advertised remedies, I may say, that they are not to be compared with your grand medicine for a moment. Paine's Celery Compound to me was new health and increased strength; all other medicines I found worthless and my money was spent in vain.

"Two years ago I became weak, sleepless and restless, and my appetite was almost gone. Severe headache, biliousness, kidney trouble and sore back made life a misery to me, and I despaired of being in health again.

"These distressing troubles often confined me to bed for a week or ten days at a time; and it is almost impossible to describe the agonies and wretchedness I endured during these severe attacks. A friend advised me to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial; others insisted that I required careful nourishment and dieting. I had heard, however, of such wonderful results from the use of Paine's Celery Compound, that I determined to honestly and carefully test its value in my case; and I bless God that I had sufficient courage and will-power to do so, as it has made me a new woman. I used your Compound simply as directed, and found, after commencing the second bottle, that the virtues of the great remedy were instilling a new vitality and giving me a new existence.

"Up to date, I have used about twelve bottles, and am now completely and permanently restored. I do all my own house work; I am cheerful and happy, and do not experience any of the fatigue and weakness that troubled me some months ago.

"I live and enjoy life to-day, and thank God for the great agent of life that cured me.

"I trust that thousands of women will have a chance to read this testimony, and profit by my experience. I strongly appeal to all women to give up other medicines that they are now vainly using, and commence at once with Paine's Celery Compound, which alone can bring back lost health. I wish that I could personally visit every woman in Canada who is suffering as I once suffered; I am sure my words of testimony and comfort would soon convince all that there is only one honest, worthy and meritorious medicine that can meet their troubles, and that medicine is Paine's Celery Compound."

SAMPSON IS COMING.

Left Her Husband and Home.

PORT HURON, Dec. 22.—At the house of Prosecuting Attorney Avery, which two mysterious prisoners have been occupying for the past few days, the police while searching found a bottle bearing this label, "Dr. Pickering, Toronto, physician and surgeon," and "Dr. Anna Pickering, physician, Toronto." The latter, the police say, is the mysterious woman in the case, and one George W. Ingalls, of Boston, the mysterious man. Ingalls is said to be an agent of the Blake Engine Co., of Boston. Dr. Annie Pickering is the wife of the Dr. Pickering, of Sherbourne street, whom she has left and from whom she is now seeking a divorce. Dr. Pickering when seen admitted this, and said that when he recently went to England in search of health his wife formed the acquaintance of Ingalls. Dr. Pickering says he will also apply for divorce.

Hypnotised a Wealthy Countess.

MUNICH, Dec. 22.—The trial of Czestans Czynski, the teacher of languages and lecturer on mesmerism, who was arrested a short time ago, charged with hypnotising the wealthy Countess Zedlitz, at Neukirch, and compelling her to marry him, ended in his conviction. The trial lasted several days and a large number of witnesses were examined, including several specialists in hypnotism. Czynski was convicted of offending public order and also forgery. The court sentenced him to three years imprisonment.

Churchill Stricken With Paralysis.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Morning Post says: "Lord Randolph Churchill is paralyzed on one side and is unable to recognize his friends. His mother and sister, Lady Wimborne, have started for Marseilles to meet him. Constitutionally he is of an excitable temperment and this has been overstrained by excessive cigarette smoking. The want of outdoor exercise and latterly the use of opiates are given as causes of the wreck. It is impossible for him to continue in politics."

SERVICES AT OTTAWA

Solemn Mass for the Dead Celebrated at the Basilica.

CABINET MINISTERS ATTEND

Writs for a General Election Reported to be in Course of Preparation—A. W. Ross and the Winnipeg Postmastership—Dr. Montague a Very Sick Man.

OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—The state funeral services held at Basilica yesterday in memory of the late Sir John Thompson constituted a scene of solemn grandeur and magnificence ever seen in Ottawa. From the decorations to the singing everything about the services was on an unequalled scale. Between 4,000 and 5,000 people were in the church and many more were unable to gain admittance. Every possible foot of available space was taken up. At 9.30 Archbishop Duhamel in pontificial robes entered the church. He was followed by a large retinue of clergy, beautifuy robbed. Mgr. Routhier acted as assistant priest. Fathers Campeau and Plantin were the deacon of honor and Dr. Deguire and Father Groulx were respectively deacon and sub-deacon. All wore robes of black and gold. The sanctuary was filled with surpliced clergy.

The front rows of seats on either side of the sanctuary were reserved for Ministers of the Crown and judges of the Supreme and Exchequer courts. Those who occupied seats were: Hon. Messrs. Daly, Patterson, Haggart, Caron and Angers and Justices Strong, Gwynne, Burbidge and King. Bourda's mass for the dead was sung by a choir of 100 voices. Members of every choir in the city took part. Mr. L. Mathe, choir master of the Basilica, directed the music, which was of a remarkably high class. At the end of the mass Archbishop Duhamel ascended the pulpit and delivered an appropriate sermon. His text was St. Paul to the Hebrews, chap. 9, v. 27: "It is appointed unto men once to die." Words of death, mourning and hope, he said, naturally come on this occasion from our hearts to our lips. Here was awful death, universal mourning and yet bright hope. Death was the sad close of every human memorial. All must come to it sooner or later. It was the penalty of sin, but through divine mercy it became for the elect the gate of the home above. Death was dreadful, but at the same time consoling to the Christian. When it was so suddenly brought to mind, as by the Premier's death, it would work good. The Christian churches throughout the land were re-echoing the praises of the one model Christian and citizen. To-day we were one in deep sorrow. He said we should pray that this union of hearts might continue, that all classes should try to make contented, peaceful citizens, in working to promote the welfare of the country at large. Sir John had lived and died for his country. We should follow in his footsteps and hope one day to praise with him the merciful God in heaven. The decorations in the church were on a lavish scale and were, it is stated, the finest the Dominion has ever seen.

The Winnipeg Postmastership.

The report published in a Winnipeg newspaper and telegraphed to eastern newspapers that A. W. Ross was to be appointed postmaster of Winnipeg is incorrect. It was said that Postmaster Hargrave was to be superannuated and that Mr. Ross was to take his place. Mr. Ross says that there is no foundation in the report and that he would not accept the position on any account. It was also stated in the same paragraph that W. B. Scarth was to be appointed lieutenant-governor of Manitoba. This also is pure speculation, because Mr. Bowell has not yet had a meeting of his Cabinet and therefore the question could not have been considered at all. In regard to this and all other appointments which may have been considered and to some extent promised by the Thompson government, it ought to be remembered that pledges of that kind, if there are any, are not in any way binding on the Bowell administration.

Election Rumors.

It is reported here that the writs are actually being prepared for a general election. It seems not improbable that the story is true. The new voters' list will be about completed just in time to be ready for an election if the preparations above spoken of really are being made. Another fact that adds probability to the story is that Sir Charles Tupper was to have left England for Canada to-day. Sir Charles, it will be remembered, came over from London just on the eve of the last two general elections.

Dr. Montague's Illness.

Dr. Montague, the member for Haldimand, who has been taken into the Cabinet without portfolio over the heads of Messrs. Wallace and Wood, is known to be a sick man. When he left for Montreal with Mr. Bowell his old friends were astonished at the change which was apparent in him, as he fairly staggered into the car. His face was bloodless, and it cost him a great effort to acknowledge friends who were standing near. He was accompanied by Dr. R. W. Powell, of Montreal, who stated that his patient was suffering from nicotine poison in the nerves of the stomach, being to a certain extent paralyzed from over-smoking.

Sir Charles Not Coming to Canada.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain, has been ailing since his recent attack of influenza. On Tuesday he was seized with a chill and is now unable to leave the house. Owing to the condition of his health Sir Charles will not accompany the body of Sir John Thompson to Canada on the cruiser Blenheim. Senator Sanford alone will sail with the remains.

DOCTORS WAKE UP.

Medical Men Investigating the Discovery of an Absolute Remedy for Diabetes.

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—Medical men are on the alert just now when the subject of kidney disease comes up for discussion. Diabetes has always been looked upon as sure death by the profession, but lately the doctors have had their eyes opened to the possibility of a cure by Dr. E. A. Rose, of Portland, Ont. He has stated in writing that he was cured of this disease after being pronounced "in extremis" by six medical brethren, and his cure was effected by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills. This remedy has attracted much attention from the medical profession because of its success in the cure of kidney disease, and many physicians are to-day prescribing it in affections of these organs.

A Merry 'Xmas and a Happy New Year to all.

A Port Hope Centenarian.

PORT HOPE, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Electa Hoskill, of Port Hope, though blind, is in comparatively good health at the age of 103 years. She is happy and contented and her memory is so good that she can recite verses committed to memory in her youth. She is familiar with nearly every verse in the Old and New Testament and frequently quotes entire chapters. Mrs. Hoskill is being well cared for by her daughter who is now over 71 years old. The father and mother of this centenarian both lived to be over 90.

West Bruce Patrons.

TIVERTON, Ont., Dec. 22.—The Patrons of West Bruce held a convention here yesterday to nominate a candidate for the Commons. There was a large representation from lodges all over. But they failed to make a choice. The vote was divided between Mayor Tolmie, of Kincardine who is expected to be the P. P. A. candidate and Mr. Wm. Valens, of Kinloss, but as neither received a sufficient majority no nomination was made. Another convention will be held at some future date.

Christmas Holidays in England.

Two-thirds of the wholesale and retail establishments in London, England, in all branches of industry, as the results of the efforts of a committee headed by Sir John Lubbock, M. P., have agreed to suspend work from noon on Saturday, the 22nd, to the morning of Friday, Dec. 28th, all employees receiving weekly salaries to be paid in full. This will be the longest Christmas holiday ever known in England. Throughout the country business will be generally suspended from Saturday until Thursday morning.

Complimentary Criticism.

The singing of Miss Annie Fawcett in Kingston has made a most favourable impression on the audiences who have been favoured. At a concert held by the United Workmen in that city recently she evidently acquitted herself with unusual brilliancy, as the News in referring to her says:—"Miss Fawcett, of Peterborough, although she appeared last night before a Kingston audience for the second time only, has won an enviable popularity in this City. She is a singer of uncommon power, and possesses a remarkably sweet voice. Her rendition of "The Ivory Gate," brought down the house, and the audience demanded a second song, which she sang as sweetly as the first one." The Whig says:—"But the gem of the evening was Miss Fawcett, of Peterborough. Her eloquently trained soprano voice filled the house and fairly entranced her hearers. Miss Fawcett's training has been perfect, and, as a result, her voice is well modulated."

No arrests.

—Fine weather.

—Two days to Christmas.

—Buy that Xmas box soon.

—Everything quiet at the fire hall.

—Considerable pork came in to-day.

—George street windows show fine taste.

—Fox hunting furnishes good sport at present.

—The EXAMINER is full of holiday advertisements.

—No news from the police court this morning.

—The wheeling on the country roads is terrible rough.

—Candidates for municipal honours are very slow in announcing themselves.

—Merchants report the Christmas trade good considering the lack of sleighing.

—Nomination day this year will be later than usual—the last Monday falling on the last day of the month.

—Rev. Geo. Webber, Toronto, will conduct the anniversary services in the George street church to-morrow.

—Big crowds came in from Norwood, Millbrook, Omemee, and other adjacent villages this morning, and the streets looked as though there was some big celebration on.

—Well-bred people do not go where they are not invited. How often do you invite the general public to your place of business? People go where they are interested and invited.

—He was a countryman, and he walked along a busy thoroughfare, and read a sign over the door of a manufacturing establishment—"Cast-iron Sinks." It made him mad. He said that any fool ought to know that.

—The Methodist congregations of the George street and Charlotte street churches, will hold a union service in the George street church on Christmas morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Rae will preach.

—Stick a pin right here. Don't allow yourself to be carried away with the idea that you can purchase as new and tasty Christmas presents from anyone as you can from the Peterborough Book Store, for you can not.

—Mr. Edward Potvin, of the Canadian General Electric Co.'s Works, had the misfortune to lose part of the thumb of his left hand by being caught in the punching machine. The doctor reports that the injuries will soon heal.

—A syndicate of Rochester gentlemen have obtained a letter of incorporation from the Ontario Government under the title of "The Rice Lake Fishing and Hunting Club," to carry on a summer hotel and club house at Rice Lake—capital $12,000.

—While Mrs. Adam Beavis, of Asphodel, on Wednesday evening, was crossing the bridge from seeing her daugheer-in-law, Mrs. W. Beavis, off on the train for British Columbia, she was struck with a snowball thrown by some unknown hand and seriously hurt. The throwing of snow balls may be all right for play, but throwing them at strangers is a discredit to anyone. Age is to be respected no matter who may carry it.

Mrs. Von Finklestein Mountford.

Rev. Dr. Smith, pastor of Centennary church, Hamilton, says: "Mrs. Mountford's lectures gave the best interpretation of the manners and customs of the East, that I have any knowledge of, and are replete with illustrations of immense value to the Bible student." Her lecture here on Thursday next, Dec. 27th, in the Opera House, will be her masterpiece. The subject is "Ecce Homo"—from Bethlehem to Calvary. Plan of hall at Stratton's.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Christmas Presents Buyers

Make a note of this for Monday. The Peterborough Bookstore has just received a late shipment of Fancy Mirrors, solid brass Photo Frames and six onyx top Marble Tables, which, on account of their late arrival, will be cleared out at next to cost—a great chance for bargains, and also remember that we have the finest stock, the largest stock and the cheapest stock of superb goods suitable for Xmas presents. Remember that the best place by all odds to buy Christmas presents is the Peterborough Bookstore. A magnificently complete stock in every department and cheap as good advice. ABDUCTION OF A CHILD IN DOURO.

LITTLE ELLA HANRAHAN SUDDENLY DISAPPEARS.

Has That Foul Fiend Chatelle an Imitater in the Vicinity of Lakefield?—The Country Being Scoured by Friends of the Distracted Parents.

That portion of the township of Douro in the vicinity of Lakefield is in a ferment of excitement and sympathy—excitement concerning the sudden disappearance of a little girl, and sympathy for the distracted parents.

Yesterday afternoon Ella Hanrahan, the pretty, bright-eyed, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. Jas. Hanrahan, Douro, left the ward school, near the Lakefield town hall for home, when the school was dismissed at four o'clock in the afternoon.

She went as far as Mr. R. Q. Dench's place, south-east of the village, and to this point was accompanied by a number of her school mates. This is the last that was seen of the little girl, though Mr. Dench's residence is only about 300 yards from the little one's own home and in the intervening distance along the main highway there are no woods or thickets of any kind, or any water of a depth to drown a child.

The supposition is that the little girl has been abducted, and all night long searching parties were out scouring the country for news of the child. This morning a number of additional parties of men started out determined to find a clue to the sudden disappearance of the little one before returning, but up to the hour of press no news of the finding has been received.

The missing child is eight years of age and of a most pleasing appearance. She is a bright little thing and was considered one of the most promising scholars in the school.

The event following so closely on the horrible Chatelle murder lends strength to the horrible dread that foul play of a character too revolting for thought has been instrumental in the child's removal. If such is the case the individual upon whom suspicion may be thrown will meet his just deserts in a manner which will terminate the horrible succession of crimes of this nature which have occurred lately.

Mr. Hanrahan has the deepest sympathy of all his neighbors, and no stone will be left unturned to aid him in discovering the fate which has befallen his little daughter.

Mothers, who last night put their little ones safely and snugly to bed, can form some faint idea of the feelings of the mother who vainly awaited in agonizing suspense the return of her child. Unless in the meantime the little child is found, Christmas in the Hanrahan household will be the saddest day of the year and of their lives.

THE BROOKS IMPROVED HOT WATER BOILER.

A Valuable Testimonial as to its Efficacy and Economy of Fuel.

The Brooks' Improved Hot Water Boiler has attracted no little attention in Peterborough and vicinity, and naturally taking considerable interest in a local invention manufactured in the town, a representative of the EXAMINER during his rounds this morning, had a chat with Mr. Henry Best, town councillor, a gentleman well qualified to give a reliable opinion upon such a subject as heating. For the past quarter of a century Mr. Best has been associated in the way of business with heating apparatus, and the question coming up in the presence of a few gentlemen in Mr. Best's handsome shop, he was asked his opinion of the Brooks' Hot Water Boiler, which was all in its favour. Mr. Best said that he had had ten or eleven years' experience with a tubular hot water boiler, and his experience has not been satisfactory. The tubes being of wrought iron were more susceptible to the action of the corroding gasses of the coal, and consequently soon burnt out causing great annoyance and expense. The same objection did not apply, he said to the Brook's Boiler, that boiler being of solid cast iron, which it is well-known perfectly resists the action of the coal gasses, and will practically last a lifetime. His experiment with a tubular boiler having failed, Mr. Best, says he decided to try a Brook's Hotwater Boiler. He has had one in use in his residence some time and is highly pleased with it. For economy of fuel and effectiveness in heating, Mr. Best finds the Brook's Boiler the best heating arrangement he has met with in an experience of about 25 years. He does not think any mistake can be made in fitting a residence with a Brook's Improved Hot Water Boiler. In these days of scarcity and high price of fuel, the question of economy, not to say comfort, in its use is an important one. Mr. Best is well known and any person contemplating putting in heating apparatus would do well to take his opinion on the Brook's Boiler which a personal experience of its use, together with an experience of over 25 years as a hardware merchant and stove dealer, highly qualifies him to give. His approval of it from practical test, is worth a whole volume of theorizing.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS

To all our Customers and Friends.

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.

In wishing our many customers and friends the compliments of the season, we also wish to express to them our sincere gratitude for their very liberal patronage during the past year. We are confident that your dealing with us has been a great saving to yourselves. We are pleased that the people of Peterborough and surrounding country have appreciated our efforts to place before them the very best class of goods at lower prices for the same quality than can be had in the largest cities in the province. The proof to us of this appreciation—IS A LARGE INCREASE IN OUR GROWING CASH BUSINESS.

OUR SERVICE,

Although by no means perfect, we have endeavoured to serve you promptly and well; we have never advertised one cent's worth that we did nothave when you came for it. And you can rest assured that in the future there will be nothing jackingon our part to render you more efficient service and to still maintain the very pleasant relations that have existed between us and our customers.

We further invite your attention to our pleasant and spacious LADIES' PARLOUR which has been so much admired and appreciated, especially by Ladies' coming from outside places. Again thanking you for your patronage and soliciting your further favour and confidence, we are yours sincerely,

THE PETERBOROUGH RATEPAYERS' ASSOCIATION

THE PROPERTY HOLDERS' ASSOCIATION CHANGES ITS NAME.

The Members do not Propose to Run the Town in their Own Interests, and to to Disprove this Assertion Open their Doors to All Ratepapers, at the Suggestion of the Executive.

At a meeting of the Peterborough Property Holders' Association held last evening, the president, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, occupied the chair, and a large attendance of members was present, including Messrs. Peter Hamilton, E. H. D. Hall, D. W. Dumble, R. M. Dennistoun, Dr. Boucher, John Carnegie, A. L. Davis, Wm. Rudkins, Adam Hall, J. J. Hartley, Thos. Morrow, Geo. Dunsford, G. W. Hatton and Rufus Stevenson.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Bradburn remarked that hereafter eight o'clock sharp would be the opening hour, and it would be well if the members understood that promptness in this respect was to be expected on all occasions. In speaking of a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association the president stated that as many were of opinion that the association was composed exclusively of property owners who were anxious to "run the town" in their own interests. Therefore the committee recommended that in order to the name be changed to the Ratepayer's Association. Other questions which the Executive recommended for discussion was the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham and the advisability of replacing the board sidewalks with permanent pavements.

REMOVE SUCH IMPRESSION

On motion of Messrs. Hall and Dumble clause No. 23 of the Constitution was suspended, allowing an amendment to be made changing the name of the organization to that of the Ratepayer's Association.

Mr. D. W. Dumble being chosen by the Executive to speak on the question of the change in the sidewalks, opened his remarks on the subject by stating that about 83 miles of sidewalks were required for Peterborough; at a moderate estimate of ten dollars per thousand for the lumber required the cost was about $35,000. The lumber now used was not up to the standard of that formerly procured and was more apt to rot as the was being generally followed by the citizens. The raising of the ground for boulevarding was the chief cause of premature decay. Many of the sidewalks which had been put down only ten years ago were already rotting and getting into a dangerous condition. He suggested to aid the longevity of the sidewalks, that hereafter the planks be laid about half an inch apart and that when boulevarding the citizens should not be permitted to raise the ground to the level of the sidewalk, but that space be left to allow the air to circulate between the sidewalk and the ground. The amount of $35,000 was a big investment and proper care should be exercised.

As plank was no longer as cheap as it used to be, he thought a system of gravel walks would be more enduring and cheaper than the board walk. Again there was the question of asphalt pavements to be considered. Such a scheme was worth investigating.

LONDON WAS ADOPTING

asphalt pavements and if it was cheaper for the London people, it should also be cheaper for the citizens of Peterborough.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn agreed with all Mr. Dumble had said in regard to the sidewalks and expressed the opinion that in a very short time a large quantity of new sidewalking would have to be constructed.

Mr. Dennistoun made a computation whereby he announced that if the planks were put down half an inch apart a saving of about two and a half miles of planking would be saved in the town.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall stated that he understood from Street Inspector Pope that the edges of the boards wore off if they were placed apart. He advised the construction of concrete walks. In Ottawa this kind of walks were put down, even in the outlying districts.

The question of placing the sidewalks outside the boulevards received attention for some time and was favourably considered.

Mr. J. J. Hartley thought that flag sidewalks would be quite cheap. Syracuse had no other kind and they GAVE GREAT SATISFACTION.

On the suggestion of Mr. Denniston, Woodstock and Belleville will be communicated with to ascertain the cost of granolithic walks and the probable lifetime thereof.

The question of union was then taken up and the discussion was opened by Mr. E. H. D. Hall. He remarked that he supposed all were aware of the fact that union had been talked of and approved in Peterborough for the last 25 years. Last year Ashburnham had for the first time consented to union, and the ratepayers of Peterborough had by vote signified their willingness to unite. A resume of the proceedings towards that end was then briefly given, together with a statement of the existing difficulty with the water company with whom it was impossible to make a satisfactory agreement concerning the supplying of the village with water. The town councillors were agreeable to the union if this difficulty could be settled, but to bear its share of the debt incurred by the construction of the outfall sewer.

THE VILLAGE WAS UNWILLING

Mr. Dumble thought the quicker the union was made, the more easier would all future complications adapt themselves to the circumstances. It was not natural, he thought, that the two municipalities should be separate. The village had always been a de facto part of the town, and he was anxious to see the union.

Mr. Peter Hamilton could hardly understand a corporation the size of Peterborough to haggle over the small amount of $35 a year which stood betwren the corporation and the Water Company. Through union the town would indirectly derive considerable benefit. The town would be given a better standing and the schools would naturally be also improved. The village should be treated generously. One of in the town was the Water Company. A good-first-class water service was a great encouragement to manufacturers to locate in the town. The objection which Mr. Hall stated the village had to shouldering a share of the outfall sewer debt was certainly a consideration which might be difficult of arrangement.

Mr. Dennistoun pointed out that Ashburnham certainly should assist in paying this debt, as when a sewer was needed across the river the whole town would have to contribute towards building it.

Mr. Hall stated that the cost to Ashburnham would be very small in the matter, amounting to merely about $100 a year.

Mr. Hamilton was sure that the increased value in real estate engendered through the introduction of a water service would more thon make up for the paltry sum of $100 per year.

On motion of Mr. Hamilton, and Mr. J. J. Hartley,

THE FOLLOWING MOTION

was put and carried: That in the opinion of this Association it is desirable that the will of the people testified by their vote of approval be carried out by effecting the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham and that no trifling consideration should be allowed to hinder a movement, which will be in the interest of both municipalities.

The resolution would be forwarded to the town council.

Mr. A. L. Davis did not consider that the town would be benefitted in any particular by the union contemplated. The sentiment at present tended, he understood, to make the town into a city. Belleville had been created a city and today Belleville was rotten. Ashburnham was twenty years behind the town. The buildings were miserable little one and half story houses and the annexation of such a village would do more harm than good to Peterborough.

Mr. Dumble considered this view a most narrow one. The village had as good streets as Peterborough and was better drained. There were better sites for dwellings there and no doubt there would be a boom therr for a time, but to lay stress on such a point.

Mr. Bradburn at this juncture invited Mr. Hamilton to take the chair and Mr. E. H. D. Hall rose to make a few caustic references concerning a letter which appeared a few days ago in the EXAMINER in criticism of the financial statement of the town and signed by "Fourth Book." Mr. Hall stated that the letter was a most misleading one, being founded on the supposition that the town's revenue was entirely derived from taxation, whereas there was an annual revenue of ten or twelve thousand dollars from other sources.

Mr. Dumble held that although the town's finances might possibly be in a more favourable condition, yet the financia statement published was so vague that it had the appearance of being gotten out merely for the purpose of mystification. Previous annual statements had been presented and accepted by the public in good faith, but as in the case of last year's statement, an extra deficiency of thousands of dollars had afterwards been discovered.

Mr. Hall explained that the reason why the statement was not clearer and was sometimes inaccurate, was wholly the fault of the statutes which called for the presentation of the financial statement (made up to the 14th December) on the 15th of December. This just left twelve hours in which to prepare it, and the work was beyond human possibility.

The discussion was then dropped and the meeting adjourned after passing a vote of thanks to the council for allowing the association the free use of the council chamber for its meetings.

WARM GARMENTS FOR WINTER.

Where to go to Make Selections in Fashionable Furs.

The firm of Fairweather & Co., which is recognized as the leader, in the Midland district, of all that is fashionable in furs of any variety whatever, as well as in the newest shapes in hats and caps is out this year with a catalogve setting forth a few of the leading styles in the excellent class of furs which they make up.

In presenting the new catalogue for the season of 1894-5, showing the leading styles which will be worn, the firm assures its customers that the goods which they have to offer are strictly reliable in every particular, being all manufactured on the premises by skilled furriers.

Great care has been exercised in the designs that are shown and the catalogue will be a great assistance to buyers who are unable to visit the firms most attractive show rooms either on the corner of George and Simcoe streets, Peterborough, or on Kent street, Lindsay. Still there are in stock many novelties not shown in the catalogue and therefore a visit to the establishment is requested. An inspection of the goods is always a pleasure to the firm, but if this is impossible, will be given to orders by mail if written in detail concerning the goods required. Suggestions and advice are always cheerfully given, and the customers of Fairweather & Co. have the advantage of selecting from the largest and finest stock of fine furs in the Midland counties. The newest garmenos in fur for ladies' wear this winter are the walking jackets, in Persian lamb, grey lamb, Alaska seal, etc.; the cavalry cape in the same furs, as well as in sable, otter, mink, raccoon and Greenland seal; the grey lamb jacket one of the most sensible jackets for a Canadian Winter; the three-quarter cape, in seal with fur trimmings, as desired; the fur-lined circular and opera cloak, which ranks among the firm's leading specialties; the ladies military cape, being a most comfortable garment for ladies' wear in Alaska Seal, Persian Lamb, Sable, Otter, Mink, Raccoon, Grey Lamb and Greenland Seal.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

Muffs, boas and storm collars are manufactured in all fashionable furs and in various sizes, styles and prices. The gentlemen's fur-lined coat is one of the most popular and comfortable coats for the average winter wear. Fairweather & Co. make them up lined with mink and muskrat at most reasonable prices. Ladies and gentlemen's fur gauntlets are manufactured in any suitable fur desired and in most popular styles. The firm always keeps a stock made up in the latest styles to suit the varying tastes of ladies and gentlemen.

THE CHRISTMAS MARKET.

The inside market to-day was the largest of the year and illustrated how badly extra space is needed for the accomodation of the farmers' wives.

Prices in butter and eggs remain the same as last week, but there was a big slump in poultry in consequence of the glutting of the market with fowl. Hundreds of turkeys, geese, chickens and ducks remain unsold, and the market will again be open on Monday, as the crush was so great that many of the townspeople had to leave without making purchases. Towards the afternoon prices dropped to fall figures, but will doubtless recover themselves by Monday.

A BRIGHT STAR.

A SKETCH OF THE MAN WHO LED MARY ANDERSON TO FAME.

Also Played Leading Roles With Booth Barrett and Thorne.

From the St. Louis Chronicle.

One of the most conspicuous fingers in the Stageland of America to-day is John W. Norton. Born in New York City forty-six years ago, the friends of his youth were Thomas W. Keene, and Frank Chanfrau. We find Keene a star at the age of 25 and Norton in the flower of early manhood, the leading man for Edwin Booth at the famous Winter Garden Theatre. He was starred with Lawrence Barrett early in the 70's, and alternated the leading roles with Charles Thorne in New Orleans. In 1876, Norton met Mary Anderson, then a fair young girl who aspired for stage fame, took her under his guidance and as everybody knows led her to fame. Mr. Norton is now the proprietor of the Grand Opera House in St. Louis and the Du Quesne Theatre, Pittsburg. One afternoon in June he hobbled into his New York office on Broadway, and encountered his business manager, George McManus, who had also been a rheumatic sufferer for two years. Norton was surprised that McManus had discarded his cane. Who cured you? he asked, "I cured myself," replied McManus, "with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

"I was encouraged by Mr. McManus' cure and tried the Pink Pills myself," said Mr. Norton to a Chronicle reporter. "You have known me for five years and know how I have suffered. Why, during the summer of 1893 I was on my back at the Mullanphy Hospital in this city for weeks. I was put on the old system of dieting, with a view to clearing those acidulous properties in my blood that medical teorists say is the cause of my rheumatism. I left the hospital feeling stronger but the first damp weather brought with it those excruciating pains in the legs and back. It was the same old trouble. After sitting down for a stretch of five minutes the pains screwed my legs into a knot when I arose, and I hobbled as painfully as ever. After I had taken my first box of Pink Pills, it struck me that the pains were less troublesome. I tried another box, and I began almost unconsciously to have faith in the Pink Pills. I improved so rapidly that I could rise after sitting at my desk for an hour, and the twinges of rheumatism that accompanied my rising were so mild that I scarcely noticed them. During the past two weeks we have had much rainy weather in St. Louis. But the dampness has not had the slightest effect in bringing back the rheumatism, which I consider a sufficient and reliable test of the efficacy of Pink Pills. I may also say that the Pink Pills have acted as a tonic on my stomach, which I thought was well nigh destroyed by the thousand and one alleged remedies I consumed in the past five years."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 22, 1894.

On the street here 200 bushels of wheat sold at 62 to 63 1-2 for white, 61 to 61 1-2 for red and 59 1-2 for goose; 1,000 of barley at 43 to 46; 500 of oats at 32 to 33.

At Buffalo barley was in fair demand. Canada firm, with good inquiry; sales were: 15,000 choice old Canada sold at 61 and 10,000 bushels of No. 2 Canada, this year's crop, sold 62 1-2.

The wheat market was weak in Chicago, declining on foreign advices. Heavy receipts caused a drop in corn. Oats were dull.

Exports of wheat, both coasts United States, amount to 3,554,000 bushels.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offering were 80 cars, of which 23 cars were Canadas. The market ruled dull and was 10 to 25c lower on everything. One deck very fancy Canadas sold at $4.30, but this price could not be duplicated.

Trading at the New York stock exchange was without special feature. The transactions were light. The market was irregular in its course, but the fact that the heavy engagement of gold for shipment to Europe on Saturday did not lead to liquidations rather encouraged those operating for higher prices. Washington news was also considered favorable.

Mines were booming in London. Other stocks were quiet but firm. Americans had a better tone, but little business. Grand Trunks were dull and weak.

Trade in the Dominion.

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—Sales of staples at Toronto are slow and the holiday trade is fair only. Leading wholesale lines here report business practically at a standstill and the holiday trade not as good as expected. Telegrams from Halifax state that the movement of clothing and holiday goods has been better than expected. Advices from St. Johns, Nfld., are that cargoes of perishable Christmas goods in that harbor cause great loss to consignees because of inability of the latter to enter or pay duties. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $21,171,000 this week as compared with $20,007,000 last week and $17,563,000 in the third week of December, 1893. There are 24 failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week. Last week the total was 34, one year ago it was 35, two years ago 30 and 3 years ago 28.

The Laces Discharged.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—The case of Mr. and Mrs. Lace, the baby farmers, was up before Judge McDougall yesterday for trial. They were charged with receiving a child in their home for care, and ill-treating it to such an extent that it died. The judge in his charge to the jury dwelt especially upon the question of liability and directed that if they found the woman received the child, knowing it to be in a bad condition, and then intentionally treated it improperly, they should find her guilty of manslaughter. He took up the medical evidence, and presented a simple, clear statement of it appreciable to the average mind. The jury reported favorable to the prisoners and they were discharged.

Leamington's Big Gas Well.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Dec. 22.—The gas well put down by the citizens of Leamington within the precincts of the town and known as Leamington well No. 1, was tested yesterday. Its pressure was found to be 440 pounds to the square inch. There was a large leak on account of the imperfect capping of the well, which, if stopped, would have considerably increased the pressure. It now has a greater pressure than the Walkers' well No. 1, so that it is the greatest well in Canada and probably on the continent. Its capacity per day will be several millions cubic feet.

A Critical Surgical Operation.

ESSEX, Ont., Dec. 22.—One of the most critical surgical operations ever performed in the county of Essex was performed upon Joseph Major, of Anderdon township by Dr. J. Brien, of Essex, and Dr. J. W. Brien, of Newark, N.J., for the relief of a strangulated hernia. After cutting down and relieving the stricture the bowel was found so badly diseased that it was found necessary to remove a portion of it, which was done to the extent of two and a half inches and the cut ends united. The patient is doing well.

Assistance for Newfoundland.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 22.—It is reported that the British government has offered assistance to the impoverished people of this colony. The stagnation of business in Newfoundland is complete, every labor-employing concern on the island being closed. The Government has not yet indicated the nature of the proposed legislation relating to the business crisis. The introduction of a measure bearing on this subject is expected on Monday. The Halifax banks are preparing to resume business.

Fined for Killing a Moose.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Dec. 22.—Game Wardens Willmott and Smith have fined Wm. McClellan, foreman for Messrs. Anderson & Doolittle, $50 for killing a moose in the township of Burton and Parry Sound and the firm $25 for having the meat in possession.

Unconditional Endowment Policy

—IN THE—

CONFEDERATION LIFE.

The results actually paid on investment policies will compare more than favourably with those of some other companies claiming to do better. The question is not whether the confederation will pay you 5 or 6 per cent. on your investment but whether they give you as good or better return than others.

The Proof of the Pudding is in the eating and the best guarantee for the future is an Unequalled Record in the past.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

Fatally Burned Her Baby Sister.

BUFFALO, Dec. 21.—Baby Louisa Fruch, three months old, was left in the room alone with a three-year-old sister for a few minutes, the latter rocking the cradle. As soon as the mother had departed the three-year-old girl took a newspaper, and, lighting it at an open grate fire, threw it on the baby's cradle. The baby's clothing caught fire and the little one screamed. The mother rushed in and found her child lying in a bed of flames and struggling with all its little strength to escape. The agonized mother snatched the child from the fire. It was a mass of burns, and though doctors worked over her all night their efforts were unavailing and the baby died yesterday.

The Oddfellows and the Pope's Edict.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—The members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows in this city claim that the alleged ecclesiastical ban placed upon their order by the Pope will not seriously affect them. They say their losses by the resignation of Catholics will not amount to five per cent. In speaking of the Pope's action, State Grand Secretary Sloan said yesterday: "The ban was precipitated by Dr. C. L. Campbell, of London, Ont., who last September refused to let a priest inspect the ritual to see if it contained anything objectionable."

Premier Wekerle's Resignation.

VIENNA, Dec. 21.—Premier Dr. Wekerle had an audience with the Emperor yesterday and discussed his retirement from office. His official resignation was not placed in the Emperor's hands, but it lacks only the form. It will be given within a few days. M. Banffy, President of the Hungarian Chamber Deputies, is likely to succeed him. He is nominally a Conservative, but he has strong Liberal tendencies.

Chinese Highbinders Rampant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—Chinatown is again in a state of terror because of the lawlessness of a band of highbinders who have been driven by poverty and their criminal inclinations to commit all kinds of crimes. The chief victims of the robberies and other acts of violence are the disreputable Chinese women and small traders. Many of the desperadoes are ex-convicts.

An Anglo-Italian Agreement.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Le Journal prints the text of an alleged Anglo-Italian agreement in regard to the Soudan and Morocco supplying the details of a previously published but unconfirmed report of common action on the part of England and Italy in Africa. According to the agreement as published in Le Journal Italy is to occupy Khartoum and support England in her occupancy of Egypt. Italy will also take possession of Morocco with the exception of Tangier, which is to be a British possession.

The Long-Lost Sir Roger Tichborne.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Standard has a despatch from Sydney, N. S. W., which gives full details of the supposed discovery of the real Sir Roger Tichborne, the heir in the famous Tichborne inheritance case in an insane asylum at Paramatta under the name of William Crosswell. The governor of New South Wales and conspicuous citizens are said to be assisting in the inquiry.

Murdered the Accused Negro.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 21.—A mob of masked men in Haywood county went to the house of James Clark where Joseph Allan, colored, had gone after being acquitted of the charge of barn burning, captured Allen and murdered him. Allan was tried at Brownsville with two other negroes who were sentenced to the penitentiary. Officers are trying to discover the murderers.

A Heavy Ocean Mail.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 21.—The steamship Majestic which touched at Queenstown yesterday carries 1,672 bags of mail. This is claimed to be the heaviest mail ever carried from England to America.

Want German Protection.

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—Twenty-one branches of the colonial society have signed a petition asking that Samoa be placed under the sole protection of Germany.

The Hoodle Inquiry Bearing Fruit.

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Mayor Kennedy has instructed City Clerk Blevins to suspend W. A. Bell, one of the civic clerks, and the instructions were promptly carried out. This action is the result of the disclosures at the boodle enquiry.

Montreal's Unemployed.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—Three thousand laborers calling for bread besieged the City Hall again yesterday. A strong cordon of police guarded the building and no violence was attempted. The aldermen made speeches promising aid.

Canadian Treaty Passed.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—The French Senate has passed the Canadian treaty.

Cremated in a Burning Building.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—The Sailors' Home, a boarding house at Vallejo, was destroyed by fire yesterday. John Finn, the proprietor, John Bell and an unknown man perished in the flames and ten others narrowly escaped.

A Montana Murderer Hanged.

KALISPELL, Mont., Dec. 22.—Calvin J. Christie, alias Charles J. Black, suffered the death penalty here yesterday for the murder in April last of Mrs. Lena Cunningham.

An Aged Bridal Couple.

HAMILTON, Dec. 22.—George Fraser, 88 years of age, whd resides on Strachan St., was wedded to Belle Isdal, who is 70 years old. Rev. Jas. Murray performed the ceremony.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
THREE RUNNING SORES
PHYSICIANS FAILED
BUT B.B.B. CURED
DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.
MRS. W. BENNETT, Acton P. O. Ont.
A SCALY ERUPTION
UNENDURABLE ITCHING
Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.
GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have been a subscriber to the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

A MONTREAL MAN'S SUICIDE.

Business Difficulties Drove James Bullick to Commit the Awful Deed.

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—Fighting with financial adversities James S. Bullick the well-known secretary-treasurer of the Montreal hunt, took his life yesterday. His office, situated in the Mechanics' Institute building, was the scene of the tragedy. The building was, as ever, quiet, barely a footfall could be heard as people went in and out. Suddenly a pistol shot rang through the building and startled inmates rushed hither and thither seeking the spot from which it came. "Jim" Bullick's office door was opened and there half sitting in his chair was the body of poor Bullick with a fearful bullet wound near the right nostril. A doctor was immediately called, but it was too late; death must have been instantaneous. The deceased was in his fortieth year and had been nineteen years in this country, having come out from his native Ireland at the close of 1875. He entered the leather firm of N. S. Whitney, and subsequently that of Whitehead and Cassells, eventually starting for himself under the firm name of J. S. Bullick and company. In this he proved unsuccessful and his failure five years ago left him practically to begin the world again.

Through the interest of friends he secured the secretaryship of the Bel-Air Jockey Club, from which he resigned about a year ago. At the time of his death he occupied a similar position in the Forest and Stream Club, besides conducting a financial and commission agency. It was known that financial troubles had greatly told upon him and it is thought that this was the cause of the awful suicide.

Hamilton Merchants Swindled.

HAMILTON, Dec. 22.—Two slick young men, named Lloyd, from Lockport, N. Y., have been victimizing merchants here. Their scheme was to publish a shopping list in which they induced business men to pay high prices for advertising, representing that it was for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and that a large number of copies would be distributed. They printed only half the number of copies promised and after collecting $60 skipped out.

A Woman's Bad Fall.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Crottie, a woman who was scrubbing in the warehouse at 76 Bay street, fell down the elevator shaft. She was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to St. Michael's hospital in the ambulance. Her spine was seriously injured in the fall, and she will likely be a cripple for life, if she recovers at all. The guard to the hoist was open and Mrs. Crottie forgot about it.

Cattle and Crops Burned.

UNDERWOOD, Ont., Dec. 22.—The barn of Gilbert Johnson on lot 8, con. 7, Bruce, containing nearly all last season's crop, with nineteen head of cattle, nine pigs and all his farming implements, was burned yesterday. Loss about $2,500 with a small insurance. Fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from a portable engine with which they were crushing grain at the time.

A Petition for Bowers' Release.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A petition is in circulation and is being largely signed asking that Edward Bowers, now in Kingston penitentiary serving a five years' term for manslaughter, be released. The petition will be presented to the Minister of Justice in a short time. Bowers' wife and family are living on York street, and are in poor circumstances.

A Listowel Man Killed.

LISTOWEL, Dec. 22.—William Bamford, contractor, formerly of Streetsville, met with a fatal accident here. He was working a circular saw when a board, getting jammed, was thrown against him with such force as to cause internal injuries that resulted in his death. He was one of Listowel's most prominent citizens.

Sporting Sparks.

Why do most Rugby foot-ball players wear long hair? and how is it that barbers are disgusted when the Rugby season opens, while surgeons are delighted? The answer to the last question is obvious, but I have never heard the first satisfactorily replied to.

"I want to give brother Tom some little gift before he leaves for college. What would you get?". "Florence—"I saw some lovely hair brushes with silver monogram, and——" "You silly girl; don't you know he belongs to a football team?"

The first sportsmen's exposition ever held in America will take place at Madison Square Garden next spring. This exposition will embrace every department of field sport and will illustrate not only present conditions but the history of sport. Canada will be well represented, no doubt.

"THE WISE MEN OF THE EAST."

A PICTURE.

From out the golden doors of dawn
The wise men came, of wondrous thought,
Who knew the stars. From far upon
The fabled East they bending brought Their Orient gifts of gems inwrought and rolled
In antique shapes of ivory and gold.

Their sweets of flower-fields, their sweet
Distillments of most dreamful leaves
They laid, low bending at His feet,
As reapers bend above their sheaves,
As strong-armed reapers bending clamorous
To give their gathered full sheaves kneeling thus.

And kneeling thus they spake of when
God walked his garden's fragrant sod,
Nor yet had hid his face from men;
Nor yet had man forgotten God.
They spake; but Mary kept her thoughts apart
And silent "pondered these things in her heart."

They spake, in whispers long; they laid
Their shaggy heads together, drew
Some stained scrolls breathless forth, then, made
Such speech as only wise men knew;
Their high, red camels on the huge hills set
Outstanding, like some night-hewn silhouette.

—JOAQUIN MILLER.

Rheumatism is primarily caused by acidity of the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and thus cures the disease.

Sound as a Dollar.
Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:
About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE, Kenabutch, P. O., Ont.

TIMES THAT TRY MEN'S SOLES.
So you have found it at last—the Common Sense Boot and Shoe Store—the best in town for the masses—the best for hard times—where the best boots and shoes for raw, cold November weather are always on deck. We knew that when you came to fix the children out with shoes for winter you would come to us and get a shoe that will stand the racket for a price that you can stand.
REMEMBER we handle only and cheaply done all the time.

Carrying the Christmas Joy to Others.

GOUGH BROS.'
CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL OF LOW PRICES.

"Good Measure, Pressed Down, Shaken Together and Running Over"

Is the scriptural way of putting it. At this "Good-will to Men" season, we are inspired with increased desires to open our hearts, let go the profits, and lessen the prices of Wearing Apparel to all mankind alike, rich or poor—to break down the barriers to bodily comfort in dress—and to throng our stores with a Carnival of Happy People, Saving Fifty Cents on Every Dollar they have to spend.

Let not the fact that we are able to keep a steady and constantly growing stream of New Goods before our customers, at prices so far below their real value, disturb the peace of mind of our competitors. We will be glad to have them imitate our example for at least once in the year. Let them "go and do likewise"—adding fuel to the fire we have started, assured that such philanthrophy will help to gladden the hearts of tired mothers, plodding fathers and anxious children, eager for any opportunity that will enable them the better to relieve their wants and cheer them while the glad Christmas bells are ringing.

We shall never stop keeping right on increasing and bettering our trade. Just now every department is in touch with Xmas wants.

Our Clothing Trolley Continues to Run on the Bargain Wire. A smaller amount of money than ever before is enough to make every buyer more comfortable, and not a whit lost in quality or style. Whatever the price, the Clothing must be stylish, or we have no use for it.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

Just the Thing you Want.

In furniture you will find at A. Clegg's just the thing you are looking for. Furniture of good design, well-made out of kiln-dried lumber, and at prices within the reach of all. We have a large assortment of the most expensive and ornamental lines in bedroom, dining room and parlour furniture, but our every day furniture is right up to date. Nearly twenty styles of bedroom suites under $20. Mattresses, spring beds, chairs, sideboards, extension tables, etc., in fact, everything you are likely to want, and at the right price. Remember the place, 427 George street. dw

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 145 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

Those marked Passed got at least 33 per cent. in each subject and 50 per cent. of the total marks.

Those Recommended got at least half of the total marks given, but got less than 33 per cent in one or more subjects.

Pupils marked Recommended or On Trial are liable to be sent back to the classes to which they belonged, if their future work is not satisfactory.

The promotions were made, and the list of books required was given to the pupils before school was dismissed, so that work may be begun without any delay when school re-opens on Thursday, Jan. 3, 1895. Parents and guardians will kindly see that pupils return supplied with all necessary books.

Miss H. F. Bennett, who has had charge of the second class, has been appointed on the staff of Ottawa City Public Schools. We regret to lose Miss Bennett, as she is a faithful and energetic teacher, and has been very successful in her work here.

Why not save the middle man profit; you can by buying direct from Grafton & Co., Clothing Manufacturers.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

Kriss Kringle In Germany.

Throughout the German fatherland prevails the belief in the Krist Kindlein, or Christ child, who rewards with gifts the faithful children who love their parents and believe in God. On Christmas eve each household assembles at dinner, and when the candles are lit the father of the family watches the shadows on the wall, for if any one should have his or her shadow obscured by that of another object that is to be unlucky. If the children sit down in odd numbers, that is also unlucky, and it will not do to fill up the number with either strangers or near relatives. Dinner being over, the children retire into a dark room and guess at the presents they are to receive. Soon the parents open the door and say, "The Christ child has visited you," upon which the children come forth to gaze upon their gift decked Christmas tree.—New York

The Christmas Breakfast.

The main dish at the Christmas breakfast should be chicken, fried in the southern fashion. Wash and cut up a young chicken and let it lie in salt water for about half an hour. Cut up some fat salt pork and fry it in a pan until the grease is extracted, but not browned. Wipe the chicken dry. Pepper and dredge with flour. Fry in the grease until each piece is brown on both sides. When the chicken is fried, pour a cup of rich milk into the pan, thicken with a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter. Chop some parsley into it, boil up once and pour over the chicken.

Potatoes a la creme form an excellent accompaniment to this Christmas dish. Chop some cold boiled potatoes into a boiling sauce made by mixing 3 tablespoons of melted butter, a little chopped parsley, pepper, a cup of rich milk and a couple of spoons of flour.

Light, delicious muffins, a flaky omelette and the perfect coffee, without which no breakfast is a success, should complete the Christmas breakfast.—Selected.

We say again—Buy from the Manufacturer, Grafton & Co., and save the 1 profit.

SAMPSON IS COMING.

THREE TURKEYS.

Three turkeys came sorrowing home to roost—
Home to roost as the sun went down.
Each thought of the usual Christmas boost
That the poultry trade would receive in town
For birds must fatten,
And men must eat,
And the juicy worm
Makes the best of white meat,
So what is the use of bemoaning?

Three forms through the dark'ning barnyard stalk
With axes as sharp as sharp can be.
There's a scuffle of wings, a smothered squawk—
Three gobblers are sailing the jasper sea.
For birds may flutter,
But cooks must kill
And pile the Christmas table until
The festive board is groaning.

Three corpses lay in the morning light
On the kitchen dresser all ready to roast.
They are trimmed and skewered and rammed full tight
With sage and with everything else almost.
For "turks" must sizzle
And change to brown,
And if there's a turkeyless
Man in town
I've a bird that I don't mind loaning.

What Causes Pimples?

Clogging of the pores or mouths of the sebaceous glands with sebum or oily matter.

The plug of sebum in the centre of the pimple is called a blackhead, grub, or comedone.

Nature will not allow the clogging of the pores to continue long, hence,

Inflammation, pain, swelling and redness, later pus or matter forms, breaks or is opened, the plug comes out and the pore is once more free.

There are thousands of these pores in the face alone, any one of which is liable to become clogged by neglect or disease.

What Cures Pimples?

The only reliable preventive and cure, when not due to a constitutional humor, is Cuticura Soap.

It contains a mild proportion of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, which enables it to dissolve the sebaceous or oily matter as it forms at the mouths of the pores.

It stimulates the sluggish glands and tubes to healthy activity, reduces inflammation, soothes and heals irritated and roughened surfaces and restores the skin to its original purity.

This is the secret of its wonderful success.

For bad complexions, red, rough hands and shapeless nails, dry, thin and falling hair, scaly and irritated scalps and simple baby blemishes it is wonderful.

It is preserving, purifying and beautifying to a degree hitherto unknown among remedies for the skin and complexion.

Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin and complexion soaps.

Sold throughout the world.

"Merry Christmas"

A merry Christmas to you all, good friends! A very merry holiday!

We and our large staff are tired after the active trade of a very busy week. The shopping crowds were great and results are eminently satisfactory.

Most people have been obliged to be careful—more so this year than last—but the number of sales exceeded our expectations and fully indorsed the low-price policy of this store.

All the enthusiasm of success was awakened by the business of the past week. It makes us happy and urges us on to still greater effort, with your interests always a vital consideration. "It's Fair's Way."

The store will keep on its holiday garb for a few days longer. Those careful folk who like to shop at ease, and come in for "After the Rush" Bargains are welcome to a quiet look.

THE BLENHEIM SAILS

Departure of the Funeral Ship With the Premier's Remains.

CEREMONIES AT PORTSMOUTH

A Special Train of Five Carriages Carry the Remains From London—The Body Taken on Board the Blenheim With all the Honors of an Imperial Minister.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The final honors in England to the remains of the late Sir John S. D. Thompson, Premier of Canada, were paid in the removal of his body to the first-class twin screw cruiser Blenheim, at Portsmouth, to be transported by that vessel to Halifax. At 8 o'clock the hearse which was to convey the body to the Victoria station drew up in front of the undertaking establishment of Messrs. William Grastin & Sons, where the body has lain since the funeral services, which were held over it in the Chapel of Our Lady in Spanish Place, on Dec. 14. The doors of the mausoleum were thrown open, and the coffin containing the body of the Canadian statesman was carried out by a number of employes of the undertaking establishment and placed in the hearse. The coffin was covered with the Union Jack, but with this exception nothing was placed upon it. After the coffin had been placed in the hearse the carriages, seven in number, got into line and the little procession started on its way to the Victoria Station. The first carriage immediately behind the hearse was filled with wreaths and crosses, the gifts of friends and admirers of the dead man. The procession arrived at Victoria station about 10 minutes to 9 o'clock.

The special train which was to convey the remains to Portsmouth consisted of five carriages. The carriages set apart for the transportation of the coffin had been arranged as a chapel, with profuse draperies of white and black. The coffin, which was still covered by the Union Jack was placed upon a small catafalque, which had been erected in the centre of the carriage. Accompanying the body in the mortuary car were Senator Sanford, Father Longinotto, of St. Edward's Roman Catholic church of Windsor, and Mr. Colmer, Secretary of the Canadian Offices.

Above the coffin, after it had been laid upon the catafalque in the funeral car, was placed a Canadian flag, with its edges draped with crape. The laurel wreath sent by the Queen with a card inscribed, "A mark of sincere affection, Victoria, R. I.," lay upon the coffin.

The train arrived at Portsmouth at 11.20 a.m., having made the journey of 95 miles in two hours and ten minutes. The bright sunlight which had shone upon the train the entire distance had disappeared, and the passengers were greeted with heavy winds and strong gusts of rain. A dozen or more officers were attached to the Portsmouth garrison, together with a few officers belonging to the various warships in Portsmouth Harbor, where standing upon the platform as the train stopped at the dock immediately opposite Her Majesty's warship Blenheim, which was lying at the jetty awaiting the arrival of the body. In addition to the officers mentioned the officers of the Blenheim were also on the platform and eight marines wearing crape were in readiness to act as pall bearers.

The Right Rev. John Virtue, Catholic Bishop of Portsmouth, attired in his episcopal robes, stood with a group of priests, officials, etc., under the cover of an awning waiting for the rain to cease.

Lord Edward Pelham Clinton, Master of the Household, was present on the platform as the representative of the Queen.

Capt. Carslake, in charge of 100 marines and 400 bluejackets from her Majesty's gunboat Excellent, composing a guard of honor, Vice-Admiral Sir Nowell, Gen. Geary and Captain Douglas, arrived at 11.35. Upon their arrival the first minute gun was fired and the flags of all the ships in the harbor were lowered to half-mast.

When the minute guns began booming Father Longinotto took his place at the head of the procession. He was followed by the Bishop of Portsmouth, wearing purple cape and purple barretta, and supported by two priests. Then followed the coffin borne upon the shoulders of eight bluejackets.

As the procession moved the band of the garrison played the "Dead March in Saul." The band consisted of a hundred pieces. Behind the coffin came the mourners. The pall-bearers, carrying the coffin, and the mourners, walked between two companies of marines from the Blenheim on one side and 300 bluejackets from the gunboat Excellent on the other side, all of them with arms reversed.

All the open places, gangways, etc., on the shore side of the cruiser Blenheim were filled with red-coated marines standing at the "salute," and the bridge of the cruiser was covered with serried ranks of bluejackets. The remainder of the crew were on deck and below. The mourners numbered about a dozen, and were followed in the procession by various naval and military officers in uniform, the Mayor of Portsmouth and the members of the Portsmouth corporation, the latter in their robes of office edged with fur.

As the procession passed in from the train the sunshine gleamed upon the long and highly-polished guns of the cruiser, and threw a golden light upon the imperial standard at her mainmost and the flags at her bow and stern, all of which were at half-mast. The sight presented was a brilliant one, and more suggestive of a gala occasion than of a ceremony designed to confer high honors upon the memory of the dead. The strong wind, which was blowing continually, tossed the draped flag which covered the coffin, requiring constant watching lest it should be blown away altogether. The main gangway of the Blenheim was covered with black cloth.

As the coffin was taken on board it was received on the main deck by the officers of the Blenheim. The officers who marched in the procession did not go on board, but remained grouped on the pier. After the officers of the Blenheim had saluted the body the coffin was carried astern. The coffin was lowered to the cabin by means of tackle.

The coffin was placed in the captain's cabin on the starboard side, after the fittings of the captain's cabin had been removed, and the walls were entirely covered with black cloth, edged with white cord. The catafalque was erected in the centre of the cabin. It was made three feet high, and had two steps. The catafalque is draped in the same manner as the walls of the cabin. The coffin was covered with the Canadian Imperial standard. The Union Jack, rolled up, was placed upon the top of the Canadian standard. Upon the head of the coffin was also placed the wreath which was placed there by the Queen with her own hands, before the body was removed from Windsor, with the card and white ribbons still attached to it. The crucifix was surrounded with a wreath of holly, bearing the card with the inscription, "A simple tribute of respect to the memory of a true British patriot, from G. H. Croxden Powell." Four marines belonging to the Blenheim were stationed at the corners of the catafalque, with their guns at attention.

After the coffin had been placed upon the catafalque the Bishop of Portsmouth and the clergymen attending him said a few prayers, lasting about five minutes, and then withdrew. When the prayers were over, the people who thronged the dock were admitted to the cabin.

A number of sailors, under the direction of an officer, secured the casket to the deck with heavy white cords, making it impossible for it to be thrown out of place during the voyage.

The Bleinheim sailed from Portsmouth at 8.45 o'clock yesterday morning. All the vessels in Portsmouth harbor had their flags at half-mast when the Blenheim steamed away with her Union Jack flying.

THE STATE FUNERAL.

Those Who Will Be Asked to Attend It. A Cabinet Meeting.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—In connection with the arrangements for the funeral of the late Premier, the Government have authorized the following notice, which it is hoped will be accepted by those interested, in lieu of personal letters of invitation. The government desire the attendance of: The Lieutenant Governors of the Provinces and the Lieutenant-Governor of the Territories, the Archbishops and bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, the general superintendent and presidents of the various Conferences of the Methodist Churches in Canada, the moderators of the General Assembly of Presbyterian Church of Canada, and the moderators of the various Synods of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Primate of Canada, the Archbishop of Ontario and the bishops of the Church of England in Canada, the presidents and vice presidents of the Baptist Conventions in Canada, the president of the Lutheran Synod of Canada, the chairmen of the various Congregational Unions in Canada, the bishops of the Reformed Episcopal Church in Canada, the bishop of the African Methodist Church, the superintendent of the British Methodist Church, the commandant of the Salvation Army, representative Rabbi's of the Jewish Church, and also a representative from each of the other religious denominations in Canada, which are not enumerated in the foregoing list, the members of the Government, the privy councillors not of the Cabinet, the speaker of the Senate with mace bearer, the chief justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, the Judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada, the chief justices of the Superior courts throughout Canada, the commander of the militia, the members of the Senate, the speaker of the Commons with mace bearer, the members of the House of Commons, the premiers of the various provinces, the speaker of the Legislative Councils of Quebec, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island, the speaker of the Legislative Assemblies of the various Provinces, the clerk of the Senate, the clerk of the Commons, the Auditor General, the librarians of Parliament and the deputy ministers of the various departments at Ottawa.

It is especially requested that those intending to avail themselves of the foregoing invitation intimate their intention at once to the Minister of Railways and Canals, at Ottawa, so that he may arrange adequate train accommodation from Ottawa to Halifax and return. The exact date of the funeral and the definite train arrangements will be published as soon as possible.

The first meeting of the Cabinet since Mr. Bowell became Premier was held on Saturday. Speaker White was in the city. The Ministers have taken charge of their new departments. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell has gone to the Privy Council, and Mr. Ives has crossed over to the other block to Trade and Commerce. Sir Hibbert Tupper has taken his place in the Justice Department and Mr. Costigan has gone to the Marine and Fisheries Department, which Sir Charles has just vacated. Mr. Costigan will look after the State Department until Mr. Dickey returns to the city.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—Major General Herbert, accompanied by Col. Lake and Capt. Streatfield, the Governor-General's A.D.C., arrived here yesterday. Major-General Herbert leaves for Halifax immediately to take charge of the military arrangements for the late Sir John Thompson's funeral.

FAMINE IN NEBRASKA

Many of the Settlers in That State in a Woeful Plight.

APPEALING FOR ASSISTANCE

Succeeding Bad Crops, the Result of Severe Drought, Bring the Farmers to the Verge of Starvation—Five Counties in a State of Destitution.

NIOBRARA, Neb., Dec. 24.—The suffering among the inhabitants of the drought-blighted part of Nebraska including three fourths of the residents of five counties is becoming more intense daily and immediate steps alone can prevent many deaths by starvation. Three years ago the farmers of these drought-blighted counties raised a very little crop and the past two years the crops have been almost total failures. Many families have not enough provisions in their homes for one week's sustenance and no money to purchase the necessities of life.

Many of the merchants here feel that they have aided these poor farmers to the extent of their ability and are unable to do any more for them or to sell them goods on credit. The sufferers cannot obtain employment and unless they receive aid very soon it is the general opinion that many will starve to death; or should the weather turn very cold will freeze, as it is a fact that many are barefooted and have scarcely sufficient clothing to cover themselves.

A mother and her two children were found dead in their cabin this week. It is supposed the mother had been confined to her bed by sickness, and she and her two little ones starved to death. The stomachs of the children were opened and not a trace of food could be discovered.

There is not a stream of water in Perkins county nor a living spring. The soil if watered raises good crops; if not, it bakes into a solid mass. The roads and much of the prairie resemble asphalt so hard packed and smooth are they. Well diggers say that the soil is a solid mass 150 feet, down so hard that picks have to be used to loosen it.

Over this smooth surface the winds blow filled with minute particles and are almost resistless.

GRANT, Neb., Dec. 24.—President Nason, of the Nebraska State Relief Commission, has been forwarded a carefully prepared report of the number of destitute families in the different counties in this State which there was a crop failure. The list is a large one, and it will require all the assistance that can be procured to keep the people in the most urgent of necessities during the winter months. The report is as follows:—Custer County, 250 families; Perkins, 200; Chase 225; Dundy, 120; Hitchcock, 250; Red Willow, 100; Hayes, 200; Frontier, 40; Furnas, 100; Lincoln, 700; Dawson, 45; Keith, 200 Deuel, 40; Cherry, 40; McPherson, 40; Blaine, 20; Boyd, 250; Holt, 30; Antelope, 30; Keyapaha, 26; Knox, 25.

In many instances people in districts remote from railroad facilities are said to be eating prairie dogs.

A newspaper man made a trip the early part of the week through the most destitute part of this county. A few deserted sod and frame houses were seen and there were signs here and there that some habitations had been torn down and removed with the other goods of the owners. In some cases farm implements were seen in the fields and substantial granaries stood just as their owners had left them. The people of the drought-cursed sections hope to have the legislature pass measures of relief the first day the body convenes, but all organized relief measures are absolutely necessary to prevent many deaths from starvation.

A Big Lumber Fire in Tonawanda.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 24.—A fire at North Tonawanda destroyed between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 feet of lumber, valued at $175,000, and which was insured for about $140,000. The lumber was the property of A. Weston & Son. The fire is believed to have been caused by incendiaries. The senior member of the firm of Weston & Son is connected with many large lumbering concerns, amongst others being a partner of Mr. Bronson, M.P.P., of Ottawa, in the Bronson & Weston Lumbering Company of Ottawa. For a time 15,000,000 feet additional dry pine was in imminent danger and had the fire got control of this stock Gratwick, Smith & Fryers and other yards would probably have been destroyed. The New York Central tracks were ruined for some distance and Niagara Falls trains for Buffalo had to return and make their way to their destination around Lockport.

Wholesale Slaughter of Negroes.

QUITMAN, Ga., Dec. 24. — A posse in pursuit of Waverly Pike, the murderer of Joe Isom, killed a number of negroes yesterday. Reliable information is that the total number of victims is seven. The report is that a second posse killed four other negroes. The people of the community assert that they have had much provocation for this wholesale slaughter of negroes. Hardly three weeks ago Dip Mauldin, a respectable white man was brutally murdered on the public road in the same neighborhood by two negroes. The people were greatly incensed over the murder, and when Isom, one of the most known citizens in the community, was murdered by one of the same gang the pent-up flood of vengeance was turned loose.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 343 Water street, the agent for these four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

BATTLE OF KUNG WASAI.

The Defeated Garrison of Hai Cheng Intercepted While Making for Moukden.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The Antone correspondent of the Central News says that Gen. Yamagatis' division of the second Japanese army has advanced northward steadily for a month and on Dec. 16 occupied Kai Ping.

On Dec. 17th, scouts reported to Lieutenant Gen. Katsura then near Laoh Yang that a large force of Chinese had been moving in the direction of Laoh Yang. This force proved to be the defeated garrison of Hai Cheng, under the command of Gen Sung. They were then in a rather demoralized condition and were making for Moukden. Katsura decided to intercept them. He left camp with his whole force and overtook the Chinese at the village of Kung, where they made an obstinate stand.

Three bayonet charges eventually won the day for Katsura after five hours of the hottest fighting yet experienced by the second army. The Chinese faltered as the third advance began and then fled in disorder toward Ying Kow. The losses are not known, but the Chinese are reported to have left 500 men on the battlefield.

Newfoundland's Bank Affairs.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 24.—The financial situation here, particularly as regards the banking institutions, which closed their doors a short time ago, remains unchanged as the representatives of the government are divided on the question of legalizing bank notes. It is reported that a majority of the government disapprove of government intervention in the matter but if anything are in favor of an issue of treasury notes. The Bank of Montreal is expected to supply the support necessary for a reconstruction of the Union Bank; the Commercial Bank being hopelessly ruined. The People's Bank of Halifax has abandoned all attempts to begin business here owing it is alleged, to the obstructions thrown in its way by a combine of merchants who are interested in the Union Bank and who, it is charged, want to control the whole commercial situation in the future.

A Child Burned to Death.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 24.—Delia Cornwell, three years old, was burned to death yesterday at the home of her parents, 209 South First street. Her sister Maud, five years old, and a two months infant narrowly escaped the same fate. Both Maud and the infant were badly burned about the hands and body and were rescued from the burning building by neighbors. Little Delia in the excitement had been forgotten, and it was not until the firemen had extinguished the flames thirty minutes later that she was missed by her mother. A search was made and the charred body was found underneath a bed where the little one had taken refuge from the smoke and fire.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrsno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were perscribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets a Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrsno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galizien, Austria.

Special to Boys.

OTONABEE.

Council Meeting.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Saturday, 15th Dec., meeting of Otonabee council. The treasurer presented statement of accounts to date, which was signed by reeve and treasurer and 100 copies ordered to be printed for distribution. By-laws were passed to confirm payments made by the treasurer and appointing the following deputy returning officers: Wm. Harris, John Anderson, Wm. McFarlane, J. M. Drummond and Jas. Robinson. John Elmhirst complained of an error of $1,600 in his assessment. On motion of Mr. Lancaster, seconded by Mr. Johnston, a rebate of $8.28 was granted. John H. Fife was present, objecting to conveying to Jas. Fife the original allowance for road across the 5th con. between lots 21 and 22, as he (John H. Fife) uses part of it in summer for his cattle going to pasture and in winter for a road out to the west, especially to Allandale Mills, and Andrew Esson protested against conveying to W. Lang the original allowance for road on the east half of the 6th con. between lots 21 and 22, as the present travelled road on the north side of his (A. Esson's) lot was given in lieu of the above described original allowance. James Miller was also present, claimiug on behalf of T. M. Miller the original allowance for road on the north side of lot 21, con. 4, as the present travelled road south of said lot was given in lieu of the original allowance on the north side of lot. When it was moved by Mr. Lancaster, seconded by Mr. Deyell, that on account of the objections put in by John Fife and Andrew Esson and in view of the fact that individual interests and probable outlay may be involved in the granting of unused road allowances to individuals, we deem it wise to move with caution in the matter, therefore, be it resolved that the resolutions passed at the last meeting of council conveying the original road allowances to James Fife and Wm. Long be not at present carried into effect, but that Messrs. Anderson, Johnston and Weir be appointed a committee to fully investigate the matter, confer with the parties interested, and in conjunction with them to take further legal advice, and report at the next meeting of the council. Moved by Mr. Weir, seconded by Mr. Deyell, that the following accounts be paid: R. McIntyre, light, wood and care of hall, $1.75; John Bell, two and a half days employed as sanitary inspector, $5; James Rennie, removing stone off roads, $5.25; Evans Ingram, cedar, $4.56 J. M. Drummond, cedar, $2.32, putting in culvert, $1; F. W. Taylor, putting in culvert, $1; D H. Moore, drawing and putting in culvert, $1.50; Dr. Shaw, medical attendance on late O. McGowan, $10; H. H. Burnham, gravel, $3.30; W. Anderson, sessional allowance, $24, road commissioner, $12, 16 days employed on sewerage arbitration, $15; T. J. Johnston, sessional allowance, $24, road commissioner, $12, sewerage, $2. Paid J. McNeil, telephoning to J. Burnham, re ditch, 25c.; J. Lancaster, sessional allowance, $24, road commissioner, $12, Board of Health, $2; John Deyell, sessional allowance $24, road commissioner, $12, Board of Health, $2; A. Weir, sessional allowance, $24, road commissioner, $12; John Burnham, legal advice 1893-4, $21.59. Council adjourned to 21st Jan.

GALWAY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Council met. All members present. After routine it was moved by J. Allen and B. Miller, that a petition for a government grant on Monk and White Lake road be signed by this council, the corporation seal attached and forwarded to J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

On motion of J. Allen and B. Millar, a special grant of $20 was given to Austin Ford to build a bridge on his beat, on condition the Snowden council gives an equal amount, and this township will not be responsible for any further repairs or any accident that may occur through any defect, M. Mansfield to be commissioner to see the money expended.

Moved by B. Miller and J. Allen, that John Flaherty get $10 to expend on line between con. 8 and 9, M. Collins, to see to its expenditure.

On motion of M. Collins and J. Allen, a petition to the Commissioner of Crown Lands for all lots in the township of Galway to be opened for location, and also all lots west of the Buckhorn road in the township of Cavendish, was passed, petition to be forwarded to Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

On motion of M. Collins and B. Miller, the reeve is to inquire into the account of Dr. Baker of $104, which he claims, and report to this council at its next meeting as to liability for said claims.

On motion of J. Allen and G. McKee, John Martin and John Jackson are to expend $5 each on their road; George McKee to see the same done to his satisfaction.

On motion of G. McKee and B. Miller, the action of the reeve in paying the county grant—$60—to the treasurer of this municipality is declared satisfactory to this council, and a copy of this resolution is to be sent to the county treasurer.

Moved by M. Collins and George McKee, that the following accounts be paid and orders drawn on Treasurer for same:

Broken in Health

That Tired Feeling, Constipation and Pain in the Back

Appetite and Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mr. Chas. Steele
St. Catherine's, Ont.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any

Genuine Holiday Removal Sale

—OF—

CHRISTMAS GROCERIES, &c.

—AT—

JOHN ARMSTRONG'S

In order to prepare the way for an early Removal to our handsome premises in Cox's new Bank of Commerce Block, we have commenced a Genuine Holiday Removal Sale to effect a prompt and speedy clearance of our stock and save extra handling at time of removal.

EVERYTHING IS MARKED DOWN in Groceries, Fruits, China, Crockery and Glassware, and prices must not stand in the way of reducing the stock rapidly. We mean business. We have made royal preparations for the holiday season. Our Christmas Bill of Fare includes everything new and fresh.

ALL TO BE SACRIFICED, right in the season when high prices prevail everywhere else.

TAKE OUR ADVICE and lay in your stock now, if you want to make the most of your money during the hard times. Values, at this sale, will, without exaggeration, be unequalled in town.

Customers in town and country will do well to get in their orders early and avoid the crush later on.

JOHN ARMSTRONG, No. 370 Water Street.

OLD TIME CHRISTMAS

HOW DINNER WAS SERVED IN THE FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

Boar's Head, With Rosemary, Brought In to the Music of Trumpets—Roasted Peacock the Pride of the Feast—Barbarous Appetites of Brave Knights and Fair Ladies.

It was a gay scene—that great hall, where the yule log was blazing in the immense fireplace, big enough for two whole oxen to be roasted therein; the high rafters festooned with branches of holly, nolme, laurel and ivy; the wide portal crowned with mistletoe, and the table, which was literally a board of boards, all of oak and polished till they shone, stretching the whole length of the room, 160 feet.

Twelve o'clock has just struck, and the household is mustering in the magnificent hall, it being "covering time," or the hour for preparing the tables for dinner. The steward in his gown, a most important looking personage, is standing at the uppermost part of the hall, surrounded by most of the chief officers. The table is neatly covered with a purple velvet cloth, saltcellars and trenchers, under the supervision of the usher of the hall.

The yeomen of the ewery and pantry, conducted by the yeoman usher, then enter the dining chamber. As they pass through the door they bow reverentially, and they do the same upon approaching the table. They then lay down at the side of each trencher a knife "hafted with silver" and a spoon. No forks are laid, for those convenient articles have not yet been invented. Next in succession comes the yeoman of the cellar, who dresses the sideboard with wines, flagons, drinking cups and such vessels as are consigned to his care. The yeoman of the butlery follows him, and brings up beer and ale, and arranges the pewter pots, jugs, and so forth, on the sideboard.

The dinner time has now fully arrived, and the steward's command is taken by a gentleman usher, who knocks respectfully at the door of the state chamber and summons King Richard and his nobles and guests to dinner. In they come, dressed in their court attire, the king and his lords in magnificent long green colored velvet tunics, silken hosiery and red leather boots, with very long points; the pretty girl queen, Anne of Bohemia, and her ladies in particolored kirtles of white and blue, cotehardies edged with fur, and their hair done up in a gold fret or cone of network.

When the guests were assembled and seated, the king and queen occupying a dais above the others, the trumpets sounded, and a band of musicians entered the hall. The server followed them, bearing upon a huge golden platter a boar's head dressed with sweet rosemary and rose leaves.

The boar's head, with a great golden pippin placed between its tusks, is then placed upon the table, where it is served with mustard sauce, and the Christmas dinner begins. No napkins or forks are used, and brave knights and noble ladies wipe their greasy hands upon the tablecloth and throw the discarded bones and pickings upon the floor.

Besides the famous boar's head, the first course consists of roasted beef joints, pigs roasted, venison with frumenty (a curious concoction of boiled wheat and eggs seasoned with sugar and spices), broth of pork and onions, custard and a subtlety, the latter being an ornamental dish representing a ship, a castle or a human being, just as the taste of the cook dictated.

The second course is introduced by the bringing in of a peacock with all its gay plumage on and its whole body covered with leaf of gold. A singular dish, was it not? Like the subtlety, it must be intended merely for an ornamental dish. Not at all. It was a real dish to eat. The peacock was stuffed with all manner of spices and sweet herbs, thoroughly roasted, basted with yolk of egg, served with plenty of gravy, and was considered the greatest delicacy of the Christmas feast.

It was something of a task, as you may imagine, to prepare this bird of Juno for the table. The skin was carefully removed before it was baked, and then, when it was taken from the oven and cooled, the skin was sewed on again dexterously, not so much as a feather being ruffled. It was carried to the table on a silver basin, with a lighted piece of cotton, which had been saturated in alcohol, placed in its beak. No part of the dinner was so eagerly anticipated as this, and all manner of vows were pledged over the beautiful bird. The chronicles of the middle ages record many of these vows.

Jellies of meat or fish, all manner of fowls, roasted or boiled capons, hams, pies of carp, tongues, mutton pies and plum puddings followed in due order, and these were displaced by a dish of jelly, fruits and another subtlety. There were but few vegetables to accompany the various dishes of meat and fowl.

After the solid food was disposed of, wine and ale were drank in profuse quantities. One wonders how they could eat and drink so much. People had barbarous appetites in those days, and a lady of rank would swallow two or three tankards of ale at a single meal.

This dinner on that long ago Christmas day lasted two hours. In the evening there was more feasting, and the historian amazes us by the vast enumeration of swine, oxen, sheep, pigs, hares, kids and fowls slaughtered and the tons of ale and wine drank. England was merry England then, and rude license and boisterous cheer characterized the Yuletide festival. Yet doubtless we who eat our Christmas dinner with much less form and noise enjoy ourselves as truly. Certainly, we have more refinement than those fair ladies and gallant knights, who greased their fingers and soiled the tablecloth eating the boar's head and the stuffed peacock and the frumenty at that Christmas dinner of the fourteenth century.—Christian Advocate.

Jes' 'Fore Christmas

Father calls me William, sister calls me Will,
Mother calls me Willie—but the fellers call me Bill!
Mighty glad I ain't a girl—ruther be a boy
Without them sashes, curls and things that's worn by Fauntleroy!
Love to chawnk green apples an' go swimmin' in the lake--
Hate to take the castor-ile they give fr belly-ache!

Most all the time the hull year roun' their ain't no flies on me,
But jes' 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!
Got a yaller dog named Sport—sick 'im on the cat;
First thing she knows she doesn't know where she is at!
Got a clipper-sled, an' when us boys goes out to slide
'Long comes the grocery cart an' we all hook a ride!
But, sometimes, when the grocery man is worrited and cross,
He reaches at me with his whip and larrups up his hoss;
An' then I laff and holler: "Oh, you never teched me!"
But jes' 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!
Gran'ma says she hopes that when I get to be a man
I'll be a missioner like her oldes' brother Dan.

As wuz et up by the cannibil's that lives in Ceylon's isle,
Where every prospeck pleases an' only man is vile!
But gran'ma she had never been to see a Wild West show,

THE EMPIRE

It has been generally understood for some time past that some change was being made in the control of The Empire, and in Saturday's paper announcement was made that a syndicate of wealthy and influential gentlemen had secured a controlling interest, with the intention of taking an active part in its publication and management. The syndicate is composed of W. R. Brock, Esq., of W. R. Brock & Co., President Canadian General Electric Co.; Hon. Senator Sanford, President Sanford Manufacturing Co.; Hon. Sir Frank Smith, Vice-President Dominion Bank; Thos. Long, Esq., President Great Northern Transit Co.; Col. John I. Davidson, of Davidson & Hay, Vice-President Bank of Commerce; Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Samson, Kennedy & Co., Mayor of Toronto; H. Cargill, M.P., of Cargill; A. F. Gault, of Gault Bros., Montreal, President Dominion Cotton Mills Co.; D. Morrice, of D. Morrice, Sons & Co., Montreal; R. A. Lucas, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton; Frank J. Phillips, President Cobban Manufacturing Co. and Consolidated Plate Glass Co.; James Murray, Esq., St. Catharines; Frank Turner, C. E., Toronto; H. J. Scott, Q. C., Toronto; D. Creighton, Publisher, Toronto. This is claimed to be the strongest syndicate ever formed in connection with a paper in Canada. It will be noticed that while all are warm supporters of the Conservative party and policy, the majority are men closely identified with the business interests of the country, and they announce that, while as heartily as ever supporting the Conservative Government, although in no sense under its control, and having a freer hand in political matters, it is their intention to make the Empire a business man's as well as a political paper.

FOUND THE MISSING AXE.

More Evidence in the Hendershott Case Pointing Clearly to Murder.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 24.—The case for the crown in the Hendershott tragedy was still further strengthened Saturday by the discovery of the missing axe with which the murder is supposed to have been committed. The axe was found beneath a log and covered with bark. The handle was splintered and the blade and handle spotted with blood. An attempt had apparently been made to wash the blood from the axe as a small pool near by is discolored with blood. The axe has been identified as the one which was used by Welter and Hendershott in the woods. Upon the root of a tree was found a clot of blood with some hairs of the same color as that of deceased mixed with it. This evidence is all that is required to do away with the accident theory and to confirm the assumption that one of the most cold-blooded murders in the criminal annals of this country has been committed. It is reported that the prisoner, Welter, is very despondent and it is not unlikely that a confession may be had from one of the accused before long.

Drowned in a Mill Dam.

GUELPH, Dec. 24.—Jas. Crane, of Puslinch township, 5 miles from here, was at Hespeler, selling poultry on Saturday, and when seen leaving that place for home after nine o'clock, was said to be under the influence of liquor. While driving out of town he ran against a buggy on Main street upsetting, but he kept right on as if nothing had happened and nothing more was heard from him until his team was found drowned in Kribs' mill dam about a mile out of Hespeler. The water was run off and his body found not far from the horses. He leaves a wife and family.

Drowned While Skating.

LANARK, Ont., Dec. 24.—About ten o'clock Saturday a boy named Marley Bain, about ten years, while skating on the Mississippi river in the township of Bathurst skated into open water and was drowned. The body was recovered. He was the only son of Mr. Andrew Bain of the township of Bathurst.

ROBBED HIM OF FIFTY-THREE DOLLARS IN BILLS.

A Man with a Jag on Loses His Dust in Hastings.

Mr. James Dunley, a farmer living in the vicinity of Hastings, came up to town this morning and told a rather odd story at police headquarters.

It appears that Dunley, on his own statement, was in the village of Hastings on Saturday last, and imbibed "Red Eye" to such an extent that he was unable to take care of himself, and allowed, he says, a fourteen-year-old youth named Michael Hawkins of that village, to put his hand in his pocket, and remove therefrom the sum of fifty-three dollars in bills.

The youth decamped with the money, it is alleged, and came to Peterborough with the intention of having a good time and blowing in the plunder. Whether he had the good time or no, deponent sayeth not, but he spent all the money with the exception of $28, which sum, together with a watch, which he had purchased in Peterborough, he gave back to Dunley on his return to Hastings and expressed his contrition for his action.

Dunley does not announce whether he intends to prosecute the lad or not, but this morning he endeavoured to invoke the aid of the law through the medium of the police, whom he wished to aid him in arranging matters so that he could return the watch to the jeweller from whom it was bought and receive back the money which was paid for it by the lad. Naturally the jeweller refused to take the watch back, as he had no knowledge of the fact that the money which purchased it was stolen. It was at this juncture that Dunley resolved to call in the police, but the chief declined interfering in the matter.

ORDAINED TO THE PRIESTHOOD.

Ordination of Rev. Michael Fitzpatrick to the Priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church.

On Sunday St. Paul's pretty church at Norwood was the scene of a most important and solemn religious function—the ordination of Rev. Michael Fitzpatrick to the sublimely responsible office of the priesthood. The church was filled with an interested congregation, gathered from the village and the surrounding country.

The impressively solemn ceremony was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Rev. Father Conway, Rev. Father Collins, of the Cathedral, and Rev. Father Foley, a former resident of Norwood, now of the diocese of Ottawa, who preached an eloquent sermon adapted to the occasion, his subject being "The Priesthood." Mr. J. C. Phelan, of the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and Rev. Mr. O'Leary, of Douro, who will be consecrated a priest at St. Joseph's, Douro, next Sunday also assisted at the ceremony. The music was special. The choir rendered very acceptably W. C. Peters' mass, and during the service, Mr. Archie Freeman a cornet solo. Miss Gallagher, a violin solo, and Miss Maggie McCabe, town, a well sung soprano solo.

In the same church at Vespers, Rev. Father Collins, preached a most appropriate and edifying sermon on the subject of the preparation for Christmas.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Victoria Lodge, Loyal True Blues Holds its Annual Meeting.

Victoria Lodge, L.T.B., No. 56 Bridgenorth, held a meeting Friday evening last for the election of officers for the ensuing year. The following were chosen for the various offices:

Ed Mann	W M
Wm Pethick	D M
Chas Mann	Rec Sec
John Morrison	Fi Sec
Jas Mann	Treas
Wm Linster	Chaplain
Wm Young	1st Committeeman
Bert Allan	2nd "
Arthur Fitzgerald	3rd "
V. Paul	4th "
Louis Fowler	5th "
Aaron Nicholls	Inside Guard
Albert Fryer	Outside "

The lodge is an organization of eighteen months standing, with a membership of about seventy-five, and is financially in a first class shape. It was resolved at the conclusion of the meeting to hold an entertainment in the way of a grand concert and supper in the town hall on Christmas night, when an array of talent from town as well as Lakefield will be present. Prof. Butcher's orchestra of seven pieces is engaged to enliven the evening. In conclusion, there will be a hop for those desirous of showing their ability to trip the light fantastic heel and toe. No doubt it will be a great success, as the managing committee is composed of the following competent members: Bros. Ed. Mann, Wm. Pethick, Bert Allan and John Morrison. They will see that the guests of the evening enjoy themselves on this festive occasion. Quite a number of the Peterborough brethren anticipate attending.

CHURCH CHIMES.

There will be a union service, in the George street church to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, of the congregations of the two Methodist churches. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. J.J. Rae.

There will be a number of entertainments on Thursday evening next amongst the Sunday school children of the town. St. Andrew's and Charlotte street churches each hold children's entertainments, and the Junior B.Y.P.U. of Park street Baptist Mission have a temperance meeting.

Rev. Mr. Pady conducted both services in the Park street Mission yesterday. In the morning he delivered a particularly interesting sermon on "Heaven," taking as his text Hebrews ch. iv. ver. ii. Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief." The choir's rendition of "Glory to God in the Highest," as an anthem, was most harmonious.

The music at the services in St. Paul's church yesterday was particularly good. In the morning Simper's arrangement of "Let us now go to Bethlehem" was sung as an anthem with pleasing effect. Shelly's anthem "Hark! Hark my Soul" was given in the evening, Miss Montgomery taking the alto solo and Mrs. Sanderson the obligato in a manner which was greatly appreciated.

Rev. J. J. Rae preached both morning and evening in the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday, and delivered most appropriate discourses to large congregations. The anthem, "Ye Nations all Be Joyful," was rendered in good voice in the morning. Miss Fossie Hall took the soprano solo, and Miss Martha Stevens the alto. Mr. J. E. Steers took the two solos in the anthem "Hail to the King!" in the evening.

Anniversary services were held yesterday in George street Methodist church, the morning and evening services being both delivered by Rev. Geo. Webber, of Toronto. Large congregations were in attendance at the services, the eloquent divine being well known and having many friends throughout the district. The proceeds of the collections will be devoted to the augmentation of the trust fund of the church. In the morning a quartette composed of Mr. J. Miller, Mr. Quinn, Mr. Skitch and Mr. Alf. Miller, sang "It came upon a midnight clear" in a manner most impressive. The duet in a Christmas anthem was well taken by the Misses Belleghem, while Miss Vina Belleghem sang the solo part in exceptionally clear voice.

Very interesting and instructive services were celebrated yesterday in St. Andrew's, the congregations being very large. In the morning a sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached from Matt. 2. 1—2 "The visit of the Magi." In the evening the pastor took for his text Genesis 9, 18: "The Bow in the Cloud." The sermons were greatly appreciated. The music was appropriate and beautifully rendered by the large choir. The morning anthems were "Adeste Fidelis," and "Behold I Bring you Good Tidings." The evening anthems being "Glory to God in the Highest," and "I Will Lift up Mine Eyes." At the close of the evening service the Y.P.S.C.E. held its meeting which was largely attended and interesting. Miss Maude Edmison took the chair. Miss Forsythe read an excellent paper on the topic, the pastor and others speaking on the same, while Miss Heuback, Miss Fowler, Mr. H. King and Mr. MacWilliams, the pastor, sang a beautiful quartette.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Another good song service Saturday night. The fellows had an additional and unexpected pleasure in the shape of a short, straight talk from Mr. Pady. He urged the young men to do personal work.

Rev. R. J. Zimmerman, in his talk on "The Gifts of Salvation and the Holy Spirit," in yesterday's meeting gave those present much food for thought. A male quartette, Messrs. Steers, A. Miller, Turner and Crowe sang "Nearer to Thee."

The New Year's reception to young men (afternoon and evening) will be held as usual. The success of these receptions on former occasions insures a good time on the 1st day of 1895.

On the 12th the Association at Belleville received their letters of incorporation. The Belleville Sun devoted a half page to a report of the work, giving cuts of the officers. In speaking of the work in general the Sun says: "No Christian movement has, within the present century, enjoyed the success or spread with greater rapidity, and become more popular with the young men of almost every nation, than has the Young Men's Christian Association. The work of the society is at once elevating, moral, educational, physically and mentally, while its influence, socially, upon the male portion of the populace is incalculable.

BILLIARDS.

The big billiard tournament which commenced in Montreal two weeks ago, and the competitors in which were Canada's four crack professional players, and Spink Watson of St. Alban's, was concluded this evening, when the tie for first money between J. W. Capron, Galt the champion, and Spink Watson, was played off. Capron proved himself worthy of the title he holds and through excellent play ran out his 400 points in the 37th inning, when Watson's string showed 211. Capron made steady runs during the game, the highest of which was 65, and finished with the very good average of 11 5-6. Watson's highest run was 34, and his average 6 1 2. Sutton, who secured third money in the tournament, made the highest run, namely, 73. Thomas won fourth money and Jakes was last. The winner received $175, second $90, third $50, fourth $35, and fifth $25.

George Sutton, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, ex-champion of Canada, being dissatisfied with his defeat by Capron, in the tournament just closed, challenged the Galt man to another game, and made a deposit of $50, which the champion quickly covered. The match was arranged for Friday night.

MEDICAL MEN.

Are Interested in the Discovery of a Remedy for Bright's Disease.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—The subject of kidney disorders and diseases is one receiving special attention from the medical profession just now, probably owing to the fact that a disease of these organs caused the death of Russia's Czar. Among other points attractive to the profession is the case of Dr. McCormick, of Richmond, Que., a practitioner well known throughout Quebec and Ontario. He has lately published a letter announcing that he was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This case has a peculiar interest for medical men because until these pills were offered for sale, this disease was universally considered incurable. That belief is now thoroughly exploded by the success of this remedy, to which numerous victims of the disease owe their lives and sound health.

BIRTH.

JOHNSTON—On Saturday, Dec. 22nd, 1894, the wife of Mr. A. J. Johnston, 211 London St., of a daughter.

IS NOT THIS THE CARPENTER'S SON?

Relateth the Lord was of lowe estaate

Nigh two thousand years ago
A new-born baby clenched its hands,
And gave a cry whose gentle flow
Is wafting yet o'er Christian lands;
Poor and weak, a friendless one—
Was born, the carpenter's helpless son.

He groweth in wysedom and beautie

He grew in beauty every day,
In wisdom every day grew he.
His mother taught his lips to pray,
His father trained him carefullie
He worked—twas well and truly done.
A model boy—the carpenter's son.

A riche youth sneereth at him.

His silken hair hung round his face,
That face whose eyes were never dim,
His form was full of strength and grace,
And all the rich lads hated him.
A wealthy youth did Jesus shun—
"Is not this the carpenter's son?"

Ye poore man's friend.

I am poor and lone and meek,
For what I have I toiled to get;
He is the only friend I seek,
My last and only comrade yet.
The poor man's friend—his only one,
And is not this the carpenter's son?

AYRSHIRE IMPORTATIONS.

Mr. R. D Dundas Receives Twelve Thoroughbred Ayrshires Direct from Scotland.

Mr. R. D. Dundas, of Cavan, near Springvills, has just had released from quarantine twelve head of thoroughbred Ayrshires—ten heifers and two bulls. Part of these splendid animals were purchased from the celebrated breeder, Andrew Mitchell, Kirkcudbright, Scotland, others from Mrs. Wilson, of Cross-Knockton, Ayrshire, and others from W. S. Park, Hatton, Renfrewshire, Scotland. The importation of such a fine herd of pure thoroughbred animals of what is considered by many the best strain of dairy stock, is a matter of great significance and importance to the farmers of the vicinity and it is to be hoped that Mr. Dundas' enterprise will receive abundant practical appreciation.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

Ring out the merry Christmas chime,
Proclaim the message far and near,
Peace and good will in every clime,
To rich and poor sweet Christmas cheer.

Loudly proclaim o'er land and sea
What love divine for men did plan,
The setting of the captive free,
The nobler brotherhood of man.

Surcease of grief to those that mourn,
Rest to the weary, heaven to win,
A fuller life beyond death's bourne
To such as seek to enter in.

Peal forth with no uncertain tone
That love leaves none beneath the ban,
And they alone are blessed that own
Their duty to their fellow man.

Proclaim as loudly as ye can
The tidings glad to old and young,
Peace upon earth, good will to man,
First by the angel chorists sung.

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS

To all our Customers and Friends.

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.

In wishing our many customers and friends the compliments of the season, we also wish to express to them our sincere gratitude for their very liberal patronage during the past year. We are confident that your dealing with us has been a great saving to yourselves. We are pleased that the people of Peterborough and surrounding country have appreciated our efforts to place before them the very best class of goods at lower prices for the same quality than can be had in the largest cities in the province. The proof to us of this appreciation—IS A LARGE INCREASE IN OUR GROWING CASH BUSINESS.

OUR SERVICE,

Although by no means perfect, we have endeavoured to serve you promptly and well; we have never advertised one cent's worth that we did nothave when you came for it. And you can rest assured that in the future there will be nothing lackingon our part to render you more efficient service and to still maintain the very pleasant relations that have existed between us and our customers.

We further invite your attention to our pleasant and spacious LADIES' PARLOUR which has been so much admired and appreciated, especially by Ladies' coming from outside places. Again thanking you for your patronage and soliciting your further favour and confidence, we are yours sincerely,

CHRISTMAS.

The associations with this festival are of a joyous and happy character, because it suggests the beginning of a new era in the history of mankind, when the great Gift of the All-father was made to the fallen sons of men; and in all Christian lands the day is universally observed as a season of relaxation and rejoicing. And with reason. The anniversary itself is the chief reason, because its beginning inaugurated now relations; it established upon a new basis the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. It reconciled the erring human with the perfect Divine. It established a new bond of brotherhood after the sublime type of the Elder Brother. All this is cause for rejoicing. Before the Babe was cradled under the star in the Bethlehem stable the world knew not the evidences of love that now exist. It is only in Christian lands that the charity "that is kind" finds organized expression in the maintenance of asylums for God's afflicted, refuges, charities, etc., the embodiment of the wider spirit of love that came to earth in the form of the Son of Man. Therefore, it is meet that men rejoice and make merry at the Christmas tide. There is another reason why Christmas should be hailed with pleasure. It calls a delightful halt in the race for wealth and wordly gain and the selfish pursuits that take too little heed of others. At Christmas the most sordid chips the shell of self, and devotes his thoughts to others. This is the season of giving of gifts and of kindly remembrances of those bound to us by the ties of kinship or by social ties. It is the time when millions of little ones are made happy, and how little rejoices their young guileless hearts. Then this is the season when long absent friends are re-united; when the children who have left the parent roof to plant a roof tree of their own, gather round the old hearthstone and enjoy the bliss of the family reunion. From far and near the plugging ships and the rushing trains bring the welcome guests.

But there is a place for the query as to whether we should be merry at Christmas. How many thousand are there even in this happy land, the favoured of heaven, to whom the festival brings no significance, the day no gladness. Want cold, hunger, nakedness, stalk through the wretched rooms of thousands of abodes. For these no Christmas lay dawns, no added brightness shines. In our own merrymaking we should not forget those around us, who feel in their wretchedness and despair, that not only Christmas, but life itself, holds no joy, and should help make the day brighter to them by sharing the blessings that the day has brought to us.

In this spirit of universal charity to all those around us may we observe the Christmas day, and in this spirit THE EXAMINER wishes its readers

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

POVERTY IN PETERBOROUGH.

A Hint for the Central Charity Committee.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

An acre of land planted with potatoes will yield one hundred bushels, and some times four hundred. One hundred bushels is about three tons weight. Two bushels of potatoes per week, or 120 lbs., will keep a tolerably large family from starvation, indeed it will prevent them from knowing actual hunger. Land within a short distance of Peterborough can be obtained on very moderate terms and within twenty-five miles it can be obtained as a free gift, the Provincial Government making a present of 100 acres to every applicant. Then why should anybody in Peterborough be in want of food, and have to apply as paupers to the town authorities for charitable relief? A great many have to do so. There is a lot of Peterborough who are dependent on charitable assistance to save them from starvation. The town pays a large sum every year in charity. In 1891 it spent $2,858 in the relief of the poor; in 1892 it was $2,722, and last year, 1893, it was $2,477. There are also many charitible societies, whose expenditure in the relief of paupers is large, and it may be safely estimated that the sum of $4,000 is yearly spent in Peterborough in the charitable relief of those who are in need of food. Here then we have the following facts before us: 1. Peterborough is one of the most prosperous towns in the Province; 2. pauperism exists to such an extent within in limits, that $4,000 a year has to be spent to prevent starvation; 3. land is given away in one hundred acre lots as free grants within twenty-five miles of Peterborough; 4. one acre of these free grant lots would raise enough potatoes to preserve an entire family from starvation for a year. It bothers this journal very much to find out why anybody in Ontario should be short of grub. Why don't they accept a gift of 100 acres of land from the Provincial Government and live on the land in their own house and raise their own pork, 'taters, beans, cabbage, flour, corn meal, butter and milk? Nobody ought to be hungry in Ontario. And yet Peterborough has to spend $4,000 a year in feeding the starving, and the percentage of poor people in Peterborough is less than in other towns! Very strange, all this. There's something wrong somewhere. This thing must be seen to. Why doesn't Peterborough accept a free grant of land, build a suitable residence, and send those who are in need of food, to work on the farm? Could not something of this sort be done?

THAT BIG FIRE IN VICTORIA.

Further Particulars Concerning the Conflagration.

The Bobcaygeon Independent publishes the following further particulars concerning the fire which devastated the premises of Mr. Charles Fairbairn, M.P., of North Victoria, on Wednesday last, and of which an account appeared in the EXAMINER of that date:—"On Wednesday morning about half past three, Mr. Chas. Fairbairn, M.P., was awakened by his dog breaking through the window and trying to get in. The barns were a mass of flames. The family was at once aroused, and James ran to the stable door, but could not enter. In fact on running back to the house, which was about 100 ft. from the barns, he had to get the inmates out as fast as possible. The barns were fully 100 ft. in length, and with the stables formed a large hollow square, in which the straw was stacked, and which was covered by an immense roof. It was the most fierce fire ever seen by anyone present. The roar of the flames was distinctly heard in the village; twelve feet boards were whirled into the air like blazing shavings, and great curling sheets of flame would break off and tumbling over would sweep the earth. Not a stick was left near the place, and only a very little was saved from the house. Eleven horses, nine pigs, and one calf were burned to death in the stables, fifteen hundred bushels of grain were destroyed, the straw of five days threshing, and all the machinery, vehicles, harness, etc. The poor dog who aroused the family, remained in the house and was also burned. There was an insurance of $2,000 on the buildings in the London Mutual, and $4,000 in the Western, on the contents of the house and buildings. The cause is unknown, though the finding of the frame of a strange lantern in the grain, is supposed to give some clew."

Mrs. Von Finklestein Mountford.

Rev. Dr. Smith, pastor of Centennary church, Hamilton, says: "Mrs. Mountford's lectures gave the best interpretation of the manners and customs of the East, that I have any knowledge of, and are replete with illustrations of immense value to the Bible student." Her lecture here on Thursday next, Dec. 27th, in the Opera House, will be her masterpiece. The subject is "Ecce Homo"—from Bethlehem to Calvary. Plan of hall at Stratton's.

DECEMBER WEDDING BELLS IN NORTH MONAGHAN.

The Nuptials of Mr. Lewis Whitfield and Miss Alena Hunter.

Miss Alena Hunter was united in marriage on Monday, Dec. 19th, to Mr. Lewis Whitfield, a popular young farmer in the township. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage by the Rev. A. MacWilliams. The young bride, who was attired in a beautiful slate silk gown, trimmed with white lace, was assisted by her friend, Miss Frances Hunter, of Cavanville, in a dress of blue ahearden, trimmed with white silk. Mr. Whitfield was assisted throughout the ceremony by his brother, Mr. Wm. Whitfield. After the ceremony the young couple drove to their handsome new residence in Monaghan, River Road, just outside the town, where a large number of invited guests and friends were in waiting to receive them and bestow their congratulations on the young couple. A sumptuous wedding supper was partaken of by all. During the evening the High Park brass band drove down to serenade the newly wed and discoursed sweet music during the evening, which added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. Games and amusements were indulged in until a late hour, when the company dispersed for their respective homes. The young couple were the recipients of a large number of valuable and useful presents from their friends, a partial list of which is given below:—Mr. and Mrs. A. Hunter, set of tea dishes; Mr. and Mrs. McCarrol, silver butter dish; Mr and Mrs. Jos. Bell, breakfast cruet; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Byers, Peterborough, silver cruet; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Whitfield, wine set and silver tray; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wilson, fancy table drape; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robson, picture, handsomely framed; Mr. Jas. Chambers, parlour lamp; Mr. and Mrs. Collins, artistically worked chair cover and singing bird; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chambers, china dinner set; Miss Emma Hunter, toilet set; Miss A. Law, handkerchief holder; Miss Martha Hunter, fruit dish; Mr. E. Davidson, silver fruit dish; Miss Ward, Lindsay, silver framed mirror; Miss Annie Bell, silver butter dish; Mr. Wm. Whitfield, picture; Miss Maggie Chambers, handsome towels; Mr. Bert Sanderson, cheese dish; Mr. and Mrs. Hatherley, Otonabee, parlour lamp; Misses Sanderson, fancy paper rack, and set table mats; Mr. T. M. Hunter, handsome suite of furniture; Miss Frances Hunter, silver pickle dish. The groom's present to the bride was a lady's beautiful gold watch.

Two Deaths in a Fire.

MEMPHIS, Tenn, Dec. 24.—Mable Shelton, aged three years, was burned to death; Mary, her five-year-old sister was killed by being thrown from a second storey window and the mother lies injured at the city hospital beyond hope of recovery as the result of a fire at 48 Echols street. The family lived on the second storey of a frame house.

Threw a Lamp at His Wife.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 24.—George Rusby, aged 60, threw a lighted lamp at his wife Amelia, aged 43, Saturday night. The lamp broke and the woman was covered with burning oil. She soon died of her injuries. Rusby had been drinking and his wife refused to give him money. He is in custody.

A Bootblack's Great Luck.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24.—James Beaven, bootblack at the Gibson House, received word that he had fallen heir to $65,000 through the death of a cousin in Chicago.

Stevenson's Death Confirmed.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 24.—Dr. Balfour, Robert Louis Stevenson's uncle, has received a despatch from San Francisco saying that Stevenson died suddenly on the 3rd.

Convicted for Stealing Corn.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 24.—John Jackson, of Belle River, was tried by Magistrate Bartlett on Saturday on the charge of stealing corn from Henry Girard. The evidence went to show that several farmers in the vicinity of Belle River were missing grain and suspected Jackson of being the guilty party. He was convicted and sent up for three months.

The Joy of Christmastide.

This is the joy of Christmastide: It brings afresh to our remembrance the glorious truths that God is love; that he is our Father and we are his children, and that, being his children, we are his heirs, heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ to an inheritance more glorious than mortal eye hath seen or heart conceived.

And this idea that God is our Father is imparted to us by God himself. We ourselves could never have found it out by any study or searching of our own. It had to be revealed to us. And this is the anniversary season of its revelation, the recognized anniversary of that time when in the manger at Bethlehem Christ entered into the experiences of human life that he might reveal to man the spirit which animates the heart of God, the spirit of paternal love and fellowship.

In coming to God, now, my friends, we come no more with Moses by the way of the wilderness and of that mount which burned with fire, but we come by the way of the Bethlehem manger to the peaceful and inspiring heights of Zion.

Happy Christmas! Day of better covenant than Moses knew! Day of glad tidings which shall be to all people! Day of the revelation of God in Christ as the Father of all and the Saviour of all! May its yearly coming find the world more and more in harmony with God until in all the earth men shall know and worship and rejoice in him as their nearest, dearest, truest, tenderest friend.—Christian Advocate.

English Christmas Charity Customs.

Some of these old Christmas customs are not without their element of romance. Thus a pretty story accounts for a custom kept up at Forebridge. The account generally current in the neighborhood is to the effect that one Christmas day a certain benevolent individual, hearing some poor children murmuring that they had no plums for a pudding, counted the houses at that time in the village and made a provision for a pound of plums for each house. In accordance with this generous bequest, the chamberlain of the corporation of Stafford every Christmas was accustomed to make a payment of 6 shillings for the purchase of plums, which were to be regularly distributed to persons at the time residing in certain old houses in the liberty of Forebridge.

They Felt Badly.

Susie—Papa, did you get mamma a new pair of slippers for Christmas?

Papa—No, my dear, but why do you ask that question?

Susie—Well, Tommy said that the old ones were sick.

Papa—Sick? How do you make that out?

Susie—That's what he meant anyhow, for he said they felt badly.

Rather Tart.

Mr. Kanoodle—And now wouldn't you like me for a Christmas present?

Miss Alert—Certainly, if you'll hang yourself on the Christmas tree.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A CHRISTMAS QUEEN.

BY MARTHA M'CULLOCH WILLIAMS.

[Copyright, 1894, by the Author.]

Aunt Charlotte came sturdily across the Lee plantation. The fields were all sere, as became mid-December. Yet in the flower garden roses, pansies and chrysanthemums were rapidly unfolding in the warm, slow rain, rather ragged and discolored, to be sure, but flowers for all that.

"Dem's de ve'y tings fer dressin up de table," Aunt Charlotte muttered to herself as she scudded betwixt the borders and on to the back porch. Before she could knock, the hall door opened, and Mrs. Lee called out:

"Howd'y, Aunt Charlotte? Come right in my room to the fire. You'll catch your death yet, running about so in bad weather. Sit down and dry your feet while you tell me all the news."

Aunt Charlotte stuck her torn, muddy shoes toward the blazing logs, fetched a sort of groaning sigh and said: "La, Miss Ma'y, you know I never hears no news, but dey nor'ated it at church meeting 'istiddy dat ole lady Brantley wus metty low wid de brown-skeeters, an ole Miss Calishaw's Flo'ence had done runned off an married dat Dodd boy."

"Well, well, she has driven her ducks to a bad market. Girls are so foolish. Oh, did you hear from old Mr. Pegram? I am told he was badly hurt last week."

"Yessum; he clumb up de stable lof', huntin fer de boyses jug er licker, an fell through on dat young mule, an de critter kicked him. So de doctor say de spine er he back is querrelized."

"Dear me! You don't say so!" Mrs. Lee returned.

For an hour the talk slipped along the channels of local gossip. Aunt Charlotte knew there was nothing like tid-bits of news to put Miss Ma'y in good humor. Whatever happened in ten miles around was reported, with enlargement and variations, at the colored church. Besides Aunt Charlotte herself was outdoor laundress for some half dozen families, so of course knew all about them. When her feet were dry, she got up, picked her sunbonnet from the floor and said, balancing herself on one foot:

"Well, I mus' be goin. Miss Ma'y, is you got any gole paper?"

"Let me see. Yes, I think—I know I have. Do you want some? Are they going to have another Christmas tree at the church?"

"Yessum—no'm. I does wants some, but 'tain't fer no Chrismus tree. Dey done had so many er dem, an fesservals, an May suppers, an so on, de folks is tired on um. Mist' Pasco, de teacher at de free school, is metty high larnt. He been one session ter de Frisk nuniversity, up hat Nashville, so de church call on him ter pervent um somp'n new. An he tole um dey mus' have er queen er Chrismus."

"Indeed? That is something new. Tell me all about it."

"I ain't zactly got de whole thing straight yit, but fur as I kin make out my Meely—dey choosed her for queen—is gwine be dressed up in white, wid a crown on, an red shoes, an set up on a cheer on top de teacher's table, wid a big stripe-ed shawl all hangin down ter de flo', an de schoolchilluns is ter come up 'fore her an say dey speeches—'bout de boy stood on de burnin deck, an twinkle, twinkle, little stars, an de reaper whose name is debt, an all dem yothers.' Den dey gwine have di-logs fer the big chillun, an arter dat all de young men will march an sing around her, an she ha' ter choose one on 'em fer king. Dat's whut gits Meely whar de wool's short. You know she ain't forard lek de yother gals."

"No; Meely's a good girl—the best I know. Is that all?"

"Oh, no'm. Dey gwine have er supper, sot in de schoolhouse eend er de church. Dat'll be 50 cents an eat all you wants er barbecue an pie. De church don't git none er dat; hit all goes ter dem wha' 'vides de vittels. But the side table whar dey gwine sell cake an candy an reasons an oringes an see gyars will be all fer de paschure sal'ry. 'Sides dat he git de dime at de do' too. De church owes him $40, an dey had ter promus ter git up somp'n would make it fer him Chrismus, 'fore he'd 'gree ter baptize any er dem las' con verts. He 'lowed his body wus des as well wuth savin as dey souls, an he wasn't gwine ruint his las' suit ez clothes in de water 'dout he had de insborance er g'ittin money ter buy mo'."

"I see. Does it come off Christmas eve?"

"Oh, no'm. Hit's gwine be Saddy night in Chrismus. De yother churches an school 'tainments will be through by den, so we git er big crowd. De s'ciety from town—de Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise, say dey comin out ter see how us country niggers does, an I wants ter 'stonish um good one time sho."

"You want me to help you?"

"Yessum; I be metty proud ef you will. I got three dozen eggs. Ef you des let me heve de sugar an butter an flour, I'll make two cakes fer de side table an bake um in your big rosepans. An I thought maybe you'd len me de money ter git Meely's dress an shoes, an make de crown fer her, an len me you buggy blankit ter go over de cheer. Ef you will, hit'll be er mighty big 'commer-dation."

"Has Meely outgrown the white dress I made her last summer?"

"No'm, but hit's been washed. 'Sides hit nuver wus nothin but swiss muslin. Now she got ter have tarlton. Teacher say queens don't nuver w'ar nothin else, an nuver puts one on dey back but des de one time. Hit's boun ter be right new."

"You had better get her yellow shoes. She can wear them afterward."

"Teacher say dey mus' be red—dat's what de town niggers will be spectin, an dey shan't have no souse ter laugh ef I can help it."

"You want me to make the dress?"

"Yessum, ef you will."

"And the crown?"

"Ain't nobody but you would do it fer me."

"Do you want it like this?" showing a picture of a royal diadem.

"No'm," said Aunt Charlotte. "De chilluns is gwine w'ar silver ones when dey say dey speeches an Mist' Pasco he made um one fer er pattren. Hit's des er ban big 'nough to go on de head, wid sharp p'ints stannin up around de top. Meely's mus' be dat way, too, only gole an bigger."

"H-m-m! Is that all you want?"

"Yessum—'ceptin 'tis dem flowers out yonder in de gyarden. An I'll sweep de yard, an make your soap in de spring-time, an irun all Miss Lucy's nice clothes next summer."

"I know you will, you blessed Aunt Charlotte," said Miss Lucy Lee, running in with her arms full of finery. "And Meely shall be as fine as Friday in this tarlatan dress of mine—I've only worn it once—and a red sash and stockings as well as the shoes. And her crown shall have 17 tiny sharp points to it, one for each year of her life and mine. You know we were born the same day, and have grown up just the same size."

Aunt Charlotte beamed all over.

"God love you, Miss Lucy! You is one good child. I wus thinkin 'bout

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE, Kenabutch, P. O., Ont.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

dat dress all de way ober here—studyin up how I could git it. If your foots des wan't so little dat Meely couldn't git mo'n her big toe in your shoes, I'd ax you fer dem white slippers and let de sed stockin's do."

"Oh, she shall have shoes—never fear!" Lucy said, holding the sash to the light. "But how will she get to church without spoiling them? It's a mile from your house, and the mud will be knee deep. You know it always rains a week when the wind is in the south."

"Yessum, hit's gwine be bad. Dey done 'cided at church meetin dat Meely mus' dress in de closter' house dar an den come out, an be sot up in er no top buggy, an have eight er de big boys pull her up ter de church do'. Den Mist' Pasco, he gwine take her outen hit an tote her up de aisle an set her in de cheer on de table."

Lucy laughed aloud. Her mother frowned and said, a trifle sharply:

"I would not allow that, Charlotte. Meely is no child."

Aunt Charlotte looked at the floor in meek obstinacy.

"Dey tells me queens don't walk none 'tall," she said, "an de buggy cain't git no nigher 'an de do'."

"Then let two of the big girls make a bee saddle and tote her. That won't look half so bad as to see Pasco lugging her like an old cat does her kitten," Mrs. Lee said, still sharply.

"It's the hugging, not the lugging, ma objects to," Lucy said through her laughing, "but that does not matter. I believe Mr. Pasco wants to marry Meely."

"He do," said Meely's mother, "but she done sot her min on dat ar' owdacious Pete Meacham, who've got no 'ligion 'tall, is des always whistlin reels an potillions an singin 'bout

"Oh, Master Rabbit, yo' years mighty long.
Yes, my dear, dey are sot on wrong.

Dat's what make me try so hard ter git her fix up nice fer dis yere time. I'm gwine git all de things an den tell 'er she cain't have um 'dout she'll 'gree ter take Mist' Pasco."

Lucy's eyes flashed, but before she could speak her mother said:

"Well, I hope you'll succeed, but it does seem to me that when a girl sets her heart on a trifling, no account fellow there is no use trying to change it. I didn't know Meely was like the rest, but I'll help you all I can."

"So will I," said Lucy, running away, with scarlet cheeks. Meely's case was her own. Bert Wilmer had her heart and her troth plight; rich Dave Allen, the backing of her parents. Possibly it was this fellow feeling that made her so wondrous kind to Meely. Possibly also the fact that Pete had been postman for the lovers ever since Bert was forbidden the Lee house had something to do with the case.

Then, too, the Lees were a habitual providence to the poor blacks about them. Love for the merry, careless, simple-shrewd race was in their blood, comprehension likewise. They saw under the grotesque extravagance of the "queen of Christmas" a germ of self reliance and furthered it accordingly.

When at last it came to pass, Lucy, with her brother and a dozen more young folks, stood outside and looked on through the window back of the pulpit. The church was a big log structure, lit with kerosene lamps in flaring tin reflectors, and fairly crammed with dark humanity.

Besides the country negroes for miles around the Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise were out in full regalia, a hundred strong. Each brother wore a red sash crossing his breast, with a tin star over the heart, a green apron turned up with yellow, and a blue and white rosette upon the left lapel. Each sister was gorgeous in a purple cape, a long white, freely ruffled apron, deep red sash about the waist and orange turban with green plumes. They marched to their allotted places, droning out a weird, wordless chant, and vainly tried to maintain an attitude of solemn criticism. The crowd was dotted with smiling familiar faces, the savory scent of barbecue was in the air, and Brudder Paschure, otherwise the Rev. Mr. Barker, shook hands up and down the benches with a fervor that almost set them shouting.

Presently the deacons hustled and squeezed the crowd back from the aisle, and Mr. Pasco came through with Meely in his arms. She was a slim slip of a girl, but he staggered under her weight and would have fallen when mounting to her chair throne if Pete Meacham had not sprung forward and relieved him of his burden.

"Umph! My Lord! I wouldn't have dat nigger fer soap grease ef he cain't tote no better'n dat!" exclaimed the foremost Daughter of I Will Arise, while one of the country lads murmured: "Lordy! Wouldn't I des lek ter see 'im put 'ginst Pete at er log rollin! He done stay dar in dat school'ouse twell he ain't no stronger'n er skeeter."

Meely reached her throne about equally crumpled in clothes and feelings. While the speeches and dialogues went on she sat trembling and half blind, only kept from running incontinently away by the knowledge that her mother's eye was on her. She knew what was expected of her—that she would choose Mr. Pasco as king—and she hated him so! If only she might choose Pete! But he would not be in the line. Aunt Charlotte had managed to have him left out. After he put her in the chair he sat down on the pulpit floor back of it,

The Mother Heart Touched

"I Believe SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Saved the Lives of Two of My Children."—Puny Children Grow Fat and Strong—Tired and Ailing Women Take on the BLOOM of EARLIER YEARS.

What will touch the mother heart more deeply than the illness of her little ones? She may suffer much herself, and women are sorely afflicted with many ills, but she will endure all this, however often, without a murmur; but there can be no disguising her anxiety when the little ones of the home are stricken down with sickness. And how many puny children there are! We talk of the bloom of youth, but thousands of children know not of it. Others may romp, but they are weaklings.

Mothers, would you have your loved ones strong and healthy? Would you enjoy good health yourself? Then use South American Nervine Tonic; there is no doubting its efficacious properties. Investigate from a scientific or a common sense point of view and you will find that nearly all disease has its start in the nerve centres of the body.

The mission of South American Nervine is to at once reach the nerve centres, which are to the whole body what the mainspring of the watch is to every other part of the timepiece. Science has made perfectly clear that the troubles that affect the individual organs of the body, have their seat in these nerve centres, so, without any wasteful experimenting, South American Nervine reaches out to the seat of the difficulty, and straightening out what is wrong there heals the whole body. Listen to what Mrs. H. Russell, Wingate, writes on this point: "I have used several bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and will say, I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down, and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly both improved on its use. I don't allow myself to be without some of it in my house. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors." It will certainly grant new life to all who are delicate, whether young, middle-aged, or old. Do not worry along with ill health, but dispel it, and brighten your lives by the immediate use of South American Nervine.

SENT HIM SPRAWLING TO THE FLOOR.

tried to make her bodily over to Mr. Pasco, he was close at hand, and Miss Lucy and Marse Bert looking in at the window, ready to give him countenance for her protection.

At last the march began. Two by two, a man and woman, they came into the small clear space before her and moved around singing:

My Lord called Sister Marthy.
Sister Marthy would not answer.
Sister Marthy's into de gyarden,
Talkin erbout my Lord.

Five minutes of slow, heavy stamping; then came a wild whirl to

Dar war ban's o' music,
Dar war ban's o' music,
Dar war ban's o' music
Rumblin fro' de sky.

Then the words died away to a wild groaning shriek, with a tempest of footfalls under it. The marchers formed a wheel with the women in the center and whirled at top speed in front of and up to the door distracted queen. The pastor came, too, with an oily smile, and put his buggy whip in her hand, saying: "Now, Miss Permeely, hit your king and lemme set him down up yere 'side you. Hit is not good fer 'oman ter be erlone, de Scripture says. Now, shet your eyes an hit de'nex' who'er passes." With that he seemed to release the whip, yet adroitly flung the lash around Pasco's neck. Instantly there went up a great laughing shout, and by the time Meely had drawn one sobbing breath the teacher was beside her, holding her hand. The preacher had drawn a book and a folded paper from his pocket and was beginning to read that the document authorized him to solemnize matrimony betwixt Cæsar Augustus Pasco and Pamela Mills.

Out from the wonder stricken crowd came a shrill cry: "O-o-o! you vilyun! I hain't dead yet!"

The next minute a small and vicious looking Daughter of I Will Arise streamed up to the throne, clutched the royal bridegroom and shaking him till his teeth chattered cried out: "I married dis yere slab sided, low down, no 'count trifiin fly up de creek two years ergo, up to Nashville, an took in washin ter spote 'im so he might go ter school an git book sense ernough ter be er preacher. An dis is whut I gits fer it. Fine um yere tryin ter marry er gal 'at don' 'ant um an does 'ant somebody else. I been knowin ever sence he runned away he was mean as gar broth thickened w.d tadpoles, but I never did thought he'd come quite ter sech er pass as dis."

Mr. Barker put on his most judicial aspect. Pasco's countenance betrayed his guilt. Nevertheless the minister asked:

"Is this woman your wife, Brother Pasco?"

"I married her once, but I was a minor then, and I propose to get me a divorce next spring—as soon, in fact, as school is out," Mr. Pasco said, spelling all his grammar to his aid.

"Den you better wait till you git it 'fore you try ter marry agin," Pete Meacham said, catching his rival round the waist and sending him sprawling on the floor. Then he gathered the sobbing Meely in his arms and turned to face the preacher, saying: "Mr. Paschure, my boss is got license for me ter marry dis same little gal. Git um from him, please, an tie de knot right yere. I was gwine steal her as we went home, but I don't wanter take no mo' risks er losin 'er."

Then a wonderful thing happened. The party outside came in and stood in a half circle, back of Pete and Meely, until they were made one, when a grave gentleman, whom nobody quite knew, stepped in front of Bert Wilmer and Lucy Lee, and in less time than it takes to write it they had likewise entered the holy estate of matrimony. Pete and his boss, it seemed, had planned a double runaway. The happenings of the evening only precipitated the crisis.

Aunt Charlotte and Mrs. Lee in time became reconciled to their sons-in-law, but the church meeting has never yet ventured upon another queen of Christmas.

A VISION OF ST. NICHOLAS.

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap—
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter,
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters, and threw up the sash.
The moon, on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave a lustre of mid-day to objects below;
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little, old driver, so lively and quick.
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles, his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name!
"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! oh, Donder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away, dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So, up to the housetop, the coursers they flew,
With the sleighful of toys—and St. Nicholas too,
And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof,
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound
He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a pedlar just opening his pack.
His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry,
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry,
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow,
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face and a little round belly
That shook, when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.
He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf;
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself,
A wink of his eye, and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And, laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew, like the down of a thistle;
But I heard him exclaim, ere they drove out of sight—
"Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night!"

THE GAME OF SNAPDRAGON.

Players Must Be Quick and Not Mind Burned Fingers.

Few "Christmas gambols" exist in their original form. But the old games modified to suit modern taste as well as the new ones are just as full of fun and are entered into by the young folks nowadays with as much zest as were the rougher gambols over which in old England the "Lord of Misrule" presided. Although the authority of this lord was generally acknowledged at Christmas merrymakings 200 or 300 years ago, and he made things very lively, such disorders finally crept into his brief burlesque reign that he was suppressed.

One of the most quiet and genial of the gambols over which he was master has been handed down under the name of "Snapdragon." Raisins are put into a large bowl, covered with spirit, which is ignited. Lights in the room are extinguished, and each one attempts in turn to grasp a raisin, a feat requiring some skill and courage. Meanwhile an appropriate accompaniment is the "Song of the Snapdragon," beginning thus:

Here he comes with flaming bowl.
Don't he mean to take his toll?
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

Take care you don't take too much,
Be not greedy in your clutch.
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

With his blue and lapping tongue
Many of you will be stung.
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

Too Bad.

"Hello, Billie, merry Christmas! What did you get?"

"Got lef.."

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

STORMS IN BRITAIN

The South and West Coasts Swept by a Tremendous Gale.

LOSS OF LIFE VERY HEAVY

Several Vessels Go Down With All Hands—The Traffic in Liverpool Suspended—The North-west of Ireland Suffers Very Severely—Disasters to Shipping.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—A tremendously heavy gale set in on Saturday, the south and west of England and Southern Ireland being the centre of the storm. Reports from Ireland state that at Langford the streets are strewn with debris. Many trees were uprooted and much other damage was done. At Belfast three persons were killed in their beds by falling walls and debris. The severity of the storm has not been equalled in many years.

It is reported that a schooner was sunk off Liverpool and that all the crew were drowned. A steamer is ashore at South End. The schooner Helen Mar is reported wrecked at Ardogena Head, near Ardmore, Ireland, and three of her crew drowned. The captain was washed ashore, having provided himself with a lifebelt. He was still alive, but completely exhausted.

Owing to the fury of the gale all traffic in Liverpool has been suspended. Such was the force of the wind that a tram-car on one of the lines in the city was driven into another car of the same line. One person was killed and three others were painfully injured. Two other persons were killed by being caught under a brick wall which was blown down.

Advices from Belfast, Ireland, state that the American ship Kennebec, Capt. Sawyer, at that port from Port Blakely, was torn from its moorings by the gale and collided with several vessels, among them a tug, which was so badly damaged that it was found impossible to keep it afloat, and which was abandoned in a sinking condition.

Reports of death and damage to property are received constantly. Three fishing smacks went down off Stornawny, on the Scotch coast, and all three crews, numbering 23, were drowned. The British barque Kirkmichael, which was driven on the breakwater at Holyhead, has filled. Twelve of her crew were saved with the breeches buoy and seven were drowned. Many cotters on the Donegal coast have lost their huts in the storm. At Teelin a house collapsed and the three occupants were killed. In Stranorlar two persons were killed by a falling chimney. Several vessels went adrift in Aberdeen harbor and grounded. The roof of the Macdonald art gallery was ripped open and many valuable pictures were injured. The brig Loven was wrecked in the Frith of Clyde near Androssen and her crew of five were drowned. At Loch Winnoch, near Paisley, part of a three-story cabinet factory were wrecked. Forty persons were buried in the ruins. Four were killed outright and twenty were seriously injured. The proprietor was struck in the back by a falling timber and is dying.

At Lancaster the wind blew the roof off a house and the whole structure collapsed, burying three persons in the cellar. All were seriously injured. Several other houses in the course of building were demolished. At Morecambe several smacks were sunk. At Grimsby a workshop collapsed, burying 30 persons. One was killed and three were seriously injured. Telegraph wires, timber stacks, trees, etc., were blown down in all directions. At Buxton the new town hall was unroofed and partly wrecked. At Lilburn five factory chimneys were overturned and great damage was done. In Belfast the damage done by the storm is enormous. A number of factories and houses were demolished. At Hollywood a downshire house was wrecked. At Newry a brewery chimney was blown down, and the local railway was so badly damaged that traffic will have to be suspended for several days.

A chimney of the infirmary in Blackurn was blown down crashing into the children's ward. Seven children were carried down with the debris. While police and firemen were trying to rescue the children the lower floor collapsed and all fell into the cellar. One policeman, the cook and six children were severely injured. Word comes from Liverpool that another vessel had foundered and five of her crew had been drowned, a life boat going to the rescue was blown adrift and lost. In Mersey, six smacks were sunk. Four sailors are dying in the hospitals of broken heads. The Mersey ferry was compelled to stop running for several hours—a most unusual occurrence. It is estimated that the wind blew 87 miles an hour.

A despatch from Belfast says that several vessels were blown ashore in the Lough. The crews of some of them have been rescued. Among the rescued are the captain, his wife and 15 of the crew of the British bark, Noel. They clung to the rigging for several hours exposed to a bitter north-wester. The vessel was dashed to pieces.

The coast steamship Brook was stranded near Berwick, Scotland, and her crew were brought ashore with the breeches buoy. The gables were blown off a dozen houses in Yarmouth, and the tide in the river Yare rose several feet above the normal high water mark. Hundreds of houses have been flooded. Scores of small steamers and sailing vessels have grounded along the coast. The majority of them will be floated. Numerous cases of death or severe injury from falling timbers, trees and chimneys have been reported this afternoon from all parts of the United Kingdom.

Dispatches from the continent say that Northern France and Germany also suffered severely from the storm, although the loss of life and property cannot be estimated as yet. At Hamburg many vessels went adrift and collided or grounded. The tide was the highest seen since 1893. The lower part of Wilhelmshaven on the North Sea, were flooded and the dykes would have gone if the garrison had not worked energetically for hours to strengthen them. Luebeck and Colberg also suffered much damage.

The north-west of Ireland seems to have fared worse than any other part. Many causalties have been reported there. The breaking of the telegraph wires delays reports. It is believed that parts of Scotland also suffered badly.

Tuberculosis in Western New York.

BUFFALO, Dec. 24.—Tuberculosis in cattle prevalent generally throughout western New York is creating a great sensation amongst the farming community. Well developed cases have been found in Cattaraguas and Chautauqua counties and in Niagara county the disease has appeared in the vicinity of Lockport and of Tonawanda. Millmen are finding the product from these sections unsaleable, and people are turning to the use of condensed milk. The last case reported is within the village limits of North Tonawanda.

Severe Storms in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—A severe snow storm has prevailed in the extreme northern portion of this State during the last few days and in some places the snow is eight feet on the level. At Sisseton considerable damage has resulted from the collapse of buildings, a dozen going down in the weight of snow. One man was caught in the fall of a warehouse and he had to be dug out. He was severely injured.

Hostilities in Madagascar.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—A press despatch dated at Tamatave, Madagascar, says that a skirmish between the French troops and Hovas has taken place at Soanirana and that three Hovas and one Frenchman were wounded. The government denies this, declaring that hostilities will not begin until the expiration of the period set in the ultimatum. This period will end on December 26.

Dishonest Army Contractors Jailed.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—Alleze Bros., army contractors, were found guilty of fraud in delivering to the Ministry of War defective goods. Each was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. The sub-contractor, Massouneuve was sent to prison for year, and Maurel, the foreman was condemned to a six months' term. All were also fined.

Child Burned to Death.

PORT ELGIN, Ont., Dec. 24.—Saturday night a fire started in a frame dwelling a mile out from the town, owned by D. Wildfung and occupied by Mr. Moore, totally destroying the building and contents. The seven-year-old son of Mr. Moore, who slept upstairs, was burnt to a crisp, and a younger child very badly burnt, but not fatally.

Naturalist Kennedy Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Captain Kennedy, the naturalist, died here on Friday. Captain Kennedy was born at Rochester, England, in 1851, and published his first book in his 16th year while a student at Eaton. Besides his work on ornithology and travel he wrote numerous articles for The Field, Land and Water, Ibis, and Zoologist.

Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

GLASGOW, Ky., Dec. 24.—By the explosion of a boiler in the mill near Bonnyr about eight miles from this place, Robert Bird and a man named Spann were killed and a son of Spann, a young man named Claude Dearing, son of the owner of the mill, and another whose name could not be learned, were fatally injured.

Dreyfus Sentenced for Treason.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—Captain Albert Dreyfus was sentenced on Saturday for treason. General Mauriel in the name of the nation read the judgment of the court. Fortress confinement and degradation for life is the maximum penalty. There is an unconfirmed report that Captain Dreyfus has killed himself in his cell.

Tried to Kill His Wife.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 24.—John Para, an Italian laborer, is under arrest for attempting to murder his wife last night. He first attempted to drown her and afterwards beat her severely with a club. She is in a delicate condition and it is doubtful if she can recover.

Thirteen Killed in a Collision.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Thirteen persons were killed and many injured by a collision Saturday between the Manchester express train and a goods train.

Every Man Should Insure.

The following from a Toronto Daily, is worthy of very careful consideration:—

The force of the obligation resting upon every man to carry a substantial insurance policy on his life was never better illustrated than in the death of Sir John Thompson.

If ever a man lived who could claim freedom from this obligation it was the late Premier. Before the fatal illness seized him he had every reason to expect a long life; his earning capacity was large; and he was, at one time at all events, justified in expecting that he would fall heir to a considerable fortune. But the expectations of fortune were swept away, death came in mid-life and pratically the only support left for the bereaved family is a paltry insurance of $6,000.

The moral of it all is that every man, no matter how circumstanced, should insure, and insure to the largest extent that his income will justify.

The Late Premier, SIR JOHN S. D. THOMPSON, was insured in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY of CANADA.

"Merry Christmas"

A merry Christmas to you all, good friends! A very merry holiday!

We and our large staff are tired after the active trade of a very busy week. The shopping crowds were great and results are eminently satisfactory.

Most people have been obliged to be careful—more so this year than last—but the number of sales exceeded our expectations and fully indorsed the low price policy of this store.

All the enthusiasm of success was awakened by the business of the past week. It makes us happy and urges us on to still greater effort, with your interests always a vital consideration. "It's Fair's Way."

The store will keep on its holiday garb for a few days longer. Those careful folk who like to shop at ease, and come in for "After the Rush" Bargains are welcome to a quiet look.

MANY LIVES WERE LOST.

The Storms in Europe Were Even Worse Than Reported.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Reports of the storm received from all parts of England show that immense damage has been caused by the recent gales. The loss will reach tens of thousands of pounds. Many buildings have been blown down, and telegraph wires have suffered greatly. Traffic has been completely suspended in many places on account of the floods. Many ships have been driven ashore by the winds. Thirty or forty persons have already been reported dead as a result of the storm, while hundreds have been injured. Eight persons, while attempting to escape from the barque driven ashore at Holyhead, were drowned. A chimney at Sheffield was blown down. Six persons were killed and many injured.

Details of the storm indicate that more than fifty persons lost their lives in different sections. It is impossible to estimate the damage, as reports from different sections of the United Kingdom swell the list of accidents and wrecks hourly. The gale is said to be the worst known in thirty years.

Reports received from various parts of Great Britain show that the gale has abated.

Reports of loss of life and damage to property continue to come in from all directions. At Girvan, Scotland, a show caravan was caught in the gale and capsized. Some of the covered vans were set on fire and four persons were burned to death. At Fleetwood, Lancashire two fishing boats were sunk and all hands on board were lost. The interruption of telegraphic communication with Scotland continues although the winds have abated. It is estimated that the total loss of life by the storm will reach one hundred and twenty.

The British bark Minnie Brown, Captain Davis, was wrecked off West Hoyle in the gale and all hands were drowned.

A Noted Female Educater Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Frances Buss is dead. Miss Buss was born in London in 1827. For the last thirty years she has had a reputation as an educator. She founded the North London Collegiate and Camden schools, whose attendance never falls below 1,000, and president of the association of head mistresses of public schools, besides occupying official places in several other educational societies.

U.S. CATTLE IN GERMANY

An Agent of the American Government Makes an Investigation.

THE CAUSES OF THE EMBARGO

Texas Fever Said to Exist Among the Animals Exported From the Southern States — A Movement in Favor of Cattle Imported From Canada.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—An agent of the Department of Agriculture now in Germany has been looking into the grounds for the German movement against American live cattle and dressed beef and has made the following preliminary report to the department:

"The general opinion among the importers of American live cattle and dressed beef is that the German authorities will never recede from the position they have taken except on condition that German veterinarians be employed to inspect the live cattle and dressed beef before loading for transportation to Germany. The avowed object of the exclusion of American live cattle and beef is to prevent the introduction of Texas fever. Denmark's action in prohibiting the importation of American live cattle and dressed beef is looked upon here as a move dictated by self-interest. Most of the cattle killed at Hamburg are from Denmark. All the cattle arriving from Denmark must be slaughtered and cannot be transported to the interior of Germany alive. Denmark is evidently hopeful that by excluding American live cattle they may receive permission from the German authorities to transport their live stock to the interior of Germany. One of the directors of the Hamburg-American packet company informs me that Rotterdam has also prohibited the landing of American live cattle at their port.

"Hamburg dealers in cattle and commissioners in general are now making efforts to obtain permission to import live cattle from Canada, there being no Texas fever in the Northern States, but they doubt very much whether permission will be granted. The American live cattle sold at Hamburg were of first-class quality and gave excellent satisfaction with the exception of 33 bulls, 16 of which were condemned, thereby creating all this commercial disturbance. The other animals ware principally shorthorns and far superior to any European beef cattle killed at Hamburg, and if the exportation of live cattle is again allowed special care should be taken to export the best quality only to Germany. The dressed beef was also first quality in every respect.

"Inquiring why the prohibition order was made so sweeping as to cover American dressed beef which is inspected by American veterinaries, I was informed that it is impossible for veterinarians to ascertain whether meat is diseased or not unless they can at least examine the lungs of the animal the meat is from."

For the Autonomy of Armenia.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 26.—In the church of Our Saviour, a national convention of the Armenians in America was held yesterday and it was resolved to appeal to the powers of Europe and to the United States government to compel the Porte to grant Armenia autonomy and freedom and to make amends for the butchery in the Sassoun region. Delegates were present from New York city, Philadelphia, Troy, N. Y., and points throughout New England, and letters were received from Chicago and other distant places.

Buried in a Gravel Bank.

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—While several children were playing at Wellesley hill in a gravel bank, a mass of sand and gravel loosened by frost fell upon them and completely buried the two sons of Seldon L. Brown and the son of Dr. Tobey, of Lancaster, who was visiting Mr. Brown's family. When assistance arrived little Seldon Brown's body was discovered beneath a mass of rock and sand. The other boys were rescued. Seldon was about 12 years old.

Found Murdered in a Canal.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 26.—The body of Ferdinand Conger was found in the canal at Morrisville with a knife sticking in his breast. He had evidently been murdered. He was known to carry considerable money with him, but when his body was found there were but twenty-five dollars in his pockets. John Morrell, an Italian, who last saw Conger alive, has been arrested to await the result of the coroner's inquest.

Indian Murderers Arrested.

BANGOR, Maine, Dec. 26.—Sheriff Reed and his posse have taken into custody Joseph Newell and Grabrael, the Indians who murdered Camille Nassau and Charles Langley. They then proceeded to view the scene of the tragedy where the awful spectacle of the bodies of the two murdered men partly burned was presented. The Indians have made no statement, but the tragedy is supposed to have resulted from a drunken row.

A Brutal Murder.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 26.—Emil J. Nosseck, 33 years of age, was beaten to death in Detroit. He was escorting a lady home when five young men insulted his companion. He resented their conduct and they attacked him, beating and kicking him to death. The alleged murderers, who are under arrest, give their names as John Fastender, Edward Shields, Max Dettloff, Fred Karkofski and Emil Middlestoat.

PEACE IN THE ORIENT

The Commissioners Will Confer With the Mikado at Heroshima.

WHAT THE WAR COST CHINA

An American From Pekin Believes the War is Practically at an End—The Feeling of the Chinese Against Foreigners Not So Serious As Reported.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The meeting of the Japanese parliament was officially communicated to Minister Kurino in cable advices received here. The impression is held here that the negotiations between the representatives of the contending powers will be held at Heroshima, the present headquarters of the Japanese Emperor. It will probably be a fortnight or perhaps longer before the commissioners will be able to effect a meeting.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Dec. 26.—Rev. Dr. Henry Blodgett, who has just returned from Pekin is visiting here. Dr. Blodgett went to China in 1854 and has been connected since with the Congregational missions located at Tien-Tsin and Pekin removing to the capital in 1864. In an interview he said: "The Emperor of China gives audiences to his mandarins, privy councillors, princes of the blood, and high military commanders daily. He is inaccessible to foreigners except when he gives occasional audiences to ambassadors from other countries. The anti-foreign sentiment in Pekin is greatly exaggerated. Of course the Chinese do not like foreigners and if they were not restrained they might do injury. Shortly before my departure in response to remonstances of foreign representatives the Emperor issued a proclamation to protect foreigners. A copy of the proclamation was tacked up in every mission church and completely quieted all manifestations towards foreigners. No Americans or other foreigners are allowed by treaty to do business in Pekin. In other parts of China little business is done by Americans, most of what used to be American having passed into English hands."

Dr. Blodgett says there is little resentment on the part of Chinese in general on account of American restriction of immigration. The high officials rather favor it because they do not wish their subjects to leave the country. Li-Hung-Chang has been greatly misunderstood. He believes in the western world civilization without the Christian religion and had he had his way the Chinese would have been educated in the arts of modern warfare.

The defeat of China, Dr. Blodgett says, came from a supercilious disregard of the advance of the world in warfare. He believes the war is practically at an end, the severe weather and the general foreign sentiment against it being too much, he thinks, for the Japanese to resist.

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—A Japanese paper gives a summary of the losses of the Japanese and Chinese armies up to November 23, exclusive of the battles at Fung Wang, Chang Kinchan, Talien-Wan and at Port Arthur. It shows that the Japanese lost 330 killed and 835 wounded, while the Chinese lost 4,800 killed and 4,500 wounded and 1,018 of them were made captives, making a total of 10,310.

The Chinese have also had 211 cannons taken from them, 4,895 rifles, 36,384 cannon shots, 48,000,000 cartridges, besides enough ammunition to last a month firing with 20,000 rifles; 332 banners have been taken, 3,400 tents; 1,000 horses, 3,000,000 taels worth of gold and silver, 111,000 mace coins, 2,413 koku of rice, 5,755 koku of unhulled rice and in addition sufficient food to last an army of 30,000 men three days. The Chinese have lost 13 vessels, a torpedo boat, five men-of-war sunk, and one of their war vessels captured, which makes a total tonnage of 9,850 tons.

The number of killed and wounded on the Japanese side at Port Arthur is estimated at over 400, while those of the enemy is estimated at nine times that number. The Japanese government is still sceptical in regard to China's peace overtures and points out that no authoritative statement has yet been made by China in regard to the mission and that while China now professes to desire peace news has reached the government of Japan that China is negotiating for the purchase of an entire squadron of the Chilian navy, and the agents of Col. Von Hannekin in Europe, it is added, are trying to enlist a number of German officers for service in the Chinese army and navy.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—A despatch received here from Shanghai says that the third Japanese army is reported to have landed west of Chefoo and to have captured Lai-Chow, a seaport town of China in the Province of Chang-Tung, on the south shore of the Gulf of Pechili.

The Armenian Committee on the Way.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 26.—Chefik Bey, judge of the Court of Cassation, and Djelaleddin Bey, of the Court of Appeals, members of the commission appointed to investigate the Armenian troubles, left Constantinople yesterday for Erzeroum. With them went the French delegate M. Vilbert. U. S. Minister Terrel had an interview with the Grand Vizier on Sunday evening with reference to the sending of an independent United States delegate to Sassoun. On Monday the Sultan positively declined to allow Mr. Jewett, the United States consul at Livas, to accompany the commission of inquiry. This action will probably prevent any participation by the United States in the investigation.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

D. 1895, as now audited by treasurer, reeve and council, be adopted and that the clerk procure 150 copies in sheet form for distribution—Carried.

MILLBROOK

From Our Own Correspondent.

Thomas Kells, who has been in Manitoba for the last six weeks, returned home on Monday last.

Thomas Eakins, of Toronto, a former resident of here, is visiting friends in town.

A grand concert was given in the town hall on Christmas night under the auspices of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. McKee, of Fraserville, exchanged pulpits with Rev. D. N. McCamus last Sunday.

The many friends of E. S. Chambers, who was accidentally shot at Lee's Point, about five months ago, are pleased to see him out again. He was down town last week for the first time since the accident, although he is a little lame yet.

Flags are flying at half mast, owing to the death of Sir John Thompson.

Invitations are out for a grand ball to be given in the town hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 26th. It is to be given by the gentlemen of Millbrook and will no doubt be a great success. A Peterborough orchestra will provide music for the occasion.

To nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a priceless boon, for it not only strengthens the mother, but also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child. For those about to become mothers, it is even more valuable for it lessens the perils and pains of childbirth and shortens labour. Of all dealers.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Alex. and Miss Edith Stewart, of Thornburg, are visiting friends in Norwood.

Miss Minnie McLachlan, Picton, is spending Christmas at her home here.

Miss Mary Kirkpatrick, Orillia, is home for the holidays.

There were over 100 tickets for Peterborough sold at the station here Saturday last.

Many of the sons and daughters of the villagers, who have been residing away from home, are here for the Christmas holidays.

Messrs. Pearce and Finlay are again on the warpath, the goal for which each is aiming being the reeveship of the village. From present indications there will be no exciting contest for seats at the council board.

The entertainment given by the Presbyterian Sabbath School, Christmas evening, was very successful. A beautiful cantata entitled "Santa Claus on Time," was well rendered by the scholars.

Monday evening the anniversary of the Baptist Sabbath School was held in the church. The church was well filled and a programme consisting of choruses, solos, readings, recitations, etc., was given. This was followed by a distribution of the presents which hung on the Christmas tree. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Weaver, was presented with a fine bear skin coat and Mrs. Weaver received about forty yards of carpeting.

Last Saturday evening Constable Scriver attempted to arrest Thomas Newall for indecent exposure of his person on the street. Newall resisted, but was finally overpowered and removed to the lock-up with a sore head. On Monday he was tried before Reeve Pearce. He was fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to about $14. During the trial Thos. Hanrahan disturbed the court by shouting "Tom." He was promptly fined $1 by the magistrate. He took the first train for Tweed, saying he could live cheaper there than a dollar a word.

Christmas was celebrated by the Methodist church Sunday school by an entertainment in the church. There was a large number present and a good programme was given, chiefly by the scholars of the school. The evening's entertainment was ended by a visit from Santa Claus, who distributed Christmas gifts to the young folks.

FUNERAL REFORM.

Necessity for a Greater Promptitude—In the Interests of the Public and all Concerned.

Death is the common lot and is sadly of every day occurrence, and, as all at one time or another, are called upon to attend funerals, the matter now referred to becomes of universal public interest. It is a melancholy privilege and pleasure for the living to pay the last tribute to the dead, but this action should be rendered as convenient and safe as possible. The time of the year has come when prompt starting of funerals from the residence should be insisted upon. According to the usual practice there is a general and unpleasantly disagreeable delay Suppose a funeral is announced to leave the house at a certain hour, say three o'clock. Persons in vehicles reach the place at that time and find that the house is full, and they have no recourse but to wait outside in the cold in positive discomfort and in danger of contracting serious colds that may (as has happened in the past) result in their own funeral. This waiting continues until the minister has concluded the religious services, and it is from a half to three-quarters of an hour after the time announced that the funeral cortege is in motion. There should be a decided understanding between the undertaker, the minister and the friends of the deceased, that the religious services should be concluded and the funeral procession ready to start at the hour announced in the funeral notice. This could, with a very little forethought, on the part of those mentioned, be arranged so that the public would be encouraged to attend funerals, instead of being, by the dread of the discomfort and positive danger to health that are incident to delay under the circumstances indicated, practically deterred. Besides busy merchants and others, with occupations that require their personal attention, while they do not begrudge the time required to follow the remains of a neighbour to his last resting place, cannot be blamed if they resent the useless delay that not only prolongs their absence from business by half an hour or more, but also is attended with positive discomfort and danger to health. It is to hoped that those concerned will ponder the subject and take such action as common sense and a common regard for the convenience, comfort and health of others, so palpably suggests.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were perscribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galizien, Austria.

CHRISTMAS MIRACLE.

Once upon a time—it was so long ago that everybody has forgotten the date—there was a little boy named Wolff.

He was 7 years old. He had neither father nor mother and was left to the care of an old aunt, who was so cold hearted that she never embraced her nephew except on New Year's day and was so penurious that she heaved a deep sigh every time she served him to a dish of soup. The poor little fellow was naturally so good that he loved the old dame, only he had such a dreadful fear of her that he could not look at her without trembling.

Because Wolff's aunt was known to have a house upon a good street and a stocking full of gold she did not dare to send her nephew to the school for the poor, but she had so haggled with a teacher for a reduction in her prices that the teacher was vexed to have a scholar who brought her in so little. Little Wolff was also dressed so poorly that the fool's cap was often unjustly inflicted upon him or dunce was written upon his back, and his comrades were unreasonably prejudiced against him.

All the other pupils were sons of rich citizens and made the orphan the butt of their jokes or the object of their malice. The poor child was wretchedly unhappy and would often hide himself away in corners to weep.

The time of the Christmas festival approached. On Christmas eve the schoolteacher conducted all of the pupils to midnight mass and afterward led them back to their homes.

As the winter was extremely rigorous that year, and as for several days a great quantity of snow had fallen, the children all came warmly bundled and muffled in fur caps which turned down over their ears, double and triple coats, knit gloves and mittens and good heavy boots that had iron nails and thick soles.

Wolff alone presented himself, shivering in the same clothes that he wore every day and Sunday, summer and winter, and his feet were covered with only the low wooden shoes of Strasburg.

His naughty companions, seeing his poor appearance, made a thousand jests at his expense, but the orphan was so occupied in breathing upon his cold fingers and by the aching chilblains that he did not heed them.

Soon the band of boys, marching two by two, with the schoolmaster magisterially at their head, started for the priest's house.

It was good to reach the church, which was brilliant with lighted candles. The children, excited by the gentle heat, sweet perfumes and glittering snow, profited by the organ's din and the swelling chants to prattle in a low voice.

Each boasted of the delights which awaited him in his own family circle.

The burgomaster's son had seen before his departure a monstrous goose, with truffles spotted with marks like a leopard. At the house of an alderman was a spruce tree, all planted in a box, from which were suspended oranges, sugar toys and jumping jacks, and the notary's cook had fastened behind her head with a pin the streamers of her cap, which she never did except on days of inspiration, when she was sure to succeed in her famous sweet dishes.

And then the pupils also talked of what the Christ child would bring them, what he would put in their shoes, which all would take care to leave at the fireplace before going to bed.

In the eyes of all sparkled the anticipation of joy. They thought of the paper roses, the bags of nuts, the trumpets and drums, the laden soldiers arranged in battalions, menageries smelling of the varnished wood and purple puppets that could tumble and jump.

Little Wolff knew very well from experience that his old avaricious aunt would have him go to bed without any supper, but innocently he hoped that the Christ child would not forget him, for had he not been all the year as good and hardworking as possible? He, too, planned to put his pair of wooden shoes close to the ashes in the fireplace.

The midnight mass terminated, the faithful went away impatient for the treats which were to follow, and the troup of pupils, always two by two and following the teacher, left the church.

But under the porch, sitting on a stone bench surmounted by a stone niche, a child was sleeping—a child covered with a white woolen robe, but with naked feet, notwithstanding the cold. He was not a beggar, for the robe was clean and new, and near him upon the pavement of the vestibule, wrapped in a coarse cloth, were a square, a plane, a hatchet, a polisher and the other tools of a carpenter's apprentice.

Lighted by the stars, the child's face, with its closed eyes, had an expression of divine gentleness, and his heavy red brown ringlets seemed to shine like an aureole around his white forehead.

But it would have made you grieve to see the child's feet blue with the cold that cruel December night.

The pupils so well clothed and shod for the winter passed indifferently before the unknown child. Some of them cast upon the little vagabond a look in which could be read all the common contempt of the rich for the poor—of the well fed for the hungry.

But little Wolff came out of the church the last of all and stopped, very much moved, before the beautiful sleeping child.

"Alas," said the orphan, "it is frightful for the poor little one to go without shoes when the weather is so cold. And it is still worse not to have either slippers or shoes to put before him while he sleeps on this of all evenings, so that the Christ child might have a place to put something in to comfort his misery."

Carried away by his good heart, Wolff drew off the wooden shoe from his right foot and softly put it before the sleeping boy. Then, as best he could, hopping on one foot, soaked with snow water, footsore and forlorn, he returned to his aunt's house.

"Look at him, the good for nothing!" cried the old woman, full of fury upon seeing him return with but one shoe.

"What have you done with your other shoe, you little, miserable young one?"

Wolff did not know how to lie, and though he trembled and stammered with fright he tried to relate his adventure.

But the old woman broke out into gruff, frightful laughter. "So monsieur unshoes for beggars! So monsieur strips off his covering for a barefoot! This is a fine way to do. Oh, well, I will leave the remaining shoe in the fireplace tonight, and the Christ child will put in it something to whip you with in the morning. I will answer for it. And tomorrow you shall pass the day upon dry bread and water, and we will see if the next time you will give your shoes to the first beggar that comes along."

The wicked woman, having given the child two blows, made him go up to the attic, where under the eaves he climbed into his hard cot, but he was comforted with the sleep of the innocent, though in his sorrow he had soaked his scanty pillow with bitter tears.

The next morning, when the old aunt was awakened by the cold, she descended to her lower room.

Oh, marvel! She saw the great chimney full of sparkling playthings, bags of magnificent bonbons, riches of all sorts, and in front of that wealth of treasure the shoe that her nephew had given the sleeping child. It was close beside its mate, which she had left there, intending to put therein a bundle of whips before calling Wolff.

Now, when he ran to her, awakened by her cries and in ecstasies at seeing the beautiful gifts of the Christ child, the attention of both was called to a noise in the street. They ran to learn what was the matter and saw all the gossips of the neighborhood assembled at the fountain in the public square.

"Oh, a very pleasant thing has happened, and a very extraordinary," they were saying.

"All the rich people's children, whose parents wished to surprise them by suspending from trees the most beautiful gifts, had found nothing but whips in their shoes. The beautiful things had all disappeared."

Then the old woman and the child, remembering the marvelous presents in their chimney place, were full of fright.

Suddenly there was seen approaching Father Zwingh, the benevolent faced priest.

Behind the bench at the church door in the same place where on the previous evening a child clothed in white, but with naked feet in spite of the great cold, had rested his sleeping head, the priest had just found a circle of gold imbedded in the hard stone.

All the bystanders crossed themselves devoutly, comprehending that the beautiful child who had dropped asleep there and who had near him the carpenter's tools was Jesus of Nazareth, who had become again for one hour such as he was when he labored in the house of his earthly parents, Mary and Joseph.

They bowed before the miracle which the good God wished to perform to recompense the confidence and charity of a child.

"Ah, it was good," said the people, "to have the poor and innocent rewarded and the rich and contemptuous punished!" — Translation From Francis Coppee in Romance.

A Broken Thigh.

On Tuesday, Christmas day, a son of Mr. Michael Barry, of Kinmount, was admitted to the St. Joseph's hospital with a broken thigh. The young child, who arrived on the noon train with his father, was removed in a hack and the hospital physician, Dr. McGrath, attended the patient.

Telfordian Temperature Topics

Wednesday, Dec. 24.—At this morning's observation the therometer indicated 8 degrees above zero, with a continuance for some time of a low temperature, but not much of a storm and no likelihood of sleighing for New Year's.—THOMAS TELFORD.

The Ottawa Daily Journal, Dec. 8th, has this to say about the Mark Bros. Co.:—"Standing room only was the sign displayed by the Marks Bros. Co. last night when the curtain went up on the Gold King. This company has done the largest business of any repeater company that played in Ottawa this season." Bradburn's Opera House, week Dec. 31 to Jan. 5. Admission, 10c.; reserved seats, 15c.

'Xmas Business.

The merchants generally seem well satisfied with the Christmas business. The weather was suitable for shopping and on Saturday and Monday the stores that had 'Xmas goods for sale did a satisfactory business. Some who were remembered by friends on Tuesday will reciprocate, no doubt, on New Year's and the season's business will be, all round, fairly satisfactory to those who made special efforts to meet the demands for holiday goods.

Christmas at the C.P.R.

Through Mrs. Paton, the members of the W. C. T. U. presented the local train men and station hands at the C. P. R. yesterday with a Christmas cake of huge proportion and delicate flavour. The men greatly appreciated the gift. During the afternoon Mr. W. B. Bamford was given a testimonial as to the esteem in which he is held by the railway boys, when they presented him with a handsome pair of beaver gauntlets.

Separate School Trustees.

The nominations for Separate School trustees were made to-day in the Central school, Murray street, as follows: Messrs. R. Sheehy, Thos. Doris, M. H. LeHane and M. Quinlan. No other nominations were made, consequently these gentlemen were duly elected by acclamation. Messrs. Sheehy, LeHane and Quinlan were members of last year's board. Mr. Doris, the new member, takes the place of Mr. T. Kelly, who retires.

Caught Knapping.

Little Lake was covered with skaters yesterday, but the sport was a little risky, the water being open in the current of the river and the middle portion of the lake. One Peterborough young man was caught Knapping and failed to put on the brakes promptly enough and slid into the open water, but got out without much trouble. But a lad named Richard Castle had a little closer call. He, too, slid into the open water, and but for the prompt help of Master Jack Eano, would have possibly stayed there. The water was slightly chilly for comfortable bathing.

St. Luke's Church.

The Christmas services of St. Luke's Church were bright and hearty, and the number of communicants at both 8.00 and 10.30 a.m. shewed a considerable increase over last year. The decorations consisted of the usual wreathing, with chancel screen bearing the motto in silver letters on scarlet cloth, "Glory to God in the Highest." The pulpit bears the mottoes "Unto us a Child is born," and "Unto us a Son is given," and the Font, "One Son, One Father, One Baptism." In the Chancel window is a banner with the word "Emmanuel," and on either side the wall is panelled with a framework of gothic pattern covered with hemlock wreaths. The choir was large and the "Te Deum" by Dykes, and the anthem "Sing O Heavens" by Clare, were well rendered.

It seems that Mr. Herb Kent is making even electricity "hustle" in the far west. Vancouver is now connected with Seattle, Tacoma and other cities by telephone. The Vancouver Daily News-Advertiser, Dec. 19, says: "To-day Manager Kent leaves for the Kootenay country and will first establish an exchange at Three Forks. The different mines in the neighborhood will be connected and it is expected that it will prove a great boon. Nelson and Kaslo have exchanges at present and these will be inspected by Mr. Kent and possibly improved. He expects to be away a couple of months or so."

CHRISTMAS IN ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor Conducts Service.

At the early hour of 5.30 a.m. the Christmas services were commenced at St. Peter's Cathedral by a High Mass, Rev Archdeacon Casey officiating, Fathers Scollard and Collins assisting as deacons. The church was beautifully and tastefully decorated and was perfectly in harmony with the solemn service. The edifice was crowded at this early hour, as well as at all subsequent masses until Grand High Mass at 10.30. His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Fathers Scollard and Collins, pontificated in full Canonicals and pronounced the Papal Benediction on the assembled congregation. Rev. Archdeacon Casey preached an eloquent sermon on the birth of our Lord and Redeemer and graphically contrasted tha poverty of His birth with His high mission upon earth, the salvation of mankind. Many object lessons of humility and piety he drew from the early life of our Saviour, and with an earnest appeal to the faithful to receive the new-born Saviour into their hearts in a devout and sincere manner, coupled with a wish to the congregation for all the blessings of this 'Xmas tide, he concluded an oration both instructive and exhortative. His Lordship at the conclusion of High Mass, in a few gracious remarks, wished his congregation the blessings and graces of 'Xmas. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. R. J. Hiller, rendered Concone's mass in F. at the early mass, solos being taken by Misses Minnie Hurley, L. Hurley and K. Simons. At ten o'clock mass Lambillotti's Grande Solemnelle mass was rendered for the first time in Peterborough. The execution of this difficult composition was such that it reflects the greatest possible credit on the choir. The fugue movement in the "Gloria" was perfect, as also the piano passages of the chorus in the Credo, showing the current bass solo to great advantage. The solos were cleverly taken by Miss Minnie Hurley, Miss K. Simons, 1st sopranos; Mrs. Ball, Miss L. Hurley, 2nd soprano; Mrs. J. Lynch, Miss L. Mahoney, altos: Mr. R. J. Hiller, tenor; Mr. A. Hurley, Mr. J. Picard, bass.

Mr. R. J. Hiller during the offertory, sang Adams' beautiful hymn, "Noel," in both English and French, in splendid voice and expression, which the well balanced chorus ably assisted.

"Adeste Fideles" was sung beautifully at both masses by Miss Minnie Hurley.

Vespers and Solemn Benediction was celebrated at 7 p. m., His Lordship officiating. Father Casey preached the sermon. The choir rendered some excellent music, Lambillotti's beautiful "Lauda Sion" was sung with great spirit and precision, followed by Rossis "Grand Magnificat." Mr. R. J. Hiller sang in good taste Roseeivig's "O Salutaris," and a trio, "Tantum Ergo," by Lambillotti, sung by Miss M. Hurley, solo soprano; Mr. R. J. Hiller, tenor, and Mr. Albert Hurley, bass, brought a day of unusual solemnity and rejoicing to a close. The choir of St. Peter's are to be congratulated on the success of the production of Lambillotes' difficult mass, a composition which is rarely handled, and, on account of its difficulties, only by the largest choirs in the country. Miss K. Hurley presided at the organ and rendered some fine work in her introductional and recessional selections.

WEDDING BELLS.

M'CLELLAND—PATTEN.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mr. John Patten, of North Monaghan, when at eight o'clock in the evening his second daughter, Miss Merton Patten, was united in marriage to Mr. Leonard McClelland, of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. McClelland, of Havelock, the bridesmaid being Miss Ella Patten, sister of the bride, and the groomsman Mr. Harry McClelland. Miss Maggie Patten was the maid-of-honour for the occasion and the bride was given away by her father.

Although there were about forty guests present all were either the relatives or most immediate friends of the young couple. A great many beautiful presents were received as the contracting parties were most popular and had many friends, both in the town and county. Mr. and Mrs. McClelland will reside in Monaghan.

JACKSON-KIMBALL.

Yesterday Rev. J. J. Rae performed a Christmas wedding ceremony at the parsonage, Reid street. Mr. Geo. Jackson, of Havelock, was united in marriage to Miss Eva May Kimball, town. The bride was assisted by Miss Ella Paton of North Monaghan, and Mr. Thos. Lush, town, supported the groom during the interesting ordeal.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

To the Sec'y W.C.T.U., Peterborough:

DEAR MADAM,—I am requested by the station and train staff of the Grand Trunk Railway at this point to convey to you their grateful acknowledgement of the thoughtful courtesy of your society in placing for their use a rich and beautiful Christmas cake which I can assure you was a most enjoyable treat to them.

Wishing you and the noble society which you represent every success in the laudable cause in which you are so faithfully and zealously working, believe me to be,

Sincerely Yours,

DEATH OF MISS POLLY LYTLE.

A Sudden Shock Causes Her Decease—An Army Funeral.

The death of Miss Polly Lytle, daughter of Mr. Thomas Lytle, took place yesterday at the family residence, 243 Hunter street. Miss Lytle had been ill for some time and the shock engendered by the fact that on Saturday her father's residence took fire and she had to be moved very hurriedly is supposed to have shortened her life very considerably.

As Miss Lytle was a member of the Salvation Army, the funeral will take place under the auspices of that organization at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

The corps and band will assemble at the house, when the cortege will proceed to the barracks, where a service will be held. Interment will afterwards take place at Little Lake Cemetery. A memorial service will be held in the barracks on Sunday evening next.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE.

Y. M. C. A. Buildings in Albany, N. Y., Destroyed—Other Damages.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 26.—One of the most valuable business blocks in the city narrowly escaped complete destruction by fire last night. It broke out in the Y. M. C. A. building on the corner of North Pearl and Stuben streets shortly after 7 o'clock. There was a high northwest wind blowing and the flames were quickly beyond control. The block is composed of the Kenmore hotel owned by the McNaughton estate of this city; three large structures owned by the Pruyn estate and the Y. M. C. A. building, the gift of J. B. Jermain. The Y. M. C. A. building is located on the northwest corner of the block so that the direction of the wind was the only thing that saved the block. The damage was as follows: Y. M. C. A. building $40,000; Pruyn estate $10,000; Kenmore hotel damage $3,000; H. P. Dickinson cloak and fur store $15,000; Singer Sewing Machine Co. $8,000.

They Point the Same Road.

QUEBEC, Dec. 26.—Monsignor O'Reilly, of New York, while preaching in the Sillery church, repudiated Father Rossbach's sermon, which the latter delivered in St. Patrick's church on the occasion of the requiem mass in memory of Sir John Thompson. In his remarks Father Rossbach slighted the different denominations of the Protestant religion by saying before many Protestants that if Sir John Thompson was to return to life he would prove that all religions except the Roman Catholic church were frauds. Monsignor O'Rielly said he spoke on behalf of the ecclesiastical authorities, the clergy and laity.

Newfoundland's Alternative.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Times, during the course of an article on Newfoundland, says that to grant the loan of £1,900,000, which has been asked for by the colony, would be "cruel kindness which it would be impossible to concede without the fullest enquiry." The Times adds: "If the choice lies between insolvency and the surrender of their constitution, it is well that the alternative be faced without delay."

Mrs. Lydia Van Finklestein Mountford.

Some pronounbe it "Ek se Homo" and others "Ek Ke Homo." Both are correct, one being English and the other Latin, so that it matters not which way we use, provided, we are on hand in good time on Thursday evening to hear the celebrated Mrs. Mountford give her lecture. By competent critics it is pronounced a masterpiece. The plan is at Stratton's Book Store, and the seats are going fast. Secure yours in time. 35 cents for reserved seats. General admission 25 cts.

MARK SQUEET SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

The Scholars Hold a Merry Time Last Evening—A Popular Young Lady.

The scholars of the Mark street Sunday school held their annual Christmas entertainment last night in Ashburnham, when a most enjoyable time was spent in listening to the rendition of a most interesting programme, and in the distribution of gifts.

The entertainment was opened by the singing of a hymn, followed by a prayer from the pastor, Rev. Mr. Beer, after which the following programme was presented:

Recitation	Lillie Dawson
Solo	Miss Nellie Hooper
Dialogue	"Boots"
Chorus	Eight Girls
Dialogue	"An Unsuccessful Advance."
Duet	Misses Courtney
Singing	By the School
Dialogue	"Taking the Census."
Recitation	Master Hopkins
Mouth Organ Solo	Bertie Peters
Recitation	Ethel Henthorne
Dialogue	"Nature vs. Education."
Exercise	Six Girls and their Teacher
Dialogue	"The Rehearsal."
Chorus	Eight Girls
Recitation	Master Munro
Distribution of Presents	Santa Claus
Closing Hymn
Dismissed with Benediction

Amongst the gifts distributed was that of a silver watch and gold fob to Miss Trucie Kindred, who has for the past several years given her services gratuitously as organist, and who is now retiring from the choir. Miss Kindred is most deservedly popular amongst the scholars and the presentation was one which pleased all greatly.

CHRISTMAS DAY SERVICE IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Edifice Most Beautifully Decorated For the Occasion.

St. John's church decorations for Christmas were particularly profuse and attractive this year. The pillars were all wound with long wreaths of evergreens, while graceful festoons of the same material hung in artistically arranged loops between the pillars. Wreaths of cedar encircled the windows and were draped over the entrance door, while the beautiful white altar cloths formed a most becoming background in contrast to the delicate green of the cedar in the chancel. The window sills were prettily arranged for the occasion with a ground of green upon which were placed appropriate emblems or Scriptural texts in lettering of white or silver. The trellis work of cedar enclosing the chancel was particularly admired, lending a most pretty effect to the entire surroundings.

Services were held during the day at 7.30, 8.30 and 11 o'clock in the morning, and at 12.15 o'clock in the afternoon the attendance being very large. Rev. J. C. Davidson delivered a most appropriate sermon at the eleven o'clock service. The music throughout the day was specially prepared by the choir, under the direction of Rev. C. B. Kenrick and was rendered in a manner most harmonious and pleasing.

BRIDGENORTH WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. M. Succe and Miss Maggie P. Moore.

Bridgenorth is fast losing its bachelors and maidens. Another wedding took place on Christmas day, when Mr. M. Succee of Selwyn was united in marriage to Miss Maggie P. Moore, youngest daughter of Mr. G. J. Moore, of Bridgenorth. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father by Rev. Geo. Claire, Methodist minister. The bride, who was becomingly attired in cream costume, was assisted by Miss Roberts, town, while Mr. C. H. Mann, of Bridgenorth, supported the groom. The bride was the recipient of a fine array of presents. At the wedding dinner a large number of guests enjoyed the sumptuous repast provided. At the conclusion of the wedding festivities the happy couple retired to their home in Selwyn, where their numerous friends wish that they may enjoy a long life of wedded happiness and prosperity.

MEDICAL MEN.

Are Interested in the Discovery of a Remedy for Bright's Disease.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—The subject of kidney disorders and diseases is one receiving special attention from the medical profession just now, probably owing to the fact that a disease of these organs caused the death of Russia's Czar. Among other points attractive to the profession is the case of Dr. McCormick, of Richmond, Que., a practitioner well known throughout Quebec and Ontario. He has lately published a letter announcing that he was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This case has a peculiar interest for medical men because until these pills were offered for sale, this disease was universally considered incurable. That belief is now thoroughly exploded by the success of this remedy, to which numerous victims of the disease owe their lives and sound health.

THE DAY IN GEORGE STREET.

A Bright and Cheerful Service.

At the union Christmas service held in the George street Methodist church yesterday morning there was a large congregation present. Rev. W. R. Young conducted the service and Rev. J. J. Rae preached an excellent and appropriate sermon from the text, "For God so loved the world, etc." After the first lesson the choir sang in fine style a Christmas anthem. "Rejoice and be Glad," Miss Vina Belleghem taking the solo in good voice.

CHANDOS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A meeting of the Municipal Council of Chandos was held on Dec. 15 in No. 2 School House. W. Hales, reeve, in the chair, councillors all present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. D. Anderson, treasurer of the municipality, presented his annual report, which was adopted, and the clerk authorized to have 100 copies printed. The Council refused to take any action in the matter of procuring special legislation to legalize debentures. The following orders were drawn on the treasurer: A. Mace, $1.19; M. Henry, $1, for overcharge in assessment; R. Huble, $13, for road allowance. R. Huble was allowed $5 extra on road allowance on condition that he allows the road to remain on its present site. Sec.-Treas. S.S. No. 6, $14, to reimburse said section for expenses of delegates to Peterborough to effect separation of municipality; J. A. McColl, $10, services as auditor, That the treasurer be instructed to pay the several S.S. the municipal levy of 1894. F. Nundel, $6.50, road work; S. Bullied, $5 road work. The nominations for Reeve and Councillors to be held at the residence of G. A. Bullied. H. Caldwell was appointed Deputy Returning Officer for polling sub-division No. 1, and Charles Prouty for No. 3. By-law No. 7 passed its several readings, authorizing the reeve and treasurer to borrow the sum of $600 for the purpose of paying the several school sections the municipal levy of 1894. Stephen Scott and F. Garret were authorized to work out the present year's taxes on their road. Orders were drawn on the treasurer in favour of Mr. R. Gerard for $6.28, and Mrs. M. Bird for $5 rebate in taxes. The council then adjourned to meet again at Apsley, Dec. 22nd.

Minutes adjourned meeting held at clerk's office, Dec. 22nd—The following orders were drawn on the treasurer: P. Downing, $4.56, for over assessment; D. O'Brien, $2, road work; John Manogue, $1, lumber; A. Palmatier, $2, road work; W. Hales, $15; salary account, $13; Board of Health, $4.50; M. Couch; $15 salary account, $1.50; Board of Health, $1.50; John Bullied, $15, salary; Board of Health, $4.50; Alex. Trotter, $15, salary account, $1.50; A. Doxsee, $9; balance of salary account $2.50. The treasurer was authorized to pay all orders on which a balance was due out of the funds of this municipality. Mr. D. Phillips was allowed to work out the taxes charged against him for 1894 on the road leading to his place.

THE BABCOCK TESTER.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—I see by the report of the Warminster Cheese Factory that Mr. S. R. Payne vents his ample stock of eloquence and proceeds with cool deliberation to mutilate an extract taken from the pen of an abler mind than his own, all to laud the Babcock Test, which he appears to think is the only just and equitable way of dividing the dividends. He thinks because a pound of cheese was made from one quarter of a pound less milk than in 1892, and because the quality of the cheese was better, that the Babcock Test is entitled to the credit. This is not the case because it is a rare thing for a factory to have a pound of cheese made from the same quantity of milk any two seasons of its existence. As to the superior quality of the cheese—if a pound was made from one quarter of a pound less milk there must have been more butter fat, consequently better cheese. If Mr. Payne thinks the statements he has made are conclusive evidence that the Babcock system should be adopted, he must be inclined to jump at conclusions.

Mr. Payne describes certain articles which he saw in the paper as nonsense. I am not in any way interested in the cheese business but I read the articles referred to and consider they have never been successfully contradicted. The people will believe them nonsense when they are proved such, and that is likely to be some time, as just as gallant knights as Mr. Payne is likely to prove, have entered the lists as champions of the Babcock Test, and have gone down unhorsed and been poinarded on the ground. I would advise every advocate of the system to remain quiet as nothing but discomfiture awaits them if they move.

* * Thanking you Mr. Editor for space in your valuable paper.

I remain,
Yours Truly,
FAIRPLAY.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

When the Smith boys decide on giving a concert they go in with such a hearty good will that it is sure to be a success. The people of Smith are to be congratulated on having such a fine band and should do the utmost in their power to support it.

THE ONTARIO CREAMERIES' ASSOCIATION

The Meeting at Chesley This Year.

The tenth annual meeting of the Ontario Creameries' Association will be held at Chesley, Bruce County, on Tuesday, Jan. 8th, 1895. This important organization held its convention in Belleville last year. This year the place of meeting is in Bruce County, about the most distant point of the older Ontario. It seems to be a somewhat out-of-the-way place, but it is probable that the place was selected in order distribute (from year to year) the local benefits arising from the presence of the annual convention.

THE CELEBRATION OF CHRISTMAS TIDE.

HOW THE DAY WAS SPENT IN TOWN.

AT OUR PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

The Hospitals Were Both Profusely Decorated, as Were the Barnardo Home and the Peterborough Protestant Home—Hundreds Were Skating on the Lake.

Christmas day was spent in various ways in the town, yesterday, but in the afternoon the majority of the younger portion of the population was in evidence out on the lake skating. The ice was in good condition and there was plenty of it, so although hundreds engaged in this favorite pastime, there was no crowding. The handle of the rink door was rattled in vain, as good ice had not formed sufficiently inside to enable the management to open up for the day. Although it was late in the evening before the snow fell, it came in time to prevent the Christmas being called a "green" one, and by eight o'clock the cutters and sleighs were dashing through the streets to the merry accompaniment of the jingling bells.

THE NICHOLLS' HOSPITAL

was most beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags, bunting, evergreens, Chinese lanterns and letterings of silver and gilt. The main hall way was a mass of evergreens, while a large Union Jack was becomingly draped over the archway leading into the hall running down to the men's ward. The passage leading in the opposite direction was prettily decorated with large festoons of blue and white bunting, and the doctors' office was a bower of evergreens, holly and mistletoe, while on the wall hung a banner of white bearing the legend in silver letters "Welcome to the Medical Staff."

Of the thirty-five inmates at present in the hospital about a score sat down to the Christmas dinner together and dined royally on turkey and plumpudding. At five o'clock in the morning the staff of nurses went from ward to ward singing Christmas carols and a few hours later the Y.M.C.A. orchestra and male quartette kindly remembered the sick and spent several hours in playing and singing through the wards. The patients were greatly delighted when, during the afternoon, Rev. C. B. Kenrick brought over the St. John's choir boys and held a song service. Rev. Mr. Clementi and Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., sent turkeys to the hospital which were greatly appreciated, as were the scrap books kindly sent by the St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E.

The corridors of

looked enchanting by reason of the profuse decorations which were so tastefully arranged by the sisters. In the main hall just in front of the large entrance door stood a tiny crib of evergreens, in which lay an image of the infant. Around the walls hung scrolls and wreaths of evergreens, together with mottoes and verses appropriate for the Christmas season. The decoration of the chapel was magnificent, the adornments of the chapel being especially worthy of note. Potted and cut flowers were in every nook and corner and festoons of evergreens hung on the walls in pretty designs.

Rev. Father Collins sang three masses in the chapel during the morning and at noon no less than forty-five of the poor of the town fared sumptuously on turkey, plum pudding, etc., which had been furnished by kind friends in anticipation of the need.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and Venerable Archdeacon Casey visited the hospital in the afternoon, when the Bishop preached a timely sermon, apropos of the occasion, to those assembled and pronounced the benediction. Gifts of tobacco were distributed by the Bishop and Archdeacon amongst the old men present, while the old ladies were regaled with dainties. Christmas Day in St. Joseph's Hospital will remain green in the memory of the Roman Catholic poor of the town for many a day, as none other but pleasant memories can be recalled of the pleasant hours during which every effort was exerted to make them enjoy themselves.

THE COUNTY GAOL,

of course, was not decorated for the festive season, but the day was marked by the provision of an extra good dinner for the fifteen prisoners serving terms at present. The menu included roast goose and plum pudding and the prisoners partook of it in the different wards wherein they are confined. Rev. C. B. Kenrick conducted a service in the afternoon.

The little ones in

THE BARNARDO HOME

enjoyed their Christmas far more than the average child, as through the kindness of Miss Woodgate and her young lady assistants every effort was made to lead the poor little waifs to forget the many miles which lay between them and the motherland. The Home was beautifully decorated with evergreens relieved with rosettes, etc., of prettily tufted paper. There are between eighty and ninety children in the Home at present, ranging in age from seven to twelve years and the long schoolroom was utilized for the occasion and turned into a dining room, where at one huge board the children all assembled for their Christmas dinner of turkey and plum pudding. In the evening the little ones once more gathered in the school room, where the mammoth Christmas tree was divested of its heavy burden of dolls, picture books and cards, amid the merry shout and joyous laughter of the thoroughly delighted children. There was a present for each and every one and a good one, too, at that.

AT THE CONVENT.

At the Convent Congregation de Notre Dame there were no special decorations or observance of the day, except in the chapel which was beautifully decorated in the usual Christmas style. There were no special services in the chapel beyond the private devotions of the Sisters.

There are at present sixteen inmates in the

PETERBOROUGH PROTESTANT HOME

and yesterday the old people enjoyed the day in talking over reminiscences of other Christmases, quite as much as many of the younger people in the town. The halls were all prettily hung with wreaths and festoons of evergreens and presented a most pleasing appearance. There was to have been a service during the afternoon, but owing to pressing engagements, Rev. C. B. Kenrick found it impossible to attend. The inmates are all enjoying good health and appear to be as happy as possible.

AN INTERESTING RELIGIOUS RITE IN DOURO.

Ordination Services.

The Reverend Patrick O'Leary will be ordained a priest, next Sunday, at 10.30, in St. Joseph's, Douro. The officiating prelate will be the Most Reverend Dr. O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough. The sermon will be preached by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, rector St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough. Father Kelly extends a hearty invitation to the general public to be present on this interesting occasion. Those of different religious belief will be specially welcome.

YOUNG'S POINT.

Quite a number of our villagers are taking advantage of the excellent skating on the lakes and bay those days, and all overs of such find it great sport "to get their skates on."

The weather still continues excellent. All is necessary is a little snow for sleighing and it would make times a little livlier for New Year's.

Miss Ella Scollard, of Ennismore, is visiting friends here.

Mr. H. J. Kearney, who has been in Chicago for the past two years, has returned home to visit his parents during the Xmas holidays.

Mr. F. Condon, of Saginaw, Mich., is paying a visit with his cousins here.

Mr. C. Young, who has been confined to the house with a severe cold, we are pleased to see is able to be around again.

Mrs. J. Bleutt, sr., of the village, is dangerously ill.

Mr. Richard Heard, blacksmith, is confined to his room these days, ill.

Mr. W. Brooks and wife, of Harwood, are spending the holidays at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. P. A. Kearney.

Mr. F. McMovory was in our village this week, seeing after the interests of the Rathburn Company.

Major G. M. Bellasis' new summer resort on South Beach is fast approaching completion.

Mr. W. J. Young has quite a number of men employed this winter taking out timber from Deer Bay.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

You Are Lucky

If you have waited until after the rush is over before purchasing your GLOVES, HOSIERY, UNDERWEAR, CORSETS, SCARFS, TIES, HANDKERCHIEFS, MOCCASINS and other Winter Goods for Ladies' and Gentlemen's wear. Why? Because

JAS. McCOMB

Has decided to make a complete sacrifice of $6,000 worth of Gloves and $4,000 worth of other goods, which must be sold immediately, regardless of profit. These Winter Goods can't be held over any longer. We want the money more than the goods, and we must have it. Therefore, we have commenced a positive and deliberate which will be continued until the entire stock is sold. Actual cost of the goods is all we want. People who are waiting for After-season Bargains—Appetizing Bargains—Bargains that won't fade—can get them now in down-right earnest.

NO PROFIT SALE

JAS. McCOMB,

Glove Manufacturer and Ladies' and Gents' Outfitters.

IT SHARPENS the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor; all the organs of the body are roused to healthy action by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. More than all, the Liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood,—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back. You pay only for the good you get.

Catarrh is cured by using Dr. Sage's Remedy.

DICK HUNT'S LUCK.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.]

"'Tain't no use," he muttered, "'tain't no derned airthly use ter try fer ter be decent. A man might jest as well be an ornery cuss and done with it. A decent feller don't never git on in this world. It's only mean, low down, outrageous cattle that gits on."

After this outburst Dick Hunt sat down in his log cabin door and fixed his eyes on the lofty wall of mountains rising, inexorable as fate, before time. Peak after peak lifted its haughty, pine crested head into the sapphire sky. In the cold light of the December afternoon glittered the drifting wreaths of snow about their bold, defiant brows. Icy, remote, pitiless, terrible, they frowned down upon the man who sat there alone, wondering in his dumb, helpless rage what it all meant—why he couldn't "git on" as other men did.

Dick Hunt's ill luck had become proverbial in the San Juan country. "As cussed onlucky as Dick Hunt" was a comparison often bandied about in saloons and eating houses. Every dweller in that region knew the silent, lonely man who had lived for years in the desolate cabin on the windswept side of Lost Chance gulch, close by Ophir trail. Everybody laughed at him for a visionary. Dick had spent ten years locating claims. The mountains were marked with his signposts, rude, wooden crosses, each in turn marking a fresh grave of his hopes.

Dick saw other men prosper—"tin horn" gamblers, who cheated the miners out of their dearly earned wages; dancehouse proprietors in the camps who grew rich out of the blood and tears of wretched women; scamps, vagabonds, blacklegs succeeded where he failed—he who had always tried to lead a decent life and do the "square thing" by his fellows.

"What's the meaning of it?" he demanded furiously of the mountains, his only companions, his only friends. But the mountains turned, as ever, their solemn, sphinxlike faces toward him and made no answer.

Strange, wild thoughts come to men in solitude. It is not good for man to be alone. And to poor, disheartened, lonely Dick Hunt, away up there near timber line, in that tremendous, appalling wilderness, evil thoughts came trooping these days, thrusting their seductive faces close to his and indicating with tempting fingers a downward path.

Money — money — was what Dick wanted. He was tired of digging and delving for the gold which ever beckoned and allured and then mockingly vanished at the soun of his pick and shovel.

There are other ways to get money besides working like a dog all your days. Dick had heard the ways and means canvassed too many times not to be well up in details. Had he not rubbed elbows many a night with men whose lips could tell tales of violence and plunder and afterward comparative ease? Those fellows did not toil in the mountains year in and out, enduring all sorts of privations and hardships. Not they. They lived in Silverton and other camps and were feared and respected of men. There was Shorty Young, for instance. Everybody knew he was a thug and a cutthroat. Did anybody have any doubts about his being the leader of the gang that robbed the Hesperus stage and shot the driver in cold blood? Of course not. And Shorty Young was a power in the San Juan and compelled the admiration of all. There were Tony Drew and Jere Burkhardt. Everybody knew that Tony was a "tin-horn" gambler, and yet because he was always flush he was a favorite and had a mighty soft time of it. And Jere Burkhardt had shot an inoffensive Chinaman, and yet see how he got out! No, there was no use in being square. It didn't pay, after all.

Twilight deepened into dusk, and one by one, the cold, white, glittering stars swung out above the cold, white, glittering peaks. Then the pale moon slowly drifted up from behind the mountain ramparts and sent a flood of light down Lost Chance gulch and athwart the Ophir trail.

And Dick Hunt looked down the trail and saw again that alluring, beckoning, seductive procession tossing maddening faces in the moonlight and heard their diabolical whis-perings: "Why work any more? Why not take the shortest, surest way to fortune? Fortune is coming up the Ophir trail to you. Seize her, capture her, hold her by her throat and compel her to be yours."

"By God, that's what I'll do!" said Dick Hunt.

He rose, went into his cabin and lighted his lamp, the lamp which many a night had been a beacon to the slight, delicate boy who carried the mail across the mountains over the Ophir trail. Dick had always liked that lad. Someway, when he had seen him riding by on his sure footed, plodding, patient little burro; when the rider had looked up to the cabin and swung his sombrero to the lonely miner, Dick had caught in the mirror of the postboy's personality some fleeting, ghostly shadow of his own lost youth. Glimpses of days long dead, days when life had been one vast possibility; when hope had shone not like an ignis fatuus, but like a signal fire on a mountain top; when all the world had been his, flashed before him. He had come to look for the boy's approach as an event. He liked to hear his cheery whistle and halloo, to answer back some rough, good natured greeting, and then to watch him climb the range—farther, farther, a speck, out of sight. He felt an interest in the young chap almost as if he belonged to him. He had grown into his life, as it were.

And tonight he had made up his mind to murder him!

Yes, that was the only way to get anything in this blasted country. He had plodded like a burro just long enough. He knew that Jack Fanchot, the postman, would carry next morning the weekly mail over the range. He knew, moreover, that there would be several thousand dollars in the mailbag—Christmas presents that lucky prospectors were sending away to their friends. He smiled grimly as he thought that certain people would wait long for their Christmas present this year. By nightfall he would be in Silverton, and then—

He had no definite plan. The lust for gold had simply overpowered him. His only impulse was to steal, kill and get away. Dick Hunt was for the moment a madman.

Of course there would be no difficulty in managing the boy. Dick was twice his size and then coming upon him and surprising him—oh, yes, it would be dead easy! All this while he was eating his hasty supper and clearing away the table for operations. He cleaned and reloaded his six shooters and put them under his flabby pillows. Then, taking a piece of coarse white cloth, he constructed a frightfully grotesque mask and crammed it in the pocket of the coat

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—bleed and fester; form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

DICK HUNT'S LUCK.

he meant to wear on the morrow. When his ghastly preparations were finished, he lay down and slept.

He wakened at daylight, got up, cooked his bacon and flapjacks, made his coffee and tried to eat. But someway the food stuck in his throat. After breakfast he buckled on his belt and pistols, put on the long coat he brought from the east ten years back, drew his slouch hat well down over his restless, fiery eyes, and with the stealthy tread of a wild beast crept through the cedars and pines down the trail.

When Jack Fanchot came whistling up the trail, leading his heavily laden burro and striking listlessly with his whip at the sagebrush, he was suddenly confronted by a masked man who sternly ordered him to throw up his hands. Hesitating an instant, a blow stretched him almost senseless on the ground. As in a hideous dream, he saw the man stoop over him and take deliberate aim at his temple with a six shooter.

But he did not shoot.

He suddenly paused, and almost with a groan said aloud, "No, hang me ef I kin do it." Then, taking a coil of rope from his pocket, the robber tied the half conscious boy to a tree, rendering him utterly powerless to move. "I kin finish the job later," he muttered as with a vicious jab of his knife he ripped open the mailbag.

BOWED HIS HEAD UPON HIS HANDS.

Dick Hunt quickly found the packages for which he was looking, and with an inarticulate sound thrust them in his pockets. He was about dropping the bag when he saw something which made him start.

Staring up at him from the pile of letters in the bag was his own name traced in a feeble, old fashioned hand. The sight of that handwriting almost stopped his heart. With a mighty effort he lifted the cheap yellow envelope and broke it open. The letter ran:

MY DEAR BOY—I cannot sleep for thinking of my son so far away. It has been so many long, dreary days since I heard from my Dick. Oh, my son, come home and gladden my eyes before I die. I am very feeble. I do not think I can live many years. I must see you once more. Never mind if you are not rich. Never mind if you have not succeeded in securing a great fortune. I love you just as much.

YOUR MOTHER.

The terrified boy, bound to the tree and watching his enemy through languid eyelids, expecting death every moment, saw a strange sight. The masked robber suddenly sank upon the ground, bowed his head upon his hands and burst into tears. A very storm of sobs shook his stalwart frame for a few seconds, and then there was silence.

What did Dick Hunt see? A little moss grown, weather beaten farmhouse way off in northern Illinois, morning glories climbing over the side porch and peeping in at the window, by whose side sat a woman, plain, old, wrinkled, waiting alone for the son who went away to seek his fortune and never came back.

He, the robber, the murderer, the coward, had one friend on earth who had not forgotten him, and who loved him "just as much" as if he were rich and powerful.

With a groan Dick Hunt rose suddenly, replaced the packages in the mailbag, went over to the wondering boy, released him and said gently: "My boy, I was right plumb on the road to hell, but an angel spoke to me. Forgive me ef ye kin. I'm goin ter put myself—mean, low down, ornery dog that I be—right in your hands. Ye kin give me up ter the law's quick as yer a mind ter. Only 'twill break one poor old woman's heart," and then Dick Hunt, thief, transformed into Dick Hunt, hero, took off his mask and stood with a humble, deprecating air before his boyish judge.

"Good God, Hunt, was it you?" cried the lad. "Why, man, I thought you were my friend!"

"I were," said Dick very gently, "I were. I reckon I went clean plumb crazy last night."

"Was that letter from your mother?" asked Jack.

"It were," said Dick. "She—she'd like ter hev me come home, but that's fer you ter say whether I'll go."

"Shut up, you fool!" said the boy, laughing and holding out a trembling hand. "Of course you'll go. I won't give you away. Let me see. I'll fix up some yarn. I'll say the burro brayed and scared the road agent off. Go home, of course! Be thankful you've got a home to go to. Go spend Christmas with your mother."

Dick Hunt raised his haggard face and looked at the boy. He tried to speak, but the words would not come.

"What is it, Hunt?" asked Jack.

The Mother Heart Touched

"I Believe SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Saved the Lives of Two of My Children."—Puny Children Grow Fat and Strong—Tired and Ailing Women Take on the BLOOM of EARLIER YEARS.

What will touch the mother heart more deeply than the illness of her little ones? She may suffer much herself, and women are sorely afflicted with many ills, but she will endure all this, however often, without a murmur; but there can be no disguising her anxiety when the little ones of the home are stricken down with sickness. And how many puny children there are! We talk of the bloom of youth, but thousands of children know not of it. Others may romp, but they are weaklings.

Mothers, would you have your loved ones strong and healthy? Would you enjoy good health yourself? Then use South American Nervine Tonic; there is no doubting its efficacious properties. Investigate from a scientific or a common sense point of view and you will find that nearly all disease has its start in the nerve centres of the body.

The mission of South American Nervine is to at once reach the nerve centres, which are to the whole body what the mainspring of the watch is to every other part of the timepiece. Science has made perfectly clear that the troubles that affect the individual organs of the body, have their seat in these nerve centres, so, without any wasteful experimenting, South American Nervine reaches out to the seat of the difficulty, and straightening out what is wrong there heals the whole body. Listen to what Mrs. H. Russell, Wingate, writes on this point: "I have used several bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and will say, I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down, and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly both improved on its use. I don't allow myself to be without some of it in my house. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors." It will certainly grant new life to all who are delicate, whether young, middle-aged, or old. Do not worry along with ill health, but dispel it, and brighten your lives by the immediate use of South American Nervine.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

"Mebbe you hain't got the cash to go with. If that's what's bothering you, why, here, I've got a little saved up, and you're welcome to it. You can pay me back if the Square Deal pans out," and he slipped the money into Dick's cold hand.

The sunlight quivered on the mountains, shot through the pines, and lighting on the boy's handsome face transfigured it for the moment into something almost celestial. At least it seemed so to poor old Dick as he looked gratefully and adoringly at the lad whose life he had meant to take and who in return was pressing the cup of life to his thirsting lips.

Silently the two men clasped hands in farewell. Dick watched Jack climb the range, a speck against the rose flushed peaks. Then the boy was lost to view, and Dick returned to his cabin and mechanically began packing up his poor traps, preparatory to going home.

At sundown two men galloped up to his cabin. "The sheriff!" said Dick, "Jack's given me up!"

A loud halloo summoned him to the door. He answered the call, firmly expecting arrest. But neither one of these well dressed fellows was the sheriff.

"Hello!" cried one with easy familiarity. "This Mr. Richard Hunt?"

"Yes, I'm Dick Hunt," was the reply.

"Well, we want to talk to you. Can we come in?"

"Certainly, strangers, and welcome."

The men dismounted and entered. The spokesman, a handsome, dashing, young fellow, went on: "I may as well speak right out, Mr. Hunt. My partner here and I want to buy the Square Deal, and we're perfectly willing to give you a square deal in the matter. I stand ready, Mr. Hunt, to hand you now tonight $40,000 for that claim."

"Say, Jim, you ought to have led up to it more gradually," said the other, sprinkling water in Dick's face. "The poor old duffer is thoroughly floored, you see. Feel better now, old man! Here, take a pull at this, and that'll fix you."

"But," stammered Dick after the stimulant had revived him, "but, gentlemen, the Square Deal hain't worth a d—n."

"Ain't, eh?" said the buyer. "Well, that's our risk. Here's your money, Hunt, if you want it," holding out a fat wad of bills.

* * * * * *

The day before Christmas the Widow Hunt sat alone in her kitchen reading her Bible. Devout, God fearing soul that she was, she felt that her heavenly Father had forgotten her in her old age.

AT HIS MOTHER'S FEET.

What was to become of her? The old farm was mortgaged to the hilt, and she was living then by sufferance of its owner. How soon would this patience be exhausted and she be sent to the county almshouse?

The shadows crept across the floor and deepened in the corners of the room. The sun sent one last ray of light over the earth he was leaving. It trembled across the porch of the old, weather beaten farmhouse, through the window, and glimmered like a halo about the gray head bowed in anguish in the dreary, lonely room. The sorrowing woman lifted her head and moved her lips as in prayer.

Suddenly a step rang up the walk; there was a bustle at the door; it opened; some one—a tall, sunburned, rough man—rushed in. He paused an instant at the sight of the little, slender, trembling figure which turned in the chair as he entered, at the wrinkled old face down which the tears were falling, then fell on his knees at his mother's feet and buried his head in her lap, while her thin hands fluttered over him in benediction and her voice broken by sobs murmured: "For this, my son, was dead and is alive again. He was lost and is found."

Was there ever another such Christmas as that of Dick Hunt and his old mother? He could not load the kitchen table with sufficient delicacies; he could not heap enough love and tenderness on his mother. And after the feast was over and the two had drawn their chairs up to the roaring fire, while Dick lighted his pipe, his mother eyed him closely and at last said: "Oh, Dick, my son, God has been so good to me in giving you back I ought not to have one selfish thought. But still I cannot help thinking that it will only be for a little while; that you will love and marry and leave me"—

"Mother," said Dick earnestly as he laid down his pipe, and turning toward her took her hand in his, "I shan't never marry. I shall stay with you as long as you live and make your last days comfortable. Then I shall go back ter my son out west."

"Your son!" gasped the old lady.

"Yes, my son—my adopted son, mother."

"Adopted, Dick?"

"Yes, mother. His name is Jack Fanchot, and he carries the mail right by my cabin over Ophir trail."

CHRISTMAS DAY CRIMES.

Fatal Occurrences Attending the Festive Season in the Republic.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 26.—A special from Gainesville, Fla., says: W. S. Johns, a prominent farmer who lives near this place, shot and killed a negro who attempted to ravish Mrs. Johns. Johns has not been arrested.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 26.—A special from Springfield, Ohio, says: Albert Lawson, a 16-year-old colored boy, was arrested for criminally assaulting the six-year-old daughter of Vincent Egi. At the police station the child's mother attacked the prisoner and would have killed him but for the intervention of officers.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Dec. 26.—A special from Latta, S.C., says: An attempt was made to wreck train No. 23 between Latta and Sellers. Cross ties were piled up in five different places on the track, but the engine succeeded in throwing them from the track. No damage was done.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 26.—A special from Lake City, Fla., says Jesse Cain, colored, shot and killed Alice Johnson also colored. White people are now guarding the jail to prevent the negroes from storming it and lynching Cain.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 26.—At Gainsville, Fla., a tramp known as "Texas" shot and killed a West Indian sailor named Perries. The murderer escaped.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 26.—A special from West Palm Beach, Fla., says: At a negro ball here Letta Dickson cut Joseph ine Johnston's throat, killing her almost instantly. The murderer escaped.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 26.—A special from Arcadia, Fla., says: John Haygood, a young white man, was shot and killed by Miles Ward, a policeman. Ward fled and posses are in pursuit. If he is caught he will be lynched.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 26.—Mrs. John Williams, of Ridgley, caused the arrest of her husband on a peace warrant two weeks ago and he was locked up in jail here for having threatened to kill her. Mrs. Williams relented and in order that her husband might spend Christmas out of jail, she induced her brother-in law, Thomas Pritchard, to go on his bond. Williams went to the home of Pritchard where his wife was staying and flourishing a butcher knife declared he would kill her. Pritchard sprang between the infuriated man and his wife and grabbed a shot-gun. Williams lunged at Pritchard with the knife and the latter fired. The top of Williams' head was blown off. Pritchard gave himself up.

EUFAULA, I.T., Dec 26.—J. F. Benedict, a farmer living at Bush Hill, near here, was assassinated at a dance at the place. Benedict was on the floor dancing when an unknown man stepped to the door and fired one shot and he fell to the floor dead.

NEW YORK, Dec 26.—Augusta Costa, 25 years old, an Italian living at 161 Bleecker street, was cut in the abdomen by a man known as Lucar, whose residence is unknown. The wounded man was taken to St. Vincent's hospital and will probably die. Lucar escaped.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 26.—August Birch, 18 years old, of this place, was found dead hanging in the ventilator of a freight car in the Allegheny Valley railroad yards at 9 o'clock last night. Edage Wood and Charle Cavanagh, who spent the day with Birch, were arrested, but they claim to know nothing of his death.

WASHINGTON, Ala., Dec. 26.—A special from Gadsden, Ala., says: Bob Higgins was shot and probably fatally wounded by Mrs. A. J. Dempsey. Mr. Dempsey was absent from home and Higgins, who was drunk, went to the house and tried to get in. Mrs. Dempsey, without opening the door, warned him several times to leave, and on his persisting to hammer on the door she placed a pistol against the door and fired. The ball entered Higgins' body.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 26.—Joseph Neisco, a Hungarian, was perhaps fatally stabbed in a fight by Stephen Muria. The men had quarrelled over a game of pool.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 26.—John Johnston, his wife Alice, Daniel Herron and wife, and George Cassell, all colored, spent Christmas at Johnston's home on Webster Ave. The time was spent in eating and drinking and toward evening the party became quarrelsome. Herron attempted to shoot Johnston. The latter's wife jumped between them to stop the fight and received a shot in her right side. She will die. Herron and wife ran away but later were arrested.

Wreck on the Pennsylvania Road.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 26.—The first section of the fast Philadelphia express on the Pennsylvania R.R. crashed under the rear end of an Altoona wrecking train at the lower end of the railroad yard two miles east of this city last night. The wreck was caused by the telegraph operator leaving two trains on the same block. No person on the passenger train was injured. The passenger engine telescoped the cabin car which demolished the tool car. James Dunn, of this city, aged 45, and married, who was sitting on a birth seat of the cabin was struck by the engine and instantly killed. Eight others are badly but not fataly injured. The injured men all reside in this city.

RACE TRACK TRAGEDY

Rube Miles, a Canadian Sport, Killed in a Quarrel.

SAID TO BE IN SELF-DEFENCE

His Murderer Gives Himself Up and Bears Evidence of Having Been Severely Handled—The Unfortunate Man is Said to be From Brantford.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Shortly after the races at Alexander Island were over Ruben Miles, of Canada, commonly known as "Big Rube," was shot and killed by Thomas Craven. The shooting took place in a saloon at Jackson City, just below the race track.

Both parties were friends and began skylarking while drinking. During the scuffle Craven was knocked down. He quickly regained his feet and ran behind the bar, where he procured a revolver. Taking aim, he fired, the ball penetrating Miles' left breast. The wound proved mortal, Miles dying while being taken in a carriage to a hospital. The dead man was trainer for J. J. Ryan, owner of Jim Lamb, who was recently ruled off for crooked work in attempting to blackmail Judge McMahon, owner of the horse Ponce de Leon, who won a selling race.

Craven held the crowd at bay for nearly ten minutes and then slipped away by a rear door and has not been captured.

In the afternoon Craven gave himself up to the police. He claims to have acted in self-defence and his appearance substantiates this claim. He said he was knocked down and kicked in the face and chest by Miles and he has a broken nose to show for the rough treatment he received. In addition to this his eye is black and his face terribly scarred and there is a foot, print on his shirt front.

The body of Miles was removed to Alexandria where the coroner will hold an inquest. Miles was from Brantford, Ont.

A LETTER FROM MR. EDGAR.

He Supports the Canadian Copyright Act in the Times.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Times publishes a letter from J. D. Edgar, a member of the Canadian House of Commons, dated Toronto, December 3, supporting the Copyright Act of 1889. Mr. Edgar says that British authors and publishers desiring the Act modified will ultimately have to apply to Ottawa.

To Build a Magnificent Theatre.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—A new theatre is to be built in Montreal at a cost of $200,000. The deal has just been closed by four United States capitalists, who will invest $50,000. One of them is Mr. Charles Vendel, broker and banker, of New York and Boston. Mr. Vendel admits the truth of the story, and says that ground will be broken early in the new year. The lessee will be Mrs. Henry Thomas, and it is understood that Mrs. T... as has offered the business management to a gentlemen well-known in this city. He is at present in New York directing the tours of several important attractions, but it is likely that he will accept the proposition.

Arrested for Murder.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—Frank Johnston, a farmer living on the Quebec shore of the Ottawa river almost immediately opposite Rockland, is in the Hull police station with the awful suspicion hanging over him of having compassed the death of Joseph Bertrand, of Buckingham, who has been missing since December 1st. It is said that a little daughter of Johnston's told that her father quarreled with a man whom he stabbed with a pitchfork and afterwards buried in the brushwood. This appears to be the foundation for Johnston's arrest.

Awful Deed of a Drunken Man.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 26.—A C.P.R. laborer named Frederick Ashwood, while crazy with drink, shot his wife and two children while they were asleep in bed. The wife and one child are dead, and the other child is dying. Ashwood then ran out of the house and attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself, but he only succeeded in inflicting scalp wounds. He then threw himself in front of a tram car, but it was stopped in time to save him from being killed. The motorman captured him, and he is now in jail.

Accidental Shooting at Lachine.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—An accidental shooting took place at Lachine, near this city, yesterday, and gave rise to alarming report of a murder. Miss Harvey, the daughter of the proprietor of the Harvey hotel, Lachine, was shot by the accidental discharge of a gun which was lying in the hotel. Miss Harvey received painful injures, but her condition is not regarded as serious.

Big Fire in Lumber Yards.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 26.—A fire broke out in Booth's lumber yards in this city, which by great effort was kept within the yards. The loss will reach about $100,000. Mr. Booth's loss reached $85,000. Twenty freight cars on the Central Vermont tracks were burned. Fifteen of them were loaded. The insurance is about $60,000 for Booth and the other losses are well covered.

To Get a New Rifle Range.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—The Dominion Rifle Association is obtaining options on certain lands on the banks of the Ottawa near Rockliffe, for a range on which to hold their annual matches. The present range on the Rideau river is too close to the city and will have soon to be abandoned. If the association gets the land at reasonable prices then the Militia Department will purchase it.

Drowning at Iroquois.

IROQUOIS, Ont., Dec. 26.—The body of John Fisher, a resident of "The Point," was found in the lock basin yesterday morning. He was going home the previous night heavily laden with Christmas supplies and in the darkness missed the narrow bridge that spans the chasm and walked into the water.

MANY CURIOUS NOTES.

INTERESTING THINGS WHICH ARE WELL WORTH KNOWING.

Great Things of the World—Witches and Plants—Lord's Prayer in Thirty-Two Languages—And Other Matters of Considerable Interest.

The largest nugget of gold ever found was taken out of the Byer & Haltman mine at Hill End, New South Wales, on May 10, 1872. It weighed an ounce or two over 640 pounds. It was slab-shaped, 4 feet 9 inches long and about 3 feet 2 inches in thickness. The finder sold it for $148,000.

The largest advertisement in the world is in the shape of immense flower beds on the side of a hill near Ardenlee, Scotland. The beds are each gigantic letters, 40 feet in length, the whole forming the words "Glasgow News." The total length of the line is 123 feet; area covered by the letters, 14,845 feet. The letters can be distinctly seen from a distance of four and one-half miles.

The organ in the old Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City is one of the largest, if not the very largest, ever constructed in this country. It has 2,704 pipes, each 32 feet long and large enough to admit the body of a man of ordinary size. It also has two towers at either side which rise to a height of 42 feet.

The largest painting ever produced (not including panoramic views) is now in the Grand Salon of the Doges at Venice. It is by the renowned Jacopa Robusti, and is 84 feet long and 34 feet wide. A panoramic view, called the "Frost King," now in Westminster, London, covers 20,000 square feet of canvas.

The largest hammer and anvil in the world are in use at the Krupp Gun Works, Essen, Germany. The hammer, which was made in 1886, weighs 150 tons, and the anvil and block 191 1-2 tons.

In 1889, before being reduced to its present proportions, Custer County, Montana, was the largest county in the United States. Its area at that time was 36,000 square miles, being greater than the combined areas of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island.

The three tallest trees in the world are believed to be a sequoia near Stockton, Cal., (325 feet) and two eucalypti in Australia, estimated at 435 and 450 feet, respectively.

Witches and Plants.

In all countries in which the witchcraft delusion now exists, or in which it prevailed in former times, we find folk lore stories connecting those mysterious bogies with the plants of those particular regions. Even the great Shakespeare causes his witches to discourse learnedly on the diabolical properties of "hemlock digg'd i' dark" and of "slips of yew silvered in the moon's eclipse." They are supposed to have had their favorite flowers as well as plants, and in England at the present time foxglove is spoken of as "witch bells" and hereabells a "witches' thimbles." The common ragwort is well known as the "witches' horse," the tradition being that the mounted rank growths of that species of weed and "rode the skies," just as the dame with the painted hat rides the broom in the familiar picture. In Germany and throughout Northern Europe it is the belief that witches float from place to place on bels of hay, composed largely of witches' blossoms and "devil spikes," this last being a species of dwarfed slough grass. St. John's wort, which is now so popular for shoulder and button-hole bouquets on St. John's Eve, was formerly worn for the express purpose of averting the crafts and subtleties of the witches, bogies, ghosts and spirits, which the European peasantry believed walked abroad on "that night of witching mysteries."

Lord's Prayer in 32 Languages.

The Russians now have possession of the Mount of Olives, the spot where the Lord's Prayer was first uttered. The apex of the mount is nearly 200 feet above the hill upon which Jerusalem is built, 2,700 feet above the level of the Mediterranean and about 3,900 feet above the sluggish waters of the Dead Sea. On this elevation, upon the exact spot which tradition says the Prayer was first spoken, the Carmelite Sisters have, through the kindness of Mme. de la Tour d'Auvergne, who furnished the necessary funds, built a large convent. The exact, or what is claimed to be the exact, spot pressed by our Saviour's feet on that celebrated occasion, is marked by a pure white polished marbel cross, and the walls of the convent have the Prayer inscribed upon them in 32 different languages. In some instances, the letters forming the prayer are engraved in marble panels; in others, they are letters of wood, glued to backgrounds suitable to their colors. The Russian portion of this wonderful collection of inscriptions is said to be in letters of pure gold, each capital stem being six and a fourth inches long and four-fifths of an inch in width. Among the languages which one would hardly expect to find represented are the Hebrew, the Chinese, the Coptic, the Tartarian, and the Japanese. The Arabian, as it had been a task to relinquish Mohammedism, ends with "Great is Christ."

A Bridge 636 Feet High.

The highest bridge of any kind in the world is the Loe River viaduct, on the Antofagasta Railway, in Bolivia, South America. The place where this highest railway structure has been erected is over the Melo rapids in the Upper Andes, and between the two sides of a canon, which is situated 10,000 feet above the level of the Pacific. Counting from the surface of the stream to the level of the rails, this celebrated bridge is exactly 536 1-2 feet in height. The length of the principal span is 80 feet, and the distance between abutments (total length of bridge) is 802 feet. The largest column is 314 feet 2 inches long, and the batter of the pier, what is known to bridge-builders as "one in three." The gauge of the road is 2 feet 6 inches, and trains cross the bridge at a speed of 30 miles an hour.

Menier's Big Jump.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Dec. 26.—Henry Menier, of New York, the young man who with the aid of a parachute made a successful jump from the Brooklyn bridge a short time ago, yesterday made a successful leap from the highest span of the Poughkeepsie bridge, a distance of 217 feet into the water. A boat was in waiting, which picked him up. He was not injured in the least.

Relief for Nebraska's Farmers.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 26.—In view of the destitution reported from Nebraska because of the loss of the corn crop the Manufacturers Record suggests that a solid train of corn and meat be contributed by the south and shipped to Nebraska. The south has been blessed with an enormous corn crop this year and its meat houses are filled to overflowing.

Murdered in a Lumber Camp.

SENEY, Mich., Dec. 26.—Timothy Kane, camp foreman for the Manitou Lumbering Company, was murdered by Isaac Stetcher on account of an old grudge. Stetcher is under arrest.

Another of Those French Duels.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—M. Barthou, Minister of Public Works, and Jean Jaures, Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, exchanged shots yesterday on the field of honor. Neither was hurt. The duel was the result of the violent debate in the Chamber in which Bartou gave the lie to Jaures.

Remarkable Mirage at Port Huron.

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 26.—The citizens of Port Huron witnessed a very remarkable mirage yesterday, showing the Canadian bank of the St. Clair river for about thirteen miles. The mirage was visible for more than an hour.

IN A SORRY CONDITION

Intense Suffering Predicted for the Winter in the Island Colony.

SPECIE COMES FROM ENGLAND

Delay in Submitting the Report of the Special Committee to the Legislature—Firms Are Being Closed Up Every Day—Indictment of Directors Urged.

HALIFAX, Dec. 27.—From information received from St. John's, Newfoundland, it is learned that all business is at a standstill and the depression due to the numerous and serious bank failures still continues. The Government has no funds to relieve the thousands of unemployed, and it has been a sorry Christmas all over the island. The colony will not recover from the dire calamity for the next twenty years. Numerous schemes to solve the financial troubles are being brought forward, one being a bill to guarantee the paper circulation of the Union Bank. There is only $300,000 in specie on the whole island, and a system of barter or exchange is being operated. Firms are being closed up every day, and the suffering during the coming winter will be beyond description. The directors of the Commercial Bank are much blamed, and the citizens demand the indictment of the directors of both the Commercial and Union Banks. The Government has refused to bring in a bill ordering the two banks to accept their own notes in payment by debtors.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 27.—The report of the Legislative committee on the condition of the suspended banks is not ready for submission to the Legislature owing, principally to the difficulty in obtaining any information from the officials of the Commercial Bank. The report, however, is promised for to-day for certain. A general idea of the report of the committee leaked out yesterday and it is stated it will recommend the endorsement of the Union Bank's note at the rate of 85c. on the dollar, the notes not to be redeemable within two years. The report will also recommend of payment of 30c. on the dollar for all the notes of the Commercial Bank, payment not to be made, however, until after a full call has been made upon the shareholders of the bank. An expert representing a syndicate of English banks arrived here on the steamer Ulunda. The steamer also brought a stock of specie to be used in the general trade.

LABRADOR FISHERS DESTITUTE.

Diphtheria Breaks Out and They Have No Medical Assistance.

QUEBEC, Dec. 27.—News received here from Point Esquimaux is to the effect that through the loss of the three schooners there some time ago, twenty-five families have been left without bread. Diphtheria has broken out among the inhabitants of of the north shore. The disease is spreading very rapidly, there being no medical help in that region. Owing to the want of a residential custom house official on the Labrador coast, it is reported that whiskey smuggling is being carried on uninterrupted. On November 22nd a schooner fully loaded with St. Pierre, Miquelon, contraband whiskey made in to Mingan harbor. The revenue cruiser "Constance" had then taken her winter quarters. Smugglers are aware of the customs officer's absence from November 1st until May 10th and take advantage of his absence to land their cargoes in perfect peace.

The inhabitants are devoid of all medical help and diseases are spreading freely through the population, especially since 1891, when the dreaded disease la grippe made such ravages on the north shore.

Dr. Tremblay, who was the resident medical officer of the labrador region had to leave the place on account of his salary having been reduced considerably.

A Monument to Annie Pixley.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 27.—Robert Fulford, of New York, the theatrical manager, has given a sculptor in this city an order to erect for him in Woodland cemetery a beautiful mausoleum to commemorate the death of his wife, Miss Annie Pixley, the noted actress, and their son. The monument will cost $10,000 and will be 30 feet high, 24 feet wide and 30 feet long. At the entrance will be two life-sized lions, one on either side. Five granite pillars will support the Gothic arch in front and entrance will be made by two magnificent brass gates. Underneath the whole mausoleum is a catacomb. The side elevations are pierced with two stained glass windows, one on each side, bearing the legend "Glory to God," etc., and "On earth peace," etc. The ceiling and roof will be of cut stone, enriched with heavy mouldings. The rear elevation is surmounted with a cross. When completed the monument will be the most handsome one of the kind in the Dominion.

Relief for St. Alban Sufferers.

QUEBEC, Dec. 27.—In the Legislative Assembly yesterday Mr. Tessier (Portneuf) asked if it was the intention of the Government to grant some assistance to the families of St. Alban who suffered loss by the landslide and overflow of the River St. Anne in April, 1894. Hon. Mr. Taillon replied that several such like demands have been made to the Government by the parishioners of St. Anne de Laperade and St. Casimir and the Government had to await before taking any action, as there were two counties interested. The Government would give the matter their serious consideration.

GROVER CALLED DOWN

The Governor of Oregon Utters Plain Expressions of Opinion.

DEMAND FOR A NEW CURRENCY

Gold and Silver Needed Instead of Bank "Rags"—The Governor Places the Cause of the Depression as a Result of His Attitude on the Silver Question.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Dec. 27.—The following letter was sent to President Cleveland by Governor Pennoyer: "Christmas has again visited our stricken land, with its prostrated industries and its idle throngs, willing but unable to work, and unwilling but forced to beg or suffer. Your panacea, a change in the Sherman bill and the tariff, has been administered, but there is no change in the sad condition of the unfortunate country. After two years of ruinous delay and mismanagement, you have, thank heaven, at last discovered the real trouble, although you haven't proposed the proper remedy. As you now coincide, the country needs more money, but it does not want the worthless stuff you proffer. It needs gold and silver money with which to pay debts, and it does not want bank rags with which it cannot pay debts. Sixty years ago the Democratic party had a president who defied the banks in the interest of the people. Has it now a president who defies the people in the interest of the banks? All traditions of the party which elected you are for gold and silver money and against bank currency. Do you aspire to furnish an example of treason to the cause entrusted to your care, which will be without any parallel, except one, in all the annals of America history? Your party in both Houses favors the restoration of silver as standard money. The people actually suffering from the existing prostration favor it, and will you stand with them in overturning the monometallic policy of British money oligarchy, which is fast degrading our fair country to the condition of a subjugated province, and our hitherto free people to a condition of serfdom. Always remember the unemployed. I pray that God may give you light and strength to do right."

Holmes Addresses the Weavers.

FALL RIVER, Dec. 27.—In a conversation here David Holmes, the English labor leader, expressed much surprise that the Lancashire men employed in the mills had not long since devised a standard or universal list of prices to be paid for weaving various kinds of cloth. Such a list has been used in England forty years. His conception of a trades union is an organized body with a very strong fund at its back. He considers strikes in the nature of wars, that should not be engaged in until an absolute refusal to talk of the matter in dispute is received. "I regard it as a woeful thing to allow members of a union to leave their work when they have not funds to support them a great while," he said. He thinks the character of the population will be a great hinderance for many years to the growth of trades unions among the textile workers of New England. "In England," he said, "the children are brought up to know the advantages of paying to their trades and supporting each other in times of dispute." The executive committee of the weavers' union met last night to arrange plans for a public reception to Mr. Holmes.

A Scoundrel's Record.

DETROIT, Dec. 27.—Frank J. F. Bradley, the alleged forger, who was arrested in Toronto, is a bad character. By his own confession he is a liar, a seducer, a libertine, a forger and a thief. He seduced the mother of his son, drove his aged father from his door, robbed the man who loved him as he loved his son, betrayed the man who had been his only friend in his hour of trouble, maligned the character of his dead wife, and finally he has dragged the son whom he had forsaken into the mire in which he himself has long been immersed. He will be tried at the next term of the Recorder's court.

The Storm on the Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Some details of the terrific storm on the Pacific coast when the house at Tillamook Oregon, was wrecked are contained in an report received by Capt. Wilds of the light house board. The lighthouse is on a rock 91 1-2 feet above high water mark. The waves lashed the rock with such fury that pieces weighing as much as 187 pounds were rent from its sides and hurled into the air a distance of 139 1-2 feet, shattering thirteen panes of glass about the lens and falling upon the wooden structures beneath, caving in the roof. The damage amounted to $1,200.

Escaped From the Prison.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 27. — Several prisoners confined in the county jail here escaped, and have not been re-captured. Among the number is William Price, under conviction of murder and sentenced to be hanged in February next. A strange thing connected with the delivery is that no one can give the number of prisoners who got away, and outside of Price, no names are given. The officers who had charge of the jail are in pursuit.

Secretary Herbert's Denial.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary Herbert, when shown a telegram stating that Andrew Carnegie had demanded restitution for the fine he had paid the United States for plugged armor and had threatened suit if his demand was not complied with, said that while it was true that Mr. Carnegie called on him on Monday it was not true that he made any demands or threatened any suit.

Mutiny Among Convicts.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 27.—A mutiny occurred in the Ohio penitentiary yesterday. S. J. Temple, a guard in the foundry, was attacked by three convicts named O'Day, Burke and Bird. O'Day was shot and died soon afterwards. Temple was badly wounded, but will recover. The convicts engaged in the mutiny will be severely punished.

The Fisheries Dispute—The Carnival Will Go On.

OTTAWA, Dec. 27.—In regard to the disagreement over the fishing nets seized some weeks ago in Lake Erie by the Petrel, the dispute has taken an international turn, and Commander Wakeham's report has been forwarded to the British authorities, who will deal with the United States for this country. It is understood that his report fully establishes Canada's contention that the seizure was in Canadian territory between Point Pelee and Kelly's island. The owners of the nets, however, claim that the nets were seized in an entirely different place from that sworn to by the Canadian officer. Thus it is not likely that any boundary dispute will come up, but will rather turn on a question of fact.

The committee in charge of arrangements in connection with the funeral of the late Premier authorise the announcement that the funeral will take place at Halifax, on Thursday, January 3, from the Provincial building to Holy Cross cemetery. The Bienheim is expected to arrive at Halifax early on New Year's day. A special train will leave Ottawa by the Canada Atlantic Railway early on Wednesday, arriving in Halifax Thursday morning in sufficient time to enable passengers to attend the obsequies. The special train will probably leave Halifax for Ottawa Thursday evening. The committee request that all corporations, societies or other bodies desirous of participating in the ceremony communicate immediately with Mr. Louis A. Coste, Halifax hotel, Halifax, in order that their respective places may be assigned to them. The committee also desire it to be announced that in the list of official guests invited the puisne judges of the Supreme Court should have been included.

At a largely-attended meeting of the executive of the carnival last night, a letter was read from Lord Aberdeen, asking its postponement for a week owing to the death of Sir John Thompson. There were only General Herbert and Lieut.-Col. Anderson, of the Marine Department, who favored the postponement. A resolution was passed thanking his Excellency for the interest he had taken in the carnival. It was, however, decided to go on.

A writ in a suit for $30,000 damages has been served on Ald. Cluff by Messrs. Belcourt and Ritchie at the instance of Ald. Reymond, Prefontaine of Montreal, in connection with statements alleged to have been recently made by Ald. Cluff at a meeting of the Ottawa City Council with regard to asphalt pavement.

PREPARING FOR THE FUNERAL.

Buildings Along the Route Will Be Draped in Mourning.

HALIFAX, Dec. 27.—The work of draping St. Mary's cathedral began yesterday. St. Matthew's church, the Academy of Music, Spring Garden road, court house, the cemetery fence on Park street, numerous private buildings along the route of the funeral and the business blocks in the central streets of the city will be draped. The funeral car is being built, the dark drapery hanging from it almost concealing the wheels of the car. Thick tassels dangle at the corners and the drapery is caught up with silver lace. In the centre of the car is a bier and over all at the height of eight or nine feet is a large canopy supported on columns and surmounted with plumes and a crown. An arch over the entrance to the Park street gates of the cemetery will be 27 feet high.

The principal decorations will be in the Legislative Council chamber. A large number of roses and living plants resembling the Easter lily, and extensive drapings of white, black and purple are to be employed. No gold is to figure in the arrangements; silver lace will be used instead.

Trouble in an Opera Troupe.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—Several members of the French opera company now playing in this city appeared before the police court yesterday as the result of a little unpleasantness. A discussion took place between several members of the company as to an expression to be used in one of the plays. The discussion, which took place at a rehearsal, waxed warmer and warmer until Madame Billy called Mademoselle Germaine Duvernay a liar and slapped her face. Monsieur Billy, happening in, also insulted Mlle. Duvernay, and, needless to say, there was a scene. The matter came before Judge Dugas in Chambers yesterday, and upon the apologies of Monsieur and Madame Billy being tendered the complainant the case was dismissed with costs.

Funeral of the Late Col. Skinner.

HAMILTON, Dec. 27.—The remains of the late Lieut. Col. Skinner, which were brought here from Woodstock Tuesday, were buried yesterday afternoon in Hamilton cemetery. The funeral took place from the armory and was attended by the members of the 13th Battalion, the veterans association and a large number of friends of the deceased from the city and elsewhere. The coffin covered by the Union Jack was carried on a gun carriage drawn by six horses. The 13th band playing a dirge and a firing party of hundred men preceded the body. The many floral tributes were beautiful in design.

A U. S. Customs Inspector Suspended.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—Inspector William H. Warren, of the Boston customs house, was suspended from duty by a special order from Washington pending an investigation of alleged misconduct on his part while on government business in the British provinces. The seizure and search of the fishing schooner, Albert Geiger, on October 2 last for alleged smuggling merchandise with which Inspector Warren had considerable to do figures in the case.

Child Badly Burned.

HAMILTON, Dec. 27.—A four-year-old son of John Culver, 423 King William street, was fearfully burned about the breast, stomach, arms and legs yesterday by the upsetting of a stove in his parent's house, causing the scalding contents of a kettle to be spilled upon him. The accident was caused by a leg of the stove becoming loose and slipping out. The boy will probably recover.

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 145 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1894.

A WEAK BEGINNING.

Hon. Alex, Mackenzie had in 1874 fourteen ministers, including himself, in his cabinet. In 1879 Sir John Macdonald increased the number to fifteen, and again in 1887 to seventeen. Sir John Abbott in 1891 reduced the number to fourteen, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie's number; but in 1892 Sir John Thompson brought back the figures to seventeen. Now Hon. Mackenzie Bowell has beaten the record and presides over a cabinet of twenty members. Hon. Mr Bowell may be a good printer and a clever gentleman, but he has made "pi" at the beginning. He has been unable to show the needed backbone to resist the importunities of office seekers and to set, in the organization of his goverment, that example of retrenchment of expenditure which the country, in the face of the biggest deficit it has ever had, has reason to expect. Sir John Thompson ruled with a strong hand, yet, though he sternly set his face against the onslaughts of the boodle element of his following, he was unable to enforce honest expenditure of public funds. Boodling and stealing from the public chest went on at a tremendous rate under the very eyes of the ministers and officials of some of the departments of his government. If Mr. Bowell shows in the outset of his premiership, weakness and flabby yielding to the demands of politicians for place, there seems to be little hope that he can exercise a restraining hand over predatory ministers in the administration of public affairs.

TORONTO the Good advances a sad, sad argument against reducing the number of members of the City Council. The News says it is a great deal easier for a rich corporation with big interests to serve to buy up a majority in a small legislative body than a large one. The idea of electing aldermen who would not be so readily bought doesn't seem to cut much of a figure in a city, which considering Sunday street cars and Sodom as of equal heinousness.

MR. MADILL'S pulpit, aptly remarks the Globe, says, "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Mr. Madill's lodge says that two-fifths of the population should be shut out of public office and denied even the right of private employment. Mr. Madill should either leave the pulpit or the lodge.

THE Minister of Agriculture in Hon. Mackenzie Bowell's new government is Hon. August Real Angers. It is said that the farmers are Real Angery at the action of appointing a Quebec lawyer to superintend the department devoted to the interest of the most important industry in the country.

IN forming his cabinet Hon. Mackenzie Bowell had less trouble in finding men for the office than in finding office for the men.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

NEW YEAR'S MORNING.

On the first morning of the new year there will be a union meeting of Endeavourers and Christian friends in the Y. M. C. A. hall at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. E. Trotter will occupy the chair. What better way is there of beginning the new year than by taking part in a consecration meeting? It will help and encourage all who are present and we feel sure there will be a full attendance.

Endeavourers, come along and bring a friend. Pray for this meeting and when you are there be sure and take som part. Help others and you will receive a blessing yourself.

WITH THE JUNIORS.

The Junior Societies of town were very active on Monday preparing presents for the poor children, and distributing same. It was pleasant to see the happy faces of the children while they were preparing the gifts. This is the most practical lesson that could be taught the children, and still be doing a very useful work. The preparations for Christmas take weeks of active work.

On Monday night the Juniors of St. Andrew's held a social hour. The programme was very instructive, the Juniors supplying the numbers.

On Sunday morning Mr John Gilchrist addressed the children of St. Paul's on the boyhood of Jesus. This society is rapidly growing in numbers and the meetings are increasing in interest.

Some of the societies of town prepared baskets and gave them to the poor of the town on Christmas day. This not only gives to others Christmas cheer, but enables the respective societies, to some extent, to come in contact with the needy of our town, and it is surprising the number in want. Could we not become more charitable along these lines, and not on one day only, but throughout the winter we might assist those in need. Truly one half of the world knows but little of how the other gets along and what is surprising, cares less. And still we are wont at times to speak boastingly of the Christian land in which we live.

You're an Easy Prey,

with your flesh reduced below a healthy standard, for consumption and other scrofulous and dangerous diseases. And it's for just this condition that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is especially valuable.

If you're thinner than you ought to be, whether from wasting diseases, defective nutrition, or whatever cause, the "Discovery" will surely bring you up to the healthy standard. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it arouses every natural source and means of nourishment. As a strength-restorer and flesh-builder, nothing like this medicine is known to medical science. Filthy Cod liver oil and all its disguised compounds can't compare with it.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, indigestion or dyspepsia, biliousness and headaches.

Sick headache and constipation are promptly cured by Burdock Pills. Easy to take, sure in effect.

A Fatal Attack.

A fatal attack of croup is a frequent occurrence among children. Every household should be guarded by keeping Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It breaks up coughs, colds, croup, asthma and bronchitis in a remarkable manner.

WARSAW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A very pleasant social and intellectual treat was held on the 21st inst. by the Warsaw Public School scholars, and if the entertainment is a harbinger of the festive gaities of the season, it speaks well for the enjoyment of our village and surroundings. An appreciative and first-class audience packed our hall to the very doors. Our reeve, Mr. E. Hawthorne, ably filled the chair and superintended the lengthy though enjoyable programme.

At the close of the programme the trustees read and presented the following resolution to the principal. Miss May Campbell, and her assistant, Miss Aggie Fraser:—Moved by Joseph Edwards, seconded by E. Snider, that at this entertainment on the closing of the Public School in the village of Warsaw, we desire to place on record our appreciation of the work done by our teachers, Miss Campbell and Miss Fraser, not only in furnishing the ratepayers with such a high class entertainment which we have all enjoyed this evening, but also on the very creditable standing of our school at the present time.—Carried unanimously.

Miss Campbell replied that she, together with Miss Fraser, enjoyed the arranging of the programme, that it afforded her much pleasure to teach the children and promote their spiritual as well as their intellectual welfare. Miss Campbell thanked the trustees on behalf of the teachers and scholars, and said they hoped to continue to merit the esteem and appreciation of the ratepayers. Wishing all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, the teachers withdrew to be almost immediately recalled, each to receive a beautiful plush album. The address was read by Master Dick Choate and the albums presented by Misses Mabel and Charlotte Edwards.

Miss Campbell and Miss Fraser, though taken completely by surprise, thanked the parents and children and a long to be remembered evening's enjoyment was closed by singing "God Save the Queen."

FRAZERVILLE TEAMEETING.

The Cheese Fretory Utilized for the Occasion—A Load From Town.

A large load of young people, comprised of the major part of the George street church choir and a few of their friends drove out to Frazerville last evening to assist in the Methodist teameeting which was held in the cheese factory at that place. Rev. Mr. McKee, the pastor, occupied the chair and at the conclusion of the tea, which was a sumptuous one indeed, a most entertaining programme was presented as follows:—

Anthem	The George street church choir
Prayer	Rev. Mr. Cattanach
Sol	Mr. Alf. Mills
Addre s	Rev. Mr. Cattanach
Vocal trio	Messrs. Crowe, Miller and Squire
Reading	Miss Soden
Address	Rev. Mr. Kilgour (a former pastor)
Solo	Miss Vina Bellegham
Anthem	George street church choir
Address	Rev. J. J. Rae
Solo	Mr. Crowe
Duet	Misses McGuire and C. Bellegheim
Solo	Mr. W. J. Squires

Mr George Schneider was the accompanist of the evening.

An anthem by the choir preluding the benediction, by Rev. Mr. McKee brought the very pleasant evening to a close. The neat sum of $61 was realized at the door, and the church proposes holding a social on Thursday evening in an endeavour to raise still more money.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were perscribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galizien, Austria.

BRIDGENORTH.

The True Blues gave a grand and successful entertainment in the Town Hall on Christmas night. A most sumptuous banquet was prepared and heartily enjoyed by the large number present. This was followed by a splendid entertainment which was presented under the management of Messrs. Wade and Butcher, town. The comic contributions of Joe Franks were great and brought down the house. To the entertainment succeeded a terpsichorean programme, which afforded great enjoyment to the guests that remained.

A most successful turkey shoot was held at Chemong Park yesterday. It was largely attended, provided excellent sport, and passed off pleasantly and safely to everybody but the birds.

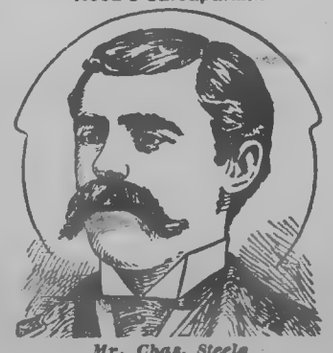
Broken in Health

That Tired Feeling, Constipation and Pain in the Back

Appetite and Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.



Mr. Chas. Steele
St. Catherine's, Ont.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any source until, upon recommendation of a friend, I purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which made me feel better at once. I have continued its use, having taken three bottles, and

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
An said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you a e poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Every Man Should Insure.

The following from a Toronto Daily, is worthy of very careful consideration:—

The force of the obligation resting upon every man to carry a substantial insurance policy on his life was never better illustrated than in the death of Sir John Thompson.

If ever a man lived who could claim freedom from this obligation it was the late Premier. Before the fatal illness seized him he had every reason to expect a long life; his earning capacity was large; and he was, at one time at all events, justified in expecting that he would fall heir to a considerable fortune. But the expectations of fortune were swept away, death came in mid-life and pratically the only support left for the bereaved family is a paltry insurance of $6,000.

The moral of it all is that every man, no matter how circumstanced, should insure, and insure to the largest extent that his income will justify.

The Late Premier, SIR JOHN S D. THOMPSON, was insured in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY of CANADA.

LIBERAL PLATFORM

ADOPTED BY THE

NATIONAL LIBERAL CONVENTION,

OTTAWA, JUNE, 1893.

We, the Liberal party of Canada, in convention assembled, declare:

1. FREER TRADE—REDUCED TAXATION.

That the customs tariff of the Dominion should be based, not as it is now, upon the protective principle, but upon the requirements of the public service;

That the existing tariff, founded upon an unsound principle, and used, as it has been by the Government, as a corrupting agency wherewith to keep themselves in office, has developed monopolies, trusts and combinations;

It has decreased the value of farm and other landed property;

It has oppressed the masses to the enrichment of a few;

It has checked immigration;

It has caused great loss of population;

It has impeded commerce;

It has discriminated against Great Britain.

In these and many other ways it has occasioned great public and private injury, all of which evils must continue to grow in intensity as long as the present tariff system remains in force.

That the highest interests of Canada demand a removal of this obstacle to our country's progress, by the adoption of a sound fiscal policy, which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade, and hasten the return of prosperity to our people;

That to that end, the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government;

That it should be so adjusted as to make free, or to bear as lightly as possible upon, the necessaries of life, and should be so arranged as to promote freer trade with the whole world, more particularly with Great Britain and the United States.

We believe that the results of the protective system have grievously disappointed thousands of persons who honestly supported it, and that the country, in the light of experience, is now prepared to declare for a sound fiscal policy.

The issue between the two political parties on this question is now clearly defined.

The government themselves admit the failure of their fiscal policy, and now profess their willingness to make some changes; but they say that such changes must be based only on the principle of protection.

We denounce the principle of protection as radically unsound, and unjust to the masses of the people, and we declare our conviction that any tariff changes based on that principle must fail to afford any substantial relief from the burdens under which the country labors.

This issue we unhesitatingly accept, and upon it we await with the fullest confidence the verdict of the electors of Canada.

2.—ENLARGED MARKETS—RECIPROCITY.

That, having regard to the prosperity of Canada and the United States as adjoining countries, with many mutual interests, it is desirable that there should be the most friendly relations and broad and liberal intercourse between them;

That the interests alike of the Dominion and of the Empire would be materially advanced by the establishing of such relations;

That the period of the old reciprocity treaty was one of marked prosperity to the British North American colonies;

That the pretext under which the Government appealed to the country in 1891 respecting negotiation for a treaty with the United States was misleading and dishonest and intended to deceive the electorate;

That no sincere effort has been made by them to obtain a treaty, but that, on the contrary, it is manifest that the present Government, controlled as they are by monopolies and combines, are not desirous of securing such a treaty;

That the first step towards obtaining the end in view, is to place a party in power who are sincerely desirous of promoting a treaty on terms honorable to both countries;

That a fair and liberal reciprocity treaty would develop the great natural resources of Canada, would enormously increase the trade and commerce between the two countries, would tend to encourage friendly relations between the two peoples, would remove many causes which have in the past provoked irritation and trouble to the Government of both countries, and would promote those kindly relations between the Empire and the Republic which afford the best guarantee for peace and prosperity;

That the Liberal party is prepared to enter into negotiations with a view to obtaining such a treaty, including a well considered list of manufactured articles, and we are satisfied that any treaty so arranged will receive the assent of Her Majesty's Government, without whose approval no treaty can be made.

3.—PURITY OF ADMINISTRATION—CONDEMN CORRUPTION.

That the Convention deplores the gross corruption in the management and expenditure of public moneys which for years past has existed under the rule of the Conservative party, and the revelations of which by the different parliamentary committees of inquiry have brought disgrace upon the fair name of Canada.

The Government, which profited politically by these expenditures of public moneys of which the people have been defrauded, and which nevertheless, have never punished the guilty parties, must be held responsible for the wrongdoing. We arraign the Government for retaining in office a Minister of the Crown proved to have accepted very large contributions of money for election purposes from the funds of a railway company, which, while paying the political contributions to him, a member of the Government, with one hand, was receiving Government subsidies with the other.

The conduct of the Minister and the approval of his colleagues after the proof became known to them are calculated to degrade Canada in the estimation of the world and deserve the severe condemnation of the people.

4. DEMAND STRICTEST ECONOMY—DECREASED EXPENDITURE.

We cannot but view with alarm the large increase of the public debt and of the controllable annual expenditure of the Dominion and the consequent undue taxation of the people under the Governments that have been continuously in power since 1878, and we demand the strictest economy in the administration of the government of the country.

5.—FOR RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT—INDEPENDENCE OF PARLIAMENT.

That the Convention regrets that by the action of Ministers and their supporters in Parliament, in one case in which serious charges were made against a Minister of the Crown, investigation was altogether refused, while in another case the charges preferred were altered and then referred to a commission appointed upon the advice of the Ministry, contrary to the well settled practice of Parliament, and this Convention affirms:

That it is the ancient and undoubted right of the House of Commons to inquire into all matters of public expenditure, and into all charges of misconduct in office against Ministers of the Crown, and the reference of such matters to royal commissions created upon the advice of the accused is at variance with the due responsibility of Ministers to the House of Commons, and tends to weaken the authority of the House over the Executive Government, and this Convention affirms that the powers of the people's representatives in this regard should on all fitting occasions be upheld.

6.—LAND FOR THE SETTLER—NOT FOR THE SPECULATOR.

That in the opinion of this Convention the sales of public lands of the Dominion should be to actual settlers only, and not to speculators, upon reasonable terms of settlement, and in such areas as can be reasonably occupied and cultivated by the settler.

7.—OPPOSE THE DOMINION FRANCHISE ACT—FAVOR THE PROVINCIAL FRANCHISE.

That the Franchise Act since its introduction has cost the Dominion Treasury over a million of dollars, besides entailing a heavy expenditure to both political parties;

That each revision involves an additional expenditure of a further quarter of a million;

That this expenditure has prevented an annual revision, as originally intended, in the absence of which young voters entitled to the franchise have, in numerous instances, been prevented from exercising their natural rights;

That it has failed to secure uniformity, which was the principle reason assigned for its introduction;

That it has produced gross abuses by partisan revising barristers appointed by the Government of the day;

That its provisions are less liberal than those already existing in many Provinces of the Dominion, and that in the opinion of this Convention the Act should be repealed, and we should revert to the Provincial Franchise.

8.—AGAINST THE GERRYMANDER—COUNTY BOUNDARIES SHOULD BE PRESERVED.

That by the Gerrymander Acts, the electoral divisions for the return of members to the House of Commons have been so made as to prevent a fair expression of the opinion of the country at the general elections, and to secure to the party now in power a strength out of all proportion greater than the number of electors supporting them would warrant. To put an end to this abuse, to make the House of Commons a fair exponent of public opinion, and to preserve the historic continuity of counties, it is desirable that in the formation of electoral divisions, county boundaries should be preserved, and that in no case parts of different counties should be put in one electoral division.

9.—THE SENATE DEFECTIVE—AMEND THE CONSTITUTION.

The present constitution of the Senate is inconsistent with the Federal principles in our system of government, and is in other respects defective, as it makes the Senate independent of the people and uncontrolled by the public opinion of the country, and should be so amended as to bring it into harmony with the principles of popular government.

10.—QUESTION OF PROHIBITION—A DOMINION PLEBISCITE.

That whereas public attention is at present much directed to the consideration of the admittedly great evils of intemperance, it is desirable that the mind of the people should be clearly ascertained on the question of Prohibition by means of a Dominion Plebiscite.

KINGSCOTTE, artistic decorator, sail, tent and awning maker, Water street, Peterborough.

That Awful Mistletoe.

There were a great many curious eyes turned upon a young lady from the west end, who walked into church on Christmas morning with a huge spray of mistletoe gracing the top of her hat. The invitation, however, was too open to seem natural, and though many masculine mouths watered to claim the penalty, none had sufficient confidence in themselves to attempt it. The young lady in question was totally unconscious of the rather unusual decoration with which her hat was adorned, and it probably dropped into its position from some of the house decorations. Many a quiet laugh did her friends enjoy at her expense during service.

A Newsboys' Christmas.

The newsboys to the number of four hundred had a grand Christmas "feed" in the Pavilion, Toronto, and had at least one sufficient meal this year. The galleries were crowded with spectators, but this circumstance did not abash the hungry young merchants, who provide the first course for Toronto breakfasts. Mayor Kennedy served the soup, and ex-alderman Piper the turkey and cranberry sauce, and other prominent ladies and gentlemen served the remainder of the elaborate menu, for it was a "swell" banquet. Gilonna's orchestra supplied music during the course of the meal, and Prof. Stuart, formerly of Peterborough, humourist and impersonator, delighted the lads with his characteristic sketches.

Curling and Skating are on.

The thermometer has at last secured what seems to be a permanent job. This morning it crawled down below zero and consequently the ice at the skating rink is ready for use. To-night the rink will be open for curling and there will be no trouble to find some enthusiastic curler to beat the Pharaisee of old and find courage to throw the first stone. To-morrow night the rink will be thrown open for skating. Those wishing to purchase tickets are requested to consult the advertisement of the Curling and Skating Rink Company in another column. This winter promises to be a lively one on ice. Both curling and skating will be extremely popular this winter. The hockeyists—both clubs—are in A 1 shape and claim to be stronger than last year, and any visiting club that gets the start of them will have to rise betimes. The season promises to be a festive one and the Sons of Canada are already making preparations for a grand carnival on Friday evening, January 11th.

Mr. Jas. McGill, travelling auditor for the Rathbun Company, Deseronto, is in town on a business trip.

Hon. Wilfred Laurier arrived in Toronto on Wednesday evening and will remain two or three days.

Miss Katie Calcutt has returned home after making a three months visit to friends and relatives in Chicago.

Mr. Bert Cookson, of Chatham, left for home yesterday, after spending Christmas in town with his parents on Aylmer street.

Gilbert Parker, who is acknowledged the worldover as Canada's first literatteur, will be in Belleville a few days. Being an old citizen of Belleville and a credit to the city, he will be fittingly received.

Miss Eva Tivey left for Ottawa yesterday morning, where she will study the pipe organ. She will also take in the course of her studies, a training in voice culture. Miss Tivey has been a most faithful worker in connection with St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, and her many friends hope that she may attain brilliant success in her undertaking.

OBITUARY

The Late Miss Anne McWilliams

On Monday night, Dec. 24th, Miss Anne McWilliams, aunt of the late Mrs. H. Nesbitt of J. B. McWilliams and Mrs. J. H. Harper, died at the residence of her neice, Mrs. W. E. James, 300 Wellesley street, Toronto. Her illness, which was brief, was paralysis of the brain. The funeral took place on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, and the remains were laid in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The deceased lady, who was a sister of the late James McWilliams, leaves behind her one brother and three sisters—Mr. J. H. McWilliams, Lakefield; Mrs. W. Rae, Otonabee; Mrs. Sexsmith and Miss M. McWilliams, Lakefield.

Collision With an Electric Car.

Monday evening a horse driven by Mr. Shaughnessy became so affrighted at a street car on George street, opposite the Grand Central Hotel, that it became unmanageable and wheeling suddenly around, backed the cart into the car in such a manner as to cause a collision of such magnitude as to throw the horse down and seriously damage the cart. Mr. Shaughnessy was considerably bruised by falling from the cart.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—No arrests.

—Many strangers in town.

—This is election time with the lodges.

—Otonabee Lodge met last night for the final nomination of officers.

—Quite a few noses and ears were nipped by the sharp biting frost to-day.

—This kind of weather should make business look up for the farmers.

—The first farmer's sleigh, laden with grain, this season, appeared in town to-day.

—Bridge street Methodist church in Belleville has the names of 1,000 scholars on the roll.

—The club in connection with St. John's Bible class, meets to-night in the school house at 7.30.

—The proceeds of the Week of Self-Denial of the Peterborough Salvationists amounted to $202.

—Mr. John McComb, of Young's Point, is in town, and is the guest of Mr. Overend at the C.P.R. Hotel.

—Dr. Smythe, the unseated of Kingston, has again consented to oppose Hon. Wm. Harty for the representative of Kingston in the Ontario Legislature.

—At the police court this morning an assault case preferred by a woman against her husband was withdrawn to prevent the washing of dirty family linen in public.

—Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, I.O.O.F., will bear in mind that to-night will be election of officers for the ensuing term, and all members will please strain a point and get there.

—Mr. Morris Gainey, of Eau Claire, Wis., is a guest of the Maple Leaf, Ashburnham. He is renewing old acquaintances and looks exceedingly well. His many friends are pleased to see him.

—The performing bear which is in town keeps the dogs in a constant state of excitement. Horses evince the greatest terror of the animal and several runaways have been nearly averted.

—Mr. Geo. Lipsett, of the Maple Leaf, is confined to his room with a touch of the gout. However, he is expected to pull through. His many friends will be pleased to see his familiar face before long.

—A document is to be read in Roman Catholic churches in the United States on Sunday which prohibits Roman Catholics from membership in the Oddfellows, Sons of Temperance and Knights of Pythias.

—Keep the 11th of January open, for on that date the greatest event of the season will be held, when the Sons of Canada will hold their annual Carnival. Watch the window of the Peterborough Hardware Co. for the grand display of prizes. 1d —Through the kindness and forethought of Mr. Calcutt certain members of the EXAMINER staff were enabled to personally testify to the excellence of his special holiday brew of English hop ale on Christmas day. Many thanks, Mr. Calcutt; may your shadow never grow less.

She sat before the cheerful fire,
And gazed at its bright gleam;
Her lover said: "Her thoughts aspire
In some poetic dream."
Her red lips moved as if to speak—
One white hand sought her brow;
She turned to him with glowing cheek:
"What's coal a-brin. in now?"

—The snow that fell last night was enough to make good sleighing if it had stayed in the proper places, on the same principle that thousands could be millionaires if they could save all they earn and not have it blow off the highway to wealth into deep drifts representing the expense of living.

Quite a gathering, from town, as well as invited guests from the surrounding villages, paid their respects to Mr. Noble Brown, the new manager of the Tremont Hotel and Summer Resort, Lakefield, last evening. The affair passed off most successfully, songs, recitations, speeches, etc., being the order of the evening.

—Mr. W. W. Ogilvie and Mr. W. A. Hastings of Montreal, who have recently returned from the Northwest, speak encouragingly of better prices for wheat and improved prospects in that part of the country. Mr. Ogilvie announces that he will build six new elevators next year and also enlarge his Winnipeg mill.

—There was not an empty seat in the hall last night when the curtain went up on Mark Bros. Co. in the play "Dublin Dan." The performance gave the best of satisfaction. To-night, which is the last appearance in the city, the play is a laughable four-act comedy, entitled "A Rash Marriage."—Kingston Daily. Prices, 10 and 15 cents.

DECEMBER WEDDING BELLS IN OTONABEE.

The Nuptials of Mr. Chas. Parke and Miss Cassie Stewart.

Crystal Springs Farm, for years the homestead of the Stewarts of Otonabee, was the scene of a most interesting event yesterday afternoon, when Miss Cassie Stewart, youngest daughter of the late Richard Stewart, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Parke, of Macedon, N.Y., by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's.

Crystal Springs is at present owned and occupied by Mr. John Stewart, brother of the bride, and relatives to the number of about thirty, were present, to witness the ceremony. Others who were in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Metheral, Peterborough, and Mr. Will Harris, of Macedon.

The bride was very prettily gowned in cream cashmere, with trimmings of pearls and ribbons, and for a travelling suit wore navy blue trimmed with sable fur. Immediately after the ceremony a most sumptuous wedding breakfast was served and after receiving the congratulations of those present, Mr. and Mrs. Parke drove up to town and took the 4.48 p.m. train for their future home in Macedon, where a reception will be tendered the young couple on their arrival by the sister of the groom. The presents which were received were very handsome.

Miss Cassie Stewart was well known and most popular amongst the young people of Peterborough, being always a welcome visitor in the homes of all who were privileged in knowing her.

MEDICAL MEN.

Are Interested in the Discovery of a Remedy for Bright's Disease.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—The subject of kidney disorders and diseases is one receiving special attention from the medical profession just now, probably owing to the fact that a disease of these organs caused the death of Russia's Czar. Among other points attractive to the profession is the case of Dr. McCormick, of Richmond, Que., a practitioner well known throughout Quebec and Ontario. He has lately published a letter announcing that he was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This case has a peculiar interest for medical men because until these pills were offered for sale, this disease was universally considered incurable. That belief is now thoroughly exploded by the success of this remedy, to which numerous victims of the disease owe their lives and sound health.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

Minard's Liniment for Rheumatism.

AN OLD PETERBOROUGH BOY JOINS THE RANKS OF THE BENEDICTS.

The Macfarlane-Campbell Nuptials Take Place in Minneapolis.

The following is an account of the wedding of Mr. Wm. Macfarlane of Winnipeg, formerly of Peterborough, and eldest son of Mr. Andrew Facfarlane. The item is taken from the local paper published in Rising Sun, Indiana, the former residence of the bride:

"Miss Jessie Jelley Campbell, of Toronto, Canada, and Mr. William Macfarlane, of Winnipeg, were married in Minneapolis, Minn., Wednesday, Dec. 5th, at 4 p. m., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Hawley, Miss Campbell being a cousin of Mrs. Hawley. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Geo. H. Wells, of Plymouth church, Minneapolis, in the presence of the immediate relatives and invited friends. The bride has always been considered a most beautiful young lady of the brunette type, and was particularly pretty and attractive in her bridal costume, a silk gown of peculiar texture. Mrs. Macfarlane is the daughter of Fannie Jelley Campbell and Dr. A. W. Campbell, both of whom died in Kansas some years ago, and is well remembered in Rising Sun as the granddaughter of the late Major James S. Jelley. Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane will make their future home in the city of Winnipeg, for which place they left immediately after the ceremony.

MONEY IN PORK.

Now that beef is no longer able to command such prices in the British market as to render its production highly remunerative either to the Canadian farmer or the shipper, it is gratifying to find that there are practically endless possibilities of profit in the raising of pork. The depression in beef may perhaps be regarded as a permanent phenomenon; both the cattle-exporting trade and the dressed beef business are overdone, and prices abroad may never again be what they have been. Very good figures have been obtained for sheep this season—due, however, to a temporary scarcity of stock in England, which cannot be expected to continue. But in regard to pork, the consuming capacity of Great Britain at prices abundantly remunerative to the grower, is larger than is generally supposed, and indeed when carefully examined seems almost unlimited. The total amount paid for cheese imported into Great Britain is about $27,000,000 a year; the total amount paid for bacon and hams imported is no less than $57,000,000. Let it be remembered that in Canada fresh pork sells for much less than cheese, while in England pork, in one form or another, commands a higher figure than that commodity—so high that it is beyond the reach of the workingman as an article of every-day diet—and it will be evident that vast and lucrative as our cheese industry has become during the past quarter of a century, our production of pork may even become more so. As every dairyman knows, skimmed milk and whey form the basis of lean pigs' rations, and the manufacture, so to speak, of bacon and hams, can be conducted very economically in connection with the manufacture either of cheese or butter. E. A. Barnard, Secretary to the Quebec Council of Agriculture, who has made a special study of the subject, recommends the improved Yorkshire as, in his opinion, the best breed for the purpose. Everything, he thinks, depends on the right proportion of rations, as unless they are properly balanced there is great waste. The kind of food which in the hands of an unskilled farmer would fatten only two hogs, will fatten three if scientifically dispensed.

CURLING.

A meeting of the Thistle Division of the Curling Club is called for this evening in the rink parlors, at 8 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be in attendance.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Mr. George T. Angell, president of the American Humane Education Society, speaks as follows in "Dumb Animals" concerning the barbarity of Rugby football:

So Harvard is again beaten by both Yale and Pennsylvania. "Much slugging." "One of the roughest ever played." So say the papers.

If Harvard had taken our advice of last year, by establishing "a Department of Pugilism," and appointing our distinguished fellow-citizen, John L. Sullivan, first professor, the result might have been different, and if to that department Harvard had added a competent instructor in gambling, much Boston money might have been saved.

We did not risk our moderate means, and so felt very much as the old lady did who, when her husband got into a fight with a bear, said "she didn't care which whipped."

We have recently been sending literature to Spain to aid in abolishing "bull fights."

If we can only get the Spaniards to adopt American college football, perhaps they will substitute for bull fights the prize fights which such vast numbers of our American men and women bet their money on.

But, speaking seriously, we have for several years been spending, in behalf of our "American Humane Education Society," a good deal of money to introduce HUMANITY into our "Protestant" American colleges. Not wishing to incur the indignation of the A. P. A., or college "Greek letter society," we say "Protestant," because in answer to our inquiry of last year sent through this paper all over this country, we have not thus far been able to learn of a single case of college outrage in any Roman Catholic educational institution.

In pursuance of our work we have written and sent this paper every month to all college presidents in the United States, and supplied all their private and college libraries with our humane publications, and have offered several hundreds of dollars as prizes for humane essays and plans, and have sent between one and two hundred thousand copies of humane information to their students.

We do not know what more we can do unless, without violating the law against employing foreign labor, we can import a few Japanese professors to visit our various universities and colleges and teach their students humanity.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

The following resolution of condolence has been passed by the Town Council and forwarded to Lady Thompson:

That we the members of the Council of the town of Peterborough desire to give expression to the profound sorrow with which we learned of the death of the Right Hon. Sir John S. D. Thompson, Premier of the Dominion of Canada. We also desire to tender to Lady Thompson and her family our deep and sincere sympathy in the very sudden and sad bereavement they have been called upon to bear. The whole community has been deeply pained by the death of the premier, whom they regarded as a man and a statesman entitled to the highest honours from his countrymen and worthy of the high distinction conferred upon him by Her Majesty the Queen, and we feel that, in addition to the severe loss which is felt by the citizens as a whole on account of the death of an able head of the Government, Lady Thompson and her children have the additional and much heavier personal loss of the loving head of their family, and, therefore, speaking on behalf of the citizens of the town, which we represent, we desire to express to them the prevalent feeling of deep regret and of profound sympathy with them, in the hope that the knowledge that the people mourn with them and desire to share their sorrow, may to some extent mitigate the poignancy of their grief.

Signed,

JAMES KENDRY, Mayor.

S. R. ARMSTRONG, Town Clerk.

THE PRISON SYSTEM OF ONTARIO.

The Ontario penal and reformatory institutions are as follows: One Central Prison for men, one Reformatory for women, one Reformatory for boys, one Refuge for girls, one Industrial School for boys, one Industrial School for girls, and thirty-seven County Jails.

THE CENTRAL PRISON.

The Central Prison is located at Toronto, and has an average of 800 prisoners. The length of the sentences varies from two months to two years (less one day). Prisoners may be sent to the Central Prison either by sentence of the court, or they may be transferred from the county jails.

The men of the "Central" are engaged at a number of industries, including making tweeds, blankets, bed mattresses, brass and steel beds, brooms, woodwork, shoemaking, tailoring, binder twine, etc. All able-bodied men are compelled to work. The rule is, "No work, no bread." Although the discipline is strict—in fact, military in exactness—the men have good food, and are humanely treated. There is a night school four nights a week where the men are taught reading, writing and arithmetic, by teachers selected by the Prisoners' Aid Association. Every Sunday morning there is a Sunday school from 9 to 10.30, and at 3 in the afternoon there is a sermon by some member of the Toronto Ministerial Association.

THE REFORMATORY FOR WOMEN,

also called the "Mercer" Reformatory, is situated about half a mile west of the Central Prison, between King street and the Industrial Fair grounds. Women are sent to this reformatory for periods varying from three months to any period less than two years. The average number in confinement here is less than 1. The principal industry is laundry work. There is a Sunday school Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, and a sermon Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, as well as on every Tuesday evening.

The Prison Reform Commissioners appointed by the Ontario Government recommend with regard to the women's Reformatory the removal of the young girls from the adjoining Refuge, and utilizing the space gained to effect a better system of classification than is now practicable.

THE REFUGE FOR GIRLS

Is unfortunately situated on the same grounds as, and the building is connected with, that of the Reformatory for women. The average number of girls in the Refuge is about fifty. The ages range from five up to sixteen. The sentences vary from six months to six years. The great drawback to the successful working of this institution is the close proximity to the Women's Reformatory. The Commissioners recommend that the Refuge be entirely separated from the Reformatory, and be established on farm land away from city influences, and that the girls be taught farm and dairy work, and all kinds of house work as well.

THE REFORMATORY FOR BOYS

is situated at Penetanguishene. The location is bad, and the building is not at all adapted to the wants of such an institution. The Prison Reform Commissioners recommend that a Reformatory for boys be established on good farm land, not too far from the centers of population; that the boys be taught farming (which is now impossible), and that the Cottage system be introduced, both with a view to classification and also for the purpose of bringing to bear upon these wayward boys the reforming influence of home life as is done in Michigan and Massachusetts. There is an average of over 200 boys in this Reformatory.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS

is situated at Mimico on a farm of fifty acres, about five miles west of Toronto. About four-fifths of the boys are from Toronto; the balance are from different parts of the Province. Their ages range from seven to fifteen. The number in the School at present is about 160.

At this school the boys are taught farming, gardening, carpentering, tailoring, printing, laundry work, cooking and housework generally. The boys are specially encouraged to go on farms after leaving the school. This school is one of the most useful reformatory institutions and is doing an admirable work.

THE JAILS OF ONTARIO

are partly under municipal and partly under governmental control. The buildings are constructed and the prisoners maintained by the counties, while the jailers are appointed by the sheriffs and the sheriffs by the government. The jails are also visited by the Inspector of Prisons of the Province. About nine-tenths of all prisoners in custody in the province are confined in the county and districts jails. There are about 10,000 committments to the jails of Ontario yearly. During the last five years, however, there has been a slight decrease in the number of committals.

The prisoners in our jails are securely kept and they are well cared for, but it is notorious that our jail system is far from satisfactory. It is neither deterrent nor reformatory. The great bane of our jail system is the lack of means for the efficient classification of the prisoners.

The remedy is a radical one, but unfortunately, also, rather expensive, namely, to adopt the separate system inaugurated in all the local prisons and jails of Great Britain some fifteen years ago, and with mostly gratifying results.

In the meantime the classification of prisoners in jails could be improved, firstly, by removing the simply destitute prisoners to poor houses; secondly, by making separate provision for the custody of children, and thirdly, by providing one or more reformatories in the Province for the habitual drunkard.

COUNTY POOR HOUSES.

The establishment of poor houses is in the hands of the County Councils, and is an encouragement to the counties, the Ontario Government has offered a bonus of $1,000 for the erection of every such poor house. In many of the counties the jails are used as poor houses, and the aged destitute poor, are thus associated with the degraded, the vicious, and the criminal. This is out of harmony with the spirit of the age, with our common humanity and with the dictates of religion.

"Prison reform is not sentimentalism, It believes in the proper punishment of criminals as necessary to the security of society, and as best, everyway, for criminals themselves.—Brinkerhoff.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN MULHOLLAND.

Interment Takes Place in the Vernonville Cemetery.

Mr. Robt. Mulholland has just returned from Haldimand townehip, where he was in attendance at the funeral of his mother. Referring to the death of Mrs. Mulholland the Cobourg Sentinel Star speaks as follows:—

Mrs. John Mulholland departed this life at her late residence, Haldimand township, on Thursday night, Dec. 6th, 1894, in the eighty-second year of her age. The deceased, whose maiden name was Janet Winter, was a native of Berwickshire, Scotland, but came to this country in early life. She was twice married, her first husband being the late John McNully, who resided in Grafton. About forty-six years ago she became the second wife of Mr. John Mulholland, cheerfully taking upon herself the duties involved in the task of rearing the five small, motherless children who in her new relationship she found committed to her care. To these were subsequently added one daughter and one son, namely, Mrs. John Robson, of Vernonville, and Mr. J. T. Mulholland, who resides near the homestead. These with their aged father are left to mourn a faithful wife and tender mother. Of the first family there survive to revere her memory the following persons:—Mr. R. Mulholland, banker, Peterborough; Mrs. Charles Kelly, Baltimore; Mr. W. Mulholland, Grafton, and Mrs. A. Pink, Castleton. Mrs. Mulholland was a loyal member of the Presbyterian church, being identified with the congregation of the "Old Kirk," that being the name by which the Presbyterian church which formerly stood east of the village is familiarly known. On Saturday the funeral moved from her late residence to the Presbyterian burial ground, Vernonville, Rev. M. E. Wilson and Rev. C. S. Lord officiating.

The Change from Girlhood to Womanhood — is fraught with dangers. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nervine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy specially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womenkind at one period or another.

For all women, at all times of life, in all cases of peculiar nature, the "Prescription" is the safe agent that builds up, strengthens, and cures.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic disorders and displacements common to women, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is refunded.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

A MARRIAGE OF AMBITION.

BY VIOLA ROSEBORO.

[Copyright, 1894, by the Author.]

I was once, as the phrase goes, on the stage, and part of my experience in the theatrical profession was gained as leading lady of a traveling company. During the nine months spent on the road with this organization it was my good fortune to form a friendship with one of the other members (thanks to her great kindness to me from the start), and at the end of the season—but first let me give some account of matters that preceded that blessed date.

In the play my friend took the part of the "unfortunate" young woman, and though it may appear to be neither here nor there as to my story I have an interest in recording that she acted remarkably well, on the whole, giving her part in a manner most unlike her own personality, though she gave it the same childlikeness that inhered in all her aspects. Her personality was, in truth, as little suited to the demands of this particular part as well could be, for it told, speaking loudly, too, of a sunny, sweet common sense that is apt to forbid self made misfortunes.

The company was made up chiefly of actors of long standing, genuine stage people, as they would have said, people who had been born and bred to the "show business." I, as a comparative novice (an outsider, they called me), met in the beginning a ready made unpopularity. On that first day I furnished occasion for a little display of the ill feeling that awaited me by unwittingly giving offense to my stage husband in the rehearsal of a very tender scene. After it was over I turned to this gentleman with some idle but civil remark and was met by a stony stare as he turned silently away. I next saw the old woman talking to the old comedian and tossing her head toward me with a malevolent countenance, and presently the stage manager, in accents of bitterness, requested me to move out of the way—this when I was not in the way. The whole business of the stage was still desperately strange and in some ways painful to me at best. This sudden accession of hatred made me feel as if I were cast away upon some distant and worse than unpeopled planet.

While I sat apart upon some property rocks in all the blackness of youthful desolation, a desolation that the strange gloom of the great place, heightened by flares of orange gaslight and wan gleams from the white day outside, seemed to make more eerie and hopeless, I raised my eyes to find Maggie Linton standing looking down upon me from her scant five feet, both hands in her jacket pockets, and —in the teeth of public sentiment—a friendly smile in her merry, dark eyes.

"LOOKING DOWN UPON ME."

"Just saw a cross eyed messenger boy come in," she began, by way of making conversation. "Bet he queers the show; bet we change a line people before we start out. They better get rid of that Leroy anyhow. He's a Jonah. He was in a company I was season before last, and we bust up in Oshkosh. Who were you with last season?" Maggie queried, seating herself beside me as I made room for her on the stuffed rocks.

This was a tactful if insincere assumption that I was in good and regular theatrical standing. I replied that I was still at the beginning of professional life and told her of the engagements that constituted my whole theatrical experience. They had been, by the way, played under unusual and unusually pleasant circumstances.

"You're green," said Maggie, nodding her head conclusively and lapsing into candor. "Guess you don't know much about sure enough show folks. Bet you don't know what made 'em all mad at you this morning. Well, you see, you kept crawling up stage a little, even after Payson told you about it once. I knew you just weren't thinking, but Leroy got on his ear because he said you were trying to make him turn his back to the house; that that was your style. Naw," she went on, in response to a mild suggestion of my own, "that's so! First rehearsal it don't matter a pin, but you see they were all ready and waiting to jump on you, because they thought you were an outsider. Besides leading men are always awful touchy."

I mildly proposed that I should apologize.

"Don't you go and do anything of the sort. You just let 'em think you did it a-purpose if they want to. They'll think you're smarter than you are and think more of you too. Just you take care you don't get put down stage yourself when the first night comes. They'll try to put on you for awhile, but they're all right when you get to know 'em—least, most of 'em are. Old Payson'll be nice to you right along. You've got one of your big scenes with him, and he's more of an actor than anybody else in this company. He and my father played together with Forrest—hello, Jim!" She interrupted herself to throw this salutation pleasantly and laconically to a small, clean shaven, ugly young man. "That's Jim Bowman," she explained. "He plays the low comedy. It's a pretty good little part, and I guess he'll do it pretty good. He's an old timer—was with Jefferson once—but I think," Maggie hastened politely to add, "that some outsiders do awful well. If they're any account, they don't let down salaries any more than real professionals. If they're duffers, they won't stand much in anybody's way anyhow. That's how I look at it. I think it's mean to come down on you because you're an amateur. Beats me, though, why you want to go on the stage. I hate it. Stagestruck?" Maggie asked this as simply as if she were saying "Earache?" and with a kindred inflection of commiseration.

I wanted to find out why she hated the stage—the whole subject was fraught with interest for me—but Maggie was not analytical. She would only say that she wanted to live like other folks. She liked outsiders. She remarked that she'd like to live on a farm, only she'd want to go to the theater. It appeared that her hatred of the stage did not include any dislike of the histrionic art. On the contrary, as I subsequently had plenty of opportunity to observe, her notion of pleasure was typical of her class. She asked nothing better than to see any kind of a theatrical performance from "the front of the house."

Maggie's friendship and patronage (for she, too, you see, in her way felt with the rest that I was an object for patronage) were invaluable to me. She taught me various things, from the packing of a trunk to the best ways of managing the manager, and her helpful friendliness and miraculously fresh, honest good nature were to me in those days a boon like water to the parched. As she was very popular in the company, she soon helped to soften my unpopularity. Altogether she made that year's experience endurable.

In the course of time I learned a good deal of her family history from herself and from other people. It seemed that kinspeople of hers had frequently acquitted themselves creditably, and more than creditably, in the rank and file of their profession and had added a little to the world's good art without burdening it with the fame of another artist—a most respect provoking record so far. Yet the family biography was in other ways of a highly commonplace, theatrical complexion and included many more marriages to the individual than happily ordinary history furnishes.

It was not, however, from the gossip of the company that I learned the interesting fact that Maggie had, in one of the company's members, a suitor for her hand in marriage.

One day on the cars Maggie herself told me that Jim Bowman wished to marry her, and she added: "He ain't ever been married at all, not to anybody. I've been in companies with him off and on four or five years, and I know people that have known him ever since he went on the stage—when he wasn't much more than a kid."

I saw that Maggie regarded Mr. Bowman's singular record with satisfaction yet she announced that she would not listen to him. Our talk was interrupted, but when next I saw her alone I asked how she could be so cruel to such a lover. Maggie was sitting before a coal fire in my room in a hotel in Memphis. I remember the afternoon well for more reasons than one. It was the last time I was comfortable, decently housed and fed and warmed, all at once, for many a weary day. Maggie was in a rocking chair and rocking steadily. Now she took the poker, and still rocking made thrusts as she swung forward at a big, blazing lump of soft coal. When it split and blazed again, she set the poker in its place, put one foot under her and said:

"Well, I'll tell you. I'm not going ever to marry an actor, and Jim don't know any other way to get a living. You see, I'm not going to get married but once. I've made up my mind 'bout that. I'm not saying anything 'gainst stage people. My father played with Forrest in his whole repertory, and my sister Kate is the best heavy lead in the legitimate on the road. The whole profession says so. She's got a backer now that'll likely star her next year, but"—Maggie paused, took her foot from under her, nursed her knee and stared into the fire—"I don't care about being on the stage myself. I know I'd like it better off. I don't like to act much, though I've got good notices every time I had a show, too. They said I was the best Marrianne they'd had in the 'Two Orphans' in a long time. They all did. But I don't care much about it. Kate says she thinks it's awful strange. She loves to act. Then look at the people you see that are perfectly stage drunk, spout Hamlet and Juliet and things all the time, but they can hardly ever act a little bit. I don't see why any one likes it so—stirring themselves all up about things that never happened. I like seeing it, but stirring yourself up's different somehow. I don't know why, but seeing other people act don't make me feel the same sort of sick way after. It's different. I like comedy parts best, but I hardly ever get 'em. I hate feeling a lot of queer ways. I never would myself. I'd never get myself into such fool boxes."

Maggie, with a sidewise glance at me, looked her contempt for the weakminded heroines she habitually embodied. Before she left me she warned me to keep the secret of Jim's suit.

"Does no one in the company guess?" I asked.

"Naw!" said Maggie, practicing a piece of Lottalike gymnastics across the back of a chair. "Jim knows I'd never speak to him again if he went and gave himself away and got them all cackling about me. I couldn't stand it. I've never been talked about in any company I've been in yet, though, of course, they may start up any time, just for nothing at all, but I've been lucky. I don't think myself any better than anybody else. It's not that." Maggie succeeded now in balancing herself steadily in a horizontal position on her chair back, after which, bringing her feet down to the floor, she stood an instant with downcast eyes and her head thrown reflectively to one side. Then she shook it slowly and repeated: "No-p. I'm only going to get married once, and I ain't going to put my pile on an actor. Jim's real name's Flannigan," she added over her shoulder, with her hand on the door. With this statement she departed.

So far as I know, there was no change in the position of affairs thus outlined until we came to Helena, Ark. It is far from my wish to wound the civic pride that any of its inhabitants may take in Helena, but I must now disclose the fact that it once presented to travelers an uninviting aspect. We were by this time schooled in adversity, but we found ourselves at closer quarters with starvation in Helena than ever before, and it was all so much the blacker because, of all times, we arrived on Christmas eve. Everything as we saw it was dismal, dreary, ugly—ugly to the verge of unreality, ugly as a nightmare, but we were hardened to ugliness. Christmas eve as it was, all we cared about was that we were so hungry, and we did feel that the date made our hunger more than commonly pathetic.

After a meal in which we found only one flavor—that of rancid cottonseed oil—some of us declared that the inhabitants of the land must sustain life on other terms than those offered to the wayfarer and the stranger. We set forth in a desperate search for food. Maggie and I went together, and we came home with some poor biscuit and a cake of chocolate. We were to play in Helena two nights.

It was on Christmas day that there crept about a vague rumor to the effect that some of the men had found a place where things to eat were obtainable—good things—but with this news came the intolerable information that this place was not one where ladies could go.

We, the ladies just now most afflicted by the prohibition, were gathered in the hotel parlor in excited conclave when the whole story, good news and bad, was confirmed by the company child, the property child, as her detractors called her. She had been sent forth to gather information, and her information came from the manager himself, the despot of our world, the arbiter of our fate.

"We can have something sent over from there anyhow, can't we?" wailed the soubrette. At this the leading old woman hastily waddled to the door without a word. It flashed on all in an instant what that meant. Ten chances to one this ancient traveler would get it all, all the food that was eatable in Helena—would have it brought to her room before any of the rest of us contrived to discover where it came from. Her resources for making herself comfortable were something we had measured to our cost a thousand times. There was a hurried rush after her, Maggie and I—we always fought our battles together now—rushing too.

"I'll find Jim," Maggie whispered. She was usually chary of calling upon Jim for services, but this was an occasion of magnitude. Jim, however, was not easily found, and—but why go into painful details? We got nothing to eat that afternoon. Jim returned from an exploring expedition full of information, but empty handed.

"The place," he told us, "is cleaned out." The place, it appeared, was a drinking and gambling saloon, with, as he said, a "restaurant attachment." Jim had persuaded the proprietor to promise to send us something—he would not bind himself further—but something to the theater that night.

"I don't want to eat at the theater," cried Maggie. "I want to sit down at a table and have a square meal. I want to go there and eat it."

"'Tisn't a place where ladies"—Jim began as if he were a parrot. Jim, by the way, had habitually a parrotlike manner and a wooden expression. They were his stock in trade as a comedian. I regret to say that Maggie interrupted him by telling him to "shut up." She grasped her curls an instant in scowling meditation; then, snapping her fingers, executed three steps of an original dance and cried: "I've got it. I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll invite Perkins himself to a Christmas supper, invite him free, gratis, for nothing. He'll be bound to go, and so he'll have to let us fill up for once. We'll share the price of him between us. He'll be cheap at the money. Come along, Jim, and help us find Perkins."

The two departed down a long ill smelling hemp carpeted hall.

Perkins was the manager. He was thought stingy, but was believed to greatly enjoy luxuries that cost him nothing. Maggie's plan was calculated to kill two birds with one stone, for attentions to Perkins were apt to smooth the path of those who offered them. Her confidence that we should get our Christmas supper was justified, for Perkins, as soon as he was invited to share it, threw over the scruples he had entertained regarding the fitness of this den of iniquity for feminine patronage. He said, as Maggie mimickingly reported, that if all the ladies of his company had the sense we had he'd have been perfectly willing from the start for them all to go and get a square meal, but that we knew as well as he that theatrical ladies were likely to be thoughtless, and that it might queer the show if the natives knew they had indulged in such a festivity.

"There is no telling what these here yokels might say about you," said the sensitive manager, "or what might get in the papers, and though that might be an 'ad.' for the time being it ain't the dodge that pays in the long run with a show that appeals to the heart and the purer

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE.

A MARRIAGE OF AMBITION.

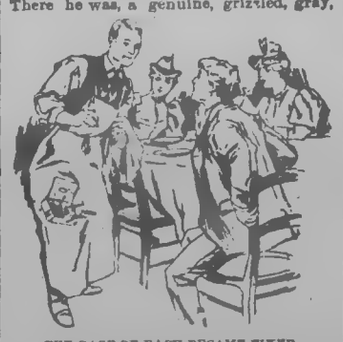
feelings the way we do. No; I've got my instructions to keep this company strict, but I know you ladies, and I know you're hungry, and it's Christmas, and I'm with you at 6 sharp."

The arrangements for our appearance at White's saloon were made, and at 6 o'clock, in the twilight, we four took our way through a muddy alley to the back entrance. In the yet more muddy yard, studded with old tin cans, that formed the last stage of our journey, we came upon the chef who was to minister to our delight. There is no irony in this statement. There he was, a genuine, grizzled, gray,



THE GAZE OF EACH BECAME FIXED.

old French cook, in white cap and apron, with the very look of Paris upon him. By the light of a pitch torch we beheld him standing over a dilapidated stove under an open shed in Helena, Arkansaw! He did not even look up as we passed him, and guided by a softly opening door filed into the oddest dining room that even strolling players ever saw.

It was small, but it achieved that look of solid comfort common—even in Arkansas, it seems—to rooms furnished exclusively for and by men, and it possessed in some inscrutable way a quite unrivaled air of seclusion, remoteness. It contained a table, not a dining table, but something quite different. The men chuckled at the sight of it, with that curiously innocent glee in naughtiness so frequently seen where any innocence would be least expected. They explained—indeed I wish I could tell what they did explain, but I fear to blunder among unfamiliar technicalities. It was a real poker table, or faro table, or roulette table, or all three together. It was, in short, a piece of professional furniture, and a handsome one, too, I remember. It was covered with curious designs in inlaid woods.

Whoever opened the door for us had disappeared at once without my realizing his existence, but now a man in shirt sleeves opened another, an inner door, glanced, with the glance of authority, upon us and also disappeared.

Presently—it all seemed like the "Arabian Nights"—a negro loaded with dishes and napery came in and began to set the poker table.

Memory dwells on that meal, that little Christian Christmas meal, beginning with soup, including a salad and ending with coffee! I never expect to find another as magically delightful. It was not only to the senses that it appealed, but to our player souls. Its daintiness, order and perfection echoed a faroff civilization, for which, in our various ways, we all yearned. The conjunction of the supper and the date so softened, so deeply moved us all that there is no measuring how far the general mood had to do with calling forth and guiding the events that followed. While we were eating our salad the coatless gentleman who had before looked upon us came in. I had learned that this was White himself, the wizard to whose magic we were indebted.

White looked the man of power. He nodded slightly, accepting our greetings with Napoleonic calm and silence, and stood watching us with sphinxlike impassivity, no trace of Arkansas or any other place but a gambling house to be seen in his compact person and clean shaven face.

Without having spoken a word White left us, and presently another, a younger man, with the air of subordination instead of authority (also in his shirt sleeves), came in, bringing a box of cigars. He passed it in silence to Perkins. After Perkins had taken one the newcomer turned to Jim Bowman.

The men's eyes met. The gaze of each became fixed, strained; then one gasped "Jim," the box clattered to the floor between them, and the two were shaking hands hard and patting each other silently, while tears brimmed in their eyes.

This pantomime seemed amazingly prolonged, as if we were all in a stupor, but at last Jim turned to Maggie and said chokingly:

"It's me brother"—he relapsed for the moment into the brogue of his childhood. "It's me brother Mike!" he repeated.

Maggie nodded with shining eyes. Then she made a comical little protesting movement with her small fist above her averted

"I'M GOING TO MARRY JIM."

head, and a second later dropped it on the table, with a big sob. Jim, unconscious of this sympathetic demonstration, was at that moment being pushed through the inner doorway by his brother, who was muttering something about a drink.

Maggie, delivered of her sob, lifted her head again, and looking after them as the door closed wiped her eyes.

"Broke me all up," she commented as she comfortably turned to her coffee. "You better look after Jim Bowman now," she said to Perkins, "or he'll be keeping the stage waiting."

Perkins, eager enough to follow the brothers, started after them at once. "We're going on to the theater," Maggie called after him. "Tell Jim."

Perhaps I should state that there was nothing peculiar in our doing so unescorted. All the party were following, so far as general principles could be followed in that particular case, the stage's traditions of strictest propriety, surely the funniest traditions that were ever brought forth on even that difficult subject.

For a time Maggie was silent, but at last she said: "Awful funny 'bout Jim's brother, ain't it? Just like a play, Christmas and all. Broke me all up. Jim's got a good heart, hasn't he? I knew he had a brother once. He's told me some things about when he was little. They were newsboys and bootblacks and things, but he says that was after they began to get up in the world. They had it awful when they can first remember. I think the more of—of 'em both for having made something of themselves."

It did not yet seem entirely clear to me that there was reason for pride in what Jim's brother, at least, had made of himself; but, except for sympathetic murmurs, I said nothing, and Maggie talked on, evidently stirred to an uncommon interest in her subject.

"Jim says his mother was a good woman, but she was sick a lot, and then she died. Those two kids just skinned around for themselves. Mike's the oldest. He got himself sent up to a reformatory somewhere. Jim, he'd been suping already, and then he got a chance to go on the road, with a couple of words to speak and to help the property man, and he ain't seen his brother since. He says he hadn't learnt to write much then—he can now as good as anybody. He didn't seem to think Mike was alive much. I didn't know he cared so much about him. Jim's got a big heart, I guess."

I thought it probable that Jim had discovered the depths of his fraternal affection only within the last hour, the capacity for a sudden emotional revelation of that sort at the sight of one before forgotten being highly human, or—it is the same thing—especially Irish, but I saw that Maggie was minded to regard the agitation of the meeting as evidencing rare depths in the heart that was hers, as perhaps it did.

That night, after the performance was over, Maggie came to my dressing room on some trumped up excuse, really for the pleasure of conversation, or, rather, for that most widely appreciated phase of it consisting in hearing oneself talk. She removed her makeup in my room, and as she vigorously rubbed her face with a towel, from time to time minutely peering at it in the looking glass, she entered upon her subject—Jim.

"No, sir," she at last concluded, breaking her sentences by moments of exclusive attention to her toilet, "I tell you I ain't going to marry but once, and I can't risk that on an actor, though Lord knows Jim ain't much like one, on the stage or off. There's your hat behind the trunk. I'll be ready in a minute," and Maggie flew back to her own room.

I naturally inferred from these fresh declarations to the contrary that her resolution not to trust herself upon the troubled sea of what we may fitly call histrionic matrimony was weakening, probably had been weakening for some time past. It is the way of such resolutions, under fire, so to speak. And I made the mistake of supposing that I should soon find her publicly recanting, which only shows how precarious a profession is prophecy in such a world as this.

The next day we left Helena, and I am happy to say I have forgotten where we went, but I remember well that Jim's brother went with us, "to finish his visit," he said. His visit was a fateful matter to Maggie and Jim. The first news I had of its results for them was comprehensive. It came from Maggie herself.

We were all at a railway station, and Jim's brother had just taken the train that was to carry him back to Helena. I was walking up and down the platform looking through the chilly air at the flat, dreary winter landscape that stretched beyond the bare, squalid little houses and the seas of mud of the foreground. Most of the company were in the stove heated, dirty waiting room. Maggie was opening trunks on the platform, trotting about, looking very taut and pretty and unmistakably the "actress" in her ulster and cap, with her handbag strapped over her shoulder. She kept staring at me with remarkably bright eyes as I passed her.

At last, having completed the transfer of something from her hotel trunk to her theater trunk, or vice versa, she came up to me, fell into step, ran her hands into her hip pockets and said:

"The train's half an hour late. I guess I'll tell you now." Then she stopped and faced me. "I'm going to marry Jim, and I haven't had to give in either. He's going to leave the stage. Yes, sir, he is," resuming her march. "Ain't it a good thing I didn't give in before? Hurrah for cottonseed oil and the Christmas supper it drove us to, I say. I'll tell you all how it is. He and his brother are going to buy a nice little liquor business in New York on Sixth avenue. They're going to buy it together. You see, Mike understands all about it. And we won't be on the stage any more. Isn't it good?" Maggie's voice was expressive of childlike gratitude, serious and tender. "New York all the time. No more Arkansaw," she went on. "And Jim and me living together all the time, real sure enough married people!"

Before the train came Maggie told me the whole history of the transaction that gave her such satisfaction, but the most interesting part of her story was rather in the nature of a hope than of an accomplished fact.

"Mike," she was saying, "says he wants to get away from Helena. He says that's an awful tough hole he's in. He and Jim are going to keep their new place as respectable as can be. Then"—here she lowered her voice a little and spoke with a charming, modest pride—"then he says he knows a man that's got a pull in that ward, and he says he and Jim may get into politics some. There's no telling but they may a good deal. Oh, wouldn't I be proud!"

* * * * * * *

At the end of the season I danced at her wedding, and so it came about that I have friends in New York among the governing class, for, I am happy to record, things being as they are, that Maggie's ambition is approaching realization. The pull still pulls. Jim is getting into politics, and life for Maggie is moving to the deep satisfaction of her inborn, indestructible and touching taste of respectability.

The Mother Heart Touched

"I Believe SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Saved the Lives of Two of My Children."—Puny Children Grow Fat and Strong—Tired and Ailing Women Take on the BLOOM of EARLIER YEARS.

What will touch the mother heart more deeply than the illness of her little ones? She may suffer much herself, and women are sorely afflicted with many ills, but she will endure all this, however often, without a murmur; but there can be no disguising her anxiety when the little ones of the home are stricken down with sickness. And how many puny children there are! We talk of the bloom of youth, but thousands of children know not of it. Others may romp, but they are weaklings.

Mothers, would you have your loved ones strong and healthy? Would you enjoy good health yourself? Then use South American Nervine Tonic; there is no doubting its efficacious properties. Investigate from a scientific or a common sense point of view and you will find that nearly all disease has its start in the nerve centres of the body.

The mission of South American Nervine is to at once reach the nerve centres, which are to the whole body what the mainspring of the watch is to every other part of the timepiece. Science has made perfectly clear that the troubles that affect the individual organs of the body, have their seat in these nerve centres, so, without any wasteful experimenting, South American Nervine reaches out to the seat of the difficulty, and straightening out what is wrong there heals the whole body. Listen to what Mrs. H. Russell, Wingate, writes on this point: "I have used several bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and will say, I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down, and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly both improved on its use. I don't allow myself to be without some of it in my house. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors." It will certainly grant new life to all who are delicate, whether young, middle-aged, or old. Do not worry along with ill health, but dispel it, and brighten your lives by the immediate use of South American Nervine.

SAILSBURY'S BOOKSTORE.

Shot the Proprietor.

STRATFORD, Dec. 27.—John Hardman, of this place, son of the G. T. R. engineer of that name, entered the bar of the Albion hotel yesterday and presenting a cocked revolver at Mr. S. A. Cameron the proprietor, said, "D—— you; I'll kill you." Twice the weapon missed fire, the third time it went off, the bullet going through Cameron's coat and vest near his middle, but not even scratching him. Hardman then turned the revolver on the bartender but it only snapped. He was almost immediately arrested and locked up. He of late has been drinking heavily.

Killed Beside the Christmas Tree.

VIENNA, Dec. 27.—A landowner named Pemperl, his son 10 years old, and a maid servant were murdered in Ober-Hollarbrunn, Lower Austria, while they were trimming a Christmas tree. The murderer stole 1,500 florins and escaped. The police have no clue to his identity or whereabouts.

Sudden Death in Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 27.—Jacob S. Crothers, who was for many years in the confectionery business, fell dead in his house yesterday. He was 46 years old and leaves a wife and family.

The Fatal Oil Lamp.

BUFFALO, Dec. 27. Mrs. Cohn spilled some oil on the floor and over her clothing while filling a lamp in her home last evening. Attempting to light the lamp, the wasted oil was ignited and the woman was severely burned, her nine months-old child was burned to death and the household effects damaged to the extent of $1,000.

Why Manitoba Wheat is High.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—W. W. Ogilvie, the big flour miller, has returned from his annual tour of inspection in the west. He states that the cause of the advance in Manitoba wheat is the scarcity of wheat. Mr. Ogilvie says it is his intention to erect six new elevators next year and to enlarge the Winnipeg mill.

Dropped Dead on the Street.

GEORGETOWN, Dec. 27.—Mr. Samuel Gilmore, sr., an old and respected citizen, for many years an employe of the corporation, dropped dead on the street on Christmas morning.

Dr. McGlynn Himself Again.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn celebrated high mass yesterday at the church of the Holy Cross. It is eight years since Dr. McGlynn was removed from St. Stephen's church by Archbishop Corrigan and on this Christmas Day he is restored again to full connection with this archdiocese. The doctor looked very happy as he received the congratulations of his friends. He will soon start for his new parish, St. Mary's church, Newburg, to which he has been assigned by Archbishop Corrigan.

EDGAR ON COPYRIGHT

His Letter to the Times in Support of the Canadian Act.

OUR POWERS TO LEGISLATE

The Copyright Question is One of Those Matters With Which We Are Empowered to Deal by the Act of Confederation—British Publishers' View.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Mr. Edgar, in his letter to the Times, on the subject of Canadian copyright, says:

In addressing you this letter, I do so as one in no way representative of any class or trade interest in Canada, but as an active member of the Liberal Opposition in the Canadian House of Commons, who has given the closest attention to this question for some years. It seems to me to be opportune that the British Government and people should be informed of the true state of feeling in Canada upon this question in its broader aspect, that they may understand that it involves a principle of the first magnitude in our colonial eyes.

We have our bitter party fights in the Dominion and the present Government is earnestly opposed by many of us on account of its high tariff and its very manifold iniquities. While this is the case, any reader of the Canadian Hansard since 1885 can ascertain that no difference of opinion exists among us as to the paramount necessity of our insisting upon the fullest right to legislate upon copyright for Canada. On this point Canadians of all parties are as absolutely a unit as would be the people of the British Isles in their resistance to a demand, we will say, from France for a cession of the Channel Islands. Far more a unit are they than were the other American colonies at first in their opposition to the tea duties.

Our Dominion Parliament, in 1889, passed a Copyrright Act without a dissenting vote. Its provisions were not unfair to British authors, though it gave Canadian publishers some rights which placed them more nearly on a level with American publishers than they were before. It is perfectly defensible as a measure fair to all interests. Except in our high tariff on imports from Great Britain, Canadian legislation has never been hostile to the mother land, nor would it be allowed to remain so in the case of Copyright, if any grievances were shown to exist. The Act provided that it should not come into force until proclamation by the Governor-General, and its operation was thus suspended in order to allow our Government to discuss it with the Colonial office. More than five years have elapsed, and it has not been assented to by the Imperial Government, although most urgent pressure for that purpose has been kept up by the Canadian Government, and strong addresses of remonstrance on the subject have been unanimously passed by the Canadian Parliament.

The British Copyright Association contend that our Act of 1889 is ultra vires because it interferes with the Imperial Copyright Act of 1842, which applied to Canada. We contend that the Dominion Confederation Imperial Act of 1867 gave us exclusive right to legislate upon copyright in Canada, and that if it did not it should at once be amended to place it beyond a doubt that we have such power. This doubt certainly existed in the minds of eminent English lawyers, although, on the other hand, a number of decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council go to strengthen the Canadian view. At any rate we believe that we did receive those powers in our charter, and we certainly will not rest until the point shall be conceded.

So long ago as August, 1889, Sir John Thompson well expressed in a state paper the position he has consistently maintained ever since. He said: "It was to his mind perfectly plain that the people of Canada would hold him culpable if he failed to assert that this was the only interpretation under which they received the constitution, and under which they were willing to be content with that constitution."

There is another feature of the Copyright question in which the wishes of Canada are persistently ignored by the Imperial Government. In September, 1886, an International Copyright Union was established by the Berne Convention. Great Britain specifically bound her colonies thereby, but also provided that she reserved the power of announcing at any time the separate renunciation of the convention by Canada, on giving the required one year's notice. In connection with our legislation of 1889 we wished to be relieved from the Berne Convention and our Government requested England to give the requisite notice for us. This request has been often repeated and has been also urged in an address from our Parliament, yet the notice has not been given. To ask for leave to withdraw from a treaty, in the negotiation of which we took no part, is surely not unreasonable. On the other hand it seems unwise for England to deny our right to legislate as to a comparatively small matter like copyright, when we can, and do, legislate upon matters involving life and death, and can, and do, raise our local military forces, and can, and do, erect tariffs against the world.

In 1846 Earl Grey in a despatch sent to all the governors of the North American colonies on the subject of copyright, announced that "Her Majesty's Government propose to leave to the Local Legislature the duty and responsibility of passing such enactments as they may deem proper for securing both the rights of authors and the interests of the public." Canadians naturally accepted the language of the Confederation Act of 1867 and placed copyright among the exclusive powers of the Federal Parliament, as being a fulfillment of Earl Grey's promise. Is it any wonder that we wiew with alarm and surprise the apparent persistent efforts of successive British Administrations to narrow in this particular the powers we received by the Act of 1867? We are jealous of our rights under that statute, which embodied the compact with England whereby the people of these confederated provinces secured their legislative autonomy.

On one point there must be no misunderstanding. If British authors or publishers desire modifications of the Canadian copyright laws, they will ultimately have to apply to Ottawa for them, and their objects will never be attained by sneers or vituperation directed against us either in letters to the Times or by deputations who are received in Downing street.

CHELFORD RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Government Inquiry into the Cause of the Late Disaster.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Government inquiry into the railway disaster near Chelford opened yesterday with Prof. Bryce, president of the Board of Trade in attendance. Station Master Hyde who supervised the handling of the freight cars at the switch where the accident occurred, testified that he was shunting a freight train just before the Chelford express was due to pass the side track. The last car got detached while he was near the front of the train. He saw it move swiftly toward the main line but he could not reach it. He waved his lantern vigorously to stop the express but without effect.

The engineer in the second locomotive said he saw the red lantern but it was too late to reduce speed as the third train was running fifty miles an hour. The first locomotive caught the freight car, he said, carried it a little distance and then toppled over on its side. The witnesse's locomotive left the track but remained upright. The first locomotive formed a stop block to the train. The engineer and fireman of the first locomotive were too sick to attend the inquiry and it was adjourned to await their recovery.

The Radical Leader Abuses Crispi.

ROME, Dec. 27.—Deputy Cavallotti, the Radical leader, has written to his constituents a letter abusing Premier Crispi most virulently. "The Premier of any other country would have resigned," he says, "after such an exposure as the Giolitti documents made." The prorogation is described as an insult to the nation. Cavolitti especially denounces the Ministry's invocation of the aid of the King, whom, he says, Crispi abuses privately and flatters publicly. M. Harcourt, the Paris Matin's correspondent here, has been ordered to leave the city, probably on account of his despatches concerning the present crisis.

Detained Amid Filth.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 27.—A special despatch to the North American from Chester says that the 335 steerage passengers of the steamer Southwark, which was recently detained off that city on account of the death of a passenger from smallpox, are confined at the quarantine station there in the most absolute filth and privation. In an interview to-day one of the prisoners said that a petition complaining of the food was signed by 250 of them, but the officials in charge suppressed it.

Lord Randolph's Case Hopeless.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Dr. Keith, one of Lord Randolph Churchill's physicians said last night: "His weakness increases slowly and the case is absolutely hopeless. A sad feature of his illness is that every effort in behalf of the patient merely prolongs such agony as he is now able to feel. The end is merely a matter of time. He may linger a month but this is highly improbable."

Armenians Embracing Islamism.

LONDON, Dec. 27. The Daily News correspondent in Odessa says that numerous Armenian refugees from Moosh and Bulenlyk are arriving at Sarakamyah. They are on their way to Etchmiadzin. All are in a wretched condition. The correspondent says that several conspicuous Armenians in Moosh have been forced to embrace Islamism to save their lives and property and the honor of their wives and daughters.

Labor Troubles in Haverhill.

Haverville, Mass., Dec. 27.—The labor troubles here have grown more pronounced and it seems as though a general strike affecting every department of the shoe making is inevitable. W. W. Spaulding in whose factory the stitchers stuck attempted to call them back and agreed to restore wages to the price in vogue before the cut at the beginning of the fall and said he would not ask them to sign an iron-clad agreement.

Shot His Fellow Prisoners.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27.—Wesley George and James Rial were arrested in Argentine for disorderly conduct and put in the city jail with other prisoners. George concealed a revolver in his clothing and a few minutes later began shooting indiscriminately. Hugh Sublett was shot in the side, Thomas Ross in the arm and Jesse Lumley, a boy of 16 in the head. None of them will die.

The Indian National Congress.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 27.—The Indian National Congress opened in Madras yesterday. Alfred Webb, M. P. for West Waterford, was elected president. He compared the situation and destinies of India with those of Ireland. He commended the Indian Government but sharply criticised the country's extravagant military establishments as entirely beyond the limits of its wealth.

Harry Decker Charged With Forgery.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Harry S. Decker, the ex-baseball player, was held in bonds to the criminal court yesterday to answer charges of obtaining $218 and $68 on worthless cheques. After his release on bond he was arrested on a warrant sworn to by A. G. Spaulding, the sporting goods maker charging him with forging Spaulding's name to a cheque for $100.

Nubar Pasha Was Chased by a Bull.

CAIRO, Dec. 27.—Nubar Pasha, president of the Council of Ministers, was chased by a bull on his farm at Choubrah two days ago. In his flight he fell down an embankment and injured his back so severely that his doctors say he must recline in a chair or on a couch for two months. His family urge him to resign his office and take a long rest.

Pittsburg Doesn't Want Pugilists.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 27.—Superintendent of Police O'Mara has ordered the arrest of all prize fighters who have no visible means of support and directs that they be charged as vagrants and treated as such. Jerry Marshall the Australian negro was arrested but was released on bail and will have a hearing.

Col. Sol. Palmer Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 27.—Col. Sol. Palmer, one of the oldest telegraphers in the country is dead. Col. Palmer, at the time of his death, had been for about twenty years the superintendent of construction of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

Byrnes Has a Clean Record.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Superintendent Byrnes, of the New York police, will be the first witness called to take the stand before the Lexow Committee to-day. If the rumors in circulation prove to be well founded the superintendent will leave the stand with as clean a record as when he went on it and be called upon by the committee later to reorganize the police department.

Non-Union Men Assaulted.

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, Dec. 26.—Non-union glass-blowers are arriving to work in the Buckeye glass works which is about to resume operations and the local men have are greatly excited. Nine non-union men been assaulted, two of them being badly beaten. The company says the works will be started if it is necessary to appeal to the state for protection.

A Passenger Train Wrecked.

PRESCOTT, Ari., Dec. 26.—The east-bound passenger train, No. 2, on the Atlantic and Pacific road, was wrecked six miles west of Ashford. A broken rail was the cause. The day coach was turned upside down, and the tourist car was thrown 30 feet from the road bed. Several passengers were painfully injured.

Fatal Collision on the Big Four.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 26.—Two freight trains collided yesterday on the Big Four road, about three miles southeast of here. Both engines were demolished. Engineer Elijah Campbell was killed and buried under the wreck of his engine. An unknown tramp who was stealing a ride was also killed and several were injured.

STORMS IN THE STATES

The Cold Wave Reaches the Extent of a Howling Blizzard.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC SUSPENDED

In the State of New York the Storm Was the Most Severe Experienced in a Decade—Important Centres Storm-Bound—Damage in Camden, N.J.

ROCHESTER, Dec. 28.—The storm that has been raging throughout Western New York was one of the most severe and disastrous known in this decade. The snow was piled up from two to five feet in depth. Every line of railway entering the city was blocked and all trains were from two to eight hours late. On the Central Hudson many passenger trains were abandoned and freight traffic was at a standstill. The storm down the Genesee valley has not been as severe as about this city. The blizzard came so unexpectedly that cattle have suffered from exposure and country roads are well nigh impassable.

AUBURN, Dec. 28.—Auburn has been almost entirely cut off from communication with the outside world. No mail has been received from any point east of this city. The first New York mail arrives here at 6.45 a.m. but the train was stalled midway between Syracuse and Auburn and did not reach this city until 9 o'clock at night. One train from the west pushed through the drifts at noon but could only get as far as Skanateles Junction. The imprisoned passengers on these trains were fed by the farmers near by and there was not any suffering through cold or hunger. The country highways are utterly impassable and the streets and walks in the city are very hard to travel.

SARANAC LAKE, Dec. 28.—The snow here has fallen to a depth of 20 inches. At Lake Placid two feet of snow has fallen, and drifted badly. The Adirondack trains from Herkimer are six hours late. Chateauguay trains are three hours behind time. The thermometer registers four degrees below zero.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Dec. 28.—A snowstorm almost equal to the famous blizzard of 1888 has been raging in the Mohawk valley, about 18 inches of snow falling. It has drifted badly and Central Hudson and West Shore trains are from three to four hours late and some of them have been abandoned. No freights have been run. The Empire State express west-bound was nearly two hours late when it reached this city. The storm is still raging.

New Jersey Feels Its Violence.

CAMDEN, N.J., Dec. 28.—The storm in this vicinity was the most severe since 1886. Electrical wires of all kinds were blown down by the high wind. Market street, one of the principal thoroughfares, was blocked by the debris until late in the day. At Seventh and Birch streets seven two-storey houses were unroofed and several of the inmates were injured by falling bricks and plaster.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Shirley who reside in one of the houses had a narrow escape from death. Both were rescued badly hurt. Trees by the score were uprooted in different sections of the city. Considerable damage was done to shipping. At Coopers Point B. G. Wilkins suffered much loss. Several small boats belonging to him were torn loose from their moorings and have not been recovered, while several of his steam launches were capsized or sunk. Other vessels in that locality had their masts blown away and otherwise injured. Henry J. Clossterman, a well known business man, was struck by a falling tree while walking along Broadway and had a leg broken.

Severe Cold in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 28.—This was the coldest day of the winter in Minnesota, the temperature ranging from 14 below zero at 7 a.m. to 4 below at 9 p.m. In the state the range was from 25 below at Grand Rapids to 20 below at Stillwater. Not over two inches of snow has fallen at any point and loggers are having serious trouble in the woods. No serious cases of suffering are reported. The cold is moderating rapidly.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Dec. 28.—The cold snap did not moderate here and a sharp wind made travelling disagreeable. The thermometer was at 22 below zero at 9 p.m. and is still falling.

Buffalo Waging War on Pugilists.

BUFFALO, Dec. 28.—The police arrested yesterday another pugilist named Michael Leary, charged with having no visible means of support. Leary three years ago had a "go" with Charley Mitchell and was beaten in three rounds. Justice Harrington allowed Leary a week in which to find employment or leave the city. "Solly" Smith and Johnny Vanheest have been driven out of town and the police are after other pugilists who have no visible means of support. Superintendent Bull says he will clear the city of this class of persons before the week is out.

Shutting Out Britain's Cattle.

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—Schleswig and East Prussia have followed Bremen's example and have prohibited the importation of British and Irish cattle and pigs.

DIRECTORS IN CUSTODY

Ex-Premier Goodridge and Other Bank Officers Under Arrest.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

The Union Bank Will Be Able to Pull Through, but the Commercial is Hopelessly Insolvent—The Accused Directors Released on $36,000 Bail.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 28.—A despatch from St. Johns, Nfld., says Messrs. Cook, manager; ex-Premier Goodridge, Goodfellow, Hutchinson and Dubier, directors of the Commercial Bank, lately suspended, were arrested yesterday on information laid by Hon. George Skelton, a shareholder. They are charged with making a false written statement and rendering false accounts to the shareholders. Cook will be arrested on another charge, such as embezzlement and fraudulently taking the funds of the bank. The disclosures against Cook are very damaging, and considerable excitement was caused by the arrests. Pitts, the director, who is included in the warrant of arrest, is absent from St. Johns, but will be arrested immediately on his return, and if he does not return he will be arrested in Canada. Bail will be accepted for the prisoners at $20,000 each.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 28.—The extreme reticence of the Commercial Bank officials is delaying the report of the Legislative Committee on the condition of the suspended banks. It is stated, however, that they will advise compounding of the Commercial Bank notes at 30 cents, no payment to be made until a full call has been made on the bank's shareholders, and the endorsement of Union Bank notes at 85 cents on the dollar, to run two years before redemption.

The steamer Ulunda brought an expert English bank syndicate representative with a stock of specie for the general trade. Holders of commercial notes find them of use. There is fearful destitution in this city and people from the coast with absolutely nothing are gathering here. If the close of navigation sees no more food here than at present many must starve during the winter.

Bail for the accused directors was increased to $36,000 each after consultation with the crown. More warrants for the officials have been issued.

The legislative committee reported on the Union and Commercial Banks last night. The Union Bank was solvent and able to pay every bond 100 cents on the dollar with time and the passage of an act stopping actions for the payment of notes in gold. The Commercial Bank was found hopelessly insolvent and the utmost expected of it is a small dividend. The Government proposed to guarantee Union Bank paper to the amount of 80 cents on the dollar and Commercial Bank paper, to the amount of 20 cents on the dollar. Nothing will be decided until to-day.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Daily News says in a leader on the arrest of the bank officers in Newfoundland: "The arrests seem to be in the nature of an heroic remedy for the financial troubles in the colony. Whatever the issue of the prosecution be, it can hardly strengthen the public confidence on which the poor remnant of the colony's prosperity for the moment rests. Newfoundland is in a piteous state. She has almost returned to first principles as a social organization, and she must now regret her short-sighted refusal to enter the Dominion. If she had joined the federation she would have a better claim on the support of her sister communities. Her refusal never was based on any other reasons than selfish prudence."

THE HENDERSHOTT CASE.

Continuation of the Coroner's Inquest at Middlemarch.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 28.—The inquest on the Hendershott case opened at Middlemarch yesterday. The prisoners, Welter and Hendershott, were taken out, out were not on the stand. Charles D. Welter gave evidence in a very unsatisfactory manner and was threatened with committal several times. David Hendershott, father of deceased, and Mary Hendershott were again on the stand, but nothing of much importance was elicited. The inquest adjourned until to-day.

Destructive Fire in Thedford.

THEDFORD, Ont., Dec. 28.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in our village took place yesterday totally destroying the large and well-equipped roller flour mill belonging to James Calvert. The cause of fire is unknown but is supposed to have originated from hot boxes in the third story. The fire spread to the frame house owned by the estate of the late Mr. Rose and occupied by John Chester. The next building to fall a prey to the devouring element was Mr. Barney Service's barn which was soon levelled to the ground. A strong south-west wind was blowing and there was great danger of the many buildings in that direction including D. Weir's flax mill, but through the efforts of our citizens these were saved. The losses were as follows: Jas. Calvert, mill insured for $6,000, loss $7,000; Rose estate, insurance $300, loss $300; Barney Service, insurance $100. D. Weir had over 250 bushels of flax seed stored in the grist mill imported from England last season at a high price and will be a loosser to the extent of about $700.

The Rockland Case Will be Investigated.

OTTAWA, Dec. 28.—An investigation into the Rockland case of alleged murder is to be made. Crown prosecutor Fleming received a telegram from the Attorney-General of Quebec authorizing him to order an investigation. Mr. Fleming communicated with the chief of the Hull police. A man is to be sent down immediately. The expenses will be borne by the Quebec Government. Johnston, the suspected, will come up on remand on Monday, when he will likely be further remanded, pending the investigation.

Brockville's New Asylum.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Dec. 28.—The first consignment of lunatics for Brockville's new asylum were transferred yesterday from Brockville asylum, numbering 72. They were accompanied by Drs. Ross and Barber and were met at the station by Bursar Baker, who had covered rigs in readiness to drive them to the new asylum.

HOSTILITIES TO CEASE

China and Japan is in a Fair Way of Coming to Amicable Terms.

AN AMERICAN COMMISSIONER

John W. Foster Called by the Chinese Government to Meet Japan in the Negotiations for Peace—Movements of the Hostile Armies in China.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—John W. Foster has been requested by the Chinese Government to go to Japan and meet the plenipotentiaries of that government to aid them in their negotiations for peace. He has accepted the invitation and expected to leave Washington in a day or two, sailing from Vancouver for Yokohama on January 7.

The Japanese government has been advised of the appointment and its minister in this city has expressed his satisfaction with it. Mr. Foster desires to have it understood that he goes to Japan purely in a private capacity as an adviser of the Chinese plenipotentiary.

In official circles where the announcement became known it was taken to mean that from now until the peace negotiations are formally begun there would be a complete suspension of all hostilities between the armies of Japan and China.

The fact that Mr. Foster's appointment was submitted to the Japanese Government and approved by it, indicates that peace overtures were begun simultaneously with Mr. Foster's selection as the adviser of the Chinese Government. While the announcement is made that the Japanese minister here approves the appointment it is recognized in diplomatic circles to mean that the minister voices the opinion of his government at home and that the matter has been the subject of cable correspondence.

The immediate effect of Mr. Foster's appointment was to delay the beginning of peace negotiations. State department officials had been confident from Minister Denby's despatches that the Chinese representatives, Chin-Ven-Huan and Shao, were already on their way to Japan, and it was their understanding that the formalities for peace would be concluded as rapidly as possible, the preliminaries having been practically arranged in advance through the good offices of Ministers Dun and Denby. Mr. Foster's mission, however, is taken as an indication that the Chinese expect to gain more favorable terms from Japan than has hitherto been considered at all possible. Until to day no one has doubted that Japan's ultimate terms had been made definitely known to China, and that China, powerless to effect any farther resistance to Japanese arms, had fully consented to accept the ultimatum without delay. As Mr. Foster does not intend to sail for more than a week, and the voyage across the Pacific will consume two weeks more, nearly a month must elapse before the peace negotiations are fairly inaugurated.

Movements of the Armies.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—A despatch to the Central News says the Chinese army under General Sung having been defeated at Kung-Wa-Sei, retreated to New-Chwang. There they were joined by the troops under command of General Ma, and the combined force retreated to Tien-Chon-Ta, the town of New-Chwang being completely evacuated. The Chinese troops at Tas-Han-Lien are spreading their front and increasing the number of their banners in order to make the greatest possible display of strength. Japanese cavalry scouts report that 3,000 Chinese from King Chow have reached Tas-Han-Lien.

The native officials at Shanghai and Ningpo are in a complete state of panic, fearing Japanese invasion.

The Storm Violent in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Dec. 28.—The height of the hurricane occurred about six o'clock last evening. Very few ventured out of doors and in many instances doors of the houses were blocked with snow banks. Six sleighs were upset near Parliament buildings and much trouble was experienced with the horses in the drift. A couple of boys had to be rescued, being completely carried off their feet by the wind. Trees and fences are wrenched away and some damage was done to property. The city is in utter darkness, the electric light line having been demoralized. The telephone and telegraph line also suffered.

French Army Contract Scandals.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—The Presse says that a new scandal about army contracts is at hand. The fraud is said to be similar to the one practised by Allezo Brothers recently condemned. Buffier, who contracted to deliver cavalry saddles of a certain quality, made some inferior goods, and they were rejected. Later, the Presse says, he got them accepted.

Burned an Entire Block.

BUFFALO, Dec. 28.—A fire broke out in a three-storey brick building, corner Broadway and Fillmore Ave., last night and spread to and destroyed an entire block across the street, running from Fillmore Ave. to Gibson street causing a loss of $300,000. Owing to frozen hydrants it was half an hour after the arrival of the firemen before they could turn a stream on the flames.

More Earthquakes in Sicily.

ROME, Dec. 28.—Sicily has suffered from seven severe earthquakes in the last 24 hours and much damage is reported to have been done. Massina and Milazzo felt the shocks most keenly. Reggio di Calabria, the district at the extreme south of continental Italy, was shaken severely. The most violent shock either in Italy or Sicily was felt in Milazzo.

A Memorial Service in San Remo.

GENOA, Dec. 28.—The Canadians now in San Remo will hold a memorial service on the day of Sir John Thompson's state funeral in Halifax. Among those who will be present are the Baroness Macdonald, Lady Abbott and her daughters and Sir David Macpherson and his family.

FRIDAY. DECEMBER 28. 1894.

IS IT JUSTICE?

Toronto, the good, is not only a peculiar city in respect of her civic administration, but she also seems to be characterized by strained ideas of the administration of justice. Two recent cases in connection with the administration of justice suggest grave conditions. A respectably connected woman was detected "appropriating" some goods in one of the large shops without going through the formality of tendering a monetary equivalent. A little girl, poor and friendless, no doubt, was detected stealing a Christmas card. In the case of the "lady" who had influential friends to intercede with the judge in her behalf, she was discharged on suspended sentence. In the case of the "waif," she was sentenced to thirty days in jail. In these cases it would seem that justice had been cured of her proverbial blindness by some miraculous oculistic treatment and was able to see well enough to distinguish between the "lady" and the "waif." There appears to be no justification of such a glaring example of one law for the rich and another for the poor. The fountain of justice must have been sullied by some base material clay, that yielded such water. Not so much indignation would have been called for if the same leniency had been shown in both cases. The mercy that "droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven" should have fallen as well upon the ragged gingham of the child as upon the seal skin garment of the "lady." "Pity 'tis, but pity 'tis, 'tis true," that toadyism may lurk under the ermine of the judge and under the gown of the ecclesiastic. The Almighty, while qualified with mercy, is described as no respecter of persons. All receive even-handed justice from that Divine source, and the standard of Christian culture has not reached its highest development when the example of the Judge of all the earth is ignored and set at naught, and the imitators of those whom our Lord denounced as respecters of persons, and seekers of "chief seats in the synagogues," are in place upon the bench, so-called—in view of the cases cited—with cruel irony, the seat of justice.

CROP bulletin No. 45 of the Manitoba Agricultural Department has just arrived. According to it there were in 1894 1,010,186 acres in wheat, which produced $14,172,883 bushels, an average of seventeen bushels per acre. It will be interesting to compare with this the wheat production of Ontario. The November bulletin of the Ontario Department of Agriculture gave the area in wheat as 1,009,008 acres; the production 19,879,960 bushels, making an average of 19.7 bushels. It will thus be seen that during 1894 the wheat area of the two provinces was almost exactly identical, but that Ontario produced about 2,700,000 bushels more than Manitoba, owing to a greater average of 2.7 bushels. Ontario, therefore, still holds her place as the greatest wheat-producing province of the Dominion. Over 80 per cent of the last year's crop in Ontario was fall wheat. The average wheat production of Ontario exceeds that of any other province or of any state in the Union.

WHEN Sir Hibbert Tupper was Minister f Marine and Fisheries his department ommitted what is considered a gross act of injustice against the Noble Brothers, whereby the firm had to suffer the confiscation of $25,000 worth of fishing equipments for a venial offence against the fishery regulations, that unprejudiced authorities say might have been satisfied by a fine of a few dollars. The whole affair has a very dark look, and now that Sir Hibbert has become Minister of Justice he has an excellent excuse for attacking the administration of the Department of Marine and Fisheries and remedying the injustice that has been done.

HAMLET has expressed his opinion of the character of the drop in appointing Sir Hibbert Tupper to succeed Sir John Thompson as Minister of Justice—"O what a falling off was there!" Political necessity may justify taking a fox terrier to hunt bear. He is a gamey, brisk and clever animal, capable of giving plenty of tongue, but would hardly fill the bill in a really close bear wrestle.

THERE has been a decided falling off in the gross bulk of food products exported from British North America the past year. In eleven months of 1893 we exported 30,824,427 hundred weigets of 112 lbs. each, and in 1894, in a corresponding period, our exports fell to 25,259,703 hundred weights, and at the same time the value fell in the proportion of 19 to 17.

INDUSTRIAL development under the N.P. is in no department more conspicuous than in that of soup kitchens.

You're an Easy Prey,

with your flesh reduced below a healthy standard, for consumption and other scrofulous and dangerous diseases. And it's for just this condition that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is especially valuable.

If you're thinner than you ought to be, whether from wasting diseases, defective nutrition, or whatever cause, the "Discovery" will surely bring you up to the healthy standard. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it arouses every natural source and means of nourishment. As a strength-restorer and flesh-builder, nothing like this medicine is known to medical science. Filthy Cod liver oil and all its disguised compounds can't compare with it.

'TIS BENEFICIAL TO HEALTH.

A Comprehensive and Interesting Paper on Bicycling.

"The Influence of the Bicycle in Health and Disease" was the theme of a comprehensive and exceedingly interesting paper read by Dr. Graeme M. Hammond before a well attended meeting of the New York Academy of Medicine in its lecture hall one night last week.

About two years ago, the paper said, its author had called attention to certain nervous diseases which had been attributed to bicycling. Now thousands of people ride where there were then only hundreds. Physicians had since joined laymen in the recreation and found the judicious use of the bicycle to be a source of great pleasure, conducive to health and, in many instances, curative of disease.

Dr. Hammond had personally observed the cases of 14 amateur bicyclists who had been riding from 5 to 13 years each and had ridden from 5,000 to 27,000 miles, respectively. All had a healthful increase of muscular tissue of the heart and otherwise physically developed by riding. The highest type of mankind was that which was developed physically as well as mentally.

The bicycle has done more for symmetrical physical development than any other mechanical agent, and at the same time afforded healthful mental recreation. Riding developed both heart and lungs. The average expansion of the human chest in breathing was only one inch, but that of the fourteen amateur wheelmen observed was one and four-sevenths inches. Bicycling developed not only the muscles of the legs, but also of the back and the whole system.

Appendicitis has been attributed to bicycling, but Dr. Hammond had been unable to discover any connection between the bicycle and that disease. Diseases of the pelvic organs could be produced or aggravated by wheeling, but only through the carelessness or ignorance of the riders. This could be averted by the adjustment of saddles, so that the weight of the body would rest upon the proper muscles.

It was not injurious for women to ride, and some kinds of disease peculiar to them were benefited by it. In some diseased condition of the heart bicycling was also beneficial, but no one suffering from any affection of the heart should ride without consulting a physician. In abnormal pulmonary conditions the use of the wheel might be followed by injurious results. Wheeling was beneficial for functionary dyspepsia, constipation, gout and diabetes.

The paper, which received deep attention, and was heartily applauded, concluded as follows: "Experience has shown that bicycling, for healthy individual, is one of the most excellent forms of exercise for maintaining health, retarding disease and strengthening the constitution, and is also a pleasant recreation for the mind, and in many forms of disease, when used cautiously under medical supervision, it will often be found of inestimable advantage."

The paper was discussed by Drs. A. D. Rockwell, S. D. Powell, Wm. Polk, H. Knapp, Frank Van Fleet, S. S. Burt, and H. Holbrook, several of whom are wheelmen, and all of whom regarded riding under proper restrictions as healthful and desirable. President Roosa, in answer to a question, said: I am not a bicyclist, but I am an admirer of bicycling."

ABOUT THE QUAKERS.

There are only about 120,000 Quakers in the world, and the number does not tend to increase. In England, Ireland and Australia it is estimated that there are 25,000, the remainder being in the United States and Canada. The simplicity of the original faith would hardly seem to admit a schism, yet they are divided like other sects, and each division denies the orthodoxy of the others. They comprise several different societies with minor sub-divisions difficult to follow, some so minute as to be represented by only a congregation or two. What are called the Old Orthodox Quakers are mainly distributed through the Western and North-Western States, with a few scattered meetings in North Carolina; in New England the Wilburites prevail; what are known as the Primitive Friends are only to be found in Philadelphia, but in that city, as the headquarters of the faith in America, are to be found samples of every variety of Quaker known to exist. The Hicksites are to be found principally in New York and Pennsylvania. How the divided fragments of the sect differ from each other is not well known except to themselves, and they might find it difficult to explain to those outside of the fold what the divergences of faith and practice really are. But all preserve in a great degree the simplicity of life and conduct inculcated by their great founder, and the community has wrought an influence upon the world out of all proportion to its numbers.—New York Tribune.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a letter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were perscribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galizien, Austria.

Sound as a Dollar.

Some people are lucky in finding the right remedy at the right time. A case in point follows, and is worth reading:

About three months ago I was all used up with rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the very best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B. B. B. has made me as sound as a dollar. A. McCONACHIE,

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small;
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age,
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
An said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what e'er befall.

Every Man Should Insure.

The following from a Toronto Daily, is worthy of very careful consideration:—

The force of the obligation resting upon every man to carry a substantial insurance policy on his life was never better illustrated than in the death of Sir John Thompson.

If ever a man lived who could claim freedom from this obligation it was the late Premier. Before the fatal illness seized him he had every reason to expect a long life; his earning capacity was large; and he was, at one time at all events, justified in expecting that he would fall heir to a considerable fortune. But the expectations of fortune were swept away, death came in mid-life and practically the only support left for the bereaved family is a paltry insurance of $6,000.

The moral of it all is that every man, no matter how circumstanced, should insure, and insure to the largest extent that his income will justify.

The Late Premier, SIR JOHN S. D. THOMPSON, was insured in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY of CANADA.

PUT UP

—in glass vials, hermetically sealed, and always fresh—is the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. When you take pills it's an important point to have them small—provided they have equal strength and efficacy. You'll find what you want in these little liver pills of Dr. Pierce. They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. What you want when you're "all out of sorts"—grumpy, thick-headed and take a gloomy view of life, is these Pellets to clear up your system and start your liver into healthful action. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured. They're the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

FACTS OF ANIMAL LIFE.

A PARAGRAPHIC LOT OF INTERESTING BITS OF NATURAL HISTORY.

Some Very Curious Statements Condensed From Savants' Observations and Researches—A Collection of Information in this Line That Will Please Active Minds.

In old age the height of man diminishes.

Blue-eyed cats are said by Darwin to be always deaf.

The tail of a beaver is a regular trowel, and is used as such.

The hog eats fewer plants than any other hero-feeding animal.

Carnivorous animals seldom produce more than two young at a birth.

The flesh of the boa constrictor is eaten by the aborigines of Brazil.

In many tropical countries the scorpion grows to the length of a foot.

The eggs of the crocodile are scarcely larger than those of the goose.

The strongest muscle in a monkey's body is found in his prehensile tail.

Certain parts of the hippopotamus' hide attain a thickness of two inches.

The skin is the only part of the human body that is not hardened by age.

Moles can swim with great dexterity, their broad forepaws acting as paddles.

The swordfish does not use its terrible weapon as a dagger, but as a flail.

Students of nature have never been able to explain the chameleon's change of color.

The greatest velocity attained by a whale when struck by a harpoon is nine miles an hour.

Tusks of the mammoth have been found of a length of nine feet, measured along the curve.

The whole body of a boa or other constrictor is a perfect network of powerful muscles.

The natural life of an elephant is said to be 120 years. It is greatly shortened by captivity.

Some naturalists say that the whale was once a land animal that took to the water for safety.

Elephants annoyed by flies have often been known to break off a branch and use it as a fan.

Oxen and sheep are believed by some stockmen to fatten better in company than when kept alone.

The bones of very aged persons are said to have a greater proportion of lime than those of young people.

The rhinoceros has a perfect passion for wallowing in the mud, and is usually covered with a thick coat of it.

The mole is an excellent civil engineer. He always secures his own safety by having several entrances to his dwelling.

The lowest order of animal life is found in the microscopic jellyfish. It is simply a minute drop of gelatinous matter.

Many birds have the trick of tumbling *along on the ground ahead of a sports*man in order to draw him away from their nests.

European marmots remain dormant during winter. Before becoming torpid they carefully cement the entrance to their dwelling.

The outer layers of the alligator's skin are said to contain a large percentage of silica, hence the hardness of the animal's hide.

Although on land a clumsy animal, the seal is wonderfully quick in the water, and in a fair race can generally catch almost any fish.

With both the alligator and the crocodile the tail is the most formidable weapon. One stroke may break the legs of the strongest man.

It is said that the flesh on the fore-quarters of the beaver resembles that of land animals, while that on the hind-quarters has a fishy taste.

It is believed by microscopists that the highest power of their instruments have not yet revealed the most minute forms of animal life.

The aye aye of Madagascar is remarkable chiefly for its eyes, which are larger in proportion to its size, than those of any other creature.

Voluntary muscles are almost always red; involuntary muscles are generally white, the most notable exception in the latter case being the heart.

Snakes have the singular property of being able to elevate the head and remain without the slightest movement for many minutes at a time.

A decapitated snail, kept in a moist place, will in a few weeks grow a new head, quite as serviceable and good looking as that which was taken away.

Cats and several other animals have a false eyelid, which can be drawn over the eyeball either to cleanse it or to protect it from too strong a light.

The muscles of a pig's snout are exceedingly powerful for their size, and thus enable the animal to turn up very hard ground with the utmost ease.

A bat finds its way about without the assistance of its eyes. A blinded bat will avoid wires and obstructions as dexterously as though it could see perfectly.

When falling, as out of a tree or down a steep declivity, bears will roll themselves into a close resemblance to a huge furry ball, and thus escape without injury.

The mole is not blind, as many persons suppose. Its eye is hardly larger than a pinhead, and is carefully protected from dust and dirt by means of enclosing hairs.

No parental care ever falls to the lot of a single member of the insect tribe. In general the eggs of the insect are destined to be hatched long after the parents are dead.

The elephant is commonly supposed to be a slow, clumsy animal, but, when excited or frightened, can attain a speed of twenty miles an hour, and can keep it up for half a day.

The "blessing" of Palestine is a small falcon, or hawk, which destroys the field mice. Were the hawks exterminated the human population would be obliged to abandon the country.

The common housefly is often literally devoured by parasites, and it has been proved that these parasites are also infested with minute creatures that threaten their destruction.

In the mountains of Sweden, Norway and Lapland all vegetation would be destroyed by the Norway rats were it not for the white foxes that make special game of the rodents.

The horn of the rhinoceros does not grow from the bone, but is a mere excrescence of the skin, like the hair and nails. It can be separated from the skin by the use of a sharp knife.

The chameleon's eyes are situated in bony sockets projecting from the head. By this contrivance the animal can see in any direction without the slightest motion save of the eye.

The habit of turning around three or four times before lying down has survived in the domestic dog from his savage ancestry. It then served to break down the grass and make a bed.

Were it not for the multitude of storks that throng to Egypt every winter, there would be no living in the country, for after every inundation frogs appear in most incredible numbers.

The blood flows almost as freely through the bones as through the flesh of very young children, but as age comes on, the blood vessels in the bones are almost filled with matter.

A curious partnership often exists between the sea anemone and the hermit crab. The latter always has an anemone fastened to his shell, and when he changes his quarters he takes his anemone along, provided he can detach it from the old shell.

CHRONIC CHILLINESS.

The Remedy Suggested Is Outdoor Exercise at All Seasons.

How some people suffer in winter! They are constantly having chills; a feeling of cold water trickling down the back or some local stagnation of blood, with altered nervous sensations, is experienced; the hands, feet, nose or ears are especially likely to give inconvenience. Such individuals can not get warm even in bed, and, as a consequence, often suffer from insomnia, for sleeplessness is often caused by cold feet. Many such conditions arise from the fear of taking outdoor exercise, because the weather is too cold. Hence the circulation is not kept going, and the blood, vitiated by the close, impure air of the house, has no chance offered it of being allowed to purify itself. The foulest river or stream of water is rendered pure by exposure to the air as it comes along, and after a run of a few miles becomes fit for consumption. Why, then, will delicate people deny the stream of life an opportunity to purify itself as it courses through their veins? Here is the secret of how to keep warm in winter—outdoor exercise in pure air.

Many individuals mistake the feeling of cold for "catarrh." But feeling cold and "taking a cold" are different things. A shiver from exposure to cold—indeed, a half-frozen condition—is not in itself likely to end in a so-called "cold," so long as the exposure has been in the open air; but we hold that by breathing the impure air of badly ventilated rooms a chill may be very easily contracted that will end in a "cold." In cold weather we distinctly recommend the ordinarily healthy man or woman to try the effect of outdoor exercise, especially when the feeling is strong that it is too cold to go out of doors. Exercise under such circumstances will usually act as a tonic to the whole frame and brace up the nervous system, the special function of which is to regulate the heat of the body. The skin should be freely exposed to the air before dressing in the morning, and after the morning washing, or cold, tepid bath, rub the body into a glow with a coarse towel, and you will be very nearly cold and water proof.—Philadelphia Times.

The Paths We Make.

A footpath is the most human thing in inanimate nature. Even as the print of his thumb reveals the old offender to the detectives, so the path tells you the sort of feet that wore it. Like the human nature that created it, it starts out to go straight when strength and determination shape its course, and it goes crooked when weakness lays it out. Until you begin to study them you can have no notion of the differences of character that exist among footpaths. One line of trodden earth seems to you the same as another. But look! Is the path you are walking on carry straight from point to point, yet selected to avoid short rises and falls, and is it worn to grade? That is, does it plow a deep way through little lumps and hillocks something as a street is cut down to grade? If you see this path before you, you may be sure it is made by the heavy shuffle of workingmen's feet. A path that wavers from side to side, especially if the turns be from one bush to another, and that is only a light trail making an even line of wear over the inequalities of the ground—that is a path that children make. The path made by the business man—the man who is anxious to get to his work at one end of the day and anxious to get to his home at the other—is generally a good piece of engineering. This type of man makes more paths in this country than he does in any other. He carries his intelligence and his energy into every act of life, and even in the half-unconscious business of making his own private trail he generally manages to find the line of least resistance in getting from one point to another.—From "The Story of a Path," by H. C. Bunner in Scribner's Magazine.

The New Doll.

Fannie is a little girl who has a big wax doll as a companion. A few days ago a new sister came to her house, and after a few days she went over to a neighbour's.

"Well, Fanny," said the lady, "where's your wax doll?"

"Oh," she answered, turning up her nose, "I don't have nothing to do with wax babies any more. We've got a meat baby at our house now, and that takes up all my time."

A Promise of a Vote.

The candidate is on his rounds bright and early, and quits work at a late hour. He solicits votes from all he meets who have a vote in the ward. It is easier to say "yes" to the candidate than "no." But the good elector will not make any hasty promise. The good elector, when he promises, means to keep his word. Therefore, he takes time to consider the subject. Nominations are not on just yet. Let there be no hurry to pledge suffrages. A pledge of support once given should be religiously fulfilled. But before making it it is well to reflect that perhaps a better man will need your vote on polling day.

A Youthful Thief.

A very much scared twelve-year-old lad was up before the magistrate this morning charged with stealing a sum of money from Mr. David Doig. Mr. Doig, it seems, was counting out his money at his desk, and was suddenly called away. On his return he missed some of the cash, and suspicions at once fell on this lad, who had been playing around the shop with Mr. Doig's boy a few minutes previously. The lad confessed the crime, and as he returned the greater part of the stolen money, he was allowed to go, after receiving some sound fatherly advice from Magistrate Dumble.

The Elevation of the Stage.

The Mark Bros. Musical and Comedy Company began a week's engagement on Monday evening and have steadily grown in favour since.

"It is gratifying to know that you have put on elevating, clean, decent dramas," said an Observer reporter to the manager, Mr. R. W. Marks; and that they have been presented in a manner with which no fault can be found."

"You will never find anything else with us," he replied with emphasis. "We do not cater to the class which requires coarse jest, questionable allusion, anything but what is pure and elevating. Should it ever be necessary for us to do that, we shall quit the business. But we do not think we shall ever have any trouble on this account. Public taste is away up now, and I am glad of it. In proof of this, we have been known in Pembroke for the past ten years, and are becoming more popular every year; yet we never uttered one word that would offend the most fastidious and refined."

The company on the present occasion is large, and the acting is excellent. They have a great quantity of magnificent scenery and suitable costumes, and the plays and specialties are well put on. One wonders how the Messrs. Marks can give the superior entertainments they present for the small admission fee of ten and fifteen cents, and at the matinee on Saturday children will be admitted for five cents.—Pembroke Observer. Bradburn's Opera House, week, Dec. 31st to Jan. 5th.

A Load of Beef Upsets.

Mr. David Conroy of Ashburnham, met with a mishap to day while shipping beef to Chicago. Twenty five quarters had been placed on a hay rack, and was being hauled to the C. P. R. station, when the axle suddenly gave out with the big load, and the beef was precipitated into the middle of the road, just opposite the Maple Leaf Hotel.

Games of various kinds will be provided for those who do not dance. Tickets for concert alone, 10 cents; for hop, 25 cents per couple. 150-2-1

Young Women's Association.

Arrangements are being made for the New Year's reception, afternoon and evenings. A cordial invitations is extended to all young women, a special one to strangers. We promise you a pleasant time in the way of games, music, refreshments and social intercourse. All will be made to feel at home. Come and bring a friend with you. No admission. Will the members of Association send in their basket early Tuesday afternoon. Please do not wait for any personal invitation to do so. Let all members of the Association and friends interested in the work bear in mind the date fixed for our annual meeting is Jan. 12th, 1895.

Good Bye, Santa Claus.

And good bye profits, too—so says Jas. McComb, the glove dealer and general furnisher. Times are hard, and Mr. McComb is bound to meet the public half way. He has a stock of $6,000 worth of winter gloves and $4,000 worth of underwear, hosiery, corsets, scarfs, ties, handkerchiefs, moccassins, and other winter furnishings, for ladies and gentlemen's wear, which must positively be sacrificed without profit. He prefers to take cost for these goods now than carry them any longer. The stock must go. Every article in the store is marked down, and these clearance prices will be continued until all is sold.

A Close Call.

Mr. David McNab, son of Roadmaster McNab of the Peterborough section of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk, narrowly escaped being seriously injured while working on the track this morning. It appears that young McNab was bending over, while at work on the rails, when a string of cars backed noiselessly down upon him before he was aware of it. The corner of the car struck his head, inflicted a nasty bruise and hurled him aside. The blow partially stunned the young man and if he had been thrown in front of the train instead of to one side the result must inevitably have been a horrible fatality.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Friday, Dec. 28th.—Yesterday (Thursday) was the coldest day so far this season, the index at the morning's observation standing at zero, while during the whole day 2 degrees above zero was the highest and at night down to 2 degrees below zero, being the first of the winter below.

At this (Friday) morning's observation the thermometer indicated 16 degrees below zero, being the coldest yet, with appearance of continuing for some time of a cold dip.—THOMAS TELFORD.

Sixteen degrees below zero or 48 degrees of frost, is between five and ten degrees below the lowest reading last winter. However, it will serve fairly well as a beginning. Sixteen degrees indicates a rather bracing atmospheric condition, but it is balmy spring compared to the lowest registration last winter, which was 70·4 below zero at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

St. Andrew's Sunday School Entertainment.

The children of St. Andrew's church Sunday school held their annual Christmas tea and entertainment last evening. Tea for the children was served from five until seven o'clock in the evening, after which the little ones indulged in playing games for an hour or so. A programme was then presented consisting of several recitations by Miss Patterson and Miss Aggie Vanevery. A portion of the children there occupied seats on a raised dias at the side of the platform and sang the choruses in a cantata the principal parts in which were taken by a quartette composed by Messrs. Mulligan, King and Mrs. Jones and Miss Gladman. Prizes were afterwards awarded to the pupils who were able to recite the whole of the Shorter Catechism, the first half of it, the Mother's Catechism, and also to those who had been especially regular in attendance. The prizes were presented by the pastor, Rev. A. MacWilliams, and the prize list was an extremely lengthy one.

LOU GOODWYN'S HUGE IMPOSITION

The Church Practically Endosed Her.

LIVED WITH HER SISTER'S HUSBAND.

HAD THE ENTREE TO THE MOST EXCLUSIVE CIRCLES

Actually Had the Audacity to Ask a Minister to Keep a Watchful Eye on the Welfare of the Soul of a Man Who Was Living With Her as a Paramour—Lived at the Balmoral Hotel for a Time.

A couple of months ago Miss Louise Goodwyn, a young lady claiming to be a graduate of the training school for nurses in connection with the Toronto General Hospital, came to Peterborough alleging that she intended to follow her vocation as a trained nurse in the town. She attended St. John's church regularly and became a member of the Young People's Society, before which society she sang several times and delivered on her work amongst the poor of London, England, dwelling on the great need of Christian workers to combat the evil influences which were constantly exercising their immoral tendencies in the slums of that city.

A MOST INTERESTING ADDRESS

She was accompanied to the meetings of the society by a young man whom she introduced to the rector and officials as Mr. Stevens, asking all to take an interest in him as he was represented to be unattached to any church and one whom it was desirable that the church should have within its protecting fold. Endorsed, apparently, by the church, the young lady being naturally most prepossessing, had no difficulty to some of the most exclusive homes in Peterborough.

IN OBTAINING ACCESS

Miss Goodwyn was casually asked one day by a trained nurse residing in town, to allow her to see the parchments awarded her by the hospital authorities, and Miss Goodwyn's answer was to the effect that her diplomas had been consumed in a fire, which had destroyed her trunks, in Kingston. The reply was one calculated to excite suspicion, inasmuch as Miss Goodwyn stated that the Hospital had refused to grant her duplicate diplomas. An inspection of the list of graduates from the Training School by those interested, failed to reveal Miss Goodwyn's name. This fact on the part of those who had innocently introduced the young lady into Peterborough society, and the matter coming to the ears of Miss Woodgate, superintendent of the local branch of the Barnardo Home, she threw additional light on the matter by stating that Miss Louise Goodwyn and her three sisters had all been brought out from Tyrone, Ireland, through Dr. Barnardo's agency and that according to her best recollection the girls had all gone to Napanee, where they were taken charge of by relatives.

LED TO AN INVESTIGATION

To the best knowledge of the Barnardo Home authorities Miss Goodwyn had NEVER BEEN IN LONDON

in her life, nor had she ever been in a Training School for nurses. Being a clever girl she had no difficulty, from a smattering of general knowledge, in delivering addresses on these subjects which were wonderfully interesting to the uninitiated. Miss Goodwyn denied all knowledge of the Barnardo Home and flatly denied ever having been associated with it in any manner. She declined, however, to meet Miss Woodgate and avoided being seen by her.

Such a tissue of falsehoods thoroughly alarmed those whom Miss Goodwyn had met in town, though none could understand the object which she had in view.

THE CLOSE INTIMACY

which apparently existed between her and the young man Charley Stevens caused remark. To some Miss Goodwyn stated that he was simply a friend, to others she said he was a brother-in-law and again in answer to other queriists she finally announced that Stevens was her husband.

Affairs had gradually worked up to a climax and last week came the grand denouement. A young couple had registered at the Balmoral Hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and spent the night there. Next morning a lady and gentleman called at the hotel and asked if Mr. Stevens was in. Mr. Cavanagh answered that he was upstairs with his wife, but the lady said such could not be the case, as she herself

WAS STEVENS' WIFE.

This statement opened Mr. Cavanagh's eyes somewhat, and the trio proceeded upstairs. At the top of the staircase were Stevens and his supposed wife. In the latter the real Mrs. Stevens recognized her sister, Miss Louise Goodwyn, who with a flush of burning shame fled shrieking before the accusing gaze of her sister and vanished down a rear stairway. Mrs. Stevens turned the vials of wrath on her unfaithful spouse and asked him to make his choice between his lawful wife and the woman with whom he had, for the time being, assumed marital relations. The husband retorted that he loved Louise the better of the two and took his leave of his wife.

To form a correct opinion concerning the career of Miss Goodwyn, it is necessary to when Charles Stevens, on April 13th, 1891, was united in marriage to one Grace Goodwyn in Napanee, by Rev. Mr. Jarvis, rector of the Episcopalian church. Everything went merry as a marriage bell and the young people started housekeeping and lived happily for a couple of years. Just about this time the attractiveness of his sister-in-law, Miss Goodwyn, seems to have made an impression on Steven's heart, and as his regard for her grew, his love for his wife decreased and he finally persuaded Mrs. Stevens to make an extended trip to friends in Toronto and Belleville.

GO BACK A FEW YEARS

UPON HER DEPARTURE

Stevens arranged with Miss Goodwyn to come and live with him, presumably as housekeeper, but of this the wife knew nothing. While she was away the husband and sister-in-law sang at a concert in Campbellford and Stevens states it was during this trip that the young girl gave way to his importunities and it was arranged that they should live together as man and wife, which they did until Mrs. Stevens returned to Napanee in the spring of 1894. She was in very delicate health and the doctor recommended a change of air. At Stevens' suggestion a trip to Ireland for the wife was proposed, and last fall she left Canada without having even a suspicion of the

EXISTENCE OF ANY ILLICIT RELATIONS

between her husband and her sister. Once more the faithless husband and amorous girl took up their residence together and a couple of months ago the guilty pair came to Peterborough, but did not live together. Miss Goodwyn took up her residence on Simcoe street, near Rubidge, in a well-known boarding house, and Stevens used often to call for her, and take her away for days at a time. Finally the two moved out to Lakefield, and took up their quarters at the Tremont House, then kept by Mr. Wm. Bowman. Here they remained for three weeks, passing themselves off

AS MAN AND WIFE.

During the time of their residence in Lakefield, the guilty couple made a living by singing at church concerts in all the surrounding villages, where their vocal talent secured their admission into the homes of some of the most prominent people in the district.

On their return to Peterborough last week, the two registered, as stated, at Cavanagh's Hotel, but only remained there twenty-four hours before the grand denouement, when Mrs. Stevens, the lawful wife, who had been apprised of the misdoings of the pair and had returned from Ireland to confront them in their guilt. Stevens has a brother living in Ashburnham and with him and it was he who accompanied her in the search for the husband and sister.

THE WIFE MADE HER HOME

On leaving the hotel Miss Goodwyn once more repaired to her former boarding house, Simcoe street, and here she was sought by the rector of St. John's, who, thinking that the girl, after the dreadful scene through which she had just passed with her sister, would be repentant, desired to set her in the right path once more, but to his astonishment he found that the girl was once more away with her paramour.

Within the last few days however, circumstances have so settled themselves to suit the case that a reconciliation between the

has been in some way been effected and the girl has been packed off to Toronto.

Miss Louise Goodwyn will be remembered by those who met her as a young lady of most refined appearance and gifted with rare conversational powers. She was a brunette and wore gold rimmed glasses and her fingers were loaded with valuable rings. Stevens shoulders all the blame for the disgraceful affair and states that it was only by the greatest persuasion that he finally encompassed the fall of the girl. Just what Miss Goodwyn's object could have been in delivering the addresses on her work amongst the poor of London, when she was never nearer to that city than when she left Ireland as a child, is what is puzzling the public. It certainly required a nerve of no ordinary quality to bring her paramour to the church and to solicit the rector to have an eye as to his spiritual welfare and the sacrilege of the whole affair has shocked the members of the congregation to such an extent as will make them charry indeed of welcoming any, who by any chance could turn out to be imposters to such a degree as Miss Louise Goodwyn proved to be.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Skating rink opens to-night.

—Mission Band entertainment in St. John's Sunday school to-night.

—New Year's cards and New Year's booklets—a fresh supply just received at the Peterborough Bookstore, A. H. Stratton & Co.

—The EXAMIER has received, with the compliments of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, agent, a handsome and convenient diary pad, issued by the Standard Life Assurance Company. Thanks.

—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell was seventy-one years of age yesterday, Dec. 27th. To be consistent he should have his name changed to John—having been born on St. John's Day—and succeeding three consecutive Johns in the premiership.

—The children of the Park street Baptist Mission held their annual Christmas entertainment last evening, and it was acknowledged to be a great success by all in attendance. The Sunday school work of the Mission is in a most prosperous state indeed.

—The Central Prison is very much overcrowded with convicts. Never in the history of that institution were so many criminals confined within its walls. The number at present is four hundred and ten, and there are many in the provincial jails who would also be brought in if there were room for them.

—Anchor ice coming down the river yesterday so clogged the Light and Power Company's water wheel that it stopped revolving for a time, and in consequence the electric cars ceased running. The sweeper was out for a time clearing the rails of snow, but the power was barely sufficient to drive it. Sand had to be strewn on the track on the grades to enable the wheels to get sufficient grip on the rails to climb the inclines.

PERSONAL.

Mr. A. Cox is registered at the Huffman House in Belleville.

Miss Eva and Miss Clara Strain have returned home from Toronto.

Miss Mabel Harding, of Lindsay, is the guest of her friend, Bertha Kennedy, Charlotte street.

Miss E. Maud Philp, of Buffalo, the guest of Miss Lillian Ritchie, town, is visiting friends in Port Hope.

Mr. Charles Allison, private secretary to the chief engineer of the Illinois Central Railway, has returned to Chicago, after spending Christmas with his mother on Simcoe street.

Miss Tottie Hartley, town, accompanied by Miss Edith Hartley Russell, Quebec, left this afternoon on an extended visit to Toronto. While there they will be the guests of the Misses Russell, Cigar street.

Fore Words for Christmas Givers.

It can be stated on authority that no Christmas-keeping person will be inclined to dispute that the necessary elements of the Christmas spirit are peace and good will. It is essential to anyone's Christmas comfort that he should have a fair measure of peace of mind. If his disquiet has a fiscal basis, he should call a meeting of himself and firmly resolve to procure a proper relation between his incomings and his outgoings at the cost of whatever sacrifice of pomps and vanities may be necessary. He may not be able to do that actually in a day, or in a week, but he can plan and he can resolve, and if he has a tolerably firm mind he ought to be able to resolve with sufficient vigor to bring his spirit the necessary relief. To lose one's enjoyment of Christmas because one has spent too much money in a bad year is intolerable. To repent is good; to save and scrape and pinch is good if need be; to deny oneself even the happiness of making gifts is praiseworthy if the case is bad enough; but to worry and be miserable is to misuse the season.

Come to terms with yourself, brother, betimes, and whatever the situation is get on top of it before Christmas. If it is not a fiscal difficulty, but something else; if your conscience pricks you for laziness, or for wasting your time, or for neglecting your family, or for flirting, or for reading too many newspapers, or for gossiping, or for drinking too many cocktails, or for whatever species of misbehavior you may last have fallen into, attend to its admonitions and stop its noise. Gain your Christmas peace of mind even if you have to seek it with some resolution.—The Point of View.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelssohn." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. Crosby, of 342 Water street, the agent for those four first-class instruments, and close the purchase before the end of the year.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.

MANY ORIENTAL IDIOMS EXPLAINED.

A NEW LIGHT THROWN ON THE SCRIPTURES.

Mrs. Mountford Again Delights a Peterborough Audience With Her Graphic Descriptions of the Life and Habits of the Orientals.

Mrs. Mountford again delighted a Peterborough audience by one of her comprehensive and explanatory addresses concerning the life of Christ in Palestine, last evening in the opera house. As in her two previous lectures, the house was filled to the doors with those anxious to learn more of the life of the Saviour and a full measure of instruction was meted out to them. The address was entitled "From Bethlehem to Calvary," and was descriptive of

THE CUSTOMS AND HABITS, of the people of Palestine during the life of Christ upon earth.

In the first place Mrs. Mountford proceeded to disabuse the minds of her audience concerning the erroneous idea created by artists who in painting pictures of the Babe in the manger always portrayed it as lying on the straw naked. This she stated, was an entirely mistaken conception, as it was contrary to both reason and Scripture. What mother, she asked, would ever lay her naked baby on the hay And, she added, does not the Scripture distinctly state that He lay in "swaddling clothes!" It was

NOT A SIGN OF POVERTY

by any means, when Joseph and Mary were forced to make their abode in the stables, as at this particular time of the year, when Bethlehem was crowded with the people of the whole district, come to pay their taxes, the rich and the poor alike had to put up with what accommodation they could find, and at this time the innkeepers often charged ten times as much for a portion of his stables as he would for the best guest chamber in the house. It could not therefore be argued that Joseph and Mary were poor because they were forced to take up their abode in the stable. Another thing which precluded the idea of the poverty of the two was that Mary and was a property holder in her own right. This was proven by the fact that notwithstanding her delicate condition, she had to go personally to Bethlehem to pay her taxes.

WAS OF ROYAL LINEAGE,

The costumes of the Babe, Mary, Joseph, the high priests, scribes, tax-gatherer, treasurer, etc., were all represented on the stage, and the different scenes illustrative of the modes of transacting business were intensely interesting. The finding of the Child in the manger, and the excitement of the populace on being informed thereof, was fully exemplified, as was the flight into Egypt, the return, and of Jesus at the temple in Jerusalem, when he astonished the priests by his answers to their questions. After this Jesus was completely lost sight of for eighteen years, during which time he is supposed to have been in India, and at present a Royal Commission at the instigation of the Queen is making researches amongst the archives of the temples of that country in the endeavour to confirm or dispel the supposition.

THE FINAL INITIATION

The expression, "Woman, what have I to do with thee, Wist thou not that I must be about my father's business" is one she said which has always puzzled Bible students. The abrupt remark seemed with what is known of the Saviour and His life and habits, but last evening Mrs. Mountford explained away the apparent harshness of the expression in a manner which made it particularly clear to all that no intention of hurting Mary's feelings existed. The word "woman," she explained, in Oriental countries was significant of all that was good and holy and to be protected, therefore when Jesus addressed His mother as "Woman" it was as though He had said unto her, "O thou most sanctified one." The phrase, "What have I to do with thee?" was generally taken in altogether different sense than it naturally would convey. The expression was idiomatic, inasmuch as when an Oriental mentioned your name in connection with his own, it was intended to be complimentary and signified therefore to His mother that He considered the greatest unanimity to exist between them.

LITTLE IN ACCORD

IN THE HIGHEST DEGREE,

No mention is made in the Scriptures of Jesus being married, but those acquainted with the mode of expressions in the East are positive that he had no wife, from the answer he returned to one who wished to accompany him, viz: "The foxes have holes, the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

The latter part of this clause is significant of the fact that he was unmarried as if he were united to a wife, apartments would be set apart for him in his father's house and he would henceforth be known as one who had "a place wherein to lay his head." The expression was also an idimatic one.

The sad tale of the crucifixion told in Mrs. Mountford's inimitably graphic manner brought to a close an evening of unalloyed pleasure to the large audience which, during the lecture had constantly interrupted the gifted lecturer with their expressions of satisfaction. The thanks of the community are due the Ladies' Aid of George street Methodist church for affording the public another opportunity of hearing Mrs. Mountford last night.

MEDICAL MEN.

Are Interested in the Discovery of a Remedy for Bright's Disease.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—The subject of kidney disorders and diseases is one receiving special attention from the medical profession just now, probably owing to the fact that a disease of these organs caused the death of Russia's Czar. Among other points attractive to the profession is the case of Dr. McCormick, of Richmond, Que., a practitioner well known throughout Quebec and Ontario. He has lately published a letter announcing that he was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This case has a peculiar interest for medical men because until these pills were offered for sale, this disease was universally considered incurable. That belief is now thoroughly exploded by the success of this remedy, to which numerous victims of the disease owe their lives and sound health.

MASONIC.

Installation of the Officers of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges, A. F. and A. M.

There was a large gathering of the members of the Masonic fraternity in attendance at the Masonic Hall last night to witness the impressive installation ceremonies of the newly elected officers of Corinthian Lodge No. 101, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A. F. and A. M. The Past Masters were well represented there being twenty-five present, so that the ancient land marks were well and truly guarded. R. W. Bro. Benj. Shortly discharged the important duties of installing Master, and was assisted by the following well-skilled Past Masters: W. Bro. H. C. Winch, W. Bro. H. Rush, W. Bro. D. Spence, W. Bro. Robt. Kingan, W. Bro. D. Carmichael, W. Bro. Adam Dawson, and W. Bro. W. Thompson. The following is a list of the newly installed officers:

THE KINGSTON DAIRY SCHOOL.

The Work is now Progressing with a Good Class of Students.

Kingston Whig.

Really the Kingston Dairy School is a great place. It is in full swing and turning out butter and cheese that makes one's mouth water. A Whig reporter went through the well-constructed building yesterday, and was shown everything by the affable superintendent, J. A. Ruddick. A dozen fine cheese repose on the shelves in the curing room. The butter was almost all taken up by city dealers. Last week 700 pounds were made and quickly snapped up. Its quality is excellent. This is known by ample tests. Mr. Ruddick puts the butter up in neat pound packages, first wrapping it in oiled paper, and then putting it into oblong paper boxes. It is about as neat a package as could be desired.

There are fifteen students in white aprons and caps busily engaged in securing knowledge so as to produce the best class of goods and maintain Canada's high reputation as a cheese country. "During the next eight weeks we will be very busy," said Mr. Ruddick. "I have plenty of applications from students desirous of taking courses. The present class is eagerly imbibing knowledge. The majority are from Eastern Ontario, though one comes from Quebec and another from Manitoba. Yes, the students can remain as long as they wish; some will remain for two, four and six courses. To be sure much of the theoretical work in the courses will be the same, but pupils cannot get too much of a good thing. The practical knowledge is varied; every day has its peculiarities and the work, if well watched, will put the students in possession of details not obtainable in one course. The young men and ladies are very enthusiastic."

Mr. Ruddick is proud of his school. He hopes to see it developed and become a centre for the dissemination of knowledge that will be highly beneficial to Eastern Ontario. He hopes for the time when the school will be open much of every year, when courses of home dairying for daughters and sons of farmers can be given in the summer and fall to fit them to make butter that will be the envy of the world. Canadian butter is not what it should be and as a consequence does not rank in foreign lands with the productions of other nations. But the character of the milk warrants Canada to equal the best, and if the making of it was reduced to a science as it should, no land could outrival Canada.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Mr. Geo. Alley Struck Down, Tied and Gagged.

Campbellford Herald.

On Tuesday of last week, Mr. George Alley, treasurer of the school section where he lives, ten miles north of Havelock, went to that village to draw money to pay the teacher. On returning in the evening about 7:30, when four miles from the village, he was stopped by two men who were lying in wait for him and they pointed a revolver at his head. Mr. Alley shouted and immediately one of the robbers dealt him a blow over the temple with the revolver and told him if he made any more noise they would finish him. They then gagged him and tied him to a tree and took his pocket-book containing $99.00.

Shortly after their departure a young man named Sexsmith was passing that way, and while watering his horses at the creek near by, he heard a strange noise, and upon going to the place from whence the sound proceeded, he found Mr. Alley in a helpless condition. The rope with which he was tied was knotted so hard that Sexsmith had to cut it to get him free.

Mr. Alley had $75 in his hip pocket, which the robbers did not get. His pocket-book was found in a field not far from the scene of the robbery, but the money was gone. The rope and gag are now at the Rush Point post office kept by Mr. Justice Alley.

There is quite an amount of excitement in that locality since the news of the deed has become known, as this is the first act of the kind ever perpetrated there. There is no clue to the robbers.

A FAMILY POISONED.

And Become Helpless from Eating Head-Cheese.

Campbellford Herald.

Mr. Chas. Long and his wife and four children, who reside nearly opposite the Baptist church, in Campbellford, were made deathly sick from what appears to have been poison in a quantity of head cheese of which they partook on Thurday last.

Early on Thursday morning Miss Long ate a small piece of the head cheese for breakfast, and about half-past 8 o'clock she was taken ill in the Trent Valley woollen mill, where she is employed, but she continued to work till noon, when permission was given her to stay at home the remainder of the day. At noon, Mr. Long and his wife and three other children, partook of the head cheese, and soon afterwards they, too, became ill. The symtoms which developed themselves in each case were vomiting, severe pain, paleness in the face, numbness of the hands, and a seeming paralysis of the limbs. For a time one was unable to help the other. Mrs. Long's eyesight was so affected that she found it difficult to find her way from one room to another. Mr. Long lost the use of his limbs, and had not fully recovered from his illness the beginning of this week. The eldest son went out into the country on Friday morning and could scarcely summon strength to return home in the evening. The daughter recovered sufficiently to be able to go to work on Monday morning. One child who did not eat any of the head cheese was in no way affected. The poison was not in the meat because this was boiled, and the lard from it used without any injurious effect having been noticed.

A physician was called to see the family, and he pronounced it a case of poisoning, but of course, could not understand the cause, unless it was in the meat, only about a pound of which had been eaten. The seasoning was examined and found to be free from any poisonous substance. We understand a portion of the meat has been secured for analysis.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A male octette will meet for practice at 7.30 tonight. We expect something good from them at the New Year's receprion. Songs, duets, quartettes; also music from violin, piano, autoharp, mouth-organ and cornet, with readings, games and refreshments, ought to make an interesting programme for New Year's Day. The reception is on, both afternoon and evening, and all young men of the town are invited.

The auxiliary wish to remind the ladies that refreshments are by no means least in importance. Baskets will be received Tuesday morning and afternoon.

A crockinole board would be a nice present to the Association at this season. What do you think about it?

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SERENA ANN. HER FIRST CHRISTMAS KEEPING.

By MARY E. WILKINS.

Now First Published. All Rights Reserved.)

Fifty years ago Serena Ann lived in Braintree, and Christmas keeping was not yet much the fashion in New England. Serena Ann was ten years old, and she had never seen a Christmas-tree, hung up her stocking, or had a Christmas present even.

Serena Ann's father was a farmer; she had a mother, and an Aunt Love, her mother's sister, who lived with them, and was to be married in February, and a brother Ebenezer.

Ebenezer was two years older than Serena Ann, and went to the district school winters. Serena Ann herself went to school only in the summer. She was a delicate little girl, and the schoolhouse was too far away for her to walk in cold weather. So she stayed at home, and her mother heard her spell every day, and she did sums on a piece of old slate, and was reading the Bible through, a chapter every morning. So her education was not neglected.

One night in the first week in December, Serena Ann was sitting beside the fire, with the piece of broken slate on her lap, trying to do a sum about ten greyhounds running a race, and how long it would take for one to catch up with the other, when Ebenezer came home from school. There was a light snow falling, and Ebenezer was powdered with it. He came in stamping his cowhide shoes and shaking himself like a dog. Aunt Love was sewing green velvet on her wedding pelisse, and Mrs. Bagley was paring apples for sauce. "Don't stamp so, Ebenezer," said she. "And don't shake the snow on my pelisse," cried Aunt Love. Aunt Love was very pretty, with smooth brown hair, and pink cheeks.

"I've got to get the snow off," panted Ebenezar. "Oh, mother—!"

"You ought to get it off in the shed, then," said his mother.

"Oh, mother!"

"And not shake it all over the clean floor, and your aunt's pelisse."

"Oh, mother, Sammy Morse says he's going to hang up his stocking the night before Christmas!"

Then Serena Ann looked up from piece of slate and her greyhounds.

"I don't want to hear any such nonsense," said Mrs. Bagley.

"He says his folks are going to put something in it for him."

"If they want to be so silly they can."

"Mother, can't I hang up my stocking?"

"Yes," said his mother, "you can hang it up all you want to, but you won't get anything in it. You have all the presents your father can afford to give you, right along. Now go out in the shed and bring in an armful of that apple tree wood for the fire."

And Ebenezer went out disconsolately. Serena Ann pulled her mother's apron. "Mother, can't I hang up my stocking?" she whispered.

"You can hang it up, but I shall tell you what I did Ebenezer. You won't get anything in it. I shan't treat one of you any better than I do the other."

"I never hung up my stocking since I was born," said Serena Ann, plaintively.

"Neither did I," said her mother. "I never thought of such a thing when I was a little girl. Now, tend to your sum."

And Serena Ann attended to her sum, but the thought of Christmas seemed to gain upon her childish mind much faster than one grayhound upon the other. She could not quite give up the hope that possibly, if she did hang up her stocking, somebody might put something in it. If not her mother, Aunt Love, or her father might, or even Joshua Simmons, the young man whom Aunt Love was going to marry; he sometimes gave her a peppermint. And after all her mother was a pretty tender one, and she might relent. So Serena Ann hung up her stocking the night before Christmas.

TUCKED IN BETWEEN AUNT LOVE AND JOSHUA SIMMONS.

It is quite possible if Mrs. Bagley had seen that poor little blue yarn stocking hanging in the chimney corner she might have slipped at least a bunch of raisins, and a cinnamon stick of two, into it, and Aunt Love might have tucked in a bit of blue ribbon. But nobody saw it, for Serena Ann, with the want of calculation of her innocent heart, slipped out after everybody was in bed and hung it up.

At breakfast the next morning Serena Ann's mouth drooped pitifully at the corners, and she did not eat much.

"You are a silly girl to act so," said her mother. "You knew what I told you."

"I s'pose Sammy Morse has got his stocking chuck full," said Ebenezer. He felt Serena Ann's injury to be his own.

"Go out in the shed and bring in some more of that apple-tree wood, if you've finished your breakfast," said his mother, and then she sent Serena Ann upstairs to make her bed.

As soon as the door closed, Aunt Love turned to her sister. "Suppose Joshua and I take Serena Ann to Boston with us," said she.

Mrs. Bagley looked at her doubtfully. "I'm afraid she'll be in your way," she said.

"No, she won't, and it will make up to her for not having anything in her stocking. I felt sorry for her. Serena Ann is a good little girl."

"Well, I felt sorry she took it so to heart," said Serena Ann's mother, "but it's a silly custom, and I don't know how to begin it. I suppose she would be tickled to death to go with you and Joshua. She never went to Boston but once; Ebenezer's been twice."

"She must come right down and get ready if she's going," said Aunt Love, "for Joshua will be here with the chaise."

And Serena Ann was called and told, to her joy and wonder, that she was to go to Boston with Aunt Love and Joshua Simmons. "But you must be a good girl and not make any trouble," said her mother, "for your Aunt Love has a great deal to do. She is going to buy some of her furniture, and her wedding bonnet and shoes, and she is very kind to take you."

And Serena Ann promised beamingly. She had never felt so happy in her life as she did that Christmas morning, when she set forth to visit Boston, tucked in between Aunt Love and Joshua Simmons in the chaise. It was very pleasant, but cold; there was a slight rime of snow on the ground, which shone like silver. Serena Ann wore her thick wadded coat, her lambswool tippet and her wadded brown silk hood with cherry strings. She was quite warm, and her face was so pink and radiant with bliss that Aunt Love and Joshua looked at her, and smiled at each other above her head.

Serena Ann, moreover, had, tightly grasped in one red-mittened hand, her mother's silk purse, and it contained two ninepences, one of which she was to spend for herself, and the other for a jack-knife for Ebenezer. Her father had given them to her when she started. She made up her mind, as they jogged along over the frozen road, that she would spend her ninepence for an apron for her mother instead of anything for herself, because she could not go to Boston in a chaise.

When they reached the city they stopped at the Sign of the Lamb, where Joshua Simmons put up his team; then they all went shopping down Hanover street, where the fashionable stores were at that time.

Serena Ann enjoyed buying Aunt Love's and Joshua Simmons' wedding furniture quite as much as they did. She thought there was never anything quite so handsome as their haircloth sofa, and mahogany card-table, and looking glass, and she trudged after them to all the shops where they priced articles and then back to the one where they found them cheapest and best, and never thought of being tired.

But she was glad at noon to go back to the Sign of the Lamb, and have some baked beans and a piece of pumpkin pie. They seemed to her far superior to the baked beans and pie at home.

After dinner Joshua Simmons left them. He had to go a little farther to see about his own wedding suit, and Aunt Love meanwhile was to buy her wedding bonnet and shoes, and Serena Ann make her purchases. Then they were to meet at the Sign of the Lamb, and go home.

Serena Ann went with her aunt from shop to shop, and watched her try on bonnets until she finally bought a beautiful one of green uncut velvet trimmed with white plumes and white lutestring ribbon. Then they started to buy the shoes, Aunt Love carrying the bonnet in a large green bandbox.

There was quite a crowd in Hanover street that afternoon. A great many ladies were out shopping. Serena Ann could not walk beside her aunt very well, she was so jostled, so she fell behind. Now and then she took hold of the skirt of her auntie's blue delaine gown, so as not to lose her.

Nobody ever knew how it happened, but suddenly, after she had been pushed by the hurrying people and had caught hold of the blue delaine gown, the lady who wore it looked around and she was not Aunt Love. She was very pretty, but her hair was black and fell in bunches of curls, instead of smooth braids, over her red cheeks, and her eyes were black instead of blue. Moreover, she was very finely dressed, wearing a velvet pelisse and a rich fur tippet, and bearing before her a great fur muff. The blue delaine gown was the only thing about this strange young lady that in the least resembled Aunt Love. She stood looking with great surprise at Serena Ann, who looked up at her quite pale with fright, still keeping fast hold of the blue delaine.

Finally the young lady laughed, and then her face, which had appeared rather haughty, looked very sweet. "What is the matter," said she, "and why are you holding to my gown?"

"I—thought you were Aunt Love," faltered Serena Ann, and the tears began to come.

"Were you holding your aunt's gown?"

"Yes, ma'am."

The young lady laughed again. "My name is Miss Pamela Soley," said she. "Take hold of my hand, and don't cry, and we'll go find your aunt.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly afflicted from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and pruritis. Worms and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

A MYTH OF THE RHINE

VARIOUS VERSIONS OF THE ORIGIN OF CHRISTMAS TREES.

How the Custom of Decorating a Spruce Has Spread to All Christian Nations—A Legend of Martin Luther—Memories of Tiny Tapers and Sweet Surprises.

One may read in the folklore of the Rhine district of a mysterious tree that blooms only on the night before Christmas, and the old myth assures us we have only to go to a certain spot to find it all to be true. As the first authentic accounts of a Christmas gift tree are in the annals of this same Rhine neighborhood, may we not believe that the holy mystery supposed to be concealed in the blossoming tree was commemorated and perpetuated in the decoration of the Christmas spruce? At all events, it is in historical records of Strasburg from the year 1605 we first read of a real Christmas tree. The man who has left the record writes:

"During the Christmas holidays a spruce is set up in Strasburg homes, on which are hung horses of many colored paper, apples, consecrated wafers, clay cuckoos, sugar," etc.

The use of the tree spread very slowly during the 200 years following, and we next read of it in 1646 in a theological work called "Milk of the Catechism." This time it is not mentioned lovingly, but the author inveighs against its use in the home in these words:

"Among other frivolities with which more than with God's word the holy days are celebrated the Christmas spruce is found, which is set up in the houses and decorated with puppets and sweet things. Finally one shakes it, and so its blossoms fall. Whence comes this custom I know not. The whole thing is child's play. Better would it be if one allowed the children to keep holy day around that spiritual cedar tree, Christ Jesus."

Next we hear of it from the standpoint of the jurist in 1737. In a very learned treatise "On the Gifts Bestowed on Our Redeemer's Birthday" a jurist striving for position of docent at Wittenberg speaks of the candle decked Christmas tree, under whose boughs the gifts to the housefolk are spread, gifts whose justification he sees from a legal standpoint.

Late in the eighteenth century the tree was more frequently mentioned, and it was even the great Goethe who introduced it to the literary world in his "Sorrows of Werther." Goethe first saw a Christmas tree in 1765, when he was 16 years old, at the house of Theodor Korner's grandmother. He says, "It was hung with all kinds of sweets, mangers holding the Christ child, the Virgin Mary and Joseph standing beside the oxen, asses and lambs."

Do you remember Werther's visit to Lotte on the Sunday before Christmas, when he finds her alone, preparing packages of presents for her small brothers and sisters? Just as he, suspecting nothing, pours out his ecstasy over their friendship the door suddenly opens, and the Christmas tree bursts on his view, with its glimmering wax candles, its cakes and apples.

Germany's other idol, Schiller, does not himself write of any Christmas tree, but in a work by a friend of his we learn that at Christams time, 1789, he became betrothed to Lotte von Lengefeld and withdrew from an engagement to "pass the holidays under the Christmas tree" with a family in Jena in order to be with her.

The following Christmas he and his wife Lotte stood beneath a "brightly glowing tree" in their own home.

The first time the Christmas tree was enshrined in verse was in 1805, just 200 years from its first historic mention. From that year the custom of decorating a spruce at Christmas spread rapidly all over Germany until about 1880 it went over the border into France and was introduced in 1840 by Helen, duchess of Orleans, into the Tuileries. Now over 40,000 trees are decorated annually in France. The French people observe the custom with all their characteristic enthusiasm and warm piety. They have a very pretty way of protecting the roots of the tree and planting it again after the holidays are over.

The Christmas tree found its way into England through Prince Albert soon after his betrothal to Queen Victoria. A peculiar English custom is that of passing a small tree round the table after the Christmas dinner, from which each person plucks the gift previously placed there for him or her.

Nor are these the only countries to follow the Germans in their Christmas festival. In Italy, the Netherlands, Russia and Scandinavia the little ones are made happy by the blooming of the Christmas tree. Indeed an old German legend ascribes the origin of the custom to Sweden, whence it was introduced into Germany at the time of the Thirty Years' war. But this is only legendary and has no more claim to our belief than that other legend of Martin Luther taking a forest tree into his house and decking it with numerous lights to symbolize the glory of the starlit heavens.

In our own country the history of the Christmas tree is young, and although many foreigners think the only kind we have ever seen is one from which the poetic sentiment is fled, one made of iron and lighted by the pressing of a button with gas or electricity, we, who have our delightful memories of trimming the fragrant evergreen, of helping it blossom and bear fruit full of sweet surprises, and who have lighted the tiny tapers amid much merriment, not unmingled with tender awe at the thought of the starlight whose rays have beamed upon us since that first Christmas long ago—we can testify to the beauty, the poetry, the warm glowing love, surrounding our Christmas tree, which blooms perennial in our hearts long years after the mystery of hearts.—Boston Transcript.

The Mother Heart Touched

"I Believe SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Saved the Lives of Two of My Children."—Puny Children Grow Fat and Strong—Tired and Ailing Women Take on the BLOOM of EARLIER YEARS.

What will touch the mother heart more deeply than the illness of her little ones? She may suffer much herself, and women are sorely afflicted with many ills, but she will endure all this, however often, without a murmur; but there can be no disguising her anxiety when the little ones of the home are stricken down with sickness. And how many puny children there are! We talk of the bloom of youth, but thousands of children know not of it. Others may romp, but they are weaklings.

Mothers, would you have your loved ones strong and healthy? Would you enjoy good health yourself? Then use South American Nervine Tonic; there is no doubting its efficacious properties. Investigate from a scientific or a common sense point of view and you will find that nearly all disease has its start in the nerve centres of the body.

The mission of South American Nervine is to at once reach the nerve centres, which are to the whole body what the mainspring of the watch is to every other part of the timepiece. Science has made perfectly clear that the troubles that affect the individual organs of the body, have their seat in these nerve centres, so, without any wasteful experimenting, South American Nervine reaches out to the seat of the difficulty, and straightening out what is wrong there heals the whole body. Listen to what Mrs. H. Russell, Wingate, writes on this point: "I have used several bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and will say, I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down, and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly both improved on its use. I don't allow myself to be without some of it in my house. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors." It will certainly grant new life to all who are delicate, whether young, middle-aged, or old. Do not worry along with ill health, but dispel it, and brighten your lives by the immediate use of South American Nervine.

OLD SAXON CHEER.

How They Pledged Each Other From the Spicy Wassail Bowl.

Among quaint Christmas customs which are prominent as we look back through the vista of ages appears the burning of the yule log. It comes down from Scandinavians, Goths and Saxons, who at the yule feast kindled huge bonfires in honor of Thor. In feudal times the cutting of the yule log was the beginning of a series of festivities. Brought into the baronial hall and lighted in the great fireplace, it was the well understood harbinger of hospitality and kind feeling, of wide open doors and good cheer.

If by chance any enmity existed between those gathered around the festive board, it must all be drowned in the bubbling wassail bowl. The mandate of the host was:

Come, bring with a noise,
My merrie, merrie boys,
The Christmas log to the firing.
While my good dame she
Bids ye all be free,
And drink to your hearts' desiring.

This wassail bowl was a huge tankard of spiced ale or wine, in which each drank his neighbor's health—the old Saxon phrase "was hael," meaning "to your health." It was a custom in some places to "wassail" fruit trees by pouring or sprinkling upon them a prepared liquid, with various ceremonies.

Wassaile the trees, that they may beare
You many a plumb and many a peare,
For more or less fruits they will bring,
As you doe give them wassailing.

Substantial viands were not lacking to accompany the favorite Christmas beverage, yet the piece de resistance was not anciently, as in later times, the fat turkey or plump goose, but the boar's head was the dish served in baronial halls with greatest ceremony. It was brought in on an immense silver salver—or a golden one if such were in possession of the host—ornamented with holly and rosemary and carried by some tall servitor, elaborately dressed and accompanied by minstrels singing carols.

The boar's head in hand I carry,
Bedecked with bays and rosemary,
And I pray you, my masters, be merry.

The boar's head, as I understand,
Is the bravest dish in all the land
When thus bedecked with gay garland.

Our steward hath provided this
In honor of the king of Bliss
Which on this day to be served is.

Serving the boar's head at Christmas is still a custom among certain nations. Another odd dish was the peacock, which, after being stuffed and roasted, was redorned with its plumage, and the gilded beak being added and the long tail feathers unfurled was brought into the hall in great state and occupied a place of honor on the banqueting table. No servile hands were allowed to touch the proud bird. noblest lady of the household or some high born guest prepared it for the table and brought it in.

Of course the plum pudding and Christmas pie and scores of other favorite dishes were not lacking, among which always appeared the yule cake and frumenty—a preparation of eggs, milk of almonds and various spices. Some of these viands would not appeal to the more refined palates of the present age.

CHRISTMAS EVE IN PARIS.

Forget and Forgive Is the Custom—Midnight Mass and the Family Supper.

On Christmas eve in the homes of Paris, when the children are fast asleep, with the bonnes to watch over them, the older ones and the parents go to the grand high mass, lasting from 10 o'clock till midnight. This is a very solemn service and is sung with great ceremony and with row upon row of white veiled nuns, whose narrow belts of blue, orange or red show their peculiar order, kneeling in the transept.

Just at midnight the mass ends, and the altar boys snuff the tall candles.

Then the family returns, and there is the reveillon, or the supper of waking—the one meal of the year at which are gathered the brothers and sisters to the home of the oldest married child. There are places for the grandparents, too, and, if a child has been lately born to swell the family circle, a seat of honor next the grandmere for its mother, who is queen of the feast.

The "supper" is a great dinner, at which good will is the order, where are drunk innumerable glasses of harmless, unintoxicating grape wine, and where toasts are offered to every conceivable good luck, past and to come.

At the reveillon are discussed all the affairs of the family. If during the year the relations between two of its members have become strained, all is often forgiven and forgotten in this family love feast.

So with toast and rally and story the hours creep by until it is far into the small hours, when the party breaks up.

Christmas Customs of the Druids.

The Druids had a very beautiful custom which we moderns should imitate in spirit. They cut the green trees at this season of the year and carried them into their warm rooms in order to protect the spirits of the forest and the streams from the winter's frost and death dealing winds. In the springtime these spirits thus housed and sheltered went out again to reclothe the forest with green foliage, to unlock the icy streams and cover the face of the earth with beauty and bread. At this Christmas season of peace and good will let us provide a home for the spirit of love, of justice and of sympathy, that they may be protected against the evil times, the coldness and selfishness of the world, to go out again in the springtime "to heal and soothe and bless."—Exchange.

THE MAJESTIC ARRIVES.

Mrs. Sanford Tells of Miss Thompson's Visit to Her Majesty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. Mrs. W. E. Sanford, wife of the Canadian senator, was interviewed at quarantine on the arrival of the steamer Majestic. She stated that Miss Thompson, daughter of the late Sir John Thompson, Premier of Canada, was under her care and had borne the trip remarkably well, showing considerable fortitude under her affliction.

In speaking of the sudden death of the late Premier, Mrs. Sanford said: "Sir John died on Wednesday, December 12, and Miss Thompson was at the time in Paris with my husband, Senator Sanford, her Majesty sent for me and my daughters to condole with us. We went to Windsor in her Majesty's carriage, and were received with the greatest consideration and kindness. We were present when her Majesty laid two wreaths of flowers on Sir John's bier. On Thursday morning the body was brought to London, and on Thursday afternoon Senator Sanford and Miss Thompson arrived from Paris. On Friday morning solemn requiem mass was said and on Saturday the Queen sent for Miss Thompson and myself.

"We were received by the Queen and Princess Beatrice alone, and there were no attendants to break in upon our grief. Her Majesty drew Miss Thompson to her, and kissed her and consoled her, and also pressed my hand to assure me of her heartfelt sympathy. I wish I could adequately express the extreme tenderness and anxious solicitation of her Majesty. In every way in her power she showed that she was deeply moved by the sad occurrence and desired to have us understand so. I will proceed at once to Ottawa with Helena. I have just received a letter from Mr Pope informing me that there will be nobody here to meet Miss Thompson and I will of course take her direct to Lady Thompson. My own daughters will go direct to Hamilton, Ont., our home, in the care of Mr. O'Hara. My husband, as you no doubt know, is to accompany Sir John Thompson's remains on the man-of war Blenheim to Halifax."

Mrs. Sanford is a handsome lady with white hair and a clear complexion; she seemed deeply moved while telling her story.

A DESTRUCTIVE SHELL.

An Invention Which It is Claimed Will Revolutionize Warfare.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 28.—James S. Wolf, a machinist of this place, has perfected a shell which, if it fulfills all that is claimed for it by its inventor, will revolutionize warfare. On Christmas he made the first test in the presence of a few spectators.

The shell was exploded by a fuse, and ascended to a height of about 40 feet, exploding when it reached the ground and burning fiercely for 20 minutes. The shell is a double one. Mr. Wolf claims that it will throw more missiles than a single one, requiring but one half the power that would be necessary for a single one.

Its inventor claims that one or two of these shells fired into a city would completely destroy it, that it would demoralize any army into which it fell, and that it can be fired from any mortar and timed to explode as desired.

To fill an eight-inch shell he said would cost but twenty-five cents if the ingredients he has discovered are used. He has an attorney at Washington city presenting his claims for a patent and if successful will offer his invention to the United States government. Several gentlemen who witnessed the test say that the invention is a wonderful one.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—At Ellwood August Permontir, aged 26, a Frenchman employed at the Peerless Lamp Chimney factory and a boarder at the residence of James Meister, attempted a triple murder and then killed himself. Permontir went to the second floor of the boarding house and without warning shot twice at the youngest daughter of his landlord, aged 16 years, but did not hit her. He then ran down the stairs and shot at another of Meister's daughters, 18 years old. The shot entered her left breast, inflicting a dangerous wound. Robert Charles, another boarder, tried to overpower Permontir and was also dangerously shot, the bullet entering his groin. Permontir then went to the front porch and fired a shot through his head. Death was instantaneous.

Fight With Masked Thieves.

NEW LISBON, O., Dec. 28.- Three masked men entered the house of William Johnston, six miles south of this place. While one of the gang covered the family with revolvers the others ransacked the house, securing $800 and some jewellery. While the thieves were at work one of Johnston's daughters aroused the neighbors. Several men ran to the Johnston house and the robbers began to shoot. Johnston was shot through the bowels and a man named McCord was shot through the hand. The robbers made their escape. Johnston is a farmer, 60 years old, and will probably die.

The Charges Against Lippert.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—William Augustus Lippert, who was arrested in Cincinnati Christmas night on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Shields at the instance of the British Consul-General charging him with forgery, arrived in this city yesterday. He is charged with issuing forged checks, deeds, bonds, etc., to the amount of $598,755 in Capetown, South Africa. Two of the largest banks in Capetown were Lippert's victims. He denies that he is the man wanted by the British authorities. He will be examined to-day.

THE STATE FUNERAL.

Military Orders for Receiving the Body of Sir John Thompson.

HALIFAX, Dec. 28.—The city is donning funeral array. St. Mary's Cathedral, St. Matthew's Church, the Academy of Music, Spring Garden road court house, the cemetery fence on Park street and many residences and business blocks will be draped.

The following was issued by the military authorities yesterday: "Headquarters, Halifax, Dec. 27. — H. M. S. Blenheim, with remains of the late Premier of the Dominion on board, being due here on Monday, 31st instant, the officer commanding the Royal Artillery will be prepared to fire fifteen-minute guns as the vessel approaches the harbor, five from MacNab's Island, five from York Redout and five from George's Island, which last will be fired by the Halifax Garrison Artillery under Royal Artillery supervision. When the ship anchors a staff officer will proceed on board at once and receive the report of captain for the Lieutenant-General.

"On being landed at Ordnance yard the remains will be received by a guard of honor of three officers, 100 rank and file, regimental colors and band of King's Regiment, and will be at once placed on a gun carriage in charge of the Royal Artillery, which will then proceed direct to the Provincial building, a guard of honor filing off right and left of the gun carriage which will be preceded by the band playing the dead march. At the Provincial building the remains will be removed from the gun carriage by twelve selected non-commissioned officers of the garrison, under Garrison Sergeant-Major, and handed over to the civil authorities. Above arrangements are published subject to modification. Details for funeral will be made known hereafter. By command—Signed Dudley North, Colonel, A. A. General."

The draping of the interior of the Legislative Council chamber is nearing completion. The whole interior is covered with black, relieved with purple about the doors and windows. Silver trimmings are yet to be added. A double row of incandescent lamps has been placed over the main doorway. While the body lies in state on the catafalque erected just opposite the main doorway the public will enter through one of two small doorways and pass out through the other. There will be a railing erected from the doors down the centre of the stairway and out through the main hallway to the door. To avoid crushing, people wishing to view the remains will be required to enter on one side of the hall and leave on the other.

The guard of honor will consist of one from the King's regiment and one from the militia (probably the 66th Princess Louise Fusiliers). The rest of the forces, both regular and local, will line the streets through which the funeral will pass.

It has been arranged that Bishop Cameron, of Antigonish, will, officiate at the funeral service at St. Mary's cathedral and Archbishop O'Brien will preach.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

Government Undecided in Regard to the Elections The Premier's Birthday.

OTTAWA, Dec. 28.—A proclamation will be issued in the Canada Gazette on Saturday, further proroguing Parliament until Monday, 11th February. This does not necessarily prevent another proclamation being issued summing Parliament for despatch of business before that time although it is not usually done. It shows at any rate that the Government is as yet undecided as to whether to summon the House or hold the elections. The last formal prorogation was up to Monday next, so that the Government is compelled now to make another formal prorogation.

Yesterday was Premier Bowell's 71st birthday. He was up early, but did not leave his room as he was busy going through many congratulations by wire and mail, which came from friends. He is in good health, but is troubled with an ordinary cough, which is not at all serious.

J. M. Lyons, of the Intercolonial Railway, was here, and made all arrangements for the special government train to Halifax. It will leave Tuesday at 10 p.m., arriving at Halifax on Thursday morning at 6 a.m. A special car will be attached exclusively for the Cabinet.

The writ for Cumberland, the constituency of Hon. A. R. Dickey, the new Secretary of State, has been issued. The nomination is on January 15th, and January 22nd is named as polling day. Halifax despatches say that the Liberals have decided not to oppose the new Minister.

Mr. Douglas Stewart, secretary of the committee in charge of the arrangements in connection with the funeral of the late Premier, left for Halifax, where he will co-operate with Mr. Cosse in completing the details of arrangements their.

A Whitby Assault Case.

WHITBY, Dec. 28.—The police magistrate heard the details of a most brutal assault case at the police court. Before Major Harper Matthew Murphy was charged with having last Saturday night pounded Humphrey Coffey's head in a most horrible manner and then left him in the ditch covered with blood, helpless and unable to get up. Lewis Lintner and James Dillman, two young men who were near at the time, were called by the Crown, and their evidence was of such a doubtful nature and their memories so bad that the magistrate ordered them to be sent to the jail for one week to refresh them, but finally took bail for each for $200 to appear. Murpay was also allowed out on bail. Coffey, who was under the influence of liquor, is on the prohibited list and has since given the names of the parties furnishing him to Inspector Ferguson, who is also taking steps in the matter. The case comes up next Wednesday.

A Novel Customs Ruling.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 28.—Collector Pew has levied a duty of $1 a barrel on the schooner Alice C. Jordan's cargo of 400 barrels of salted herrings. The owner, Wm. H. Jordan, paid under protest. Jordan cured the fish on the Nova Scotia shore with foreign salt. If the salt had been taken from Gloucester the fish would have been admitted free. The ruling is a new one.

A Liberal Victory in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 28.—In the bye-election for Nova Scotia Assembly in Richmond county yesterday, Matheson, Liberal, was elected by about 200 majority. The vacancy was caused by the unseating of Morrison, Conservative, who was again Conservative candidate and who carried the constituency at the general election last spring by a small majority.

Rescued the Boy Slave.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 28.—The steamer Mischief which is anchored off Carmanah has on board the force of police who went to the west coast of the Island to endeavor to capture the white man who sold a white boy to a west coast tribe of Indians. They have captured the man and witnesses and rescued the boy.

PREVENT PNEUMONIA.

HOME REMEDIES TO USE IN THE ABSENCE OF THE DOCTOR.

The Causes of the Disease—The Temperate Climates the Real Stalking Ground of the Disease—The Part Absolute Quiet Plays in Securing Recovery.

Conditions of weather and climate are probably the most important of all known agencies in the causation of pneumonia. The influence of the cold and dampness in increasing the liabilities to acute inflammatory diseases of the chest are well known. The disease is also more common in temperate climates than in regions characterized by great heat or extreme cold.

Pneumonia is a trouble which falls so quickly upon one's system that it is hard to discover the precise moment of attack. "Wear a chamois skin jacket lined with flannel next the skin all winter, if one has any predisposition or inherited tendency toward this weakness," advised one physician: "I find this an excellent preventive."

"It is also a good idea," he continued, "to keep the blood well nourished. Strong food is a formidable foe to pneumonia, for it puts the tissues in such condition from its effect that they throw off the cold."

Pneumonia goes harder with men than women, all doctors agree, the reason being that the latter are more constantly exposed.

As soon as the rigor comes on, which is as significant of approaching danger as the shrill rattle of a snake, go to bed. Do not temporize with the disease. Discretion is the best part of valor, and a quick surrender makes the enemy less implacable.

Take an effective laxative, 20 grains of quinine, a hot lemonade, and get a good sweat. Stay in bed for 36 hours, and in six cases out of ten the symptoms will pass.

In children the rigor is often displaced by a convulsion or violent fit of nausea.

In amateur treatment to prevent what inclines toward pneumonia, care should always be taken about the heart. Failure of cardiac power is the great source of danger, and, therefore, digitalis, which is such a help in uncomplicated cases, to depress the circulation, has to be sparingly used where any heart weakness is discernible.

But quinine remains good in all cases and stages. It can be taken in large doses, 20 grains or more, repeated at intervals of 24 hours. A full dose of brandy is an excellent accompanist to this.

Cold baths are given at once, abroad, but it is not a safe thing to try without the aid of a physician, and would be classed more as a cure than a preventative. So the old-time remedy of a good hot mustard foot bath with a blanket wrapped about the knees and a few blankets over the body stands still a favor at the beginning of the invasion.

Absolute quiet should be maintained from the start, for the nerves play a great part in the development of pneumonia. The room should be at a temperature of 68 degrees. Milk, soup or lemonade, quite hot, should be the only food. If the fever rises, cold sponging is the thing to do, except in the case of weak children, when tepid baths should be substituted. Turpentine inhalations assists expectoration, tone up the system and are pleasant for the patient. Some of the physicians now favor a hypodermic injection of borax; claiming that it is an excellent arrester.

If there is a pain in the side or lungs, which generally accompanies the rigor, mustard plasters should be used, and wet or dry cupping according to the intensity of the pain. Some physicians are using choloroform soaked in cotton, with a dry layer of the cotton protecting it, to alleviate the distress. But, again, this deserves professional treatment.

If one has any tendency toward lung or throat trouble it is well to remember that the ankles and arms should be kept well covered. These parts are very sensitive, and the woman who wears a short-sleeved, high-necked shirt is more imprudent than if she exposed her throat. For this reason high boots should be unvaryingly worn in cool days outside of the house or inside, if there is no furnace heat.—Jocelyn Davies, in St. Louis Republican.

The Bicycle for Women.

The mention of the bicycle for women opens a field of mild controversy which is only important because some of the objections to its use are taken from the hygenic standpoint as well as from the social. Many objectors contend that the wheel is as undesirable for women as the sewing machine, while the majority of parents seriously object to what they feel to be the unpleasant publicity of the exercise. As a matter of health, which is of the first importance, the writer has made many inquiries among women who use the wheel regarding the effects of the exercise upon them, and has failed to discover a single case of injury or poor health resulting from its use. On the contrary, the testimony to its exhiliarating and healthful effect is universal. Several other American physicians, qualified to speak from experience in their practice among women, have warmly commended its use. From the standpoint of a symmetrical exercise, the position is preferable to that on a horse. The movement is unlike that of a sewing machine in several important respects: Instead of being bowed over in a cramped position which restricts the action of the lungs, digestive and pelvic organs alike, the woman rider sits erect, with full opportunity for chest expansion, while the difference between the environment of the sewing woman and the riding woman as regards indoor and out-of-door life is most important.—Dr. Mary T Bissell in The Popular Science Monthly.

She's a Spanker.

The avenue of woman's work is broadening with astonishing rapidity. Up in Maine an energetic woman is earning a portion of her daily bread by spanking her neighbor's bad children.

She receives 50 cents for every spanking, and appears at a certain number of houses each Saturday. Being an energetic woman, she calculates on giving as many as ten different spankings every Saturday.—New York World.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 28, 1894.

Street sales here were one load of white wheat at 62c.; one load of barley at 46c.; 200 bush. oats at 32 1-2c.

Wheat declined 3-4c. in Chicago on selling orders from New York. Corn and oats lost 1-8 to 1-4 in sympathy with wheat.

At East Buffalo the offerings were not excessive (18 cars), but outside buyers were not taking stock owing to storm, railroads refusing to accept live stock yesterday. There were six cars of Canada's included in the offerings and the local demand was good at higher prices, closing firm. Most of the Canada lambs sold $4.36, a few at $4.40 and prime Canada sheep at $4 to $4.10 per cwt.

Mines were the only active market in London and even these show signs of slackening. Americans were flat, closing, however, above the lowest.

There were some important developments on Wall street, but it seems utterly impossible to revive speculative interest in the stock market. These developments were accepted with a languid interest and less than 100,000 shares of stocks were traded in during the entire session. At the opening the market was heavy but when the New York declared its regular dividend for the quarter, prices moved up 1-4 to 1 5-8 per cent., Central leading. There were few weak spots, notably Distillers, Reading and Jersey Central. Sugar closed practically unchanged on the day. The market closed irregular but in the main firm.

A Fair Business Being Transacted—The Past Year Reviewed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Bradstreet's to-day says: Toronto jobbers say trade is very quiet, and travellers from that city are not hurrying their departure, although at Montreal preparations are making in several lines to send out travelers. At Quebec City shoe manufacturers report the trade brisk. At Halifax the volume of business is moderate and wholesale trade is dull. Collections throughout Nova Scotia are slow. In Newfoundland the business situation remains unchanged or as previously described, somewhat chaotic. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, and Halifax aggregate $15,412,000 this week against $21,171,000 last week and $16,350,000 in the week last year.

Canadian business failures during 1894, as reported to Bradstreet's, aggregate $1,851,781, against $1,543,000; total liabilities amounting to $17,724,000 this year and $14,762,000 last year, with customary ratios of assets. There is a moderate increase in the number of failures in the Province of Quebec, with a sharp gain in volume of liabilities. New Brunswick reports a moderate increase in the number of failures, with nearly double the amount of liabilities in 1893; and Nova Scotia, a moderate decrease and a heavy decline in volume of liabilities, the like being true with reference to Prince Edward Island. In Manitoba there is one less failure than the year before, though with a slightly increased volume of liabilities.

Failures in the Northwest Territory dropped more than one-half this year and liabilities still further. There is also a smaller number of failures reported from British Columbia, but liabilities have increased. There are 29 failures reported from Newfoundland, against 15 the year before with liabilities of $6,250,000 this year, against $927,000 last year.

The situation in Newfoundland appears to have been one of suspended animation rather than general commercial or financial failure, which will account for the comparatively few commercial deaths reported in spite of the business crisis.

COULDN'T BUY THE JEW

New York's Police Inspector Offered Him a Bribe.

SOME MORE LEXOW SENSATIONS

A Green-Goods Printer Swears to Paying $1,000 to Have Indictments Against Him Dismissed—He Was Re-arrested and Again Paid That Sum.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—When the Lexow committee met yesterday, Inspector Williams took the stand. He denied that his wife had any money in United States bonds. He said that all the witnesses who swore to the existence of disorderly houses on the east side lied.

Morris Rosenfield next took the stand. He testified that he had visited Inspector Williams on September 7 last.

"I was standing by a soda water stand when a policeman came up and struck me without provocation. I went to headquarters to complain about the officer. I met Inspector Williams and he asked me how much money I would settle the case for. I said I came to get justice and did not want money. The Inspector said, 'Then you don't care for money?'

"I said I did not, and he called me a liar. The Sheenies, said he, killed Christ for a few pieces of silver. He then ordered me out of his room."

"But Inspector Williams," said Mr. Goff. "said that if you swore this, you would be telling a lie."

"I am not lying, sir. Inspector Williams is a liar if he said so."

Police Captain Timothy J. Creedon, who was the first police official to make a confession before the Lexow Committee, put in his application for retirement at police headquarters. It is not likely that the police board will grant Creedon's application. It is more than probable that Creedon will be brought up on charges next month and tried by the police board.

A most sensational witness came on the stand. He was Louis S. Streep, who once kept a printing house in Beekman street. He was indicted in June, 1889, for printing and sending out green-goods circulars, but declared that he was innocent, as the guilty man was Edward Bechtold, who hired a room from him.

Mr. Goff produced two indictments which had been dismissed, and then came the sensation.

"I swear solemnly before God and man that I paid $1,000 to Anthony Comstock to have these indictments dismissed, and I had to borrow $300 from my brother, who saw me pay the money to Comstock."

The indictments were recommended by the District Attorney for dismissal and signed by Recorder Smyth.

The man then told a rambling story of being rearrested on the same charges in the United States Court, and that he had paid $1,000 to Asst. District Attorney Mott to have the indictments dismissed.

There was a buzz of suppressed excitement in the room when the man had finished. His brother Robert corroborated him as to the payment of the money to Comstock.

The committee will sit again to-day.

Assistant District Attorney John G. Mott, was seen after adjournment regarding the statement of Louis S. Streep to the effect that Streep and Beachtold had paid 1,000 each to Anthony Comstock and Mott to have an indictment against them for dealing in green goods quashed. Mr. Mott indignantly denied that he had ever been paid to quash any indictment and denounced the whole story of Streep as a foul falsehood.

A PLAN FOR ARMENIA.

The Turkish Cabinet Adopts a Scheme for Governing the Districts.

VIENNA, Dec. 29.—A despatch from Constantinople says that at the last meeting of the Turkish cabinet the ministers virtually adopted a new plan of government for the districts of Erzeroum, Van, Bitlis and Moosh. The plan is that the four districts be joined in a single province over which a Mussulman governor appointed by the Sultan shall rule five years.

The Mussulman would be succeeded in the governorship by Christians who are not Armenians. The gendarmery would be recruited from the districts in which it would serve and would be commanded by a general named by the Sultan. The local revenues would be retained by the province excepting one annual contribution to the Porte. The judges would be elective and local ministries of education and public works probably would be formed.

Gave Away the Kaiser's Secrets.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Daily News correspondent in Berlin says that the Emperor was surprised and indignant when he learned that his offer to increase Prince Hohenlohe's salary had become known. The news was conveyed to numerous politicians and newspapers through notes written in an obviously feigned hand. The envelope bore a nobleman's crest partially effaced. It is said that the Emperor has ordered that the sender be sought by any and all means. Many think that the letters were sent by the author of the Kotze scandals.

Gale in the Irish Sea.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A furious southeast gale is blowing in the Irish sea. Late in the afternoon a steamship supposed to be a trader plying between Cork and Liverpool was seen flying signals of distress off Holyhead. Two lifeboats and a tug went to help her. In the south of Ireland the gale has been exceptionally violent and many accidents have been reported. Railway trains on exposed sections of track were often hardly able to make progress against the storm. In Cumberland, Westmoreland and around London it has blown hard.

An Historical Building Doomed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The gloomy old brick mansion on Lafayette square, in which the murderous assault was made on Secretary Seward and his son on the night of President Lincoln's assassination, and in which James G. Blaine and his son and daughter died, is to be torn down and a handsome fire-proof steel opera house to cost at least $250,000 is to be erected on the site by a Chicago syndicate.

Special to Boys.

A quantity of boys Flannel Shirts which will be sold at 25, 40, 50 and 75c. First come first served at W. J. GREEN'S, 135 Hunter street.

TO BE ANOTHER SESSION

This is the Opinion in Official Circles at the Capital.

AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The Gazette Contains the Proclamation of the Further Formal Prorogation until February 11, 1895—Parliament Not to Meet Before February 14.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—The Canada Gazette to-day contains a proclamation making a further formal prorogation of Parliament until February 11, 1895. This does not necessarily mean that a session can be called before that date, and it is not at all likely that it will be. It has not been usual for the Government to first formally prorogue Parliament to a certain date and afterwards to issue a proclamation summoning the House for the despatch of business prior to the time to which it was formally prorogued. The proclamation shows at any rate that the Government has not so far come to a decision on the question as to whether there is to be a session before a general election or not. The general opinion in official circles is that there is to be a session before a general election. In that case it would look as if it was not going to be as early as many supposed. There is no likelihood of Parliament being called before February 14.

Geo. Taylor, M. P., the Government whip, was in the city. On being interviewed, he said that there was no doubt about there being a session before a general election. He never had any doubt on that point.

Hon. Dr. Montague's Opinion.

DUNNVILLE, Ont., Dec. 29.—Hon. Dr. Montague, who is rapidly recovering his usual strength and was busy in replying to congratulatory letters and telegrams, was seen yesterday upon matters political. Though he has not given a formal reply to the Welland Conservatives there is no doubt that he will decline the nomination, preferring to remain with his old constituents, very many of whom have in strong terms protested against his leaving Haldimand. Asked as to the rumors of a general election before a session of the House the doctor answered that so far as he knew the matter had not even been discussed. The late Premier had fully intended allowing the existing Parliament to live through its fifth session and no doubt the present Premier would have the same intention.

THIRD PARTY AT PICTON.

Dalton McCarthy and Colonel O'Brien Address the Electors.

PICTON, Dec. 29.—Dalton McCarthy and Col. O'Brien arrived here yesterday and proceeded direct to the court house, where it was arranged to do the speaking. The party was met at the station by two bands and a large number of citizens and prominent politicians from all parts of the county. A procession was formed, headed by the bands and followed by a large number of carriages and people on foot. The court room was well filled before the speakers arrived. Mr. Levi Williams, of North Marysburg, ex-warden of the county and a prominent Liberal, was chosen as chairman and introduced the speakers of the day in an eloquent and pleasing address. In his opening remarks he spoke in feeling terms of the death of Sir John Thompson and paid a high tribute to the virtues and worth of the dead Premier. Mr. McCarthy then stated his position in relation to the present government and stated that his opposition to Mackenzie Bowell's government was on the same lines as to the last government. It was not a question of men but a question of measures. He scored the present Premier for his lack of backbone in not opposing the Jesuit bill and by his vote insisting that the people of the North west should have separate schools imposed upon them whether they would or not. Mr. McCarthy then went on to deal with the trade question of the Government, taking his usual line of argument. Col. O'Brien followed by a short speech. Another meeting was held in the court house at night.

Ontario Poultry Association.

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., Dec. 29.—The annual exhibit of the Ontario Poultry Association will take place here next week commencing January 1 and continuing until Friday noon, January 4. Over 1,500 entries from 45 different places in Canada and the United States have been received; $1,500 in prizes are offered. The stock will be the finest on the continent. The exhibition hall has been enlarged and greatly improved and makes a splendid place for the show. F. Goeble is the superintendent. The judges are Sharpe Butterfield, Windsor; L. G. Jarvis, London; Thos. Smelt, Woodstock; I. J. Johnston, Toronto. The annual meeting of the poultry association for the election of officers will take place here on January 3rd. Hon. Clarke Wallace, Hon. Jno. Dryden, J. J. Gilbert, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and other prominent gentlemen will address the meeting.

Destitution in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—There are said to be in Quebec from 4,000 to 5,000 people out of employment whose condition is described as most deplorable. The federal and local governments and the city council have been called upon to give work to the unemployed, Judge Valu brings word from the St. Lawrence below Saguenay that most of the lumbering establishments there are closed this winter and that the scattered population along the coast are reduced to the last extremity. He fears that there will be many deaths from starvation.

An Oshawa Fire.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 29.—Fire was discovered in the Pedlar frame buildings on Simcoe st. It started in Salter's barber shop which it completely gutted. Damages $350. W. Rolph's harness shop also sustained damages to extent of $200. Damage to buildings estimated at $800. All fully covered by insurance.

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 135 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

The Daily Examiner is delivered to a y part of the Town for 10c. a week 35c. a month, $2.00 for six months.

SHORT ACCOUNTS MAKE LONG FRIENDS.

Any person who is in the least degree familiar with business cannot but see that the cash system of conducting trading operations is the only really sound and altogether satisfactory system, and that next to that as close an approximation as possible to literal compliance with the spirit of the motto—"Short accounts make long friends," which being interpreted means that the shorter the term of credit under the credit system, the better. And it also means that the credit system breeds disputes and tends to disturb, if not disrupt, the amicable personal relations that make continued business transactions agreeable and tolerable. The idea is also involved that loss and unsatisfactory results are the legitimate attendants of the credit, especially long-credit, system. This system, with all its imperfections and mischievous commercial consequences, has been so long the practice in the conduct of business operations that it has come to be regarded by many as the only practicable method. But this is true to only a limited extent. Credit exists as a result of confidence, but that confidence is short-lived unless the credit flowing from it is regarded in the light of a trust to be promptly and honestly discharged according to the understood conditions. It is not credit but the abuse of it that is the greater evil. And the abuse of it in these modern days constitutes an oppressively-applied brake on the wheels of business. Granted that payment in cash or kind for an article at the time of the transction is the ideal method of business barter, it follows that next to that the shorter the term of credit the better, and also that the longer the term of credit, the worse; of which the present age furnishes numberless examples. The losses, disadvantages and inconveniences of the long-credit system are so palpable to men engaged in business of any kind that any recapitulation of them would be simply "carrying coals to Newcastle." It might be suggested that the predecessors of the business men of to-day flourished and amassed more or less means under the long-credit system. This may be true, but if these same men were in business to-day and tried to apply these methods to the commercial conditions of the present, it would not be long before their shutters would be put up. To-day the competition is far keener; merchants, as well as others have to be satisfied with a smaller margin of profit, and a more rapid turn-over of stock is required. With the present energetic and vigorous rivalry, a cash customer is looked upon by merchants as one worth cultivating—as a friend in need—and, while open accounts are kept with those considered safe, the merchant or business man of any kind would prefer having the cash and selling goods at a smaller margin of profit—he could then meet the draft of his wholesaler promptly and be saved the unspeakable difficulties of financing—the hair-whitening experiences of the "sweat-room,"—inseparable from the long-credit system.

A merchant may have on his books accounts, representing stock sold, to the extent of $10,000, as good, (as far as ultimate collection is concerned) as the Bank of England; yet if he has a $1,000 bank liability to meet to-morrow, he is no better off (nor so well off) than if he still had the goods on his shelves; whereas if he had sold goods to the amount of $3,000 for cash he would have been able to meet his bank liability and have had $4,000 left to meet obligations to other persons with whom he had business relations; and this plan operating throughout a business community would keep money in active circulation, and place, and maintain, business in a healthy condition.

As remarked above, the next best thing to the cash system is the short credit system. The New Year is at hand, the season when resolutions of amendment inhabits of life and business, are universally made. It is suggested to our business men that, with their desirable co-operation, amendment can be practised with decided profit to themselves and advantage to the business prosperity and interests of the community generally. One of these ways available is to present bills promptly and at short intervals, to collect promptly and at short intervals, to pay the bills due to others promptly and at short intervals. Thus the great evil of the day—not scarcity of money, but scarcity of money in circulation—would be to a large extent removed, business cares would be light ened, business difficulties lessened, and the whole commercial body be placed and retained in a healthy condition. A general observance of these general suggestions would be of incalulable benefit and would pave the way to adoption of the perfect business method—the cash system.

The largest employers in Peterborough pay their men weekly or fortnightly in cash, and there should be no reason why some business men should permit the large accumulation of accounts that some of them do. The farmer receives cash for everything he sells, and the prosperous farmers and merchants are those who are doing a cash business. If this were put in general practice it would discourage extravagance and promote economy and prosperity. In this connection the EXAMINER will make an important business announcement on Monday.

EVEN protectionist papers in the United States, says the Ottawa Free Press, are compelled by common sense to glide, unconsciously, perhaps, at times into teaching free trade doctrines. The New York Commercial Advertiser calls upon the Government to build its ships of war by contract offered to the nations of the world. "Let the plans be prepared and let bids be invited from the ship builders of the world. Let the ship yards of England, Scotland, France, Germany, Russia or Italy have a chance to build the war ships of the United States navy. They can do the work cheaper than we can because they pay less wages," says the Advertiser. The power of the principle of free trade is not to be ignored.

FAME TRAVELS.

The Merits of a Popular Canadian Remedy Become Known Afar Off—An Important Admission About Austrian and German Doctors.

The following exeerpt is from the Toronto Empire of Nov. 20: Dr. L. A. Smith & Co. showed the Empire yesterday a etter from a dealer in Wietrzno, Austria ordering a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. As these pills are not advertised outside of Canada and the United States, the demand in foreign countries must be due solely to the merits of the preparation. This communication also stated that the medical profession in Austria and Germany were prescribing Dodd's Kidney Pills for all kidney disorders, including Bright's disease and diabetes, with remarkable success. Canada has a right to feel proud of furnishing a remedy that not only has a reputation over this continent, but sets all Europe talking. The address give for shipment of the above order was: Josh Hughson, Wietrzno, Post Roune, bei Dukla, Galisien, Austria.

THE PRISON SYSTEM OF GREAT BRITAIN.

The prison system of Great Britain is very different from the prison system of Canada. There are two classes of prisons, namely, the local prisons and the convict prisons. In the local prisons the prisoners may be confined for any period from two days to two years, while in the convict prisons the prisoners or convicts may be confined for any period from five years to twenty, or for life. Each prisoner in a local prison spends the entire time of his sentence, even if for two years, in a separate room or cell, whereas in the convict prisons only the first nine months is spent in separate confinement. During this nine months the convicts both work and sleep in their rooms. At the end of nine months they work in association, but they are not allowed to speak to each other.

In the local prisons the prisoners are taken into the exercise yard for half an hour each day where they are put through a sort of military drill, but they are not allowed to speak. The industries in which they are occupied is boot making, weaving, mat-making and picking oakum, and in some of the prisons they still have the tread-mill. On the tread mill the prisoners work for 20 minutes and then rest 20 minutes and so on. This system is called the separate system simply because the prisoners are kept separate. A prisoner has no means of becoming acquainted with other prisoners. As there is no intercourse, there can be no contamination and the prisoner leaves the jail at least no worse than when he entered it.

It is a very great mistake some writers make in confounding the English "separate system" with what is called the "solitary system." The English separate system can in no way be called the "solitary system." The separation is merely from bad company. The prisoner is visited by his relatives, by the school master, by the chaplain, by the magistrates, besides the daily visits of the jailer or his assistants. He has work, he has exercise in the open air, he has instruction from his teacher, he has books and he can earn various privileges by good conduct. It is found that this system facilitates reflection and religious counsel and promotes reformation. The reformatory tendency of the system is indeed so marked that, except for juvenile offenders, special reformatories in England are considered quite unnecessary. Since the adoption of the separate system in Great Britain in 1877, there has been a large diminution in the volume of crime in the United Kingdom, and much of this satisfactory result is believed to be due to this cause. At that time there were about 20,000 prisoners in the local prisons, whereas now there are only about 14,000, although the population has largely increased during that time. More than this the number of convicts has decreased during the same period from 10,000 to something like 4,000. It should be added that this system of separate confinement is by no means confined to Great Britain. It is in Belgium, however, that the system has its best exemplification. To sum up, we may say that the separate system is both deterrent and reformatory, and although the prison buildings are more costly, the system in the end is by far the most economical, as apart from the great gain from the reformation of the prisoners and fewer recommittals, it is found that there is great deterrence, even in short sentences, and as a matter of fact, shorter sentences are now imposed in consequence.

You're an Easy Prey,

with your flesh reduced below a healthy standard, for consumption and other scrofulous and dangerous diseases. And it's for just this condition that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is especially valuable.

If you're thinner than you ought to be, whether from wasting diseases, defective nutrition, or whatever cause, the "Discovery" will surely bring you up to the healthy standard. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it arouses every natural source and means of nourishment. As a strength-restorer and flesh-builder, nothing like this medicine is known to medical science. Filthy Cod liver oil and all its disguised compounds can't compare with it.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, indigestion or dyspepsia, biliousness and headaches.

Testing His Honesty.

Your druggist is honest if when you ask him for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, he gives you just what you ask for. He knows this is the best form in which to take Cod Liver Oil.

The best and cheapest place to buy is Grafton & Co., Clothing Manufacturers.

A Fatal Attack.

A fatal attack of croup is a frequent occurrence among children. Every household should be guarded by keeping Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It breaks up coughs, colds, croup, asthma and bronchitis in a remarkable manner.

After the Grip

No Strength, No Ambition

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Perfect Health.

The following letter is from a well-known merchant tailor of St. George, N. B.:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills have done me a great deal of good. I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed. The results were very satisfactory, and I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with rheumatism or other

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all.
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

A BAD WRECK

—of the constitution may follow in the track of a disordered system, due to impure blood or inactive liver. Don't run the risk! The proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery take all the chances. They make a straightforward offer to return your money if their remedy fails to benefit or cure in all disorders and affections due to impure blood or inactive liver. The germs of disease circulate through the blood; the liver is the filter which permits the germs to enter or not. The liver active, and the blood pure, and you escape disease.

When you're run down, debilitated, weak, and your weight below a healthy standard, you regain health, strength, and wholesome flesh, by using the "Discovery." It builds up the body faster than nauseating Cod liver oils or emulsions.

THE MAKERS of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 if they can't give you a complete and permanent cure.

BATTLE FOR LIFE.

THE RESCUE OF A C.P.R OFFICIAL' WIFE.

Lost Health and Bed-ridden for Months—$275.00 Spent in Medical Treatment Without Avail—Her Early Decrease Looked Like a Inevitable But Health and Strength Have Been Restored.

From the Owen Sound Times.

Last fall when the Times gave an account of the miraculous cure of Mr. Wm. Bowes through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, we had little idea that we would be called upon to write an incident which is even more remarkable. The case referred to is that of Mrs. John C. Monnell, whose cure had been effected by those marvellous little messengers of health. The Times reporter was met at the door by Mrs. Monnell, who, though showing some traces of the suffering she had undergone, moved about very sprightly. With apparently all the gratitude of a man who had been saved out of the deepest affliction, Mr. Monnell gave the following account of his wife's miraculous cure. I have been in the employ of the C P R at Toronto Junction for some time. In August last year, after confinement, my wife took a chill and what is commonly known as milk-leg set in. When I came home from my work I was informed of the fact and next morning called in the family physician. The limb swelled in a very short time to an enormous size. Every means known was adopted to reduce the inflammation, but without avail. Consulting physicians were called in, but all the satisfaction they could give me was that the doctors in attendance were doing their utmost. A tank was rigged up, a long line of rubber hose attached and wound round the afflicted limb and ice water allowed to trickle down through the piping to relieve the pain and reduce the inflammation above the knee. The leg was opened and perforated, a tube inserted from the thigh to the ankle with the hope that it would carry off the pus which formed. For five long anxious months I watched the case with despair, while my wife was unable to move herself in bed. At the end of that time she was placed in a chair where she spent another three months. To add to the complications gangrene set in, and for weeks there was a fight for life. At last the physicians gave up. They said the only hope was in the removal of my wife to the hospital. After a brief consultation she emphatically refused to go, stating that if she had to die she would die amongst her little ones. At this time she could not put her foot to the ground. Her nominal weight was 135 pounds when in good health, but the affliction reduced her to a living skeleton for she lost 65 pounds in the five months. To all human intelligence it was simply a case of waiting for the worst. Up to this time I had not thought of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, until one day I came across an advertisement and determined to try them. This was two months ago, just about the time we were moving up here from the Junction."

At this point Mrs. Monnell took up the story of the marvellous cure, and corroborated what her husband stated. Continuing she said: "After using a few boxes I could walk on crutches, and after their further use I threw away my crutches, and am now doing all my own housework. The limb is entirely healed up, and the cords, which in the terrible ordeal had been forced out of their places, have come back to their natural position. And to show how complete had been my recovery I am pleased to say that I have recovered my lost weight and five pounds more. I now weigh 140 pounds.

"We spent $275 in doctors' fees and other expenses without avail, before beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," said Mr. Monnell, "and it seems marvellous that my wife, who a few months ago was considered past human aid, has by this wonderful medicine been restored to health and strength," and the Times confirms in the conclusion.

Mr. Monnell is one of the C. P. R. staff of carmen at this port, and he is always willing to tell of the cure effected. But there are hundreds of witnesses to the truth of his statements both at Owen Sound and at Toronto, where he resided up to two months ago.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are offered with a confidence that they are the only perfect and unfailing blood builder and nerve restorer, and where given a fair trial disease and suffering must vanish. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of 50 cents a box, or $2.50 for six boxes, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont., or Schnectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations and refuse trashy substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

BATTLE BETWEEN FOREST KINGS.

Two Big South American Pumas Torn to Pieces in a Death Struggle.

"On our return trip to the coast," a traveler returned from the foothills of the Andes said to a Globe-Democrat man, "I saw a thrilling incident of life in the South American forest, a fight to the death between two big pumas. Those great beasts are fierce, hard fighters at all times against a common enemy, but it is only during the mating season that the males fight among themselves, and when they do contest means death to one or both of them. "For strength and courage they are the equals of the African lion or the tigers of the Indian jungles. We were making our way down a narrow wooded ravine in the foothills of the Andes, and had stopped for our midday meal on the bank of a small mountain stream of clear water. After we had finished the meal I laid down for a short rest, but in less than five minutes I was aroused by the most terrific roaring, snapping and snarling of wild beasts I had ever heard.

"'Pumas, and there's going to be a fight,' said our guide in a whisper.

"It was not difficult to locate the animals. They were not more than 100 yards away, and by creeping through the brush as quietly as possible we were able to get near enough to see the fight without disturbing them.

"When we caught sight of the two animals they were crouching close to the ground, facing each other, in a small space under some large trees. They were the finest specimens of the puma I ever saw.

"They were probably thirty feet apart, and as they crouched there glaring at each other they looked like giant cats about to spring on their prey. Pugilists never sparred with greater caution than did those big brutes. Their tails were switching back and forth, and their eyes were like balls of fire. Slowly they moved around in a circle, all the time cautiously getting closer and closer together. It was evident that each was waiting for the other to make the first lead. For more than ten minutes they watched and waited. The roaring and snarling we heard when they first met had ceased. They made no sound now as they watched for a chance to spring.

"Our own nerves were trembling under the strain, when at last the two great brutes rose in the air at the same instant and, like catapults, came together with a thud that could have been heard 200 yards away. They dropped to the ground and for almost ten minutes all we could make out was two great brown bodies rolling over and over in a death struggle. They made no outcry of any kind, but every few seconds we could hear their powerful jaws come together with a snap like the closing of a well-oiled steel trap. Finally they began to weaken, and as their struggles grew less violent we could see that both of them were covered with blood, while their flesh was torn to shreds. In five minutes more the fight was over and the two giants of the forest were stretched out at full length on the ground, clasped in each other's limbs, just as two playful kittens sometimes lie down together. They struggled feebly a little longer and then both of them lay perfectly still. Both were dead when we got to them, and I never saw animals so torn to pieces. The entrails of both were torn out and scattered over the ground where they had fought, and in their necks were great ragged holes, from which the blood had flowed in streams while they were still fighting. They each had a score of wounds that would have killed any animal with less tenacity of life."

A Peppery Queen.

Here is an amusing incident of stage life. A certain actress having been disengaged for some time, had packed her wardrobe in pepper to preserve it from moths. She was suddenly called upon to take the part of the Queen in "Hamlet."

Being rather late for her first scene, she omitted to shake out her royal robes, and her dignified entrance had an astonishing effect.

The King, after a brave resistance, gave vent to a mighty sneeze that well-nigh made the stage vibrate. All the royal courtiers and maids of honor followed suit sympathetically. Hamlet came on with a most sublime tragedy air, just after a convulsive movement of his princely features he buried them in his somber robe, while sneeze after sneeze was all the public heard from him.

Amid the hubbub on the stage and the shrieks of delight from the audience the stage manager, between the sneezes, rang down the curtain.—London Tit-Bits.

Remarkable Literary Workshops.

Genius has frequently had remarkable workshops. Robert Burns once went galloping over a remote Scottish moor. His horse on this occasion was not much troubled with the guidance of the rider. Burns was busy, brooding over a glorious theme. His lyrical powers touched one of their highest points. The result of this journey was the impassioned national lyric, "Scots Wha Hae wi' Wallace Bled." J. S. Mill framed his "Logic" as he walked from his home to his office and back again. Sir Matthew Hale composed his "Contemplations" as he rode on horseback about country on his circuit journeys. While traveling in the same fashion on his numerous and prolonged preaching tours John Wesley contrived to accomplish a vast quantity of literary work. Byron composed the larger portion of the "Corsair" in a London thoroughfare, as he walked up and down Albemarle street, between Grafton street and Piccadilly; and states himself that he composed "Lara," not in the study, but at the toilet table. "The Revolt of Islam" took form in Shelley's brain as the poet apparently frittered away summer hours lying in a boat on the bosom of the Thames at Marlow.—Chamber's Journal.

Pain-Killer

is a purely vegetable preparation safe to keep and to use in every family. The simplicity attending its use, together with the great variety of disease that may be entirely eradicated by it, and the great amount of pain and suffering that can be alleviated through its use, make it imperative upon every person to supply themselves with this valuable remedy, and keep it always near at hand. January Weather Forecasts.

The weather predictions of Vennor's successor, Smith's almanac (W. H. Smith, Montreal) gives the following forecasts of January weather; "A cold, stormy month, piercing winds, disastrous gales, heavy drifts, snow blockades. 'The inevitable 'mild spells' or 'January thaws' will be emphasized by the disagreeable accompaniment of rain and fog. Fog will be prevalent on the Atlantic coast during the month. Tornadoes are likely to occur in the Southern States and disastrous storms over the Atlantic Ocean."

Almanac Excerpts.

This year Ash Wednesday falls upon Feb. 27th, and Easter Day on April 14th.

Next year there will be five eclipses, three of the sun and two of the moon. One is a total eclipse of the moon, visible in Canada beginning at 9.37 p.m., and ending 11.33 p.m. Old mother Luna seems to be doomed to travel "in hard luck," for she suffers another total eclipse on Sept. 3-4. This eclipse begins business at 11.12 p.m. of the 3rd, and ends 1.43 on the morning of the 4th. This will also be visible in Canada. As the three eclipses of the sun will not exhibit in Canada, and are only partial at that, no details of them are required.

St. Luke's Christmas Tree.

The annual distribution of Sunday school prizes will be made in St. Luke's school house on Monday evening next, commencing at 7.30. There will also be a Christmas tree, and a very amusing entertainment entitled "The Marine Minstrels" will be provided under the direction of Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr. Admission will be free, but offerings for the Sunday school will be thankfully received. The public is cordially invited to attend. The Christmas decorations will be up in the church to-morrow and the special Christmas music will be repeated at both services. The rector will preach a special sermon on the Incarnation at the evening service.

Marks Bros. Co.

Marks Bros. Dramatic Co., well known here as the Emma Wells Co., open at the Opera House here for one week, Dec. 31st to Jan. 5th. Admission, 10c., reserved seats, 15c. Below find clipping from Brockville Daily Times: "The popular Irish drama, "Cruiskeen Lawn," played under the name of "Dublin Dan," was put on the boards at Victoria Hall last night by the Marks Bros. Musical Comedy Co. in a manner that delighted the large audience present. Long before the curtain rose standing room was at a premium, and many were turned away unable to gain admission. The company fully sustained their reputation for clever acting, good singing and splendid dancing. The comedians, Thos. H. Marks and Fred H. Wilson fairly excelled themselves.

—The Christmas number of the War Cry has a handsome illustrated cover, an unusually large number of illustrations, and a supplement in the form of a large picture of Christ raising the widow's son from the dead.

—Special meetings will be held in the Salvation Army Barracks on Monday and Tuesday evenings. A social and jubilee will be held Monday night. The officers from Norwood, Campbellford and Millbrook will be in attendance.

—The decorations of the dining hall as well as the bar of the C. P. R. hotel are superb, for Christmas and New Year's week. The bar is handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, festoons, mistletoe, evergreens, holly and chinese lanterns.

—The old people in the Peterborough Protestant Home were very much delighted last evening when they were serenaded by the Fire Brigade Band. The members of the organization performed a most creditable action indeed when they remembered the old people in their travels.

—The Primary Department of the George street Sunday School was given an entertainment last night of a most interesting character. A magic lantern was secured for the occasion, and manipulated by Mr. S. A. Armstrong, it tickled the little ones immensely. The scholars were all furnished with a bag of candy on leaving.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Saturday, Dec. 29th, 1894.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 17 degrees below zero. Another change is fast approaching.—THOS. TELFORD.

Mayoralty Contest.

Mr. Cahill was waited on last evening by a large and influential deputation of ratepayers who sought to induce him to allow himself to be placed in nomination for the mayoralty. Mr. Cahill, while flattered by the attention, asked time to consider the proposition, but had not reached a decision by this afternoon.

Young Women's Association.

Our cosy, bright rooms, with instructive literature on reading tables, will be a pleasant place to call this evening. Come and help us sing at the song service, beginning at 8 o'clock. If convenient stay for the short Gospel talk. A cordial welcome will be yours. Particulars will be given concerning the New Year's Reception.

To People Who Write Letters.

DON'T be deceived if a dealer, for the sake of larger profits, tells you that some other kind is "just as good," for no imitation is as good as the original "A. H. S." Writing Tablets. They are made up in either rough or smooth paper cream or white, ruled or plain, and the prices for the best Tablets are 10c., 15c. and 25c. We want every household to buy the "A. H. S." Tablet. for sale at the Peterborough Bookstore. A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

Catholic Order of Foresters "At Home".

Court St. Peter No. 225, will be at home to their friends in their hall on Hunter street on New Year's Eve, Monday evening, Dec. 31st. Don't forget the date. Everybody will be made welcome and happy. A splendid musical programme will be presented by the choir of the Cathedral. Miller's orchestra will furnish music for dancing, which will begin at close of concert programme. Games of various kinds will be provided for those who do not dance. Tickets for concert alone, 10 cents; for hop, 25 cents per couple. 150-2d

The Market.

The market to-day was only fair and the attendance was not above that of an ordinary Saturday or such as was expected for the New Year's market. The big crush of last Saturday probably deterred the farmers from coming in with their produce. Geese were not very plentiful and brought from 50 to 75c. each. Ducks were very scarce and the few which were on the market brought fancy prices. Turkeys were worth from 60c. to $1 apiece and chickens 40 and 50c. a pair. There was just enough butter to supply the demand, and it went quickly at 18 and 20c. for fresh rolls. Eggs brought from 17 to 18c., and there were not a great many of them for sale.

Another December Wedding.

On Tuesday, Dec. 25th, at 5.30 p.m., an interesting event took place at the parsonage, when Mr. Thos. G. Jackson, C.P.R. brakeman, Havelock, and Miss Eva M. Kimball, town, were united in marriage. The young bride, who was attired in her going away gown, was assisted by her friend Miss Ella Patten, while Mr. Thos. Lush performed the duty of groomsman. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was partaken of at the residence of Mr. W. Jackson's, Rubidge street, brother of the groom. After receiving the congratulations of those present, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson took the 7.45 train for their future home in Havelock, where a reception was tendered on the arrival of the young couple by the mother and sisters of the groom. The presents which were received were very handsome. Their many friends will unite in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The books for the Glee Club have arrived, and work will begin in earnest next Wednesday night. We anticipate a good time in this Club, and would be glad to have any singers—whether members or not—come on Wednesday night and "cast in their lot" with us for one hour a week.

Mr. T. H. Martin has charge of the song service to-night. We expect a bright and lively time.

We have made an effort during the past month to have our Sunday afternoon meetings as interesting as possible, and are glad to announce for to-morrow an address from Rev. Mr. Young. Any young man will be welcome.

1895! Spend a part of the first day with us. Some of the best talent in town will "entertain" and the ladies of the Auxiliary will be on hand to do their part in making it pleasant for the fellows who come in. Will those who donate provisions kindly send in their baskets Tuesday morning or afternoon.

THANKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Kindly allow us space in your columns to express the gratitude of the Peterborough Carol Singers for the hospitality and liberality shown to them on Christmas eve by the different ladies and gentlemen of the town and suburbs. This is the first time that anything of this nature has been given here. It is an old English custom and appears to have been much appreciated by all.

Thanking our patrons for their kindness and wishing all a happy New Year, we remain,

Respectfully yours,
The P. C. C. S.

Own a Good Piano.

It costs but a trifle more to own a good piano, like the "Rheimer," the "Morris," the "Heintzman" or the "Mendelsshon." The difference in cost is not for one day, or one month, or one year. It's worth five dollars a year for ten years to have exactly what you want. Just think it over. Have a talk with Mr. J. W. THE CHURCH AND IMPOSTERS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—It seems in accord with the fitness of things that public frauds should be publicly exposed, yet it is to be regretted that your account of a deplorable case in yesterday's issue was not expressed in more guarded terms.

Though in this particular case no ground of defence is known to us, yet your readers must bear in mind how hard is the test of having the flash light of sudden publicity turned upon one particular period of any life time.

I will not point out some small inaccuracies in your account for fear of again directing attention to details which had better be forgotten.

But you article produces certain impressions which are misleading. In startling headlines you emphasize an "Endorsation by the Church." This "endorsation" rests on the simple fact that the individual referred to attended a few services in St. John's, and also two meetings of the Y. P. A. (a merely social organization) at one of which she sang, and was invited to tell something, conversationally, of the work of nursing the poor, in which she professed to have engaged. She never applied, however, to be received into communion with the Church, absenting herself from the Church's only Divine service, which does commit her children to, at least, sincere efforts to live holy lives.

But it is to your conclusion that I take the strongest exception. Your picture us as 'so shocked as to be chary of welcoming other possible imposters.

This shows an utter misconception of the attitude and mission of the church. You are confounding her with worldly society or with secret organizations.

Select society has entrances strictly guarded, and when an impostor succeeds in gaining admission society is shocked and shrieks "cast her out." Lodge room portals, also, are tyled by secret sign and countersign, and an impostor found within the mysterious precints is summarily dealt with.

But over against such human institutions stands the church of Christ with different aims, different methods and animated with a different spirit. They are exclusive; She is inclusive. Like Her Divine Master and Head, She stands with outstretched arms, unsuspicious, glad to welcome strangers and sinners, glad to look at the best side of their nature, glad to lead them encouraged out of their sin to higher things.

Occasional instances, then, must arise when the sinner is so hardened and blind to his true interests as to accept the welcome and encouragement while rejecting the proffered guidance and help. But, whose is the mistake, the loss or the disgrace? Certainly not the Church's, for She goes on Her way, sorrowful but serene, to extend Her welcome to other unknown wayfarers in the inextinguishable hope that some will be helped on towards true holiness of life. And it is amazing in how very few instances is this welcome misused, and in these few, exposure speedily follows.

This, then, is the attitude which it is not only our duty but our real pleasure to maintain so far as we are able. The welcome is still held out.

Yours, &c.,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

Peterborough, Dec. 29th, 1894.

[NOTE.—The reference to the "practical endorsation" to which Mr. Davidson takes objection was based on the fact that the rector was known to have invited certain members of his congregation to his residence and introduced them to Miss Goodwyn there. The "endorsation" consisted not in the fact that the young lady attended service at St. John's, but that social courtesies were extended to her by those representing the church.

WEDDING AND CHRISTENINGS.

Nuptials of D. Wallace, V. S., Omemee, and Miss Ella Neill, of Gore's Landing.

Glen Lynden, the residence of Mr. Charles Neill, at Gore's Landing, was the scene of a pleasant gathering on Wednesday, when Mr. Neill's fifth daughter Ella was married to Mr. T. Waldon, V.S., Omemee, after which Mr. and Mrs. Latter's baby Earle, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Waldon's baby Cora, were baptized. Rev. J. M. Mears officiated. Miss Senie Neill was bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by his cousin Mr. A. Cheyne. The bride received many beautiful and useful presents, among them a handsome parlour lamp, with an address, presented on the previous Saturday evening by representatives of the church, the league and the Sunday school, in all of which she has been an earnest and efficient worker. After the wedding breakfast had been disposed of, the happy young couple left for their home in Omemee, followed by showers of rice and the good wishes of their many friends. Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Huston, Victoria Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Latter, Grand Valley; Mr. and Mrs. H. McCullough, Plainville; Mr. and Mrs. H. Waldon, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Harris, Gore's Landing.

ROYAL TEMPLARS IN CONFERENCE.

THE DISTRICT DIVIDED INTO TWO SECTIONS.

The Territory was too Large and Some of the Delegates had too Far to go to District Meetings—The Election of Officers'

All day yesterday the District Council of the Royal Templars, embracing the territory lying north of the lake shore between Port Hope and Colborne in the counties of Durham, Northumberland and Peterborough, was in session in the lodge rooms of the local council of the Royal Templars on Water street.

The following delegates were present :—

Peterborough—J. S. Martin, J. N. Douglas and Sister Martin.

Campbellford—W. H. Locke and Sister G. Isaac.

Bethany—Sister Westlake, J. E. Galbraith.

Port Hope—C. Cornthwaite, R. K. Scott, G. A. Welsh, F. Outram, and Sisters Kirkland and Pethick.

Millbrook—W. W. Gilliot and Sister Hampton.

Springville—F. W. Wilson.

The morning was taken up in the selection of committees. The committees chosen were :

Credentials—Bros. Outram and Gillott.

Temperance Work—Bros. Outram and Gilliott, and Sisters Isaac and Westlake.

State of Work—Bros. Welsh and Scott, and Sisters Elliott, Martin and Pethick.

Bros. Scott, Galbraith and Locke and Sisters Isaac and Hampton were appointed a committee on biennial sessions and division of district.

The morning was occupied by routine business and in the afternoon reports of the work of the various councils of the district were received. All reported increased membership. One new council has been instituted in Havelock during the last quarter and the prospects for the establishment of one in Lakefield are most encouraging. There are about 800 Royal Templars in the district, and reports showed the number to be swelling fast.

After considerable discussion it was resolved to divide the present district into two, the territory being too large to be properly covered and the distances travelled by some of the delegates to attend district meetings, of two great length. The two districts will be known as the Durham and Northumberland District, and the Midland District. The former will be comprised of the following Councils : Excelsior, Newtonville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Cobourg, Camburn, Colborne, Wooler, Garden Hill, Wicklow and Orono.

The Midland District includes the councils in Millbrook, Bethany, Manvers, Springville, North Monaghan, Peterborough, Otonabee, Havelock, Campbellford and Hastings.

Officers were elected for the Midland District as follows :

District Councillor..... J E Galbraith, Bethany
" Past Councillor..Dr Fife, Peterborough
" Secretary.....W W Gillett, Millbrook
Chaplain .....Mr Locke, Campbellford
Vice Councillor....Miss Dawson, Ashburnham
Guard .....J S Martin, Peterborough
Sentinel.....Herbert Wilson, North Monaghan
Board of Trustees—Messrs. Gardner, Skitch and Armstrong.

The delegates present representing the new District of Northumberland and Durham, chose the following as their officers :
District Councillor.....Mr Scott, Port Hope
Past District Councillor..Marcus Lent, Cobourg
District Secretary.....Jas Corinthwaite, Port Hope

The officers as enumerated above have been merely elected pro tempore until a general meeting can be called of the councils of the two districts, when a general election will take place. The Midland District councils will meet in Campbellford on Good Friday next.

In the evening the chair was occupied by Mr. J. E. Galbraith, of Bethany, and after the singing of a hymn, Mr. Gardner, of Millbrook, led in prayer, after which the following programme was announced :—

Address.....Rev J J Rae
Instrumental solo.....Miss Staunton
Address.....F Outram, Port Hope
Address.....Marcus Lent, Cobourg
Address.....Rev W R Young
Dialogue.....by members of the Ashburnham [Council
Recitation .....Miss Lillie Pearce
Vocal duet.....the Misses Pascoe
Vocal solo.....Miss Sutton

The division of the district into two has been so arranged as to leave about four hundred members in each.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Comstock Celebrate the Occasion.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Comstock celebrated the silver anniversary of their wedding day. About thirty guests, relatives and intimate friends, assembled at their residence, 305 Water street, and extended their cordial congratulations upon the happy occasion. An additional cause of congratulation was Mrs. Comstock's greatly improved health. Mr. and Mrs. Comstock were the recipients of numerous handsome silver souvenirs of the happy occasion. Those present enjoyed themselves in the usual social manner during the evening, as they separated, all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Comstock a happy New Year and a long continuation of a happy married life.

MEDICAL MEN.

Are Interested in the Discovery of a Remedy for Bright's Disease.

MONTREAL, Dec. 24.—The subject of kidney disorders and diseases is one receiving special attention from the medical profession just now, probably owing to the fact that a disease of these organs caused the death of Russia's Czar. Among other points attractive to the profession is the case of Dr. McCormick, of Richmond, Que., a practitioner well known throughout Quebec and Ontario. He has lately published a letter announcing that he was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. This case has a peculiar interest for medical men because until these pills were offered for sale, this disease was universally considered incurable. That belief is now thoroughly exploded by the success of this remedy, to which numerous victims of the disease owe their lives and sound health.

FIRE ALARM EARLY THIS MORNING.

The Central School Discovered to be all Ablaze.

A few minutes before two o'clock this morning flames were observed in the west wing of the Central School by a young man who was passing and who promptly notified the police. The firemen appeared like magic on the scene and had it not been for their alertness in responding to the alarm Peterborough would, in all probability, have been without a Central School this morning.

The fire is thought to have originated in the wainscotting in Mr. Smith's class-room where a ventilator is inserted into the chimney and a collection of soot at this point is estimated to have taken fire and caused what was so nearly as, if the Central School had gone up in smoke, nothing could have saved the Collegiate Institute.

When the firemen arrived the flooring between the Kindergarten department and Mr. Smith's room, which is just over it, had been eaten through by the flames and the Christmas decorations were all blaze. By the time the water was turned on a hole fully twenty feet square was burnt through the floor and the draft thus created caused the fire to roar with additional fierceness. A well directed stream, however, was soon playing directly on the flames, which were partially allayed by the timely use of a couple of Babcock extinguishers, and inside of half an hour the fire was entirely extinguished.

This morning Mr. Peter Hamilton, chairman of the Property Committee of the School Board, visited the Central School, and after agreed with Chief Rutherford, of the Fire Brigade, in saying that the fire originated in the wainscotting by the ventilator, as it was at this spot the flames raged most fiercely. The stove pipes in the kindergarten department, Mr. Hamilton states, could never have caused the fire, as they were fully two feet from the ceiling of the room. The damage, he estimates at about five hundred dollars, which is fully covered by insurance, a policy of $14,000 being carried on the building and $2,000 on the contents. The scholars may have a few extra holidays while the new desks are being secured to replace quite a few which were destroyed. Considerable time will be taken also to put a new floor into Mr. Smith's classroom and a new ceiling into the Kindergarten department.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen.

HOCKEY.

To the Sporting Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—By the Toronto papers we learn that a team of hockey players from the big American universities is now in Canada looking for matches with the local clubs. Peterborough has shown that she has a hockey team composed of A. 1. material and the public, who so willingly contribute to the maintenance of the team, would like to know what the management is about, that it has not made arrangements with this American team for a match. If no attempt has been made to have the team come here, the sooner the management offer an inducement the better. The public are willing to back the hockey team through the season, but would like to see a management in charge who would avail themselves of the opportunity[such as this, to afford the public the opportunity of seeing a good game once in a while.

Yours, etc.,
PETERBOROUGH.

The Victoria Hockey Club of Montreal defeated the American Universities' team in Montreal last night by a score of six goals to two.

It is expected that by Monday, at the latest, the local hockeyists will have made such arrangements with the rink authorities for the season's play as to enable them to take the ice for practice.

The Cobourg hockyists have organized, the officers being :

President—F. S. Loosemore.
Treasurer—A. D. Howard.
Secretary and Manager—Wm. Gowans.

CURLIANA.

It was the Thistles' night on the ice last evening, and a couple of scratch matches were played between rinks skipped by Messrs. S. Ray and R. H. Kells and Messrs. W. G. Ferguson and James M. Irwin. The result was as follows :

Will Thompson,	J S Knapman,
Cameron,	John A. McKee,
H ry Allen,	D Belleghom,
S tay, skip 10	R H Kells, skip.....13
Wyllie,	C Matthews,
G M Roger,	J Tucker,
John McClelland,	Sheriff,
W G Ferguson, skip 9	James M Irwin, skip ..8

The first night for the inter-rink matches is Wednesday.

The Thistle division has elected the following officers :

President—S. Ray.
Vice-President—R. H. Keils.
Sec.-Treas.—J. S. Knapman.

Skips—T. Rutherford, S. Ray, W. G. Ferguson, C. McGill, R. S. Davidson, R. H. Kells, John McClelland and J. B. Pentland.

The skips will pick their own rinks.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION BAND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Cantata, "Santa Claus' Mistake' was Rendered Perfectly by the Children.

The Mission Band of St. John's church held an entertainment in the Sunday school last night which was well patronized. The programme which was presented was a most excellent one and was opened by a brilliant piano solo by Miss Nellie Hall, after which Master Holden Blackwell delighted the audience with a spirited rendition of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and several other recitations. A cymbalette exercise by Miss Dollie Comstock and Miss Mabel Montgomery was greatly enjoyed by the many children present.

The feature of the evening was the singing of a cantata entitled "Santa Claus' Mistake," in the chorus of which a score or so of little ones joined. The principal parts were taken as follows :

Aunt Rachael.....Miss Alma McCallum
Santa Claus.....Maitland Boswell
Mabel.....Hazel Dean
Molly.....Addie Armstrong
Daisy.....Josephine Sproule

The solos, duets, etc., sung by the little ones were rendered in a manner truly marvellous and the audience was indeed delighted with the perfect manner in which the children acquitted themselves while taking the different songs.

AN EXPLANATORY LETTER.

Under the heading of "Another Swindler, look out for Him," the EXAMINER on Dec. 6th published a paragraph, clipped from a district paper without the source from which it was taken being mentioned, and which at this length of time is not remembered by name. It appears that the paragraph contained statements which did not accord with the facts as indicated by the letter below, which is published in justice to the writer, whose interests may have been prejudicially affected by the paragraph in question :—

337 PARLIAMENT STREET, TORONTO,
Dec. 27th, 1894.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—My attention has just been called to a paragraph in your issue of 5th inst., which I can only characterize as an atrocious libel, and direct perversion of the truth, in reference to my mode of doing business, and to which I wish to give an immediate contradiction.

The statement in question is full of inaccuracies and gross improbabilities, apparent to the most ordinary reader, and it would have been, at least, but simple justice had you assured yourself of the correctness of your information before you accepted and published the untruthful statement of some dishonourable person, seeking by such means to evade their obligation to accept the work they had subscribed for.

In the first place, the "experience of the young married lady," of your acquaintance, so far as regards the publication in question, must be of a purely mythical character, as I have none such on my subscription list, neither can such experience refer to "a few days since," as I have not been in Peterborough since the end of september; and in the next, no "note," as alleged, was signed by any subscriber, but an order form, of which the enclosed is a duplicate, and in which the terms of subscription are very explicitly set forth. Furthermore, the work is not sold as containing the "latest musical compositions," but, on the contrary, as a choice collection of the older Masters, the extent of whose contributions could not receive justice in a work of less dimensions. While however the ill-advised statements may prejudice the work in certain quarters, I am glad to find that a recent delivery of some of the parts has been eminently satisfactory to the majority of subscribers. Some malcontents, there will always be found; but certainly not among the educated and intelligent classes, among whom I am happy to send the following subscribers: John Crane, Ontario Bank; N. F. Nelson, Mrs. G. A. Smith, Miss Morrow, Miss Grant, H. F. Clark, Bank of Commerce; W. E. Lech, and a few others who comprehend the whole of the subscribers in Peterborough, the high class nature of the publication rendering its sale necessarily limited to the classical musician, a few only of which can be found in a country town. I have the signatures of all these, not only on my order slip but in the prospectus of the work which I went over with them while I carefully explained the terms on which such publication would issue. In conclusion, I trust you will lose no time in giving this letter insertion as some small amends for the injury those reckless statements may do me.

Yours,
T. L. DITCHBURN.

The agent for
"Half Hours with best Composers."

The EXAMINER finds on inquiry that the business methods of the agent who sold "Half Hours with best Composers," in Peterborough, were quite square and straightforward. If the paragraph in question had not by inadvertence been uncredited to the paper it was taken from it would have had no application to Peterborough. It was not the intention of the exchange "clipper" to insert the paragraph, merely to hold for reference, but in some way it got into the EXAMINER, and as it was not our intention to interfere with the work or agent, we regret its publication.

(Lindsay Warder.)

The contract for this work having been secured by the well known contractor—Ogderdonk of Chicago—the work will soon begin. There has been a delay caused by the death of the late Premier, for until his successor was selected and a new cabinet formed there could be no business transacted. However, the work is now going on at an early date. Some time ago we gave several names along the route as references for recommending men and teams for work. They embraced among others, J. H. Howery and J. H. Carnegie of Coboconk, Geo. Laidlaw, of Bexley, Archy Mackenzie, Dr. Wood and others, at Kirkfield, Jas. McGirr at Bolsover, and other friends along the route who are moving among the people. Those wishing employment when the work begins, or in the spring, should, therefore, make early application. As the work will begin at Geo. Laidlaw's, at "The Fort," Balsam Lake, that gentleman has been requested to furnish the names of men and teams for employment by the contractors. Mr. Archy Mackenzie of Kirkfield, will also receive names and addresses of those wishing to labour on the work. Every effort is being made to have the contractor begin at once, and in a few weeks it is probable "The Fort" will present a busy scene.

ALLANDALE.

A very successful entertainment was held in the hall at Allandale Friday evening under the auspices of the church and Sunday school. After a sumptuous tea had been partaken of by a large number of guests, the upper room was crowded to hear the concert which began at 7.30.

The programme was made up of instrumental selections by Misses Hope and Mr. David Moore; choruses by Misses Weir, Hope, Humphries and McNevin, and Messrs. Plunket, Humphries, Dinsdale and Elmhurst; comic dialogues in which Messrs. Plunket, Geo. Dinsdale and Humphries, and Misses McNevin, Weir, Hope Humphries and others took took part; songs by Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Keitle, and readings by Mr. Bert Lawrence, of Toronto, and Rev. C. W. Hedley.

All the events were appreciated keenly and some warmly encored, and when "God Save the Queen" had been sung and those who wished had enjoyed a supper of hot tea and cakes, all agreed that it was a great success. The Rev. Herbert Symonds during the evening delivered an address on the subject of "Recreation and its Uses."

SERENA ANN. HER FIRST CHRISTMAS KEEPING.

By MARY E. WILKINS.

So Serena Ann curled her red mittened hand timidly around the kid gloved fingers of the young lady, and they went back down Hanover street. They walked on both sides, they looked in every shop, but all in vain.

The truth was that poor Aunt Love had missed Serena Ann much sooner, and had started off on a wrong tack in search.

When she had discovered that her little niece was not behind her and looked around in dismay and lost the color out of her pretty pink cheeks, several sympathizing ladies had gathered around her, and one had been quite sure she had seen a little girl just like Serena Ann in a lamb-wool tippet and brown silk hood, run down a side street a little way back. So Aunt Love went down the side streets, looking and inquiring of everybody.

She almost cried as she went along, carrying her big green bandbox, looking in vain for Serena Ann. She did not know what to do, but finally it occurred to her that it was nearly the time for her to meet Joshua Simmons at the Sign of the Lamb, and that in all probability some benevolent person would have taken Serena Ann thither. So Aunt Love hastened to the Sign of the Lamb, but it took her some time, for she had wandered quite a distance.

But Miss Pamela Soley was not wise enough to think that the best plan was to take Serena Ann to the Sign of the Lamb at once, since they could not find her Aunt Love on Hanover street. She was quite a young lady, in spite of her stately manners, and not had much experience in rescuing lost little girls. She stood for some time in Hanover street, holding Serena Ann's hand, deliberating what to do. But finally a bright thought struck Miss Pamela Soley: "My brother Solomon is coming for me in our chaise to take me home to Jamaica Plain, where we live," said she. "He is going to meet me at the corner just below here in about half an hour. We will make your purchases and then we will ask him what to do. My brother Solomon always knows what is best to do. He is older than I, and carried off many honors at Harvard college. Don't cry, Serena Ann. He'll be sure to find your aunt for you."

Serena Ann was somewhat comforted, for the young lady had a way at once sweet and commanding, and she went hand in hand with her and purchased a beautiful jack knife for Ebenezer, with one ninepence, and a piece of white nainsook for her mother's apron with the other. Miss Pamela Soley herself made two purchases, a little rosewood workbox, with scissors, and thimble, and ivory bodkin, all complete, and a doll in a very handsome spangled dress like a princess. The last purchase rather surprised Serena Ann, for she had thought the young lady too old to play with dolls, but she eyed it admiringly. She had never had a doll herself, except one which Aunt Love made for her out of a corncob. She sighed when Miss Pamela Soley tucked the doll with the rosewood workbox out of sight in her great muff.

Mr. Solomon Soley was waiting in the chaise on the corner when his sister appeared with Serena Ann and told her story. He was a handsome young man, in a very fine mulberry colored cloak.

"We must take her to the Sign of the Lamb at once," Mr. Solomon Soley said, decidedly, and Miss Pamela and Serena Ann got promptly into the chaise and they made haste to the Sign of the Lamb. However, just before they reached the tavern, Miss Pamela remembered an errand which her mother had begged her to do at Mr. Thomas Whitcomb's store, and had her brother leave her there, saying she would join them in a few minutes.

But when Mr. Solomon Soley inquired at the Sign of the Lamb, he found that Joshua Simmons and Aunt Love had driven away in their chaise some half an hour before, and the hostler, who had been told, did not remember that they had merely gone to look about the city a little for the missing child, and were then coming back to the tavern to see if she had in the meantime been brought there. However, another hostler remembered that the lady carried a large green bandbox and was crying.

"That was Aunt Love," said Serena Ann, and she began to cry, too.

"Don't cry," said Mr. Solomon Soley. "You shall be taken home safely to-night."

Then he turned the chaise around, and drove back to the store, where his sister had stopped, and before Serena Ann fairly knew it they were on the road to Braintree.

It had grown very cold, and the wind blew. Mr. Solomon got out a great plaid camlet cloak from under the chaise seat, and put it on over his mulberry-colored one. Then presently, because Serena Ann began to shiver a little, tucked in between the two as she was, he threw an end of the camlet cloak around her, over her brown silk hood. She was quite warm under that, and also quite hidden from sight. Nobody meeting them would have dreamed that there was a little girl in the chaise.

"WE MUST TAKE HER TO THE SIGN OF THE LAMB."

In the meantime, Aunt Love and Joshua Simmons returned to the Sign of the Lamb, and the hostler, who had forgotten they were coming, told her that a gentleman in a chaise had been there with the little girl and said he was going to take her home to Braintree. "Guess you'll overtake 'em," said he. "Gentleman was alone in the chaise with the little girl, wore a mulberry-colored cloak."

Aunt Love fairly wept for joy. "Oh! Joshua, I am so thankful," she cried. "I never could have told Sarah I'd lost Serena Ann. And I haven't got my shoes, but I don't care. I'll get married in my old ones. Let's start right away, so we'll overtake them."

Joshua Simmons started up the horse, and the chaise rattled out the tavern yard and down the road toward Braintree.

But their chapter of accidents was not quite finished, for as they were crossing Neponset bridge, peering ahead to see if they could catch a glimpse of the other chaise, a gust of wind took off Joshua Simmon's hat and tossed it into the river. He had a cold in his head, too. Aunt Love pulled her hood promptly. "Put this on," said she. "Don't say a word. If you don't you'll be laid up with influenza, and the wedding will have to be postponed, and that's a bad sign."

"What'll you do?" asked Joshua Simmons, hesitatingly.

Aunt Love untied the green bandbox. "Put on this bonnet," said she. "It'll be so dark when we get home that the neighbors can't see it."

So Joshua put on the hood and Aunt Love the wedding bonnet, and it happened that when they finally overtook Solomon Soley, who had not much the start, and whose horse had got a stone in his shoe once and made a delay, that the occupants of the two chaises looked hard at each other and saw nothing that they were looking for.

For Joshua Simmons, who was naturally somewhat ashamed of his woman's headgear, kept his face turned well away, and both Solomon Soley and his sister, Pamela, thought there were two ladies in the chaise, and not the aunt and the young man for whom they were looking.

As for Serena Ann, she was fast asleep under the camlet cloak and saw nobody, and her Aunt Love and Joshua never dreamed she was there. Moreover, they were looking for one gentleman in the chaise with her, and here was a young lady also. He wore a camlet cloak, too, instead of a mulberry cloak, as they had been told.

So the two chaises rattled on almost abreast for quite a stretch on the turnpike, but finally Solomon Soley's forged ahead a little, for his horse was fresher.

They reached Braintree and when they were within a half mile of the Bagley farmhouse, Joshua Simmons turned into another road, which was a little shorter cut. Aunt Love was impatient to see if Serena Ann had reached home. And so it happened, since Solomon Soley's horse was a little faster, that both chaises turned into the Bagley yard at the same time, and Serena returned from her Christmas outing with something more exciting than a flourish of trumpets.

Serena Ann herself was so tired and sleepy that she could not fairly realize anything. It seemed to her like a dream; the chorus of surprise and delight, Mr. Solomon's and Miss Pamela's coming into the house and getting warm, and eating supper, and borrowing a footstove before they started on their homeward journey, and everything. She scarcely even grasped in its full measure of delight the fact that Miss Pamela presented her with the rosewood workbox and the doll when she kissed her good-by, but Serena Ann had gotten one of the pleasantest memories of her life, and had her first Christmas keeping.

Massacre by Yaqui Indians.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from Guayamas, Mexico, says that a band of Yaqui Indians visited the ranch of Julio Cardeans last Saturday and massacred the latter and his entire family, consisting of a wife and two children. A detachment of government troops went in pursuit of the Indians, and it is reported that they came up with them and had a skirmish, in which several of the Yaquis were killed.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

THE HANDSOMEST MAN ALIVE WRITES ON THE SUBJECT.

Prof. J. M. Laflin, Who is as Described Above, and Who Took the Prize for Masculine Beauty at the International at Vienna, Gives His Rules.

Parents do not devote enough attention to the physical development of their children. Teachers neglect the education of the bodies of their pupils.

I do not believe that a healthy mind can go with an unhealthy body, and I maintain that the mind of a person with a healthy body must of necessity be a strong and a vigorous one.

Most of the ills of the body can be traced back to the lack of free and intelligent physical education in childhood.

I often think, knowing as I do what can be done with proper care, what a stupendous improvement could be made in the general health in one generation. The average man would be taller and more robust, capable of more work and of greater enjoyment, than the average man of the present day. The average woman would be stronger and more beautiful than the average woman of to-day, and both men and women would live longer. That this can be easily be accomplished I am convinced.

I would have a gymnasium in every public school in the city. I would make it one of the requirements of attendance at the public schools that every pupil should once or twice every day go through a gymnastic exercise, however brief.

It is not desired to make a race of pugilists, but it is desired to make a race of healthy men and women, which the children now in the public schools will not grow up into. What is needed for growing children is such simple exercise as will every day bring it to play every muscle in the body.

Without exercise some muscles lie dormant. They never develop. Without exercise for all of the body the digestion is impaired, the circulation of the blood is weakened, the quality of the blood is deteriorated and the foundations are laid for ultimate chronic disease, which must come sooner or later.

It must not be supposed that what I here propose would add any great burden to the expense of public school maintenance or require the erection of any new buildings. The public school buildings now in existence are quite sufficient for the purpose.

All it would be necessary to do would be to set apart in every public school a large room to be used as a gymnasium. No elaborate equipment of gymnastic appliances would be necessary. A few hundreds of dollars of expense would suffice to fit up a public school with horizontal bars, rings, trapezes, Indian clubs, rowing machines, boxing gloves, etc.

A bare floor is better than a carpeted apartment and blank walls better than walls elaborately panelled. In a good-sized room of this kind hundreds of public school pupils could take exercise at one time. Where the schools are crowded the classes could succeed each other, and thus the gymnasium would be in use at every hour of the day.

The teachers would find this the most popular of all the attractions of the schools. The pupils would look forward to their gymnastic exercise. It would teach them how to play. It would teach them the use of their bodies. It would teach them to respect their bodies and to strive to excel in feats of agility and strength, thus leading them to love outdoor games and to feel at home in all kinds of play.

For it must be remembered that it is as natural for a child to want to play as it is for a kitten. Nature instils this into each for the distinct purpose of exercising every muscle at a time when the muscles are growing, and the child that gets a chance to play freely in the open air all day has an enormous advantage at the very commencement of life.

Another duty of the public schools should be to teach every pupil to lear how to swim. It is just as important that a man know how to swim as how to earn a living, and even more so, for in the one case he must rely absolutely upon himself when the time comes.

It is a very easy thing to teach children of the proper age how to swim. During the past summer I taught a couple of little girls how to swim in less than an hour. A swimming tank should be a necessary part of every public school gymnasium, and it could be fitted up at very little expense.

No child should be graduated who had not acquired this easy accomplishment, which, unlike all other accomplishments, is never forgotten. They may forget what they learn out of the books, but they can never forget how to swim.

One of the advantages of children knowing how to swim is this, that it induces them to take exercise in the water. Boys who cannot swim, and there are thousands of them, are careful about going into the water. The consequence is that they lose the inestimable advantages derived from this most exhilarating and body-building sport.

I would also have every child in the public schools taught to know what the human body is like, and the functions of the different parts. They should know every muscle and how to exercise it. They should know what are the proper and improper things to put into the stomach, how the lungs work, and the ill-effects of tobacco, the effects of alcohol on the system and the necessity for pure air in the making of pure blood. These are simple questions in anatomy and the science of health that would not take half an hour a week from the time devoted to other studies in the public schools, where now the mind is developed at the expense of the body.

I believe that children taking constant exercise every day, who know how to follow the simple rules of bodily health, can learn more per hour than the unhealthy children now crowding our schools. Their minds are brighter and more alert, their memories more retentive, their reasoning faculties more sharply developed when the blood courses freely through their veins than when it is sluggish as the result of indoor life without proper exercise for all the muscles.

A healthy mind in a growing child is like a sponge, eager for knowledge at every pore. The dull and stupid children of whom we hear in every school are in nearly every instance sickly. The healthy child is happy under all circumstances. It eats well and sleeps well. Its body and mind expand together, the one stimulating the other.

One of the advantages of the kind of physical education for children which I here suggest is that it teaches them how to play. It induces them to seek outdoor exercise and amusement. Many thousands of children do not know how to play. They are afraid of rough games. They do not know what to do when they get into the country, where the names of the trees and plants, and even the appearance of the fields, are strange to them.

Simple sanitary lessons should be taught in all the schools. Children ought to have the advantage of personal cleanliness drilled into them. They should be taught to know that bathing as often as possible is good for them, a fact which too many parents neglect. Children should be taught to know that pure air is necessary for their well-being. They should be made to learn that the foul air of tenements is injurious, and that ventilation is better than close and overheated rooms.

One of the most injurious practices of parents is putting children to sleep with each other or with older people. A father recently brought to me a weak and sickly child. He did not know what ailed it. As soon as I learned that the child slept with an older member of the family I asked him to stop it at once, and the child, without any medicine, and sleeping thereafter alone in a well-ventilated room, began to pick up immediately. In a couple of months the child was completely restored to health.

In conclusion, I have to again repeat that the health of the rising generation is as important as the health of the present generation. The care of the physical well-being of the children in the public schools is as much the true duty of the State as the care of their mental well-being.

The true glory of a people is not their wealth, but their health. We should strive to make not millionaires but men. It is easier to improve the public health by beginning with the children than by attempting to cure the adults. The improvement of the whole race is within easy reach on these lines, and must surely be followed by intellectual and moral improvement where the body is healthy.

As the twig is bent so shall the tree grow. You cannot teach people to take proper exercise and to give proper care to their bodies after neglecting those duties for the larger part of their lives.

But when these duties are inculcated in early youth the habits of childhood are retained through life. A well-developed body is more precious than a well-developed bank account, and a good appetitite is worth more than $1,000,000.—F. Laflin, in New York World.

The Mother Heart Touched

"I Believe SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE Saved the Lives of Two of My Children."—Puny Children Grow Fat and Strong—Tired and Ailing Women Take on the BLOOM of EARLIER YEARS.

What will touch the mother heart more deeply than the illness of her little ones? She may suffer much herself, and women are sorely afflicted with many ills, but she will endure all this, however often, without a murmur; but there can be no disguising her anxiety when the little ones of the home are stricken down with sickness. And how many puny children there are! We talk of the bloom of youth, but thousands of children know not of it. Others may romp, but they are weaklings.

Mothers, would you have your loved ones strong and healthy? Would you enjoy good health yourself? Then use South American Nervine Tonic; there is no doubting its efficacious properties. Investigate from a scientific or a common sense point of view and you will find that nearly all disease has its start in the nerve centres of the body.

The mission of South American Nervine is to at once reach the nerve centres, which are to the whole body what the mainspring of the watch is to every other part of the timepiece. Science has made perfectly clear that the troubles that affect the individual organs of the body, have their seat in these nerve centres, so, without any wasteful experimenting, South American Nervine reaches out to the seat of the difficulty, and straightening out what is wrong there heals the whole body. Listen to what Mrs. H. Russell, Wingate, writes on this point: "I have used several bottles of South American Nervine Tonic, and will say, I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down, and nothing appeared to do tuem any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly both improved on its use. I don't allow myself to be without some of it in my house. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors." It will certainly grant new life to all who are delicate, whether young, middle-aged, or old. Do not worry along with ill health, but dispel it, and brighten your lives by the immediate use of South American Nervine.

German Women as Farmhands.

The utilization of women in Germany as farmhands, which so many moralists have considered their duty to censure, apparently meets with approval from Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, the Rabbi, for in a letter from Germany to his congregation he says: "Such farm work for women is neither degrading nor taxing. They have pledged to become helpmates to their husbands and they regard it as their duty to lessen the labors of their fathers, and being physically able to do their share they regard it wrong to permit the stronger sex to slave themselves to death while they are idling at home. Judging from their happy and healthy looks, they seem to be none the worse for taking their places alongside the men folks for the purpose of honestly earning their bread. Had we a little more pratical good sense and less sentimentality among our women at home, many a woman's life might be happier to-day, happier for being more useful, and many a man's life would be spared the necessity of slaving itself to death to indulge a wife's or a daughter's idleness and luxuries."—Philadelphia Record.

The Manna of Arabia.

In some of the Eastern countries, notably Arabia and Persia, a manna answering closely to that mentioned in the Scriptures is still naturally produced in considerable quantity. It comes from the tender branches of the tamarisk, and is shown to the Persians by the name of tamarisk honey. It consists of tear-like drops which exude in consequence of the puncture of an insect in June and July. In the cool of the morning it is found solidified, and the congealed tears may be shaken from the limbs. That, in fact, is one of the methods of gathering manna.

Herodotus alluds to the same nutritious product, so that there is no doubt it has been known in those regions from the earliest ages. It is easy to see how it might be produced in wonderful quantities without any special manifestation of the supernatural. It is a sweetish substance, pleasant to the taste and highly nutritive. Some students of the Bible have supposed the manna there mentioned to have been a fungus growth, but while the explanation would be a natural one, the modification which it would require is an unnecessary one.—Good Housekeeping.

Probing the Mystery of Ether.

The bequest of $115,000 which the late Robert Stanton Avery has left in his will to the Smithsonian Institution for "lectures and treatises upon and concerning those mechanical laws which govern etherial mediums" might appear at first blush to be the testamentary whim of a very etherial personage. The value of this scientific legacy, however, may prove incalculable from the standpoint of America's position in the world of science. The mystery of ether—that unknown, hypothetical medium for all the waves of heat, light, sound, magnetism and electricity—lies at the bottom of the secret of nature, and the Avery endowment may yet be the incentive to original research which shall take mankind a step nearer to the sources of world energy and force transmition.—Philadelphia Record.

FOUND IN A MAN'S ARM

Eleven Feet of Lead Wire, a Sixteenth of an Inch in Diameter.

THOUGHT IT WAS DISLOCATION

By An Explosion While at Work Scanlon, a Machinist, Thought He Had His Elbow Dislocated, And Was Operated Upon -The Wire Taken Out in Pieces.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The strangest thing that has come to light in Bellevue hospital since the finding a few years ago of a set of false teeth embedded in the heart of a woman who had died suddenly was revealed in an operation on John Scanlon. Scanlon came to Bellevue suffering with what everyone, including himself, supposed to be a bad dislocation of the left elbow joint. When he had to be operated upon, however, the doctors pulled from his forearm, in pieces from half an inch to a foot and a half in length, eleven feet of lead wire, one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter.

Scanlon is a machinist, 30 years old, in the employ of the East River Lead Company, whose works are at 522 East 19th street. He has had charge of the machine that makes the wire found in his arm. The machine is essentially a steel box from which molten lead is forced through an aperture or die, one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, by hydraulic pressure of 600 tons. The stream of lead before it reaches the air hardens into a long thin wire, which is afterwards wound upon a wheel. At times the aperture becomes clogged and the stream of lead stops. When this happens the attendant seizes the wire in his hands and sets it going again by a sharp pull.

Scanlon was at work and the machine clogged, the reel went on turning and broke the wire about ten inches from the die. Scanlon reached over as usual, caught hold of the wire and gave it a smart pull. All at once there was an explosion in the metal receptacle. The whole machine was enveloped in steam and Scanlon was knocked senseless. When he regained consciousness he was in an ambulance on his way to Bellevue.

Scanlon's arm was evidently bent when the accident occurred and the elbow joints stopped the wire which had shot out of the machine under the force of the explosion and penetrated the arm where the little cut was found going on by its own force.

A similar explosion has occurred since, but has not been satisfactorily explained.

Scanlon was much relieved by the removal of the wire and is now getting along well at the hospital. The muscle of the forearm was considerably cut by the wire but will heal quickly.

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Bradstreet's says: "General trade presents the usual holiday characteristics. A majority of wholesale dealers and manufacturers are beginning or have finished taking account of stock or arranging settlements for the year. Mail activity has been for Christmas specialities in retail lines. The practical conclusion of holiday trade has brought about a moderate reaction and this emphasizes the dullness noted in preceding weeks. Jobbers claim the outlook for trade during the late winter and early spring is for very conservative buying. Merchants generally incline to the view that 1895 promises a favorable business although as indicated opinion is divided as to whether renewed activity will mark the early months of the coming year or not. Mercantile failures in the United States for the calendar year (Dec. 27, 1893 to Dec. 26, 1894,) aggregate 12,731 or 18 per cent. less than in the panic year 1893 when the total 15,560 was 51 per cent. heavier than in 1892. Liabilities of failing traders this year aggregate $149,500,000, a reduction of 63 per cent. from 1893 and assets to $79,600,000 a falling off of 70 per cent.

The Officials Escaped With Their Lives.

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. 24.—The private car of General Manager Robinson, of the St. Joseph and Grand Island road, was burned between Davenport and Edgar, while en route to this city. The occupants, Superintendent A. M. Morey, General Solicitor M. A. Reed, Chief Engineer Howe, and Judge J. R. Cessna, of this city, barely escaped with their lives, losing all their clothing, valuables and papers. Mr. Reed had to be taken out through a window. The fire is supposed to have started from the overturning of an oil stove in the observatory car.

A Station Agent Clubbed and Robbed.

HOWARD CITY, Mich., Dec. 29.—When Station Agent Gilluly went out on the platform last night with the express money for the Detroit, Lansing and Northern train, he was knocked senseless, dragged under the platform and robbed of his watch and $100. There were 15 passengers at the depot, but the highwaymen escaped.

A LAND OF MISERY.

The Terrible Destitution Existing in Many Counties in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 29.—Robert B. Peattie, staff correspondent of the World Herald, has just returned from a two weeks' tour into southwestern Nebraska in order to investigate the reports of destitution in that portion of the state. In Keith, Perkins, Chase, Hayes and Dundy counties the destitution is extreme. Two-thirds of the people in this counties are dependent upon charity for existence. There is little or no fuel and the remarkably mild weather is all that has thus far prevented loss of life by exposure. There is no money in the county treasurer's office to help the destitute because in many counties of the state no taxes have been collected since June.

There is a scarcity of water. No crops were raised last year except in the occasional irrigated districts, and ditch irrigation is not possible in some of these counties, because there are no streams. Most or the destitute live in sod houses. There have been only three crops raised in nine years. Heartrending cases of destitution and suffering are heard of in every township. The present cold wave will certainly cause death to a large number of settlers if it continues and no aid comes. Fuel, provisions and clothing are needed and the railroads will generally ship them free if sent to the county commissioners at the county seats of the stricken counties.

BRAZIL STILL DISTURBED.

Peixoto's Soldiers Arrested for Shouting "Death to Moraes."

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—A special from Montevideo says: Rio de Janeiro is reported to be in a state of panic. The troops refuse to leave the city for the south. President Moraes has discovered that the army is devoted to Peixoto. The principal officers refuse to assume command to take the field in Rio Grande do Sul, and the whole country seems on the brink of rebellion again. More than 200 officers have been arrested and are imprisoned in surrounding forts under heavy guard.

It is rumored an attempt will be made by insubordinate military leaders to rescue their comrades from prison. Precautions have been taken to prevent this.

President Moraes is afraid to act energetically and order Peixoto's arrest, it is said, fearing to precipitate a serious conflict.

A special from Rio de Janeiro says: There was rioting here yesterday morning. Many soldiers have been arrested for yelling "Death to Moraes."

Word comes from Rio de Janeiro that ex-President Peixoto's condition is such as to alarm his family.

President Mornes' action in sending troops under General Mourat to Rio Grande has roused fears that the revolution will continue. Telegrams from Riviera state that the rebel cavalry defeated the government troops near Arroyo Grande. The rebels at that point have concentrated for an attack upon Porto Alegre.

An Ex-Alderman Shot by His Wife.

GALESBURG, Ill., Dec. 29.—Ex-Alderman Charles F. Johnson was shot by his wife Ida E. Johnson, in Attorney John Malley's office, and now lies in a precarious condition. The Johnstons were married June 24th, 1863, and lived happily together until last spring, when they began quarrelling. On November 21 Mrs. Johnston left her husband's home, alleging that because of his intemperate habits and brutality she could not live with him. She began proceedings for separate maintenance, filing the bill Thursday. Mr. Malley got the two together in his office to effect a reconciliation, and left them in the consultation room. They were heard wrangling, and then came two shots. Johnston told his wife he had learned she was unfaithful to him during a visit to Chicago in October. This seems to have unbalanced the woman's mind. The shooting created a sensation. Johnston is well known in business circles.

Attempt to Lynch a Colored Assassin.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 29.—Joe Murray, the detective wounded in Sunday's shooting, is dead. This is the second death as a result of the affray. Immediately after the news of the death of the detective became generally circulated in the afternoon, the talk of lynching the negro Wiggins, who did the shooting, was revived. A large armed force is in the jail. The Richmond Hussars, reinforced and ready for duty, are under arms at the armory. Their horses are saddled and bridled and all is in readiness to move at a moment's notice. There are fears of a conflict before morning, for the authorities swear they will give their lives in defence of the law. There is a feeling of unrest in the city. It will be impossible to take the prisoner from the jail if resistance is given, and the sheriff has given his word that he will protect the prisoner.

Steamer Sarnia Disabled.

GLASGOW, Dec. 29.—Captain Campbell, of the Anchoria, which arrived here, says that in latitude 55 north, longitude 12 west, he sighted the Sarnia, Capt. Gouch, bound from Portland to Liverpool. The Sarnia had lost her rudder. The Anchoria towed the disabled steamer for two days and was then obliged to leave her owing to boisterous weather. They were then 180 miles from Tory Island off the north coast of Ireland.

An Indian Murderer Hanged.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Dec. 29.—Two Sticks the Sioux Indian sentenced for a leading part in the murder of four cowboys on February 4, 1893, was hanged yesterday by United States Marshal Miller in the presence of fifty people. Four other Indians were engaged in the massacre. One of these was killed by a pursuing posse and the others are now serving sentences in the penitentiary.

Anarchist Mowbray Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—Charles W. Mowbray, the English anarchist, became too inflammatory in his remarks last night in addressing a meeting here and the police arrested him on the charge of using incendiary language and inciting to riot.

A Domestic Tragedy.

VASSAR, Mich., Dec. 29.—Geo. Palmer and his wife were found with their throats cut lying dead on the floor. The couple had not lived happily and it is believed that Palmer killed the woman and then cut his own throat.

A British Steamer Burned.

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 29.—The British steamer Masonic was discovered to be on fire in the harbor here. The fire proved to be very disastrous and resulted in the loss of one life.

Marshal Canrobert Ill.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Marshal Canrobert is seriously ill with inflammatory gout. He is very weak.

POLITICAL SPITE WORK.

A Feeling That This Caused the Arrest of the Bank Directors.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 29.—There is a strong feeling in certain quarters that the arrests of the directors and manager of the Commercial Bank are largely due to political animosities.

Sir William Whiteway, and ex-Speaker Emerson, of the Assembly, are prosecuting counsel on behalf of the Crown, and the men arrested are all political opponents, and were chiefly instrumental in instituting the election trials by which Whiteway, Emerson and fifteen of their party were unseated and disqualified for fours years for gaining their seats by bribery.

All five arrested men were admitted to bail, two securities for $18,000 each being furnished for each accused. The securities were obtained without difficulty, though the bonds were the largest ever given here.

The Union Bank shareholders are agitating for a meeting now, and threaten similar proceedings against the directors.

The Legislature was engaged discussing proposals for guaranteeing the notes of the suspended banks. The Government adhered to its proposition to guarantee Union Bank paper to the amount of eighty cents on the dollar and Commercial Bank paper to the amount of twenty cents on the dollar. The Opposition introduced an amendment to guarantee all notes at their face value, to raise a loan to meet obligations thus created, and to retire $50,000 yearly by a sinking fund or by the allotation of that amount directly from the treasury. It is said on reliable authority that the Government will arrange to have its proposal defeated in the Upper House to allow incoming banks to steady local ones, upon which point an agreement has been arrived at.

An Old Lake Captain Dead.

HAMILTON, Dec. 29.—Capt. Wm. Wood, who has resided in Hamilton for thirty-seven years, and who for quarter of a century has been in command of lake vessels, died at his residence here. Deceased was a native of Orkney and came to Hamilton when a lad. He was well known on the lakes and highly respected.

Narrowly Escaped Cremation.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A frame house belonging to Mr. Andrew Hayes, on Colborne street, near Cheapside was almost completely destroyed by fire. The inmates had a narrow escape and suffered severely from the intense cold.

To Preserve the Pine Forests.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Hon. J. K. Ward appeared before the special committee to enquire into the resources of the Province of Quebec forest and as to the best means of deriving a permanent revenue from them. Mr. Ward said that according to the manner the pineries were being worked in certain quarters they would not last over twenty-five years. Mr. Ward attributed forest fires to the carelessness of hunters and settlers clearing their lots by burning shrubberies and useless bushes, means that should be stopped immediately by prompt action of the law.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 29, 1894.

Street sales here were one load red wheat at 61 1-2, 400 bushels barley at 46 to 47c, 100 bushels oats at 33 to 34. The prices for Manitoba wheat east and west are 77 and 79c respectively.

Offerings of Canada barley at Buffalo are light. Samples of car lots shown are offered for delivery first week in January at about 1c above current quotations. Owing to firmness of Canada little trading is done, but Canadian supply is not excessive, and maltsters may have to advance prices.

The downward movement in wheat continued in Chicago, the close being 1-4c lower. Corn and oats were dull and 1-8 to 1-4c lower.

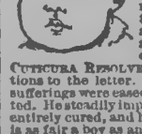
At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offering were 45 cars, of which 10 cars were Canadas. Market fairly active and higher for best grades lambs. Canada lambs sold generally at $4.40 to $4.50; a few very choice at $4.60, and an even higher rate was paid for some fancy stock. Prospects are for higher prices the latter part of next week if shipments are not too heavy. It will pay Western Ontario shippers to learn from the station agents daily the engagements, as a very heavy run might break the market at the best season.

Trading at the New York stock exchange was on a low scale. Irregularity was the chief characteristic of the limited speculation and the changes in prices in nine cases out of ten was the result of the operations of the professionals, who are closing up their trades. Speculation left off firmer. Net changes in the railways were merely fractional either way except for B. and O., which lost 3 3-4 per cent.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 5 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered; his torturing agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicines, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and has now as clear a skin and is as fair a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.



MRS. M. FERGUSON, 86 W. Brookline St., Boston.

CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS

Babies on fire, babies burning up, babies in agony from torturing and disfiguring, itching and burning, skin and scalp diseases. None but mothers realise how they suffer. To know that a single application of the CUTICURA REMEDIES will afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure, and not to use them is to fail in your duty. Think of the years of suffering entailed by such neglect. Cures made in childhood are speedy and economical.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 75c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1.50 POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Proprietors, Boston.

EXPORTS TO THE U. S.

Trade Went Up With the Lowering of the American Tariff.

CUSTOMS REPORT AT BUFFALO

The Last Four Months of This Year Show a Marked Increase in Canadian Imports at That Port as Compared With the Previous Eight Months.

BUFFALO, Dec. 31.—The Buffalo customs house is generally regarded as a good barometer indicating the trade with Canada, and as most of the imports entered here are from Canada the customs report has unusual interest. It is shown by official figures that not in sixteen years have the imports entered been so small as in 1894. The value of goods entered this year subject to duty was but $1,781,607 and the duties collected $472,244. The goods entered free of duty amounted in value to $930,501, while the year previous they were valued at $543,526.

Since the adoption of the new tariff there has been a very large impetus to the Canadian trade. This is best shown by a comparative statement of the value of entries of goods free of duty for the four last months of 1894 as compared with 1893:

Month.	1894.	1893.
September	$168,345	$43,347
October	138,304	33,688
November	185,193	21,058
December	160,000	25,000

It is also shown that during the last four months of 1894 the decrease in customs collections has been but $6,500 as compared with the previous year, while the decline in the preceding eight months was fully $275,000. Indicating with the lower tariff rates a very largely increased business, and it must be remembered that with the advalorem duties substituted for specific duties the valuation of goods has been much lower and does not fairly represent the actual increase. Details for the various commodities represented are not yet prepared, but lumber forms one of the biggest items for the free list goods increase.

CREMATED NEAR REGINA.

A Child Burned to Death—The Father Perishes Seeking Assistance.

REGINA, N. W. T., Dec. 31.—The house of William Thompson, a farmer living 25 miles north of Regina, took fire on Saturday while the family were asleep. Thompson's youngest child was burned to death, another child severely burned and his wife badly burned about the body. Thompson, who was perfectly nude when he escaped from the house, hastily placed his wife and burned child in an old building and started for a neighbor's. The thermometer registered nearly 40 below zero and Thompson was frozen to death before he reached the house.

ALD. STEWART REMANDED.

His Case to Come Up for Hearing on Friday Next.

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—Ex-Ald. Stewart, who was placed under arrest on Friday, came up on Saturday charged with soliciting a bribe for his influence as alderman while in the City Council. Stewart pleaded not guilty through his lawyer, John Grier, and the case was remanded until Friday next, bail to the amount of $4,000 being renewed. The case is one that the magistrate has no power to try summarily.

Those Unscrupulous Agents.

HAMILTON, Dec. 31.—John Kane and his wife Mary were applicants for charity in Mayor Stewart's office. Kane says they were victims of the eviction in Galway, Ireland, and on representations of untruthful emigration agents had sold all their belongings and sailed for America. They say they were led to believe that they would become wealthy in a few months in America, but their expectations have not been realized and they believe they would be better off in Ireland. The old couple are trying to get back to their old home and Mayor Stewart gave them a pass for a portion of the journey.

Robbed the Savings Bank.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 31.—The Dominion Government Savings bank agent at Sydney, C. B., B. G. McDonald, of the firm of McDonald & Hanrac, is defaulter to quite a large amount. A special agent from Ottawa discovered the defalcation and McDonald was arrested a day or two ago and tried under the speedy trials act by Judge Dodd. Previous to this friends are said to have made good the deficiency. McDonald pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in jail. The affair has created quite an excitement throughout Cape Breton, as many of these banks are in the hands of business firms.

To Reform Quebec's Libel Law.

QUEBEC, Dec. 31.—Hon. T. C. Casgrain, Attorney-General, has submitted to the Local Legislature his bill respecting newspaper libel. Mr. Casgrain by this project cleverly defines the libel law and further establishes the boundary lines as to responsibility in journalism. Hitherto in the Province of Quebec a newspaper could be sued for the most trivial and unintentional article published. Now Mr. Casgrain's project, if sanctioned, will protect newspapers and will define the general public privileges concerning its latitude towards the press.

GOFF'S WORK IS DONE

Close of the Remarkable Investigation Before the Lexow Committee.

IMMENSE VOLUME OF EVIDENCE

Ten Thousand Pages of Testimony Taken During the Investigation—Superintendent Byrnes the Last Man to Stand Fire—He Compliments Parkhurst.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—At the Lexow Committee on Saturday after a lengthy examination of Inspector McLaughlin, Superintendent Byrnes was called. He was made superintendent in March, 1892, and had been 32 years in the force. He owns property worth $392,500 and testified that it was all in his wife's name to save trouble. The money was made in Wall street speculations through the late Jay Gould, who the superintendent testified was his friend rather than his broker. His connection with Gould was explained. The witness said he arrested a man by the name of Col. H. Wells, who had written threatening letters to Jay Gould. Mr. Gould was very nervous about the letters and wanted to have Wells looked up. The superintendent gave a very long description as to how he captured the letter writer. "After the man was arrested," said the witness, "Mr. Gould sent for me. He wanted to make me a present of a large sum of money, which I declined. He was very much astonished. A short time after Mr. Gould told me he would buy some stock for me. I gave him $10,000 to invest for me. After that money flowed in."

The concluding portion of the superintendent's testimony was interesting:

"Now, have there been any of those persons who have rendered you service in stock investments had the benefit of your services in getting rid of obnoxious people, especially females?" asked Mr. Goff.

"I think not, sir."

"What have you done since you were appointed superintendent to break up the blackmail which was testified to by the commission?"

"I issued orders to the captain of each precinct should send me reports as to his precinct. I sent a similar one to the inspectors. The reports were made and have been made from then till now. The result that a great number of disorderly people were arrested. Since I have been superintendent 3,000 disorderly persons have been arrested, which is three times as much as before."

The superintendent said he knew when he was promoted that corruption prevailed in the police department. "Nothing went by merit," said he, "everything was either by political influence or through paying money for promotion. To Dr. Parkhurst is due principally the credit of creating the healthy feeling we see to-day. No one man could bring this reform about. I myself did a little towards that end. I drove the keepers of disorderly houses from place to place and kept them on the run. I made it possible for this committee to get evidence. I changed the police captains. The district attorney and judges on the bench have also a hand in helping this committee."

There was loud applause as the superintendent concluded. The superintendent said he never heard of the levying of blackmail from members of the force by the captains. The superintendent said he thought it was an outrage to have the entire department blamed for the faults of the few.

Closing his testimony superintendent Byrnes furnished Mr. Goff a letter which the superintendent had sent to Mayor-elect Strong, December 13, placing in his hands his request to be retired at the option of the Mayor-elect and the reading of the letter closed the hearing of evidence by the Lexow Committee.

Mr. Goff then made a long address. He praised Mr. Moss and Mr. Travers Jerome for the assistance they had given him in the investigation.

"I must now thank," said Mr. Goff sarcastically, "the gentlemen who have hired detectives to watch me. I can assure them that although these detectives caused a great deal of trouble to my family, yet they never caused me to deviate from my duty. I ask these men who have been spying on me to come forward now while I have a chance to defend myself and say whatever they have to say and not wait until I will not be able to defend myself from their attacks. If there is a man, woman or child who has anything to say against me I ask him to come forward now."

Mr. Goff then said it was a wise provision in the resolution proposed by the committee not to limit any future investigation to the police department, but that the police bench and the excise board should also be inquired into. "Since the investigation started," said Mr. Goff, "we have always done our best and have not hesitated to call any man from whom we could obtain information."

Mr. Goff received a great cheer as he concluded.

Chairman Lexow then remarked that the committee would fittingly thank Mr. Goff and his colleagues when they got to Albany. The Senator made a speech reviewing the entire proceedings and congratulating the city on the good work that had been accomplished.

Senator Bradley moved that the witness chair be presented to Dr. Parkhurst as a memento of the investigation. "This can hardly be done by us," said Chairman Lexow. He then recommended that the police board should retire Captain Creeden and added "This committee stands adjourned subject to the call of the chair."

Thus ended the famous Lexow committee whose investigation have shaken the police force to its centre. More than 10,000 pages of testimony have been taken during the investigation. Mr. Goff was warmly congratulated at the close of the session, the people gathering around and shaking him by the hand.

Denies the Charges.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Police Justice John R Voorhees on Saturday went before Justice Andrews in the Supreme Court and made a sweeping affidavit denying the charges made against him by Capt. Timothy Creeden and others before the Lexow committee. Justice Voorhees sent the affidavit to Chairman Lexow and requested that it be included and incorporated with the testimony and statements made before the committee in regard to the promotion of Sergt. Creeden to a captaincy.

A British Ship Wrecked and Her Crew of Twenty-Six Men Perish.

STORMS CONTINUE IN EUROPE

Numerous Wrecks and Casualties Occur in Great Britain and Ireland—Another British Boat Lost—Great Damage on the Coasts of the Continent.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The British barque Osseo was wrecked in a gale at Holyhead yesterday and with her perished her entire crew of 26 men.

The Osseo was driven ashore back of the Holyhead breakwater. Her signals of distress were first heard by the coastguard at 4 o'clock in the morning. At that time it was pitch dark and great waves were washing over the breakwater. In spite of the danger of being washed into the sea the guard proceeded along the breakwater, and having rigged up the rocket apparatus began firing lifelines in the direction of the wreck. The faint light of the rockets soon disclosed the fact that the vessel had broken in two amidships and that the mainmast had fallen, crushing the lives out of several of the crew.

As few survivors could be seen clinging to each half of the vessel and their piteous cries for help could be heard above the roar of the storm. After many failures the coastguard succeeded in firing a line over the wreck, but by that time all on board had perished. A lifeboat vainly tried again and again to reach the wreck. Not a vestige of the [illegible] can be seen and there is no prospect of any salvage. The Osseo was a bark of 1,859 tons. She arrived at Falmouth on December 15 from Talcal and had been ordered to Audrossan.

Reports of stormy weather continue to be received from all parts of Europe. Numerous small wrecks and casualties are reported in Great Britain and Ireland. Many lives were saved by life-boats. A severe gale is blowing on the Baltic and navigation is suspended at Copenhagen. A heavy snow has fallen in the North of Scotland and two railway trains have been blocked on the tracks.

Boats and wreckage washed ashore on the shore of Lancashire indicate that the British barque Loweswater has been lost. She left Garston in tow on December 21 with fifteen persons aboard. The hawser with which she was being towed parted in a gale and the tug took refuge at Llandudno on December 22, since which time nothing has been heard of the Loweswater.

The gale of the last two days did enormous damage on the coasts of North France, Belgium and Germany. Seven large sailing vessels were towed into Bremer-haven in a badly battered condition. Several coasters stranded and some of the seamen aboard were lost.

AN ARBITRATION TREATY.

An English M. P. Coming to America to Present an Address to Congress.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—William Randal Cremer, Radical member of Parliament for Shoreditch will sail for New York on the steamship Teutonic on Wednesday. As delegate of the English advocates of international arbitration he will take with him an address signed by 354 members of the British Parliament in favor of the proposed treaty of arbitration between England and the United States.

Mr. Creamer says that the signatures to the address were confined purposely to members of Parliament not officially connected with the Government. Among them are most of the Liberals, the Irish members and many Conservative and Unionists. Mr. Creamer will deliver a copy of the address to President Cleveland and every member of Congress.

The Daily News says editorially: "The example which the proposed treaty of arbitration would set can hardly be overestimated. If it lasted a quarter of a century it would probably last forever. We cannot conceive any reason against an equal interest on the part of both powers."

Terrible Holocaust in Oregon.

ASHLAND, Ore., Dec. 31.—Advices have been received from Klamath, Falls, Oregon, of a horrible accident at Silver Lake, Lake county, Oregon, caused by the overturning of a lamp at a gathering of people on Christmas eve, when over 40 lives were lost and 16 persons badly injured, five of whom will probably die. The festival took place in a hall over Chrisman Bros.' store. Many children were present with their parents and relatives, and were having a good time and enjoying what Santa Claus had brought them. Someone attempted to get where he could see and hear better by jumping upon a bench in the middle of the hall. In doing so he [illegible] struck a lamp hanging from the ceiling, causing the coal oil to run out, [illegible] immediately caught fire. While men tried to take the lamp down it was tipped so badly that the oil ran out on the floor. A terrible scene followed. The people were compelled to run through the flames in order to reach the door, and in the panic and fire many were killed and injured.

Floods in Colombia.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.—Capt. Mathison, of the Norwegin steamer Yumuri from Santa Maria, United States of Colombia, reports that fearful rains have fallen on the coast of Colombia. The village of Mitra, five miles south of Santa Maria was washed away by heavy floods and about 50 persons were drowned. In Santa Maria between 40 and 50 houses were destroyed and a large number damaged by the flood. The railroad tracks and bridges on the Santa Maria road leading out to Rio Frio have been washed away and will require six months labor to repair the road.

The Decree Regarding Secret Societies.

WILMINGTON, Dec. 31.—The decree of the Pope, forbidding Catholics to belong to the Knights of Pythias, Oddfellows, Sons of Temperance was read in all the churches yesterday. The substance of the decree is that members of the societies will not be excommunicated, but will be deprived of their right of receiving sacraments of the church.

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

The old year, passed and gone, has brought us to the threshold of the new year, and a little retrospection may not be unwholesome, and such a retrospection gives reason to us to feel, both as Canadians and citizens of Peterborough, gratitude for the liberal share of blessings enjoyed, as well as for the misfortunes and calamities we have been mercifully spared. We have been blessed with a moderate degree of prosperity as a nation and as a town. The financial disasters that fell upon our neighbours to the south, were not added to the business stringency that was world-wide. Neither war nor pestilence have troubled us. We have enjoyed peace and prosperity to an extent that has hardly been enjoyed by any other nation. A bountiful harvest, while not realizing the prices that could be wished for, has been one feature in giving Canada a fairly prosperous experience. Business in the town, while it has not been brisk, has not been by any means bad. Some have had to yield to financial reverses after a brave struggle, but others have had a business success which, while it may be nothing to boast about, is by no means cause for despondency and there is no reason why, with the same perseverance and energy, as have characterized our business men and a careful revision of business methods, the new year should not bring prosperity to the town and happiness to the people.

As for ourselves, the EXAMINER has had its share of prosperity. And we take this occasion to most cordially thank our customers for not only the valued patronage they have bestowed upon us the past year, but of recent years, and to assure them that we value highly the practical appreciation of our efforts to present them with excellent and readable editions of the DAILY and WEEKLY EXAMINER. The circulation of our Daily particularly has reached such large proportions that it the EXAMINER is compelled to add to its press rooms another press to be devoted exclusively to the printing of our Daily and Weekly newspaper editions. This will be a rapid press and will enable us to print our large daily edition better and more rapidly as well as meet the press requirements of our Weekly edition, which will be greatly enlarged and improved during the coming year.

These improvements will involve a large expenditure of money—the printing machine itself being worth $5,000, but we confidently trust that the liberal patronage bestowed upon the EXAMINER, which has made necessary these improvements in the public interests, will not only continue, but increase in such a manner as to amply justify the outlay, which will enable us to still better serve the public. We shall do our best to meet the demands of the people for thoroughly live, newsy, readable newspapers, and judging by the experience of the past, have no fear that our efforts in this direction will not meet practical recognition. We shall do our best to deserve success and prosperity, and contribute all in our power to bring that success and prosperity to our readers which we most heartily wish them, as well as

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

OBITUARY.

The late Timothy Coughlin, of Asphodel, was born in September, 1808, in Ireland. When a child his parents died and the family of children went among friends. In '31 his brother Richard emigrated to and settled in Asphodel. Later he followed by his two brothers, Jeremiah and Timothy, and a sister, Margaret, who afterwards married Patrick Tobin. His history would be the history of Hastings. On the 10th of June, '45, he led to the altar Ellen Murphy, the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. John Butler, of Peterborough. Eight children were born and grew up to man and womanhood, two of whom, girls, have preceded to the land from whence no traveller returns. Six still live along with the widowed mother to mourn the loss of husband and father, viz: Mary, who married P. Brennan; Margaret, wife of M. Walsh, of Asphodel; Ellen, still at home; John, Timothy, and Dr. Richard Coughlin, of Hastings. Some 14 years ago he had a paralytic stroke which confined him some time to his house, but he pulled through this and was quite restored. Some five years back he lost the sight of an eye. He was seemingly well and down street a few days before his death. Father Coughlan showed no sign of disease. He took cold, not seriously, but the temple had worn out. Surrounded by all his children, he ceased to work and live. On Wednesday, the 19th inst., perfectly calm and mind clear, cognizant of its dissolution, the summons came, and the spirit took its flight to the God who gave it.

The public recognized his abilities by electing him as their representative to the county council for several terms for Asphodel. When Hastings in 1874 was incorporated he was chosen its first reeve. He filled this office until 1877, when he retired, he was much respected as a man, outspoken in his convictions and just in all his dealings. Possessed of considerable means, and often helping those in need, in no instance did he extort extra interest. On Friday, the 21st instant, all that remained, after being taken to the church where he had worshipped so long, after service being said, was followed by a large number of relatives and friends to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Asphodel, to await the last trumpet call.

You're an Easy Prey.

If with your flesh reduced below a healthy standard, for consumption and other scrofulous and dangerous diseases. And it is for just this condition that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is especially valuable.

If you're thinner than you ought to be, whether from wasting diseases, defective nutrition, or whatever cause, the "Discovery" will surely bring you up to the healthy standard. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it arouses every natural source and means of nourishment. TO THE FARMERS OF THE WEST RIDING.

DEAR SIRS,—As the time of the annual meeting of the Institute is now approaching, I wish to address a few lines to you in reference to the meetings to be held, to make a few suggestions in regard to your duties in connection with these meetings, and of the privileges placed before you and the benefits to be derived from attending them. The Institutes in the past have been under the control of President Mills, of O.A.C., but the work of direction and management has become so great that it has been found necessary to appoint a superintendent to fix dates and places for meetings, and to select delegates capable of addressing such meetings. Only practical and well informed men are sent to each district to deliver addresses and to furnish any information that you require of them; in fact they are placed entirely at your disposal. To all persons who send in their names and become members, a large quantity of valuable information will be forwarded to you free throughout the year, comprising the reports and bulletins of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, the report of the Central Institute, the report of the various Live Stock Associations, reports of Fruit Growers' Association, Dairymen's and Creamies Association, and many other valuable papers. These furnish in the course of the year an immense volume of practical information that no person who is alive to his calling can afford to do without. The dates fixed for our meetings are Peterborough, Jan. 16th; Lakefield, Jan 17th. We most urgently invite all interested to be present and to come with the intention of gaining some practical knowledge. The meetings are yours, and the r value to you depends upon yourself, taking advantage of the opportunites presented them. The officers of the Institute most cordially wish, that there should be a large attendance and it is their desire to make the meetings the most successful we have ever had, so that we may advance the good name of the agriculturalists of this district. Keep the dates of the meetings before you mention them to your fellow farmers and invite them to come and share in the benefits that are brought to their very doors. Wishing your hearty co-operation and assistance, I remain your obedient servant,

J. FRED DAVIDSON,
President W. R. F. I.

GLADSTONE'S GREAT AGE.

The G. O. M. Receives Many Congratulations—His Vigorous Speech.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Mr. Gladstone celebrated his 85th birthday on Saturday, and was the recipient of hundreds of letters and telegrams of congratulation and parcels containing birthday gifts. Mr. Gladstone was in remarkably good health and spirits, and despite the stormy weather drove through the village of Hawarden to the church, where he met a deputation of Armenian Christians from Paris and London. On behalf of Mr. Gladstone the deputation presented a silver chalice to the church.

The chalice was presented to the Rev. Stephen Gladstone, son of the ex-Premier and rector of the Hawarden church, in recognition of the interest his father has taken in the Armenian outrages. In reply to the presentation address, the ex-Premier expressed his sympathy with the suffering of the Armenian Christians. The deputation took luncheon with Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden castle. The Prince of Wales and Lord Aberdeen were among those who telegraphed their congratulations to Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone, in his reply to the deputation's address, said that it was not their duty to assume that all the allegations of outrages were true, but rather to await the result of the inquiry which had been instituted. However, he said, the published accounts pointed strongly to the conclusion that the outrages, sin and abominations committed in 1876 in Bulgaria had been repeated in 1894 in Armenia. If this were true it was time that there should be one general shout of execration against these deeds of wickedness from outraged humanity. If the facts were established it should be written in letters of iron upon the records of the world that a government which could be guilty of countenancing and covering up such atrocities was a disgrace to Mahomet, the prophet, a disgrace to civilization at large, and a disgrace to mankind.

EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS OF AGE.

Mr. Gladstone, continuing, said: "Don't let me be told that one nation has no authority over another. Every nation, aye, every human being, has authority in behalf of humanity and justice." He had been silent, he said, because he had full confidence that the government knew its duty. If the allegations made should prove true it was time that the execration of humanity should force itself upon the ears of the Sultan of Turkey and make him sensible of the madness of such a course as was being pursued.

Mr. Gladstone spoke for a quarter of an hour. He was remarkably deliberate in his delivery and vigorous in action and gesture, and was loudly cheered as he concluded his remarks.

All the morning papers refer editorially to the visit of the Armenian deputation to Mr. Gladstone on Saturday.

The Daily News warmly applauds Mr. Gladstone's denunciation of the Turks.

The Times says: "Mr. Gladstone has the vastly preponderent body of British opinion behind him."
